JR. O. U. A. M. INSTITUTED

Three Sister Organizations in Charge of Plainfield Council Ceremony.

SOME SPEECHES, TOO

State Councilor and State Council Secretary Both Present—

—The First Officers.

With a charter list of forty-five members, Plainfield Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., was instituted last night in Junior Hall by the combined initiatory team from Franklin, Benevolent and Somerset Councils, of this city, assisted by a detachment of Juniors from Co. K. State Councilor Rev. Mr. Mount, of Asbury Park, and State Council Secretary William H. Mier, of Trenton, were also present and took part in the ceremonies. Delegations attended from the other three councils of this city and those of nearby towns.

The institution and initiation were in charge of these officers from the local councils: Franklin Council—Past Councilor Russell Hazard and Warden Harry Goeller; Somerset Council—Vice Councilor J. A. Dow, Outside Sentinel E. D. Ga Nun; Inside Sentinel C. F. Hulit; Benevolent Council—Councilor Arthur G. Adams, Conductor Horace G. Adams, Chaplain Raymond Carver.

Councilor, Winfield S. Angleman; vice councilor, George B. Cratsley; recording secretary, Julius G. Williams; assistant recording secretary, F. E. Sebring; financial secretary, Harry H. Webb; treasurer, George W. V. Moy; conductor, Dr. R. D. Tomlinson; warden, Daniel G. VanWinkle; inside sentinel, Theodore Lister; outside sentinel, Charles T. Leland; representative to State Council, Peter H. Bennett; trustee until July 1, 1906, Peter H. Bennett; trustee for six months, John Franklin; trustee for one year, Winfield S. Angleman.

After the initiatory and institution work and the officers were inducted into office, the rest of the evening was devoted to speech-making, beginning with Councilor Winfield S. Angleman, and the other officers. Remarks were also made by State Councilor Mount, Secretary Mier, and Rev. W. E. Roberson, the new pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church.

The new council will meet every Monday night in Junior Hall and the prospects for a strong organization are good. Several persons are now waiting to join and it is quite likely that at the next meeting they will be initiated.

GIFT FOR MRS. WARD.

Leading Member of "Patience" Cast Honored by Operatic Association.

During an intermission of the rehearsal of "Patience" by the Plainfield Operatic Association, at the Casino, last night, a pleasant surprise was given to Mrs. Ferdinand M. Ward, who takes the part of "Lady Jane." She is about to remove to New York, and in recognition of her skillful service not only in this production, but in other operas given under the direction of William Holmes, Mrs. Ward was presented with a handsome token.

It was during a short business session that William N. Runyon, vice president of the association, presented Mrs. Ward with a solid silver tea service of three pieces, voicing the sentiment of every member in appreciation of her loyalty and help in the amateur performances, and sincere regret over her departure.

The rehearsal was one of the best yet held. There will be an important rehearsal on Wednesday night at the Casino. As this will be the last one before the regular performance on Thursday night every member of the association is urged to be present.

Postponed Opening Until Fall.

The work of alteration is now going on at the new parish house of St. Stephen's church. There will be two guild rooms for the women, one also being used for the library and reading room. It has been decided to postpone the opening of the parish house until fall, at which time it is hoped to have Bishop Scarborough present to make an address. It is proposed to make the occasion a notable one.

Monday Afternoon Club Affairs.

The Monday Afternoon Club met yesterday afternoon at the Casino and listened to a paper presented by Mrs. John W. Stimpson on the "Essays of Carlyle." The annual meeting and election of officers of the club will be held on Monday afternoon, May 7. After that there will be one more meeting on Monday, May 21, before the season's programme will be concluded.

UNION CO. COURT OPENS

Number of Cases are Transferred to Circuit Court.

MURDER CASE CHARGE

Justice Fort and Judge Vail on the Bench—Plainfielders On Grand Jury.

The May term of the Union County Courts opened at Elizabeth this morning with Justice Fort on the bench. Owing to the fact that there are no cases of great importance on this term the attendance at the opening was small, although there was the usual number of lawyers in attendance.

In the selection of the Grand Jury, Postmaster Palmer H. Charlock, of Elizabeth, was made foreman. The Plainfield members are Augustus Jenkins, William A. Westphal, J. J. Kenney and George O. Stevens.

Justice Fort's charge to the jury was brief. He said that there was only one case of magnitude that would come before it, the recent Italian murder on Cottage place, this city. He said that from what he could learn the two Italians were engaged in a quarrel, that Francesco Cerbo, who is charged with killing Paoli Susco, left the room, loaded his revolver and when he returned, Succo shot at him first. Justice Fort said that if the jury learned that murder was committed with malicious intent, an indictment should be returned. If it was convinced that the shooting was not with malicious intent an indictment for manslaughter should be returned. On the other hand if the killing was in self-defense no indictment should be returned.

All of the Circuit Court causes were put off until Monday, May 14. In the meantime it is likely that another Circuit Court judge will probably be appointed, Foster M. Voorhees having declined the appointment. There is a rumor that Judge Vail may get the position.

The list of Supreme Court causes of interest to Plainfield are as follows:

Armitage T. Oakley and Anna K. Oakley, by his wife, against John P. Emmons, et. al., executors, on contract; W. S. Angleman for the plaintiff, Isaac P. Runyon for the defendant; Lemuel B. Woolston, et. al., partners, against Ellsworth D. Middlekauff, on contract; Reed & Coddington for the plaintiff and James P. Powers for the defendant; Fred M. Melick against the Lehigh Railroad Company, of New Jersey, in tort, referred to the Circuit Court; G. W. V. Moy for the plaintiff and N. C. J. English for the defendant; Garret A. Powers against John P. Powers, on contract; Edward Kenny for the plaintiff, and Reed & Coddington for the defendant; referred to the Circuit Court; Ira C. Bowers, administrator, against Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway Company, et. al., in tort; William G. De Meza for the plaintiff and John A. Bernhard for the defendant; referred to the Circuit Court; Isaac Richards and Gussie Richards, his wife, against Frederick M. Masker, in tort; William Newcorn for the plaintiff and Craig A. Marsh for the defendant; referred to the Circuit Court; George H. Jones against the Calvary Baptist church, on contract, William Newcorn for the plaintiff and Harry C. Runyon for the defendant; to be tried before Judge Vail without jury.

Charles F. Stahl, et. al., against John Rafferty, on contract; Isaac P. Runyon for the plaintiff and James P. Powers for the defendant; Abraham Shanbrom against John B. Coryell, et. al., partners, etc., as Plainfield Brass Foundry, on contract; John P. Owens for the plaintiff and William G. De Meza for the defendant; Aaron D. Thompson against Ellsworth Middlekauff, on contract; Raymond T. Parrot for the plaintiff and James P. Powers; issue joined Marsh 1, 1906.

Among the justice jury appeal cases are the following:

Frederick W. Yates, trustee, etc., appellant, against George Staats, appellee, on contract; Louis A. Clement for the plaintiff and Francis J. Blatz for the defendant; Samuel W. Rushmore, appellant, against Charles Vincent, appellee; Riker & Riker for the plaintiff and L. D. H. Gilmour for the defendant.

Re-organizing Wholesale Business.

L. F. Hirsh & Bro., the big wholesale concern at Elizabeth, has assumed charge of the grocery department of Dunham & Co., the Somerset street firm. Employes of the former are now taking stock with a view to reorganizing the business. It was started originally by C. Frank French.

COLBY AT COMMENCEMENT

Borough Board of Education Suggests That He Be Invited to Address Students.

EXERCISES, JUNE 15

Two Properties Needed at Park Place and Vine Street to Beautify Somerset School Grounds.

There is a possibility that Senator Everett Colby may be asked to speak at the Commencement exercises of the North Plainfield High school on Friday night, June 15. Preliminary plans for the yearly graduation were made by the Board of Education last night and the senator was suggested as being available to make the usual address. All arrangements for the exercises will be completed by a committee composed of Rev. J. O. McKelvey and John Johnson and they will undoubtedly extend the invitation.

In the regular order of business, Mr. Townsend informed the board that in order to put the grounds about the Somerset school in presentable shape, it would be necessary to purchase the two properties at Park place and Vine street. This would complete the Board's holdings at that point to about three-quarters of the block between Manning avenue and Park place. In the shape that the yards of the two private properties are, it is impossible to beautify the school grounds. To secure the remainder, it would be necessary to get the consent of the voters in order to begin condemnation proceedings if necessary. One owner is willing to sell out but the other is not and this course would probably have to be followed out. Mr. Townsend offered no resolution but asked the members to think it over until the next meeting.

The teachers' committee reported that twenty-nine teachers have been engaged for the coming year and that two or three others are to be considered. Among the twenty-nine are one new one, Miss Pauline C. Webster, of Bay Shore, L. I., who will take charge of the third grade. Miss Terry, of Somerville, who had been offered the appointment as head of the history department, notified the committee that she had decided to remain in her present position because of an advance in salary.

It was reported that Miss M. E. Howlett's collection of birds had been placed in the Somerset street building and a vote of thanks for the loan of it was extended her; and also to Captain W. C. Smith who had been instrumental in securing it for the school.

LITTLE GIRLS AID SAN FRANCISCO FUND.

Amateur Dramatics Given by a Party of Six Borough Children.

Anxious to add their mite to the Daily Press fund for the benefit of the San Francisco sufferers, a party of little girls composed of Helen Woolley, Helen Roberts, Ethel Runyon, Madeline Streader, Elizabeth Winn and Anna Boss, gave a dramatic entertainment at Helen Roberts' home on Prospect place last night. Previous information given out that it would be a "high class production" drew a large audience and the net proceeds reached the munificent sum of $5.

The feature of the entertainment was a comedy drama "Russell's Troubles," in three acts. It was written and "staged" by the little misses themselves and by critics is pronounced to have been a worthy literary effort as well as a dramtic success. The cast was composed as follows: "Russell Roosevelt," Helen Wooley; "Eleanor Browning," Helen Roberts; "Marie Roosevelt," Ethel Runyon; "Charles Van Dyke," Madeline Streader; "Jane," a servant, Elizabeth Winn. There was plenty of good dialogue and amusing situations, the audience responding with liberal applause. In addition to "Russell's Troubles," Helen Roberts sang illustrated songs, accompanied by Anna Boss, and Helen Woolley, Ethel Runyon and Madeline Streader gave recitations.

Talk On Compressed Air.

Lucius I. Wightman, of Carlton avenue, mechanical engineer and advertising manager for the Ingersoll-Rand Company, of New York, left for Pittsburg on Monday evening, to read a paper on "The Production, Transmission and Application of Compressed Air," before the Engineering Society of Western Pennsylvania at its regular meeting tonight.

First Baptist Church Gives $111.26.

In part the First Baptist church and congregation has contributed $111.26 through The Daily Press fund for the relief of the San Francisco sufferers, and this will be forwarded with other contributions through The Plainfield Trust Company to San Francisco.

HUNG TO GUTTER OF ROOF TO SAVE HIMSELF

AND CAT HARRY ROBERTS TRIED TO RESCUE SAVED ITSELF.

In trying to rescue a cat from the roof of his home on Prospect place early last evening, Harry Roberts had a narrow escape from a forty-foot fall to the ground. He barely saved himself by clinging to the gutter of the roof and his escape involved a hard journey by his hands along the gutter of the roof. The cat saved itself after Mr. Roberts abandoned it in the stress of self-preservation.

The feline, a pet in the Roberts family, made its way to the roof of the house in some manner, but couldn't find a safe way down. It yowled plaintively and attracted Mr. Roberts' attention to its plight. He put a tall ladder against the side of the building, climbed to within reach of the roof's edge and called the cat to him. He tucked her under the arm and steadied himself for the journey downward.

Just as he was about to start, the ladder slipped from under him. He dropped the cat and grabbed the edge of the roof gutter as he fell. He put his hands out just in the nick of time and the yank he got made his teeth snap together like a bear trap in action, but he hung on. When his breath came back he felt something sticking in his thigh and looked down. The cat had caught fast to his trousers as it fell and was hanging on, regardless of where her claws sank. A good bit of them was in Mr. Roberts' sensitive skin.

"All right," he said unselfishly, "hang on. You're welcome to the hold. If I get out of this you'll get through, too. What happens to the superficial covering of my anatomy doesn't seem important just at this moment."

He took a hasty look about and saw that the quickest way to relieve the strain on his arms and end the chance of dropping to the ground from exhaustion lay in working his way to where the gutter overhung the roof of a porch, where a drop of about nine feet would lead to safety. He made the slow journey finally, with some pangs above and below, the cat clinging tenaciously. When he dropped to the porch the cat relaxed her hold grip and scamped down the side post with a joyful yowl. Mr. Roberts, his arms aching, his breath shut, and a smarting hip to remind him where the cat held on, crawled painfully through a window into the house.

"The next cat that gets on the roof may stay there until an earthquake shakes it off, for all of me," said Mr. Roberts with bitterness as he uncorked the witch hazel.

William Schwartz, of Clinton avenue, a hay carter, was slightly burned in the destruction of a load of two and a half tons of hay he was taking to Newark early this morning, at Mountainside. One of the horses was slightly burned also.

Schwartz started from here at 1 o'clock. Two hours later, at Mountainside, right after a peddler's wagon passed him, he heard a crackling sound in the rear of the cart. When turned the load of hay was all afire in back and on one side. Before Schwartz could unhitch the horses the fire had enveloped the whole load, and one of the team was burned a bit. Schwartz was painfully burned, and the load and cart were totally destroyed. Schwartz's injuries were dressed at the Mountainside hotel where he stayed until this morning.

It is supposed someone in the peddler's wagon threw a match in the hay as the cart passed, for mischief.

"Fitz" Buys Property.

"Bob" Fitzsimmons, Edward White and lawyers representing both men, met yesterday and completed the deal for the purchase of the White property at West Dunellen by the pugilist. Only the passing of the title now remains to be done. The amount involved has not been divulged by either side. Fitzsimmons' rigs and one of his horses arrived in Plainfield yesterday and more are to come today.

Fisherman's Luck.

Charged with fishing with a net within 900 feet of the dam at Bound Brook, Timothy Dorn and Daniel O'Keefe, of South Bound Brook, were arrested last week by Game Warden Miller. Yesterday they were arraigned before Justice Sutphen, who released O'Keefe, because there was not enough evidence to hold him, and fined Dorn $25 or 50 days in the county jail. He was committed.

—The price of a box of 100 cakes of fine laundry soap is only $3.25. Neuman Bros. are having a special sale this week only.

CAPT. HUMPHREY INJURED

Military Officer and His Wife Had Thrilling Experience in San Francisco.

SHE WAS UNHURT

Mrs. Humphrey, Formerly Miss Waring, Was Thrown From a Window—Helping the Victims.

The letters which have been received by Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Waring, of Park avenue, from their daughter, Mrs. Humphrey, and her husband, Captain Chauncey Humphrey, who is stationed with the 22d Regiment, U. S. Infantry, at Alcatraz Island, San Francisco, tell of their thrilling experience during the earthquake.

Although they escaped injury during the heavy shock that did so much damage on the Pacific Coast, Captain Humphrey was thrown down the second day by another shock and received a painful injury to his knee. He was on duty in San Francisco at the time, under General Funston. He is now laid up at his home.

Mrs. Humphrey graphically describes the scenes and incidents the morning of the heavy earthquake. She says that she was awakened early that morning with a severe headache; something very unusual for her. The air in her room was extremely oppressive and she walked to a window to get a breath of fresh air. The atmosphere was very warm and she says it felt as though it was rising from a furnace. As Mrs. Humphrey stood leaning out of the window the heavy shock occurred. So severe was it that she was thrown head first out of the window onto the porch. She escaped injury. Captain Humphrey, aroused by the disturbance, rushed from the room and assisted his wife back to the house.

Soon afterwards the bugle call was sounded summoning the officers to headquarters. From that time on the soldiers have been on duty in San Francisco and other nearby important points. It was while in the performance of duty the day after the first shock that Captain Humphrey was thrown down by another disturbance of the earth. His knee was hurt.

Mrs. Humphrey says that so far as she has been able she has distributed clothing among the needy ones. The island is crowded with refugees and she describes the sight as simply heart-rending. Her home was more or less damaged inside, pictures, bric-a-brac and other furnishings being ruined.

Lieut. Llewellyn Bull, of this city, who arrived at San Francisco a few days before the earthquake, being sent there under the command of Captain Humphrey, lost everything he had in the way of clothing and supplies. They were in the commissary department and he did not have time to get them out.

FRIENDS LAST TRIBUTE TO MRS. MARY A. MARSH.

Funeral Services Held Here Before Remains Are Taken to Cincinnati.

Mrs. Mary A. Marsh, mother of A. L. C. Marsh, the architect, who died Sunday at her home, 821 Hillside avenue, was taken ill with acute Bright's disease on Tuesday, April 24, and passed into an unconscious state on Friday in which she remained until the end.

Mrs. Marsh was a member of the Hicksite Society of Friends and attended services at the Watchung Avenue meeting-house. The minister in charge of the funeral services held from the late home last night, was William D. Williams. He spoke tenderly of her beautiful Christian character and her motherly advice and counsel to him and others. Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, of Grace church, read the Episcopal burial service. There were many flowers from friends and acquaintances. The remains were taken this morning on the 10 o'clock train to Cincinnati for interment.

Mrs. Marsh is survived by four children—William E. Marsh, of San Francisco; Richard Marsh, of Spokane, and A. L. C. Marsh and Miss Anna Marsh, who lived with their mother.

HAVE SPENT $25,000 ON HORSE SHOW GROUNDS

Final Arrangements For Annual Event Next Month to Be Made Tonight.

BIG LIST OF ENTRIES

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt to Have Their Horses Here—

Valuable Cups to be Awarded.

The Plainfield Riding and Driving Club is rapidly completing what will probably be the finest horse show grounds, grandstands and stables in the country, outside of New York. Everything will be in readiness for the annual horse show to be held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 7, 8 and 9, and the affair will be conducted on a larger and grander scale than ever. The executive committee of the club will meet tonight at the Casino and be the guest of Lewis E. Waring, the president, at dinner. At that time the various events will be arranged, the prizes decided upon and the judges announced.

During the past few months there has been the greatest activity at the new show grounds, but very little has been heard of the progress made there. The show ring, the largest in the country, being 325x180, is about completed, as is also the grandstand with a capacity of 600 and thirty-two private boxes are located directly in front of the grandstand and eight additional ones on either side. These are all covered and immediately in front the ground is graded and sodded at an elevation from one foot at the side to three feet in the centre. Opposite the grandstand are located the parking spaces extending the entire one side of the egg-shaped track and in the centre is the judges' stand.

The location of the grounds is ideal. Surrounded by beautiful trees, the scene is one of great beauty. The grandstand and private boxes are so arranged that the sun will not strike them during an afternoon. The main entrance to the grounds is at Woodland avenue and Randolph road, where a large box office is located. The entrance to the grounds for automobiles is on Randolph road. The grounds can be reached by carriage or automobile through Randolph road from Park avenue, while the Arlington avenue trolley runs within a very short distance of the place.

Thus far $25,000 has been expended on the grounds and in the erection of buildings and before the improvements are completed it is expected that $5,000 or $10,000 more will be necessary. While Lewis E. Waring is chairman of the grounds and building committee and has devoted considerable time in directing affairs, much credit is due to W. J. Buttfield for his work. A. L. C. Marsh is the architect and his plans which were in accord with the ideas of the club, have been followed in every detail.

An announcement that is sure to lend great interest to the show is that Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt will be among those who will attend and exhibit their thoroughbred stock. It is expected that they will enter about twenty horses. They will appear at the Philadelphia show and come direct from there to Plainfield. Both Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt will do their own driving. In addition to nearly all of the horses that were here last year a large number of new entries are expected. It is proposed to be liberal in the arrangement of local classes and Plainfield owners will have every opportunity to compete for prizes. The demand for seats and the privilege of entering horses is so large this year that the club decided to run the show three days instead of two as heretofore. Nearly all of the private boxes are taken and those remaining should be spoken for early if desired.

A few days ago several New York men visited the club grounds and one of them, an enthusiastic horseman, said that he thought that they were the finest he had ever seen. Before he went away he said that he wanted $5,000 worth of stock in the club.

The lumber used in the construction of the various buildings, grandstands and boxes was purchased of the St. Louis Exposition Company. It was a clever move as the present price of lumber is so high that the cost of construction would have been increased considerably. The lumber used was delivered in Plainfield at a total cost of $19 per thousand feet. The present market price for the same material is twice that amount.

A Very Busy Week at the Casino.

Because of the occupancy of the Casino by the Plainfield Operatic Association, in preparation for "Patience" on Thursday night, the Oshkosh Club is rushing rehearsals at the Camera Club rooms this week. The rehearsals by the opera club, the Hartridge School gymnasium classes, the performance of "Patience" and the Westcott dancing classes makes a very busy week at the Casino. Next week the Oshkosh Club will have entire possession of the pretty play house, rehearsals taking up the first four nights and the performances of Friday and Saturday. The seats are selling rapidly for the show.

Dramatic Club Will Play Tennis.

The Twentieth Century Dramatic Club (colored) met last night and appropriated funds for the establishment of tennis courts at West Fourth street and Plainfield avenue. The club is also rehearsing the five act drama, "Social Glass," which will be given the latter part of this month or the first of next at T. A. B. Hall.

LOUIS DURAND BURNED IN SAN FRANCISCO

SEVERELY INJURED IN RESCUING INVALID WOMAN FROM BUILDING.

Louis Durand, a former resident of Park avenue, had an experience in the San Francisco fire that was lively even in comparison with the general run of experiences in the city. The fire led him to severe injuries, after he had escaped from the 'quake with a shaking up.

He was hurt the afternoon of the first day, while rescuing an invalid woman from the third story of a burning house. The heat of the fire and friction resulting from his burden set fire to some matches in his pocket. He did not realize it until he felt the fire touch his flesh on the street. He laid the woman down, but his clothes burst into flame and although willing hands put the fire out he was badly burned.

A policeman stopped a passing buggy, ordered the driver out and took Durand to the county hospital. The nurses there dressed his burns, but could not receive him into the institution on account of the crowded condition of the wards. The policeman drove him back to where the soldiers were dealing out supplies and he was laid out in the open with a blanket and pillow. He lay under the sky, in the hot daytime and chilly nights from Wednesday until Friday afternoon, when he was taken to the emergency hospital, where he now is.

"The soldiers were kind to me," writes Mr. Durand in a letter to friends here, "but it was a sight for me to lie there and see the city burning all around. As they drove me to the hospital I saw nothing but desolation. My place of business is burned down."

GIRL IN BROOKLYN NOT MISS KUENLEN

PROMISING TIP FALLS FLAT, BUT RESEMBLANCE WAS REMARKABLE.

Checkmate was again entered by the searchers after Helen Kuenlen yesterday on the trail that led to Brooklyn. The girl, who according to the tip furnished by Mrs. Quattland, of Agate Court, as reported in yesterday's papers, fitted with the description of the missing young woman, turned out to be an art student from Borough Park, an outlying part of the New York borough.

The mysterious young woman, who attracted Mrs. Quattland's attention by coming to the house next to her's a week ago as a roomer without baggage, was not at home when Chief Kiely and Detective McCarthy reached the house yesterday afternoon. The chief waited vainly for the young woman's return until seven o'clock, and left McCarthy on the watch, when he returned to this city. McCarthy learned that the young woman was supposed to have a sister in Borough Park, and when she failed to put in an appearance as the evening wore on he went to the suburb. He found the sister easily enough, and the new hope of locating Miss Kuenlen exploded. A picture of the girl at the Brooklyn house, which the sister had, showed a remarkable resemblance to that of Miss Kuenlen.

The search for clues was resumed energetically this morning. The friends of the family, as well as the police, will maintain the hunt vigorously until hope of solving the mystery dies.

Annual Sale WASH GOODS

Perhaps the strongest argument that could be advanced in favor of this great sale—if, indeed, an argument is necessary in the face of these matchless savings—is for us to call attention to our past performances in the matter of wash goods buying and selling. Sales of this character of the Bamberger store have always been attended with the most remarkable value giving—the qualities involved are enormous and the choice well nigh bewildering in its immensity. The big movement which we inaugurated today has established a precedent for wash goods selling in Newark—last year's sale did this, and the year before and the year before that.

Freddie Parent backed an automobile factory last winter. The gasoline tank blew up and shredded $1,200 of Freddie's money.

EASTERN LEAGUE.

First Baseman Arthur Brown, drafted by Newark from Wilkesbarre, has turned down a tempting offer from the Johnstown outlaw club and his signed with Newark.

Radel, the new leftfielder, acquired by Buffalo from the Tri-State, is making good, and will prove one of the most popular players ever seen on the local diamond.

Billy Murray, of Jersey City, is said to be after Frank Delehanty, from Manager Griffith, of the Highlanders, says he will probably farm out for at least half a season.

Parsons, the Bucknell College man who signed a contract last year, has asked for a big league salary and was turned down. He will not be held by Rochester any longer.

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

In Cincinnati they claim that Third Baseman Lobert cannot hit and that Mowery is too erratic in his fielding. Hans and Mike looked particularly strong in these departments when playing in the Tri-State.

"Bull" Smith, one of the new outfielders of the Chicago Nationals, continues to swat the ball. It begins to look as though President Murphy had more talent with the Cubs than he can conveniently use.

Manager Donovan, of the Brooklyn team, asserts that his bunch will play aggressive ball this year. "Under Hanlon they played on the defensive all the time," says Pat. "With me they'll be on the offensive."

Manager Chance declares that Harry Steinfeldt's work will create a sensation in the National League this season. The big Texan is down to 168 pounds in weight and is hitting the ball like a fiend.

Two clubs are having bad luck at third just as the campaign opens. Courtney, of the Phillies, is out of the game for a month with a broken shoulder, and Leach, of Pittsburg, is slated for an operation for appendicitis.

The New York Giants have a new garment to wear over their uniforms to and from the diamond when the weather is cool. It is a cross between a bath robe and an ulster and is made of mackinaw cloth, a material that is popular in logging camps.

It looks as if Ed. Abaticchio had quit the game for good. Manager Tenney wired Abaticchio from Brooklyn offering him an extra inducement to join Boston team, but Abby wired back that it was of no use, as he had made up his mind to quit baseball.

An All New Great Feature Show.

The big circus—which means everybody's-day in Plainfield this year, falls on Saturday, May 5, when the Frank A. Robbins Co. All New Great Feature Shows will, so to speak, pitch their city of tents in our midst, and in pageant and performance almost overwhelm us with their grand and glorious railroad aggregation of wild beasts, eminent equestrians, acrobats, jugglers, aerialists, hilarious host of clowns, daring charioteers, dashing jockeys and performing animals, in almost incomputable profusion. The press of Greater New York has already unanimously acclaimed the exhibition a really great one, and its manager, Frank A. Robbins, an arenic caterer par excellence, who knows just what will best please the public, just where to get it, just how to present it, and last, but not least, just how to gain and retain general good will and respect.

THE LAST CALL!

Word comes from San Francisco that money is sorely needed for carrying on the work of relief among the inhabitants. As "little drops of water make the mighty ocean" so do the contributions from the multitude of helping cities and towns throughout the country go to make up the vast fund that will be required to alleviate the distressing conditions at the Golden Gate. The fund being raised by this paper now amounts to $1,777, and although we will be glad to receive additional subscriptions at any time, the regular list will be closed tomorrow. As the object is a humane one it should appeal to every person in the community. Contributions will be heartily welcomed.

Report from Washington states that Mr. Roosevelt may become the next Secretary of State when his term expires, but why should he not be re-elected President?

The Olympic games, at Athens, appear to be a much one-sided affair, much to the delight of Uncle Samuel.

SOMERSET'S NEW JAIL NEARLY READY

NEW BUILDING ABOUT COMPLETED—ESTIMATING FOR A COURTHOUSE.

The new Somerset county jail at Somerville is now nearly completed, and is a buff brick building, which will cost about $50,000. Contractors are now making estimates on the new courthouse from plans prepared by the architect. Bids are invited on a marble structure and one of pressed brick with terra cotta trimmings. The kind of material used will depend largely on the figures submitted.

The plans show an imposing structure in which the architects have attempted to preserve to some extent the style of the old courthouse, with its massive pillars and many steps leading to the courtroom on the second floor. The building will be capped by a dome which will shed light into a spacious rotunda running from the top to the bottom of the building. All rooms on the second and third floors will open into the rotunda.

On the first floor will be located large rooms for the use of the county clerk and his records, as well as for the surrogate and sheriff. The second floor will be devoted to the main courtroom, a judges' room, a freeholders' room and a small courtroom. Jury rooms and a number of other apartments will occupy the third floor.

The new courthouse will cost in the neighborhood of $250,000. The grounds will be greatly beautified and the buildings now standing at Main and Grove streets will be removed and the entire space used for the courthouse grounds.

FUND IS NEARLY $1,800

Contributions to Fund Will Be Received The Daily Press Until Tomorrow Night.

BAPTISTS' DONATION

Although Regular List Will Be Closed this Paper Will Continue to Receive Subscriptions.

Tomorrow will be the last day for receiving subscriptions for the San Francisco fund. The balance on hand will be wired to Mayor Schmitz's committee and the list will be closed. This will not prevent anyone who desires to do so from sending in a donation, although it will be sent separately.

At the time The Daily Press started a fund with the original subscription from Franklin Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., there had been no action on the part of the city authorities. Since then, however, Mayor Buckle appointed a committee to receive contributions and that fund has reached over $2,000.

The fund being raised by The Daily Press now amounts to $1,777—just $23 short of $1,800. Responses to appeals have been liberal. It shows that the people of Plainfield are always glad to help in a humane cause.

To date, $1,500 of this fund has been wired to San Francisco by the Plainfield Trust Company free of charge. The balance will be sent Thursday morning by the same bank.

These contributions have been received by The Daily Press since yesterday:

Previously acknowledged	$1,629.00
First Baptist Church (in part)	111.26
Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson	5.00
H. G. M.	10.00
Mt. Pleasant Sunday-school	12.00

BOUQUET FOR DIRECTOR.

Y. M. C. A. Orchestra Marks the Close of Concert Series.

The Y. M. C. A. orchestra, in repeating the programme of a week ago, last night, played its last concert of the present season. There was a large audience, and the playing pleased it. Applause was frequent and generous.

Toward the close of the second part, a bouquet of big Jack roses was handed to Director Martin A. Korff across the footlights. They were the gift of the players, for the perfection of whose concert work he has labored long and faithfully. The cluster contained twenty-three roses, equaling the number of concerts given.

Another feature of the concert was a collection for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A. Emergency and Relief Fund. The offering was generous.

At the Park Club.

Although the round of functions which marked the Easter season at the Park Club is over, there is still a well defined activity in the social life of that club. Quite a number of the members were at the club house, Saturday evening, when bridge whist was in order. The bowling alleys, which have been rather deserted, now that the warm weather is at hand, were quite popular for the evening. Members of the Comedy Club, together with a few favored friends, were on hand for the rehearsal of the farce, "On Change," which is to be given for the public Friday evening.

Two Offenders Fined.

Mrs. Mary Stevens, charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct, was fined $5 by Mayor Smalley last night. She was found by Marshall Dooley on Somerset street, Saturday night, shedding tears and when the officer asked a few questions he received a vigorous tongue-lashing. John Wisniewski, who started a disturbance in front of Saengerbund hall, escaped with a $2 fine.

Threatened to Kill is Father.

Thomas Morley, Jr., son of Thomas Morley, a former well-known Plainfielder, was arrested in Elizabeth yesterday for threatening to kill his father with an axe. He was taken before Justice Mahon and committed to jail to await the action of the Grand Jury. The Morleys removed from West Third street to Elizabeth several years ago.

Plainfield Band to Conduct a Ball.

The Plainfield Band, which was recently organized and is now becoming an important social club, will conduct a ball in the band hall, North and Park avenues, Friday night, May 11. The band now numbers about twenty members and gives promise of becoming one of the best in the county.

Wings and Flies

By Tom Muir.

The date for the San Francisco pictures has been set over to Monday night because of a previous booking. Manager Counihan will give twenty-five per cent. of the receipts to the fund for the stricken city.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Fay, who had Plainfield "guessing" with their feats of thaumaturgy last winter, have got a big portion of New York excited. They have been headliners at Hammerstein's for three weeks and their act, narrowed down to thirty minutes, is drawing crowded houses nightly.

Since Miss Adele von Ohl, of this city, rose to the dignity of a "leading lady" at the New York Hippodrome, Plainfielders as well as Gothamites have frequently asked the question: "Isn't the plunge into the big tank of water on the back of the horse Busher McGarry, twice a day, apt to subject the young lady to attacks of colds, chills or kindred ailments." The query is natural enough and accordingly when I had occasion to speak to Miss von Ohl a few days ago I took the opportunity of satisfying my curiosity. "Catch cold," she explained in answer to my question, "well I should say not. I thought at first I could wear a rubber suit, but then I found I couldn't swim in it, and besides the water would run down my neck until I would probably sink and have to be pulled out with a hook or a rope, so I just stuck to ordinary clothes. My maid rubs me down with alcohol just as soon as Busher and I scramble out, and the result is I haven't had an ill or an ailment all winter, while lots of other girls are half dead with colds. Moral: Jump into the Hippodrome tank twice a day and keep well." Rather a queer sort of leading woman.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The mid-week meeting to be held at the Congregational church this evening will be the service preparatory to the communion.

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church met this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Walter H. Freeman, 1008 South avenue, and considered the subject, "Slavery and the Liquor Traffic."

FRESH AIR CAMP OPENING.

Netherwood Institution Will Start Up Again July 2.

Preliminary arrangements for the opening of the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp were discussed by the executive committee at a meeting last night. The session was brief.

Miss Carry, the matron, was there to give the committee an idea of the supplies needed for the institution. She will bring her first batch of tots on July 2.

The home will not be enlarged. Minor improvements are being made, but the project to build an auditorium, for which the Hand legacy was left, has been put over for the present.

G. E. Hall presided over the meeting in the absence of Rev. E. M. Rodman, whose wife died Sunday.

Man and Woman Arrested.

William Mowley and a woman who gives her name as Mary Robertson were arrested last night at the latter's house on East Second street, on complaint of Mowley's wife. Patrolmen Payn and Kelly took them into custody. They will be arraigned before Justice Mosher this afternoon.

Tennis Court in Shape.

JOINS GREAT MAJORITY

Mrs. Eliza Williamson, aged ninety-one years, who was born near Plainfield, died at the home of her son, A. P. Williamson, south of Stevensville, Montana, on Saturday. She was preceded by her husband on November 6th, 1903, and was laid in that place by his side in Victor cemetery on Sunday, April 15.

Mrs. Williamson, whose maiden name was Curtis, was born within three miles of Plainfield, New Jersey, September 10th, 1814. Her ancestors were Scotch and French, with a little English blood. Her great grandparents migrated to this country, but the date is forgotten.

Mrs. Cornelius Williamson, whose demise occurred about two-and-a-half years ago, was born at Plainfield, New Jersey, May 3rd, 1812, and was raised on the farm, which became his life's work. His parents were of Holland, Dutch and English desent. Mr. Williamson at the age of 19 years met Miss Curtis and formed a lasting acquaintance which culminated in marriage two years later, May 25th, 1833. As was said by Grandpa Williamson to an admirer of such fidelity as they had shown for each other: "We have always been together since our marriage, I have hardly ever been away from home over night. When I went to town, to mill or to church or to the timber for wood she nearly always went with me." Old Glory had only 24 stars when they were married and 19 mei have guided the great ship of state since that ttime. Their names appear on seven decennial censuses of the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. Williamson moved to Wisconsin from New Jersey in 1855 and in 1882 moved to the Bitter Root valley, Montana, where they lived on a farm, that being his occupation through life. Three years ago this spring they gave up farming and moved into a snug little house in Victor where they lived till Mr. Williamson died November 6th, 1903.

In the old family Bible at the Williamson home are the following entries: "Cornelius, son of John and Martha Williamson, was married to Eliza Curtis, daughter of John and Betsy Curtis, on the 25th day of May, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and thirty-three, by Stephen Day, pastor of the New Providence Methodist Episcopal church, at the residence of Israel Wilcox. Peter Hill and wife being witnesses; Also Israel Wilcox and John Crane, etc., were witnesses to the marriage ceremony there performed between the contracting parties above named."

Fourteen children blessed the union, five girls and nine boys, the five daughters and eight of the sons passed to the great beyond, only one son, Abraham P., who together with twelve grand children, and five great grand children, relatives and friends mourn the departure of mother, grandmother and great grandmother. —Northwest Tribune, Stevensville, Mont.

C. Pierson and Mrs. W. D. W. Miller; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Henry R. Halloway. Higgins Leads Voting Contest.

Interest in the T. A. B. fair at T. A. B. hall has been increased by the commencement of a voting contest for the most popular cab man in the city. Michael Higgins took the lead last night with a total of twenty-eight votes. "Fighting Bob" Evans is second with ten and John Goodwin has four. More donations have been received by the committee and the fancy table is now crowded with handsome articles of all kinds.

Mann's Condition Grave.

James Mann, the New Market man who was shot by James Groom at Lincoln Sunday, was still in a dangerous condition this noon. Three doctors probed unavailingly for the bullet in his abdomen yesterday. Dr. Platt succeeded in tying a severed femoral vein last night.

Dr. Wilcox's Mother Dead.

Mrs. E. C. Wilcox, mother of Dr. F. F. Wilcox, of Crescent avenue, died Sunday night at the home of her son, A. C. Wilcox, in New Rochelle, N. Y. The interment will be at McPherson, Kansas. Dr. Wilcox will accompany the remains.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

The Freeholders will meet on Wednesday, May 9, for the purpose of fixing up the budget of expenses for the ensuing year. Efforts are being made this year to cut a big slice out of the appropriation budgets of former years for the purpose of proving that the county's business, when conducted on a business-like basis, can be transacted for a much less amount than the previous administrations claimed was necessary. A $50,000 cut is looked for, although the appropriations for road repairs will have to be liberal to take care of the work that had been planned for the coming year.

It has been said on good authority that the Law and Order League, which secured twenty indictments of Amboy saloon keepers and illicit liquor sellers before the present grand jury, will devote its attention to every part of the county, including Dunellen and Piscataway. The announcement is of much local interest because it is understood that several speakeasies are being conducted in this vicinity.

Two new house will shortly improve Dunellen avenue near Jackson avenue. They are to be built by Daniel Horton and Theodore Apgar. Plans are already out.

W. R. Hetfield has changed his permanent residence from Greenbrook to his house on North avenue. All his household goods have been moved down.

Edward Herlich, who injured his foot so badly by running a rusty nail in it that he had to lay off for several days, is recovering the full use of the member.

Miss Nellie Dodwell has been on the sick list for several days. She was taken ill a few days after her return from a visit to Bay Ridge, L. I.

W. R. H. Hardingham has started another new house on Fifth street. He will build more if renting prospects are what agents say they are.

None of the local trains are affected by the new time table of the Central which goes into effect May 6.

The Lincoln avenue-Fifth street water main extension will be wholly completed this week.

The three children of James Day who have been suffering from chicken pox are improving.

S. M. Ronaldson, of Bayonne, will move into the Hetfield house this week, under a lease.

Constable Pierce is on duty at the courthouse in New Brunswick every day this term.

The reception to Rev. and Mrs. E. C. Dutcher will be held this week.

A. N. Randolph has completed a wiring contract in Somerville.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

M. F. Gano, of Park avenue, sells first-class property and his list is a good one.

Don't forget that Ike Richards, of Somerset street, pays highest prices for second hand clothing.

If you trade with Kirch & Zimmerman, the cash grocers of Somerset street, you will get the best goods at the lowest prices.

When you decide to build let Laury & Daudt, the masons, do your work. The firm will also furnish you mantels reasonable.

B. J. Schreiner, the Park avenue druggist, makes a specialty of compounding prescriptions. He personally supervises this department and employs none but experienced clerks.

When in need of carpentering work of any kind, consult William H. Kirch, the Duer street contractor. He has erected many buildings in the city and borough and can furnish any number of references as to his ability.

The Plainfield baseball team has made the Hotel Iroquois its headquarters. They recognized its superior advantages as soon as they reached the city. Coupled with Proprietor Leary's geniality it makes an ideal stopping place.

An order placed with Frank Neidig, proprietor of the Lincoln Market, means that you will receive the best meat, poultry or provisions to be had in the city or borough. If not convenient to call tell him over the telephone what you want.

Spring is the time of the year when most everything in the house is overhauled and frequently something needs renewing. If it happens to be carpets, rugs, mattings or curtains in your case, stop in at Van-Camp & Franklin's, Somerset and Front streets, and see their big stock of each. Their prices are never high.

WANT THE CHILD AND $1,000 TO BOOT.

Foster Parents Assert Girl Was Given Them and Wish to Keep Her.

A novel suit has been brought in the Circuit Court at Elizabeth for $1,000 damages and the recovery of a two-year-old child, the plaintiffs alleging that this amount is due for services in the care of the baby for nearly a year.

The suit is brought by Mr. and Mrs. Frazee against Mrs. Charles Gullberg, of Plainfield. Mrs. Gullberg is the wife of a clerk in the Railway Postoffice service and is the mother of eight children, all of whom are with her. The plaintiffs are childless.

Two years ago the last child was born to Mrs. Gullberg, and some time later she had to be taken to a hospital to be treated for illness. Her mother-in-law was sent for and she came on to take care of the children. Mrs. Frazee frequently visited the house and became very fond of the youngest child, and persuaded the mother-in-law to give it to her to mind. Mrs. Gullberg had not then returned from the hospital.

When Mrs. Gullberg did return home she was informed that the child had been given to Mrs. Frazee. She made a demand on the woman for the child, but was refused. Then she got her minister to recover the child for her, and she now has it at her home in Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Frazee now want possession of the child, and they have brought the suit. Mrs. Gullberg says she will not give up the child to the Frazees.

CATHEDRAL'S CENTENARY.

Historic Baltimore Structure the Scene of Brilliant Ceremonies.

Baltimore, May 1.—The centenary of the historic Baltimore Cathedral, in which all the great councils of the Roman Catholic Church in the United States have ben held, was observed Sunday. The occasion marked another event in the career of Cardinal Gibbons, who, after serving as a priest at its altars, has made it the seat of his Archbishopric and Cardinalate.

Ten thousand persons packed Cathedral Square and the adjacent streets. The sun shining upon the crosses borne in line and the magnificent jeweled vestments of the Archbishops and Bishops made a brilliant picture.

The pontifical high mass was celebrated by Archbishop Farley, of New York. Archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia, preached the centenary sermon. After the mass a letter of congratulations to Cardinal Gibbons and to the Catholic hierarchy of America from Pope Pius X. was read from the altar.

Following the pontifical mass was a dinner in the hall of St. Mary's Seminary at which the Cardinal occupied the seat of honor with Archbishop Williams, of Boston, the oldest prelate in the American hierarchy, on his right.

CARNEGIE RANKS BOOKER T. HIGH.

Negro Among Five Greatest Men, Ironmaster Tells Canadians.

Ottawa, May 1.—Andrew Carnegie, who opened the Carnegie Library here yesterday, spoke at a banquet given in his honor Saturday night by the Canadian Club. He commented on the recent alliance between Great Britain and France, and spoke of the friendly relations between the latter country and the United States. Continuing he said:

"Canada today owes its freedom to the great blow which the United States struck for final freedom, and to that extent Canada owes a debt of gratitude to the United States."

Mr. Carnegie said that Sir Wilfrid Laurier was one of the five great men of the world. Another was Booker Washington, he said, but the other three he did not mention.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier when in England told the people that Canada was a nation. In that Mr. Carnegie agreed with him. Some day, Mr. Carnegie said, Canada would annex the United States, and the whole English race would stand for peace.

Friends of Lord Dundonald resent Mr. Carnegie's attributing to him a recommendation that Canada build a line of forts on the boundary. They quote Lord Dundonald as declaring that the statement was incorrect.

THE SPENDERS

A TALE OF THE THIRD GENERATION

By HARRY LEON WILSON

Copyright, by Lothrop Publishing Company.

For cheerfuller sights we might observe Launton Oldaker in a musty curio-shop, delighted over a pair of silver candlesticks with square bases and fluted columns, fabricated in the reign of that fortuitous monarch, Charles II.; or we might glance in upon the Higbees in their section of a French chateau, reproduced up on the stately Riverside drive, where they complete the details of a dinner to be given on the morrow.

Or perhaps it were better to be concerned with a matter more weighty than dinners and antique candlesticks.

"TAKE THEM AWAY."

The search need never be vain, even in this world of persistent frivolity. As, for example:

"Tell Mrs. Van Geist if she can't come down, I'll run up to her."

"Yes, Miss Milbrey."

Mrs. Van Geist entered a moment later.

"Why, Avice, child, you're glowing, aren't you?"

"I must be, I suppose—I've just walked down from Fifty-ninth street, and before that I walked in the park. Feel how cold my cheeks are—Mutterchen."

"It's good for you. Now we shall have some tea, and talk."

"Yes—I'm hungry for both, and some of those funny little cakes."

"Come back where the fire is, dear; the tea has just been brought. There, take the big chair."

"It always feels like you—like your arms, Mutterchen—and I am tired."

"And throw off that coat. There's the lemon, if you're afraid of cream."

"I wish I weren't afraid of anything but cream."

"You told me you weren't afraid of that—that cad—any more."

"I'm not—I just told him so. But I'm afraid of it all; I'm tired trying not to drift—tired trying not to try, and tired trying to try— Oh, dear—sounds like a nonsense verse, doesn't it? Have you anyone to-night? No? I think I must stay with you till morning. Send some one home to say I'll be here. I can always think so much better here—and you, dear old thing, to mother me!"

"Do, child; I'll send Sandon directly."

"He will go to the house of mourning."

"What's the latest?"

"Papa was on the verge of collapse this morning, and yet he was striving so bravely and nobly to bear up. No one knows what that man suffers; it makes him gloomy all the time about everything. Just before I left, he was saying that, when one considers the number of American homes in which a green salad is never served, one must be appalled. Are you appalled, auntie? But that isn't it."

"Nothing has happened?"

"Well, there'll be no sensation about it in the papers to-morrow, but a very dreadful thing has happened. Papa has suffered one of the cruelest blows of his life. I fancy he didn't sleep at all last night, and he looked thoroughly bowled over this morning."

"But what is it?"

"Well—oh, it's awful!—first of all there were six dozen of early-bottled, 1875 Chateau Lafitte—that was the bitterest—but he had to see the rest go, too—Chateau Margeaux of '80—some terribly ancient port and Madeira—the dryest kind of sherry—a lot of fine, full clarets of '77 and '78—oh, you can't know how agonizing it was to him—I've heard them so often I know them all myself."

"But what on earth about them?"

"Nothing, only the Cosmopolitan club's wine cellar—auctioned off, you know. For over a year papa has looked forward to it. He knew every bottle of wine in it. He could recite the list without looking at it. Sometimes he sounded like a French lesson—and he's been under a fearful strain ever since the announcement was made. Well, the great day came yesterday, and poor pater simply couldn't bid in a single drop. It needed ready money, you know. And he had hoped so cheerfully all the time to do something. It broke his heart, I'm sure, to see that Chateau Lafitte go—and only imagine, it was bid in by the butler of that odious Higbee. You should have heard papa rail about the vulgar nouveaux riches when he came home—he talked quite like an anarchist. But by to-night he'll be blaming me for his misfortunes. That's why I chose to stay here with you."

"Poor Horace. Whatever are you going to do?"

"Well, dearie, as for me, it doesn't look as if I could do anything but nothing. And here is my ardent young Croesus coming out of the west."

"You called him your 'athletic Bayard' once."

"The other's more to the point at present. And what else can I do? Oh, if some one would just be brave enough to live the raw, quivering life with me, I could do it, I give you my word. I could let everything go by the board—but I am so alone and so helpless and no man is equal to it, nowadays. All of us here seem to be content to order a 'half portion' of life."

"Child, those dreams are beautiful but they're like those flying machines that are constantly being tested by the credulous inventors. A wheel or a pinion goes wrong and down the silly things come tumbling."

"Very well; then I shall be wise—I suppose I shall be—and I'll do it quickly. This fortune of good gold shall propose marriage to me at once, and be accepted—so that I shall be able to look my dear old father in the face again—and then, after I'm married—well, don't blame me for anything that happens."

"I'm sure you'll be happy with him—it's only your silly notions. He's in love with you."

"That makes me hesitate. He really is a man—I like him—see this letter—a long review from the Arcady Lyre of the 'poem' he wrote, a poem consisting of 'Avice Milbrey.' The reviewer has been quite enthusiastic over it, too—written from some awful place in Montana."

"What more could you ask? He'll be kind."

"You don't understand, Mutterchen. He seems too decent to marry that way—and yet it's the only way I could marry him. And after he found me out—oh, think of what marriage is—he'd have to find it out—I couldn't act long—doubtless he wouldn't even be kind to me then."

"You are morbid, child."

"But I will do it; I shall; I will be a credit to my training—and I shall learn to hate him and he will have to learn—well, a great deal that he doesn't know about women."

She stared into the fire and added after a moment's silence:

"Oh, if a man only could live up to the verses he cuts out of magazines!"

CHAPTER IX.

WITH THE BARBARIC HOSTS.

History repeats itself so cleverly, with a variance of stage-settings and accessories so cunning, that the repetition seldom bores, and is, indeed, frequently undetected. Thus, the descent of the Barbarians upon a decadent people is a little tour de force that has been performed again and again since the oldest day. But because the assault nowadays is made not with force of arms we are prone to believe it is no longer made at all; as if human ways had changed a bit since those ugly, hairy tribes from the northern forests descended upon the Roman empire. And yet the mere difference that the assault is now made with force of money in no way alters the process nor does it permit the result to vary. On the surface all is cordiality and peaceful negotiation. Beneath is the same immemorial strife, the life-and-death struggle—pitiless, inexorable.

What would have been a hostile bivouac within the city's gates, but for the matter of a few centuries, is now, to select an example which remotely concerns us, a noble structure on Riverside drive, facing the lordly Hudson and the majestic Palisades that form its farther wall. And, for the horde of Goths and Visigoths, Huns and Vandals, drunkenly reeling in the fitful light of camp fires, chanting weird battle runes, fighting for captive vestals, and bickering in uncouth tongues over the golden spoils, what have we now to make the parallel convince? Why, the same Barbarians, actually; the same hairy rudeness, the same unrefined, all-conquering, animal force; a red-faced, big-handed lot, imbued with hearty good nature and an easy tolerance for the ways of those upon whom they have descended.

MRS. APPLEGATE WELL AGAIN!

"I have had a bruised leg and foot for several years, caused by the brass eyelets of my shoe, which became very sore and painful especially at night. It itched, burned and ached me till it nearly set me crazy. I used everything I found and was suggested to ease it and nothing gave me any relief till I found and applied Azienza Cream which I think is a wonderful remedy for all sores and inflammation of the skin. The hard knots on my legs were as painful as bee stings, with discolored and purple spots. A running sore on my instep size of a half-dollar; the top of my foot a seething sore clean around to my heel. The bone was sore for a whole year and very painful. I used five and one-half jars of Azienza Cream and healed the sore all up. The foot remained tender and I continued to use to strengthen and toughen the skin until now it is entirely well." LITERARY.

The cheerful man is preeminently a useful man.

The cheerful man sees that everywhere the good outbalances the bad—and that every evil has its compensating balm.

The cheerful man's thought sculptures his face into beauty and touches his manner with grace.

It was Lincoln's cheerfulness and sense or humor that enabled him to stand under the terrible load of the Civil War.

If we are cheerful and contented all nature smiles with us; the air is balmier, the sky clearer, the earth has a brighter green, the trees have a richer foliage, the flowers are more fragrant, the birds sing more sweetly, and the sun, moon and stars are more beautiful.

All good thought and good action claim a natural alliance with good cheer.

High-minded cheerfulness is found in great souls, self-poised and confident in their own heaven-aided powers.

Serene cheerfulness is the great preventive of humanity's ills.

Grief, anxiety, and fear are the great enemies of human life, and should be resisted as we resist the plague. Cheerfulness is their antidote.

Without cheerfulness there can be no healthy action, physical, mental, or moral, for it is the normal atmosphere of our being.—O. S. Marden in Success Magazine.

Mr. Baer's presidency of the Philadelphia & Reading Railway and of the Central Railway of New Jersey puts him in control of over one-third of the anthracite-coal output of the country. In addition, he is president of the Temple Iron Company, nominally a small iron furnace property employing some two hundred men. Actually, it is the holding company for the properties of the so-called "Coal Trust," due to the liberal provisions of its charter, which had been remodeled in the early eighties by Mr. Baer, then attorney for the company, who took advantage of a special act of Pennsylvania Legislature, which was afterward repealed. Mr. Baer later acquired the control of the company and its charter, and when Mr. Morgan was forming the combination of coal operators Mr. Baer was ready with the one necessary instrument—a charter embodying privileges impossible to obtain elsewhere. His foresight and preparedness made possible the unification of many conflicting interests. He is now the president of this apparently insignificant corporation, nominally in the business of manufacturing iron, actually controlling the bulk of the anthracite-coal industry, and which has for nearly every member of its board of directors the president of a great railway system. —From "George F. Baer, Master-Spirit of the Anthracite Indstry," by Frederic William Unger, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for May.

PART PLAYED BY AUTOS IN THE FRISCO DISASTER.

Columbia Cars Do Yeoman Relief Work for the Stricken City.

From all accounts the automobile played a most important part in minimizing the arduous work heaped on those in charge at San Francisco after the city's destruction. Dispatches repeatedly give credit to the motor for the saving of life and property. The Red Cross doctors converted large automobiles into ambulances and used runabouts for visiting various parts of the city. Those who owned large touring cars used them for conveying the injured to hospitals and the people to places of safety. The fire department was especially benefited by the use of motors and the executive orders were executed by orderlies driven from place to place in the machines loaned to the city by local agents. Even the newspaper correspondents pressed the automobile into service and gathered their stories from various points of the doomed city from the seat of a motor car. Perhaps the best use made was the transportation of women and children from the danger zone to the parks and other places of safety.

The agents of one car wrote from San Francisco:

"The police and army officials have taken all our automobiles old and new, and placed them in the hospital and other service; also confiscated parts, tires, gasolene, oil, etc. We are glad, however, to be able to render this service to aid the suffering. Without the aid of the automobiles the suffering here would be tenfold, and the loss probably much greater. Every available machine has been working day and night, and the chauffeurs and owners of cars have done some of the most heroic work. Most of the boys have had no sleep since the hour of the earthquake."

The ability of the automobile to work day and night in streets which were absolutely unfit for horse-drawn vehicles, has been a revelation, and it is safe to say that when San Francisco is again built up the motor car will be more popular than ever. Among the machines aiding in the work of relief and rescue none showed up more prominently than the Columbia cars used by John Dougherty, acting chief of the San Francisco Fire Department and his two assistants. Shaughnessy and Wills. These machines kept at it at all times running over steep grades, ruined streets piled up with burning debric and in many places blocked with fallen brick and stones. Through it all the Columbias performed perfectly. Such demonstrations of practical merit are worth a thousand of ordinary nature.

FANS EAGER FOR FRAY

Champion Fitzsimmons' Presence Will Make the Opening Game a Magnet For Cranks.

HE WILL UMPIRE BASES

Management Preparing to Accommodate a Record Breaking Crowd—Other News Boiled Down in Crisp Style for the Fans.

No pains is being spared by the baseball management toward making the opening game on Saturday a gala occasion. The fact that Bob Fitzsimmons will assist in the ceremony of raising the pennant and umpiring the game has increased the interest ten-fold and a record breaking crowd is anticipated. Hundreds will flock to Crescent Oval to see the famous pugilist in the role of a baseball enthusiast. Fitz is an ardent fan and always goes to a game when there is one in reach. He follows the results of the major league up closely and is well posted on the records of all the stars in the profession. Mrs. Fitz, like her husband, is also an enthusiast, and she will watch the doings from a seat in the grandstand.

The game is being widely advertised and a big delegation of inhabitants of the rural districts is expected to be on hand. The news of the affair will reach a wide scope of readers as the fact will be advertised in all the newspapers from Jersey City to Flemington.

So after an anxious winter "they will be off" on Saturday.

Get your rooting strings in order. If you are tonsilitis stricken or have a sore throat consult old Dr. Fitz at Hotel Iroquois.

"Sure I'm going and help the ball team Saturday," said Fitz. "Every little bit helps and as I will have the benefit of a week's training by that time, I'll be willing to take Mayor Smalley on for a three round bout in the open air."

The Mayor seldom backs water. Living in North Plainfield so long may be in his favor and he may make a favorable showing if he takes the defi.

Ben Mumford kept his promise O. K. and as a result the flag pole is up and ready to receive the championship emblem. Just how this ceremony is going to be conducted has not yet been settled.

Is there a team on earth that will have the nerve to kick against the decision of a pair of umpires like Messrs. Fitzsimmons and Merrity?

Mr. G. Mallen, formerly of Westfield, is expected in town Saturday.

Gee! this is getting to be a hot sporting burg. With the Jersey City team here and then Mr. Fitzsimmons. Who next?

It's just what the town needs. A good injection of real sportinia. It keeps everybody alive and dosen't disturb the sleep individuals.

The friends of J. Percival Hall, who was badly burned two weeks ago will be glad to learn that he is rounding into his old form. His voice escaped the singing flames of the gasolene fumes and he authorizes the statement that he will be on the upper deck Saturday alongside the "twike, twike" man. Good news.

Fence specialists are notified to come fortified with their quarters.

Fred Moore has started in to secure entries for two-base hit pools which he will operate this season.

Pete Cregan made his debut on the Manhattans Sunday. True to tradition he soaked out two wallops and killed every fly that came his way. McBregan played in the same game and succeeded in landing on the ball safely four times.

"Kid" Brogan had a double attack of stage fright and nervous hysteria Sunday when he played his first league game with Jersey City against Montreal. The antics of the "Kid" made Manager Murray grunt exceedingly hard. Mister Brogan permitted the umpire to call him out twice on strikes while he stood at the plate looking at the new flag pole in centre field, not to say anything of the big mess he made around third base by piling up two very yellow errors.

But even so, the "Kid" is a good ball player and all he wants is one trip around the circuit to impress Manager Murray that he has the real goods.

Wilson, who practiced with the Jersey City team on Crescent Oval, filled Brogan's shoes for the Hoboken's Sundays. His exhibition was gilt-edged in every department. He is a live man all through the game and adds much to the sport by his coaching ability. Wilson's experience playing with Des Moines, Milwaukee and other clubs in the west will make him a valuable man for the team. In the base hit line Sunday he produced two runs by connecting with the ball for a timely three sacker.

Judging from Willie Deegan's experience on the ramparts in Hoboken Sunday his arm hasn't thawed out yet. If there are any signs of kinks Saturday Phil Smith will be put in against the Cubans.

At the meeting of the association Saturday night Benj. Mumford was appointed a committee of one to receive the visiting teams during the season. The moguls will meet again Thursday night to complete the details for the opening game.

PASTOR RETURNS PASS FOR BASEBALL GAMES

REV. M. C. O'DONNELL OBJECTS TO PLAYING SUNDAYS.

Rev. William C. O'Donnell, pastor of the West Side M. E. church, Jersey City, and formerly pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, this city, returned yesterday to Robert Davis a season ticket to the Jersey City baseball grounds that Mr. Davis had sent him. Accompanying the pass was a letter in which the clergyman complained bitterly of the action of the Jersey City club in "desecrating the Sabbath" by having a game of baseball.

William H. Beach, president of the Layman's Association of the Newark M. E. Conference, and a prominent member of Pastor O'Donnell's church, said he had the pledge of Mayor Fagan and Chief of Police Murray that no more Sunday games would be allowed. The church folk declare that if another game is attempted they will apply for an injunction.

As the game played Sunday was for the benefit of the San Francisco sufferers, Mayor Fagan and Chief Murphy felt that were justified in allowing it to take place.

WEST ENDS' TEAM.

Manager Conkling Announces His Line-up.

Manager Conkling, of the West Ends, of Somerville, has completed his team. De May, who played last season at third, has taken a position on Blackwell's Island, and will be obliged to play with the team representing the island Saturday afternoons. In his place Doyle, of the Xavier A. A., has been signed to play third and as substitute pitcher to "Smiling Jim" Mohtross, of Plainfield. Norton, who played with Washington, N. J., last summer, has been signed to play leftfield and as change catcher, for use when Allen, of Plainfield, is not behind the bat.

GOLF.

Clarence L. Lyons, of this city, who engaged with Lee Smith in the first match of the qualifying play at the Westfield Golf Club, yesterday, was defeated by Mr. Smith by 6 up.

(Other sporting news on page three).

Harry Barton, of West Fourth street, who has been very ill at Council Bluffs, Ia., shows no sign of improvement.

WHOOPING IT UP FOR LANKY BOB

FITZ'S 40 CENT TIP CHANGES THE MIND OF "PROF" GEORGE RUGGLES.

"Dat man Fitz is de real stuff. I do honestly believe dat he can done knock de block off of any of 'dese guys dot done call demselves pugilists. Fitz for me, he can lick any of 'em."—"Prof." George Washington Ruggles, champion bootblack of Plainfield in a statement yesterday.

George Ruggles has followed prize fighters all his life. He has always been a warm admirer of James J. Corbett, who was knocked out by Fitz eight years ago. Corbett's defeat did not tend to diminish Mr. Ruggles' admiration one iota, on the contrary it only tended to increase his faith to the extent that his pocketbook suffered on several occasions. During his career Mr. Ruggles has expended a good many pounds of steam in well put arguments trying to convert other sports to his belief. But in vain.

It is all different now. It has been since Sunday. George has changed his mind. This is how it all came about.

Fitz went up to George's establisament to get a shine. Fitz didn't have to introduce himself. George had seen his face in thousands of cartoons, read thousands of papers about him—but to shine the great man's shoes—well he never thought he would have such a golden opportunity—and so he shined.

"Prof." Ruggles, generally speaking, hasn't much love for people with big feet, but this didn't count for a cent in the case of Fitz. George gave him a triple decked XXX polish and he derived more pleasure from shining the champion's shoes than he has had in a single afternoon for some time.

When it was all over Fitz went down into his "jeans," pulled out a bright half dollar and told George to keep the change.

This thoughtful act of Fitz touched George's heart. He had been converted and is proclaiming that there isn't a scrapper in the wide wide world who can show Fitz anything in the punching line. "I always thought Corbett was a good man, but Fitz is the king of 'em all. He's good enough for my money. He is the only real scrapper since the days of John L. Sullivan and will be the champion again." (Amens and you're right, you're right," from the crowd.)

"Yes, and he'll knock the pins from under that bloke by the name of Burns.—Who is he, anyhow?—'Jack' O'Brien,too. Fitz can knock the pair out in one night."

HOW MATHEWSON BEGAN HIS LIFE.

A reader of The Evening World writes to know if we will give him some information concerning the career of Christy Mathewson, of the Giants.

The boyhood friends of the great pitcher say that of the hundreds of stories printed about Matty's early career, very few of them have been accurate. Here is one of which Mathewson and his friendh will vouch for:

Christy Mathewson was born in Factoryville, Pa., in 1878. When but twelve years old he began playing with the second nine of the village. As he grew older he began to develop a wonderful physique as well as some good curve balls. After he had gained considerable attention while playing with the Factoryville nine, he went to Keystone (Pa.) Academy and continued his good work. After graduating from the academy he went to Bucknell College and, by hard pulling, "made the team" the first year. There his success really began. His love for the game led him to follow it as a profession. Mathewson first played for money with Taunton, and afterward with Norfolk, in the Virginia League. While playing with Norfolk in 1900 he was discovered by an agent for the New York National League Club, and signed a contract. That was before anything was known of drafting players. In the fall of 1900 he came to New York, and in his first game defeated Brooklyn by a score of 3 to 2. In 1901 the baseball war between the American and National leagues was just beginning, and Mathewson, without thought of the seriousness of his act, signed a contract with the Philadelphia Athletics, but later listened to good advice and renewed his contract with the New York club. That year he pitched phenomenal ball, and has kept it up ever since.

As a rule, baseball fans have the mistaken idea that Mathewson's strong-hold as a pitcher is his marvellous speed. This is not true. His "long suit," as they say in baseball, is his slow ball, or "fall away," as some have dubbed it. This ball comes up to the plate slowly and then suddenly "breaks," falling to one side of the plate. The real secret of his success, however, is his great brain work. He studies every batter carefully, and pitches the ball just where the batter does not want it. Mathewson was married three years ago.

CARNIVAL'S PROGRAMME

Big Lot of Attractions Scheduled For the Second Annual Exhibition.

SOME GOOD SHOWS

Circus, Vaudeville, Minstrels, Curio World, Punch and Judy and Indian Encampment.

In the programme of attractions and acts announced by the management of the second annual carnival for the benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital today there are things enough to give the pleasure sense of normal people a plethoric feeling even in anticipation. Attraction follows attraction, and act after act rolls from the list in a way to make the ordinary mortal feel that he will require a year to do justice to the Carnivalia that will open up to him on May 19 on the West Fourth street show grounds.

In the big show, the Excelsior Bijou Circus will present in one ring, Mlle. Edwards, the only woman ringmaster before the public; Nellie Wilson, on the flying trapeze; Billy Lowanda, funniest acrobatic clown in the country, and Nellie, the famous cakewalking pony; Dick Chantry, the singing clown, and his fiery but well trained horses; Tommy Wilson, the Dutch juggler; Mlle. Lowanda, and her trick pony; Frank Burt, "the fellow that does everything;" and Peterson's Excelsior Band.

In the Polite Vaudeville Show will be seen Joy Schuyler, comedienne; Frazier Trio, greatest of international dancers before the public; T. McNichol, acrobatic musical comedian and comedy roller-skater; Allen and Dalton, blackface musical comedians; and Charles Emerson's orchestra.

Harry Lander's big minstrel show will be great. In the first part will appear: Interlocutor, E. Search; bones, Jim Havell; tambo, Harry Landers; vocalists, T. East, W. Curtis, R. Goodman and W. West. The olio will include Sercli and Cranford, musical comedians; Harry Landers, the juggling moke; George Shady, comedian; and a one-act comedy. Hammil's orchestra will play.

Maze Edwards will conduct a World of Curios. He will present Libbera, the remarkable double man, one of the greatest freaks in the world; Mlle. Olga, snake charmer; Balbramo, fire eater; Mlle. Nellie, barefooted sword walker; and a case full of the mysteriously mysterious and the humorously humorous.

Gus White's great Punch and Judy show will be seen again. It made a big hit last year, and anxious inquiries over its return were made as soon as the second carnival became a sure thing. The Electric Theatre will be bigger and better than ever, with a big feature in the form of Mlle. Verona in the Fountain of Life. Prof. Don Ford, the famous handcuff king and mystery purveyor, will show.

Charles Hobby will run a tintype tent, and sell views of the carnival in action. Chief Dark Cloud will present a tronpe of seven Apache Indians in sketches, singing and all the wierd and creepy Indian dances. In Taylor & Miller's tent of illusions will be shown the marvelous Ojee, latest Parisian novelty.

Shaffer & Wilson's cane and knife rack will be there, with the best of canes and knives. The striking machine, an old and loved friend, will be on hand ready for chesty thumps. Your feminine companions will be interested in the products of Hickey & Furman's candy kitchen. There will be the Ferris Wheel, the latest and most improved model, and a chute the chute for toboggans. A new baseball game, with a bat in the hands of a hitter for a mark will catch the baseballists. L. Furman will show the Whole Damn Family, and the populace will have a chance to make the old man work. Madam Cooper, the only Albino palmist in the world, will tell your fortune.

Old Aunt Sally, the only woman in the world with nerve enough to do it, will hold a clay pipe in her mouth, and let you try to knock it out with a shillelagh. She'll give you a cigar if you do and the ha-ha if you don't. There will be the Hooligans, the popcorn tent, Long Chief Feather with his Indian novelties and archery court, fish ponds, candy machine and other lively booths and coin-lures in great multitude and variety.

A brand-new and glittering, musical, brightly-lighted merry-go-round will be on the grounds where everybody can see it and enjoy it. It will be covered by a new tent, just from the makers.

A stately pavilion of all nations will be conducted by the Women's Auxiliary of the hospital, and a spacious dancing platform. They may quaff enticing drinks at a place called "Klondike," where only soft and harmless beverages will be sold.

HEALTH BOARD TO EVICT COLORED WOMAN

HOUSE IN WHICH SHE LIVES SAID TO BE UNFIT FOR HABITATION.

Emeline Ruggles, colored, who failed to appear before the Board of Health, last month, to answer to a complaint about the sanitary condition of the property occupied by her on West Third street, will be served with a ten days' notice to vacate the property. This action was taken at a meeting of the Board of Health, yesterday afternoon, when a resolution was adopted instructing Health Officer Leon R. Thurlow to proceed in the case.

It was reported that Emeline Ruggles was duly served with certified copies of the complaint made by Health Officer Thurlow, dated April 2, and that the woman did not appear at the appointed time for a hearing, neither did any one appear for her. It is further stated that the property at 507 West Third street, owned by Emeline Ruggles, is unfit for human habitation and is likely to cause illness.

FREEHOLDERS GET BIDS FOR NEW COURT HOUSE

MANY CONTRACTORS WANT TO BUILD SOMERSET'S STRUCTURE.

The Somerset County Board of Chosen Freeholders met at the bridge at Scotch Plains on Monday, when it was decided to accept the structure. One bill of William Farrier for masonry was ordered paid.

The board will meet at the bridge across Green brook, at Leland avenue, May 17.

The board met in the Court House, at Somerville, yesterday for the purpose of opening bids for the new court house. The bidders were James W. Lanning, of Trenton; M. B. Leavy Building Co., New York; David Baist, Bernardsville; Fassell & Wagner, Richard & Easton, Somerville; Cramp & Co., Phiadelphia; E. M. Waldron & Co., Newark. The specifications called for 12 separate bids on different materials in substory, superstructure and trimmings.

The contract will be awarded in a fortnight.

FREEHOLDER CONNOLY WAS BURIED TODAY.

Late Westfielder Spent Half a Century in Public Life.

Freeholder W. W. Connoly died at his home on Elmer street, Westfield, Monday afternoon, after an illness of over a month. William Wallace Connoly was born in Rahway, April 8, 1825. He came to Westfield in 1853 and had resided there ever since. Since 1860, he had been engaged in the undertaking business and was a member of the New Jersey Funeral Directors' Association.

The flag on the county courthouse is at half-staff in honor of Mr. Connoly.

The funeral services were held this afternoon at his late residence, on Elmer street, at 3 o'clock. Interment takes place at the convenience of the family.

Mary Robinson Held.

Mary Robinson, arrested yesterday with William Mowrey, on a charge preferred by the latter's wife, was held in $200 bail by Justice Mosher this morning, after a hearing in which damaging evidence was presented. The man will be arraigned tomorrow morning. J. Henry Crane conducted the prosecution and W. G. De Meza appeared for the defendant. Mr. De Meza is confident that he will crumble up the prosecution's case if the grand jury indicts.

Runaway Breaks Wagon.

The horse attached to the delivery wagon of Herman Baumer, a grocer whose store is on South avenue, ran away from in front of the Dog Corner hotel yesterday afternoon and smashed the wagon against a tree a short distance beyond. The horse was tangled in the harness and thrown, and a bystander seized it when it regained its feet. The boy who drove the wagon was not in it when the runaway started.

PICK HORSE SHOW JUDGES

Five are Named By the Riding and Driving Club For Annual Exhibition.

SELECT PRIZE LIST

Eight More Classes Than Last Year —Valuable Cups Offered in All of the Events.

The executive committee of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club met at the Casino last night and made preliminary arrangements for the annual horse show. Most of the time, and it took until after 12 o'clock, was spent in preparing the classes and arranging the prize list.

There will be eight more classes than last year and special inducements will be made to secure local entries. These will be open to Union, Somerset, Middlesex and Essex counties. There will be valuable cups for each event.

The following judges were appointed: For heavy horses, J. W. Ogden, of Morristown, and J. Carlisle, New York; roadsters, George Willing, of Philadelphia. An effort will also be made to secure Victor Mather, of New York, to judge hunters, and George C. Clauson, of New York, for saddle horses.

The boxes were sold last night, every one being drawn for in order to show no partiality. Applications were sent in and held until all were at hand and in this way each was given an equal chance. There are a few of the $40 boxes remaining.

Word has been received by the committee that some of the best known exhibitors in the country will enter horses. Among them are Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt, who will bring twenty blue-ribboners direct from the Philadelphia show; Mrs. John Gerken, owner of the famous "Newsboy" and "Shop Girl;" Miss Vera Morris, Miss M. C. Maxwell, O. H. Kahn, J. Larocque, Jr., and C. W. Watson.

HEAVY PERSONS HAD TO FOOT THE BILL

NOVEL WAY OF SELLING ICE CREAM AT A CHURCH SOCIAL

The King's Daughters' Circle, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, adopted a novel method at a social held last night, to raise its pledge for the support of the city nurse. The social was entitled "The Weighing Way." As each person arrived he was given a ticket. The men and women were supposed to find partners holding the corresponding number. The couples would call on Harry C. Runyon, who had charge of the scales. The one weighing the most was obliged to pay for the ice cream. In a majority of cases the men had to treat.

The highest weight recorded was 203 pounds and the smallest sixty-five pounds. In this way, as well as in the sale of candy, cake, fancy articles and at the Japanese tea room, a considerable sum was realized for the benefit of the King's Daughters.

G. W. V. Moy's orchestra rendered a programme of popular selections, while the rest of the time was spent in playing games of all kinds. Miss Olive De Lany was the chairman of the affair. Mrs. Charles F. Dayton was in charge of the ice cream, Miss Alma Runyon the cake, Mrs. S. A. Krom the candy and Miss Cora Brokaw the fancy articles. Those in the tea room were Mrs. DeLany, Mrs. A. M. Laggren and Mrs. Clayton M. Neagle. The Sunday-school room was elaborately decorated with the King's Daughters' colors by A. M. Laggren.

ALL MILKMEN MUST BE LICENSED IN 10 DAYS.

Board Instructs Health Officer Thurlow to Act.

Health Officer Thurlow has been instructed by the Board of Health to notify all milkmen who have made no application for a permit, that they will be allowed ten days in which to apply for a renewal of their license and pay the necessary fee. In case of failure to do so, steps will be taken to prevent the delinquents selling milk in Plainfield.

The same action was taken relative to the failure of plumbers to file their bonds.

Justice Smalley's Court.

The Rochester Nursery Company against M. Sorensen, on contract, returnable tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock; Rochester Nursery against P. B. Robinson, on contract, returnable tomorrow afternoon; Rochester Nursery Company against W. W. Drake, on contract, returnable next Monday morning. F. J. Huff is lawyer for the plaintiffs in each case.

GEO. T. PARROT FOR COURT JUDGESHIP?

THAT WAS THE TALK AMONG LAWYERS AT COURTHOUSE AT ELIZABETH.

There was much discussion in legal circles yesterday concerning the probable identity of the governor's choice for judges of the Circuit Court, and in the little knots of lawyers gathered in the corridors of the county court house the name of Judge Vail as the most likely choice of the executive was frequently mentioned. This idea was somewhat strengthened by a little episode in the Supreme Court.

Two lawyers were deciding as to which court a certain case should be sent to for trial. One said that he would prefer to have the case tried in the Circuit Court. His opponent expressed a desire to have it tried before Judge Vail in the Court of Common Pleas. Considering both suggestions Judge Fort remarked: "It may be just the same."

This remark is now looked upon as very significant, and many are satisfied that Judge Vail is the coming man on the Circuit Court bench.

Previous to calling the list of causes Judge Fort announced that in all probability another Circuit Court judge would be appointed within a day or two, and under the circumstances no causes for that court would be tried before May 14. He stated that Judge Heisley had written him that if he were to come to Elizabeth again it would not be before May 28.

The name of Surrogate George T. Parrot has been mentioned about the courthouse as a successor to Judge Vail in the event of the appointment of the latter to the Circuit Court bench. Lawyers seemed to place considerable faith in the story that Parrot would become a judge.

LITTLE CONTAGION IN THE CITY NOW

ONLY TWO DEATHS FROM CONTAGIOUS DISEASE IN APRIL.

Plainfield is particularly free from contagious disease at the present time, there being but two cases of scarlet fever under quarantine. During April there were two deaths from contagious disease, William Connett, colored, who died on April 28, from scarlet fever, and Anna Bogan, aged six years, who died of diphtheria, on April 30.

Considerable work was done on dairy inspection and milk analysis. Owing to the fact that the milk permits expired May 1, an effort was made to inspect every dairy supplying milk in Plainfield. Eighty-nine dairies were visted, the majority of which were found to be in good condition. Forty-one samples of milk were analyzed, most of which was found to be of good quality. There were, however, several of poor quality, both chemically and bacteriological. As this is the time of the year for poor milk, the Board of Health considers it fortunate in having so little trouble.

Notices were prepared during the month asking property owners to connect with the sewer and abolish vaults and cesspools in those districts bounded by East Front street, Watchung avenue, Green Brook and Norwood avenue; also West Fourth street, Park avenue, West Seventh street and Grant avenue. These notices will be served as soon as possible. The total number of inspections made during the month was 288.

The following milk permits have been granted:

Lindsay Dairy, Charles Johnson, J. F. La Fleur, J. I. Findley, J. W. Beetham, L. C. Meeker, C. F. Drake, F. M. Suydam, B. H. Brandon, Claus Peterson, S. Hetfield, Geo R., Wooden, Frank Weiland, A. Kunzman, P. J. Regan, George Viebrock, J. Y. Barrett, Chris. Kelly, L. D. Morris, E. P. & D. E. Gavin, Mrs. George Schuck, W. H. Moffett, Charles Keller, Marchant Bros., B. R. Waldron, Thomas King, D. Cole, I. W. Fisher, J. A. Smith & Bro., Peter Neumann, A. P. Voorhees, L. Pollock, John Hummel, W. W. Drake, Mrs. George Giebelhouse, Wm. Olsen, Willswood Farms Dairy Co., K. Rottberg.

The following plumbers bonds were ordered filed:

John J. Leahy, F. M. Masker, J. J. Heideloff, A. S. Giles, M. Armstrong, George Kuldoshes, A. H. Enander, A. M. Griffen, Daniel Hogan, George J. Tobin, D. H. Pound & Bro.

Death of Mrs. Joseph Crane.

Mrs. Mary E. Crane, wife of Jos. Crane, died at her home on South avenue early this morning. She had been ill for a long time with a complication of troubles. She leaves one daughter. The funeral will be private and interment will be made at Ridgefield.

KILLED AT THE TANKS

A Philadelphia Brakeman Struck by a P. & R. Flyer at Greenbrook.

DEATH INSTANTANEOUS

Body Hurled 100 Feet and Almost Severed In Two Lengthwise— Remains Carried On In Caboose.

John Harding, of Philadelphia, a brakeman employed by the P. & R. railroad, was struck by an east-bound Philadelphia flyer at Greenbrook and instantly killed this morning.

Harding was struck by the train due here at about 9:27. His train, a freight, was west-bound, and stopped at the Greenbrook tanks to get water. While the engineer was loading his boiler, Harding dropped from the caboose to the east-bound track for some purpose. The flyer, running at high speed, was almost on top of him as he dropped, and struck him before he could make a move to save himself.

He was hurled a distance of 100 feet, and must have died instantaneously. His body was almost cut in two lengthwise.

The remains were put in the caboose of the freight and carried on to Philadelphia.

BAYONNE COPS GET FUGITIVE "DUTCH" IDES

MUCH-WANTED AGAIN IN JAIL AND POLICE WILL GET REWARD.

Frank Ives, alias "Dutch" Ides, who was wanted by the police of twenty cities in New Jersey and Pennsylvania for burglaries, was arrested yesterday in Bayonne as a fugitive from justice by Policemen Keating and Noonan, of the Bayonne police force. A reward of $125 offered for his capture will be divided between these officers.

Ides escaped from the Rahway Reformatory last November. At the time the guards fired at least forty shots at him, but not one took effect. He was reported in various localities throughout this State as well as in Pennsylvania, and despite the vigilant search the authorities could not locate him until yesterday. He made no resistance when arrested. He was taken back to the reformatory last night, where he will be heavily guarded.

PLANNING FIFTY HOUSES.

Big Syndicate After a Tract for Development Here.

With plans that include the erection of fifty small houses of modern construction, to rent for from $12 to $15, a New York syndicate has sent agents here to secure a tract of property for development. Lawyer F. J. Huff is acting for the syndicate in this city, and the names of the men in the deal will be withheld until their plans are more matured.

They have secured options on three pieces of land and it is practically an assured thing that one of the options will be closed in. The syndicate is said to be very rich, and engaged in systematic development of suburban home towns and factory neighborhoods.

Woolston & Buckle Get a Verdict.

Because the defendant failed to appear in the case of Lemuel B. Woolston, et al., partners, against Ellsworth D. Middlekauff, to recover $250 on a promissory note, given by Mr. Middlekauff on February 7, 1905, Justice Fort, in the Union County Court, this morning, directed the jury to return a verdict for the plaintiff for $269.90, representing the face of the note and interest. This was done on the motion of Charles A. Reed, of the firm of Reed & Coddington, counsel for the plaintiffs. There will be no more court until Monday, May 14, when the Circuit Court cases will be taken up.

Invitation Came Too Late.

An invitation was received last night at a meeting of the directors of the Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room, from the Free Public Library, of Summit, requesting the presence of the directors at the New Jersey Library Association meeting to be held at Summit. As the invitation came too late the directors sent regrets at not being able to attend. The library committee reported the purchase of 110 volumes from the library of Park Benjamin. There was no other business of importance and the meeting adjourned early.

—Neuman Brothers are now receiving Carolina strawberries fresh daily. No dealer in the city ever handled any half so nice while the prices are surprisingly low.

LECTURED ON JAMAICA.

Returned Traveller Tells of His Journey at Congregationalist Club.

A talk on Jamaica and Nassau by William McIntosh was the feature at the monthly social meeting of the Men's Club of the Congregational church last night. Mr. McIntosh spent the month of March on the islands, and his descriptions were clearer for the freshness of his recollections. He touched on all the interesting points of the islands, from the breakfast of the natives to the peculiarities of vegetation and the miserable character of the hotel service.

Miss Myra Emmons, piano, and Miss Edna Smith and Herbert Smith played two selections. Refreshments were served.

Next month the club will hold its last meeting prior to summer suspension. A lecture by State Senator Ackerman will mark the event. Women will be invited.

COMMITTEE OF HUNDRED

Republican Organization to Work With Representative Advising Body.

EVERYTHING NOW OPEN

All Meetings of the Hundred Will Be Public and They Will Meet In a Hall.

Undiscouraged by the doubting smiles with which their announcement of absolute independence from dictation in nominations and their disapproval of back stairs conferences, the members of the Republican City Executive Committee have gone steadily on their way to throw the party councils and the primaries wide open. At a meeting held last night it was voted to organize a committee of 100, to act in an advisory capacity with the City Committee, in arranging for the primaries and the conduct of party matters. A resolution on the new move was passed as follows:

"Whereas, it is the intention of the Republican City Executive Committee to exert all the means within its power for obtaining a fair and impartial selection of candidates as delegates and representatives of the Republican party, irrespective of affiliation, for the purpose of upholding the best principles of Republicanism, and for that purpose it is desirous to enlist the co-operation of as many of the Republican voters of the city of Plainfield as can be secured.

"Therefore, let it be Resolved, that the chairman be authorized to appoint a committee of one hundred, to be composed of a representation from each of the wards as near as possible, to attain the object of this resolution, who shall be known as an Advisory Committee, and whose duties will be to co-operate with the Republican City Executive Committee of the city of Plainfield in formulating plans for the promotion of the best interests of the Republican party of the city of Plainfield."

The Hundred will hire a hall for their meetings and all sessions will be public. On its part, the City Committee will issue pamphlets and papers, prepared by a committee of four appointed last week, on the primary laws, making the way for political activity plain to the common people. After the body gets through with its campaign of organization, it is claimed, no one will have any excuse for not having had a part in making the party nominations and in outlining its policy.

At the meeting last night Secretary Newcorn announced that fourteen acceptances had been received from men picked to fill the newly created vacancies on the City Committee. The complete list will be made public next week, it is expected.

RANDOLPH FARM SOLD.

Mrs. Josephine Cheever, of Brooklyn, Purchases It As Home.

The old Randolph farm in Park avenue, which has been in the family for over 100 years, has been sold by Edward F. Randolph to Mrs. Josephine Cheever, of Brooklyn. She will improve the place and live on it. The sale was closed in the office of Lawyer F. J. Huff, who acted for Mrs. Cheever.

The farm was purchased long before there was a Park avenue in existence by Mr. Randolph's father, Asa F. Randolph. In 1869 Mr. Randolph bought the property after his father's death, from the heirs. The deed he received then is a document written by hand on stiff, ruled paper, and the notary's signature is that of John H. Van Winkle, who was then at his law studies.

Mrs. C. Rosseter, of 127 Watchung avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Years ago I had backache and headaches, and was troubled also with attacks of rheumatism. On being advised that Doan's Kidney Pills were good for such troubles, I got a supply at Randolph's pharmacy, and found relief soon after I began using them. I now keep them in the house, and use them whenever I feel a twinge of pain in the back or any other symptom of kidney trouble, and it only requires a few doses to chase the pain away. I especially recommend them for rheumatic pain, for my system seemed to be filled with it before I used your medicine."

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The attraction announced for the New Plainfield theatre on Friday night only is the comedy drama, "Old Lavender," with Edward Harrigan as the star. Mr. Harrigan has been absent from the stage for several years, but still retains his old time originality, and sings his old time songs with as much feeling and tone as he did twenty years ago. With Mr. Harrigan in his supporting company, is his son, William, playing the role of "Dick the wharf rat," who gives promise of being as great an actor as his father. This is announced as positively Mr. Harrigan's farewell to the stage.

The San Francisco pictures will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday. While the programme will be made up of other subjects, the chief attraction, of course, will be San Francisco. The city before the destruction, in all its wonderful beauty, and views of the ruins and awful havoc wrought by earthquake and flames. To get these pictures so quickly after the disaster, the management of this attraction has gone to a great expense, having men on the ground as soon as it was possible to get a permit to enter the city. These views are wonderfully interesting and the house will no doubt be crowded, as the price of admission is within reach of all, and part of the proceeds are to be turned over to the relief fund for the sufferers.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Dr. Norman H. Probasco will lead the Young People's Society meeting at the First Baptist church tomorrow night.

The regular collection for the deacons' fund will be received at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church Sunday morning.

Preparatory services will be held at the Congregational church tonight and the communion service will be held Sunday morning.

There will be a business meeting of the W. C. T. U. in the rooms on Madison avenue, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Special matters will be considered.

Rev. H. C. Ashley has been returned to the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church for the third time by the New Jersey Conference held at Long Branch. It was decided at the conference to meet in Plainfield next year.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

The funeral of Mrs. Stanley Day was held yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The service was held at the house. It was largely attended, but, as Mrs. Day herself had wished, flowers were omitted. Rev. Frank Fletcher, of the Baptist church, and Rev. Mr. Phelps, of Bound Brook, conducted the service. The body was interred at South Plainfield. The bearers were the four sons, George W., Charles, James and Stanley Day, Jr.

William Dealaman's left ear, which he deafened by thrusting a toothpick into its drum, is improving, but his hearing has not yet returned. He is under treatment by a Newark specialist. It is doubtful if the hearing will ever be restored to the ear, but the danger of the deafness spreading has passed.

In connection with the shooting on Sunday, John Newberger's place has been investigated as a possible speakeasy and disorderly house. Detective Grover, who searched the house for evidence after the shooting, however, was compelled to report that nothing incriminating could be seen.

Beginning next Monday, the grocery stores of William Dealaman, George T. Schenck and Kuldoshes Bros. will close at 6 o'clock, excepting on Saturday, when the stores will remain open until 9. They have entered into an agreement on the plan.

Detective Oliver has been in Pennsylvania for a week seeking clues there to the whereabouts of Fred Lang, the murderer of Kate Gordon at Dunham's corner. It is supposed the fugitive made for his old haunts there.

A. A. Lake will give an entertainment at the First Church of Christ, Plainfield, tonight, in aid of the general fund of the church. A number of his fellow members of the Presbyterian church will attend the fair.

Michael Gallagher and Frank Kean have settled with the P. S. C. for the damage done them recently in a collision between a trolley and a truck on which they were riding.

Mrs. Annie Marlow is having her house on Dunellen avenue improved. A new front porch is being built on it, the work being done by Rimmer, Apgar & Cuzen.

The Young Ladies' Sewing Circle will hold its last meeting of the season Friday afternoon. The circle will be entertained by Mrs. Alexander Morton.

Michael Gallagher has started canvassing the residence sections of the borough on the street sprinkling project. It looks as if the scheme would go through.

Mrs. Harriett Humpston has moved her household goods, which were stored at Woodcrest, Greenbrook, to the house of her son, Robert Humpston.

George Farrell, of Hoboken, who purchased the farm of Miss Carrie Blue, has taken possession of the place and settled on it.

There is talk of arranging a tournament between the different card clubs of the borough as a grand finale to the season.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bray, of Rutherford, has returned home after a week's visit with her brother, William Jenner.

The fire department will hold a wash very shortly to test the new hydrants on Lincoln avenue and Fifth street.

Joseph Winckler, of Califon, has been spending several days with his mother, Mrs. Rachel Winckler.

Mrs. L. H. Danz has returned from a visit to relatives in Brooklyn.

Ephriam Pyatt has entered the employ of Mr. McCrawley.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

"Willie" Deegan has been selected by Manager Daab to do the box work in the opening game of the season at Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon. "Willie" will be attended by a large delegation of local rooters.

Several applications for renewal of licenses here comes up at this term of court. Judge Vail shouldn't need any remonstrances presented to turn down the licenses asked for at Graceland.

William S. Rapp and son, Frank, who are visiting relatives at Albany, N. Y., expect to engage in business there and settle once more in their old home.

Adam Gray, who has been visiting his brother, Joseph Gray, of Prospect avenue, has returned to his home at Newark.

Fanwood Bucket and Engine Co. holds its monthly meeting tonight in the company rooms.

It does not seem possible, but there are five new houses under course of erection in town.

Mrs. Isaac Ryno has been entertaining her mother from Westfield for a few days.

A meeting of the Borough Council will be held tonight in the borough rooms.

PRIEST ON TOUR OF DRINKING PLACES.

Admits There Must Be Saloons, but Wants Them Properly Conducted.

Rev. M. A. McManus, pastor of St. Aloysius Catholic church, spent several hours Sunday night visiting the saloons in his parish conducted or patronized by those who attend his church.

St. Aloysius' is in the eastern section of Newark, where are big industrial plants, and the population is largely made up of factory hands.

The advent of the priest in the drinking places was surprising to those he found there, but beyond reminding the owners that they were violating the law and warning them against selling intoxicants to women, minors and inebriated persons he took no action.

"It is not my intention to force the saloons to close as long as they are conducted in a proper manner," Father McManus said yesterday. "And the majority of those in my parish are so conducted. The saloon is a fixture, and it is useless for us to attempt to eliminate it.

"In my judgment it is better to devote our energies to proper regulation of drinking places. Weed out the dives, the places that harbor or even sell to inebriates, women or minors, and most of the evil complained of will disappear.

"It is my intention to continue this system of surveillance of saloons in connection with the system of investigating all complaints of shortcomings on the part of any of my parishioners made to me by their friends or relatives."

HARVARD STARTS FOOTBALL.

Coach Reid Has Twenty Players, Including Theodore Roosevelt, Jr.

Cambridge, Mass., May 2.—Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., was one of the twenty candidates who reported for spring football practice on Soldiers' Field Monday afternoon. Young "Teddy" played end rush on his class eleven last fall and evidently intends to be a candidate for 'Varsity football honors next fall if the Crimson is represented on the gridiron.

From the style of tactics adopted by Coach Reid and Capt. Foster today, the game under the new rules next year will be much more open than in previous years. In the practice the men were divided into two teams and the practical workings of the forward pass were shown. The ball was carried up and down the field, the men passing it as soon as one man was stopped. The players were instructed not to throw the men with the ball nor fall on the pigskin.

HE'LL BAR SUNDAY GAMES.

Declares Jersey City Mayor Will Prohibit Baseball on that Day.

Jersey City, May 2.—Undaunted by his failure to induce the authorities to prevent the baseball game between the Jersey City and Montreal clubs Sunday at New West Side Park, this city, for the benefit of the San Francisco sufferers, Wm. H. Beach, a trustee of the West Side Methodist Episcopal church, declared last night that there would be no more Sunday ball playing on the grounds.

"The owners of the park are talking about having a game next Sunday for the benefit of a hospital," said Mr. Beach, "but there will be no contest, unless Mayor Fagan experiences a change of heart. Saturday he gave me his word of honor that he would not allow Sunday ball-playing in the park. I have been fighting that sort of thing for thirty years, and will continue doing so until I die."

ROSELLE HAS GOOD BALL TEAM.

Will Play Many Crack Semi-Professional Clubs.

Roselle is to be represented on the diamond this year by what promises to be a very fast team. The grounds on First avenue have been leased by E. McMahon and H. Gries, and a team, to be known as the Roselle Baseball Club, will play there every Saturday afternoon and holidays during the coming season. They will have a good group of players, and will play only the best of semi-professional teams, as will be shown by the mention of some of their opponents that have already been booked: All-Stars, of Newark; All-Collegiates, of Brooklyn; Clark's O. N. T., of Newark; Superb Field Club, of Brooklyn, and many others of like strength. The opening game will be played at Roselle on May 12 with the All-Stars, of Newark.

PAY FOR HURTS IN FIGHTS.

Atlantic City's Mayor Says Hospital Fees Must Be Paid.

Atlantic City, May 2.—In his dual capacity as chief executive of the city and president of the board of governors of the City Hospital, Mayor Stoy yesterday issued an edict to saloonkeepers who permit patrons to riot and thus furnish business for the hospital. The Mayor says the proprietors of such places will be held liable for punishment for keeping disorderly houses, but also must pay claims of the hospital for the repair of persons injured. If these people make business for the hospital they must expect to foot the bill, said the Mayor.

Mrs. O. M. Dunham, of Madison avenue, who has been visiting friends in Jersey City Heights, has returned home.

WONDERFUL PITCHING FEAT PERFORMED BY RADBOURNE OF PROVIDENCE.

The statement recently made by a prominent member of the New York Nationals to the effect that the Giants would in the coming season smash to atoms the record for games consecutively won has been the cause of much talked here, and has recalled to the veteran "fans" the great performance of Radbourne and the Providence team. This player performed the greatest feat known in baseball. It was in 1884—the latter part of the season—when the Providence team, then in the National League, found itself deserted by one of its slabmen, Sweeney. Its other pitchers, with the exception of one, had gone woefully to the bad, and there were still more than twenty games to be played. As the Providence team wanted the pennant, and wanted it bad, it made all kinds of overtures to Sweeney to return, but he was deaf to entreaties, as he had a "grouch," and a man's-size one, at that, against the club.

No member of the team was more anxious to win the pennant that "Old Hoss" Radbourne. Although far from having the strength or the speed possessed by Chesbro, McGinnity and other men of bulk on the diamond today, yet he had everything else, and, what is more, knew how to use his knowledge to the greatest advantage. So, when Sweeney refused to play, and it was found impossible to secure a pitcher to fill his place, although a score were tried out, Radbourne stepped to the front and volunteered to pitch the remaining games that were necessary to finish the season's schedule.

His proposition was heard with amazement throughout the baseball world, as it necessitated his working in the box every day in the week, Sundays included. But Radbourne had the "sand" and the nerve, and he won eighteen straight games. And the teams he defeated were about as swift aggregations as ever played the game. Before he had pitched ten games his arm became sore, and it was found necessary to bind it in medicated linen cloths after every contest. A high-priced masseur was engaged to look after "Rad's" arm. In the morning he would be unable to raise that member above his head, and his roommate had to comb and brush his hair. Throughout the day his pitching wing would be "dead," even up to the moment when he would take his position on the firing line. Yet, after he had thrown a few balls, the soreness would suddenly disappear, and from then on his opponents would be completely at his mercy. Strange to relate, the more games he pitched the better he became. Although it was in the days when heavy batting was the rule, six of his successive wins were shutouts, in five he allowed his opponents but one run, and in three games the other side made but two runs in each contest. In the rest of the eighteen games he allowed not more than three scores a game, except in the match with Detroit, where, with poor support, he still held the slugging Wolverines down to five runs, and helped to bat out a victory himself.

This is the record for successive wins by any pitcher, and twenty games taken all in a row, such as the Providence club took in 1884, is the still unequaled record for a professional ball team to hold. The nearest any club ever came to equaling this record was in 1894, when the Baltimore National League champions won 18 consecutive games but lost the 19th to Cincinnati; yet took the next seven games in succession, making 25 games won out of 26 played, which gave them a percentage of .961—another record which will stand for some time to come.

The nearest competitors to the 1894 Orioles were the 1903 Pittsburg team which scored fifteen successive victories before they were headed off by the lowly and despised Philadelphians, who, with a young unknown in the box named Mitchell, smeared defeat over the husky lads from Carnegie's bailiwick. In 1904 McGraw's New York club came pretty close to approaching the Providence Grays' enviable record, when they ran up eighteen successive victories, and then had to bite the dust at the hands of the tail-end Quaker team, who put it over them with "Chick" Frazer and Dugglesby, as against McGinnity and Taylor.

Well, Mr. Colby seems to be a positive quantity in Union county these days.

And now Newark is kicking over the price of ice. No use getting hot, brothers, when the cooling commodity is so dear.

This is the last day to contribute to the fund being raised by The Daily Press for the benefit of the San Francisco victims. Have you made a donation?

The "free seed" graft has again been approved by Congress notwithstanding the hue and cry over extravagant and unwarranted expenditure of public money.

Dispatch from Trenton says New Jersey is $15,000 richer as a result of corporations chartered during April. But how about the suckers who think they have struck a good thing?

George T. Parrott for county judge, says dame rumor. In the light of political history in Union county, would such an appointment be a reward of merit or a fat job for a faithful member of the political organization, who has already profited well at its hands?

"Lanky Bob" Fitzsimmons attributes his ability to keep in the game to the fact that he abstains from liquor. That strong drink saps the vitality has been frequently demonstrated in the lives of pugilists. John L. Sullivan is a notable example of what havoc intoxicants play on a man's physique.

LARGE GATHERING AT MRS. RODMAN'S FUNERAL.

Casket Borne to Grave By Members of Grace Church Vestry.

Relatives and friends in large numbers attended the funeral services of Mrs. Rodman, wife of Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, rector-emeritus of Grace church, which were held from the church yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. There were present several out-of-town clergymen, including Rev. Floyd Appleton, formerly of this city, but now of St. Clement's church, Brooklyn; Rev. C. M. Dunham, formerly superintendent of Grace church Sunday-school, now rector of St. Jude's church, Brooklyn; Rev. Dr. Fenton, of St. Luke's church, Metuchen, and Rev. Mr. Edgecumb, of Cranford.

Rev. Dr. Fenton and Rev. Mr. Edgecumb assisted Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of the church, who had charge of the services. There was a beautiful display of floral tributes about the chancel, while the casket was covered with flowers from relatives and friends and various societies in the church. The vested choir of the church took part in the service, under the direction of Mrs. William Freeman, who presided at the organ.

The large gathering showed impressively the high esteem in which Mrs. Rodman was held. Her devotion to her church where she labored for so many years has been seen in many ways and her influence and help were a source of encouragement and strength to those with whom she worked.

The service was that of the Episcopal church and at its conclusion the interment was in Hillside cemetery. The pall bearers, members of the vestry, were Marion S. Ackerman, Louis G. Timpson, DeWitt C. Ivins, W. T. Gough, S. D. Lounsbery and E. H. Booth. Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson was in charge of the service at the grave.

POLICE STILL HUNTING FOR MISSING YOUNG WOMAN.

Absence of Miss Helen Kuenlen Still a Mystery.

There are no new developments today in the case of Miss Lena Kuenlen, daughter of Mrs. Marie Kuenlen, of 912 West Front street, who disappeared from her home, Saturday afternoon, April 21, at 4 o'clock. The police are still mystified over the case.

Today a general alarm was sent out by the New York police. Miss Kuenlen was believed to have been suffering from melancholia when she went away, but there is a theory, believed by some, that the young woman is alive and that she may not be as melancholy as others have thought. The Pinkerton detective is still at work on the case.

By Tom Muir.

Harry Bulger, the rapid fire comedian with Pixley and Luders' fantasy of the forest, "Woodland," tells a story showing that Boston boys of the street are like all others. He overheard a conversation between two youngsters selling newspapers.

"Say, 'Jimmie,' w'at's de best way to teach a girl how to swim?" asked the younger one.

"Dat's a cinch. First off you puts your left arm under her waist and you gently takes her left hand——"

"Come off; she's me sister."

"Aw, push her off de dock."

Peter Winn, chief electrician for George Primrose's minstrel company, returned to the city Saturday after a season of forty weeks, during which he journeyed from coast to coast. The troupe narrowly escaped getting caught in the San Francisco earthquake, having closed a week's engagement at the Grand Opera House the Saturday previous. It was followed by the Conreid Opera Company, the members of which practically lost everything but the clothing they wore. Primrose closed in Milwaukee last week and "Pete" came straight home. He will rest until July, when rehearsals start for next season.

Bailey Sustained as Pastor.

Vice hancellor Emery in the Chancery Court at Newark yesterday, issued an order sustaining Rev. Griffin W. Bailey as pastor of the Calvary Baptist church. His decision followed proceedings brought by Sippio Whindleton and other deacons of the church against Spencer Conway and his followers who wanted Rev. W. T. Morris as head of the flock. W. S. Angleman represented the Whindleton faction and Clarence L. Murphy appeared for Conway and the former board of trustees.

A. C. Pleydell Registered.

In accordance with the new law passed by the New York Legislature compelling legislative agents to register their names and state the character of their business with the Secretary of State, eighteen such persons complied with the law, yesterday. Among these agents who registered was A. C. Pleydell, of this city, representing the New York Tak Reform Association. He is using his efforts to kill the annual mortgage tax law.

Mr. and Mrs. Trembath Safe.

William Trembath, of the borough, was relieved of anxiety as to the fate of his parents in the San Francisco disaster by the receipt of a letter yesterday. It came from his mather and informed him that they had escaped all injury, though they had suffered all manner of hardships. They had tried to get a telegram out but like hundreds of others they never went beyond the 'Frisco office.

Newark Passenger Agent.

Arthur Hamilton, formerly superintendent of the Missouri and Illinois Bridge and Belt lines, at Alton, Ill., has been appointed general agent of the Central Railroad in Newark, which office was held by the late Captain Benjamin W. Hooper. The appointment was made by W. G. Besler, vice president and general manager, and became effective yesterday.

Capt. Hand Hears from His Niece.

Captain William Hand, of East Second street, has received several letters from his niece, Mrs. Philip Hunt, a resident of Berkeley, across the bay from San Francisco, in which she gives a graphic description of the earthquake and its results. Neither Mrs. Hunt nor any member of her family was injured, but her home was more or less damaged.

Will Move Cigar Store.

M. C. Dobbins, the well-known tobacconist, will move his cigar store and manufactory from Park avenue to the store at 120 North avenue on Monday, his old stand on that street. The new store is larger, roomier and handsomier than the one where he is at present.

TWO BATTALIONS OF REGULARS COMING

COL. BOMUS EXECUTIVE OFFICER AT NATIONAL MATCHES AT SEA GIRT.

Washington, May 2.—Announcement has been made by the War Department that Lieutenant-Colonel P. S. Bomus, of the Sixth Cavalry, U. S. Army, will act as executive officer for the national matches which will be shot at Sea Girt early in September. General William P. Hall, of the general staff, acted in that capacity last year. It is expected that Colonel Bomus will select about thirty officers for range officers, and there will be at least two battalions of infantry sent to Sea Girt to act as scorers and markers. The officials of the War Department expect that the attendance this year will exceed that of last summer.

Colonel Bomus was graduated from West Point July 1, 1866. He was born in New York December 25, 1847, and was appointed from this State. He was promoted to be captain March 26, 1888; major, February 2, 1901, and lieutenant-colonel, April 18, 1903. There are two Jerseymen in the Sixth Cavalry; Captain John W. Furlong, who was graduated from the Military Academy in June, 1887; and First Lieutenant David H. Biddle, who was appointed February 10, 1901, from civil life.

While the Senate is killing time with the railroad rate bill and the House is dragging along with appropriation bills an occasional day is taken by each body to consider and pass pension bills, so that some good is done between times. New Jersey has gotten her share of pensions, too, this year. In the House the bills that have just been passed were those to Company F, Twelfth New Jersey, $30 a month; Jacob M. Pickle, Company E, Third New Jersey, $24 a month; Philip Cook, Company H, Eighth New Jersey, $30 a month.

Bills passed by the Senate are Thressa Creiss, $12 a month, a bill of Mr. Wiley's; Helen C. Sanderson, widow of Robert G. Sanderson, Company G, Second New Jersey, $12 a month; Mary Clark, widow of George Clark, Company A, Fourth New Jersey, $16 a month; Mrs. Laura H. Ihrie, widow of General George Ihrie, $40 a month; Joseph Muncher, Jersey City, $30 a month; Alice Eddy Potter, widow of William Potter, Company G, Twelfth New Jersey, $20 a month; Eliza Davidson, Arlington, $20 a month; Katie B. Meister, Jersey City, $16 a month.

The Senate committee has reported favorably on the bill to increase the pension of John C. Heney, of Perth Amboy, to $24 a month, and the bill to increase the pension of John McDonough, of Jersey City, to $30 a month.

Representative Gardner has introduced bills to increase the pensions of James J. Christy, Jacob N. Wunder and David W. Brown. He has filed petitions from residents of his district asking for the restriction of immigration; from farmers asking for the consolidation of third and fourth class mail matter; from Millville, opposing ship subsidies, and from Bridgeton and Vineland, opposing religious legislation in the District of Columbia.

Representative Wood has had E. L. Keenan, of Somerville, transferred to the geological survey from the Isthmian Canal service. He was obliged to give up the position on the isthmus on account of ill health.

New U. S. Battleship New Jersey.

Quincy, Mass., May 2.—The new United States battleship New Jersey will be put in commission without any exercises of a public nature in which the officials of this State will have any part. At a date to be fixed later the State of New Jersey will present to the ship the handsome silver service recently purchased.

America Wins at Athens.

Athens, May 2.—America won the championship in the Olympian games with a total of 75½ points. England, counting Ireland, Scotland, Australia and Canada, had 36; Sweden, 26; Greece, 27½; Hungary, 13; Austria, 12; Germany, 7 2-3; Finland, 6; France, 5 1-3; Italy, 3, and Belgium, 1.

MORRISTOWN MEN TO ASSIST MR. COLBY

DENVILLE REPUBLICANS READY TO WAR ON COUNTY MACHINE.

Morristown, May 2.—When the Colby people carry their movement into Morris, as it is understood here they will in a short time, there is one section of the county, at least, which will give them an enthusiastic welcome. That is the southern section of Rockaway Township which just now has a bitter grievance against the county machine.

This part of Rockaway Township is essentially the home and agricultural section and there is not a manufacturing establishment in the entire district, while the other two districts, into which the township is divided, are mining and manufacturing sections. For some time the greater majority of the southern district has been desirous of breaking away from the township of Rockaway and setting up for themselves as the township of Denville. Early in the legislative session just passed 250 of them signed a petition requesting Senator Hillery, of Morris, to introduce in the Legislature a bill creating the new township. These petitioners represented ninety-nine per cent. of the real estate affected.

Senator Hillery introduced the bill, which was numbered 254, and referred to the Committee on Boroughs and Borough Government, consisting of Senators Wakelee, Frelinghuysen and Plummer. The citizens who wanted the new township appointed a committee to go to Trenton and get the bill put through. This committee had not been long about the State House when they discovered that some powerful influence was impeding the progress of the measure. They went to the committee to learn what the trouble was, and were told, they say, by both Senators Wakelee and Plummer that they would report the bill at once if Senator Hillery would request them to.

Opposition Developed.

This, the members of the citizens' committee say, they could not get the Morris Senator to do, because of the powerful influences that were at work against the new township. Chief among these were a few officeholders, who would be legislated out of office if the new township should be created, and these were powerful enough to enlist in their behalf the influence of the county machine. They also found that there was opposition to their plan in the northern district, principally on the part of Augustus Mason; of Hibernia, superintendent of the Wharton iron interests, and James A. Arthur, superintendent of the Thomas Iron Company, who claimed that if the new township was created it would increase the taxes upon the interests which they represented.

Of this opposition the citizens' committee informed the Senate committee, but stated that, as they represented most of the citizens and pretty nearly all the real estate in the proposed township, they did not think that this selfish and small opposition should prevent the passage of the bill.

In spite of all this the bill remained in committee, and when the citizens' committee again sought to learn why it continued to be held up, Senator Wakelee said, so one of the committee declares, that it would be reported as soon as Senator Hillery so requested. The bill was not reported, however, and the citizens interested in it believe that it was held up at the instance of the machine, because the two mining interests which opposed it are powerful in Morris County politics and have the power to make and unmake legislators and other officials.

Senator Hillery Explains.

Senator Hillery, on the other hand, takes an entirely different view of the matter. His attention was called to the statements of the Denville people by a reporter, and he said the only reason why the bill was not reported was that there was so much opposition to the plan from the citizens affected.

Nevertheless the Denville people are incensed at the outcome of their efforts to be created into a township by themselves, and believe that the county Republican machine deliberately sacrificed them to powerful corporate interests. They are therefore prepared to welcome the Colby movement into Morris and do all in their power to overthrow the present Republican machine.

It is said that the 250 citizens who signed the petition for the new township stand ready to join any branch of the Colby movement which may be organized in the county work for its success.

Republican Club Delegates.

The executive committee of the New Jersey State League of Republican Clubs has elected as delegates-at-large to the Republican National League convention, to be held in Philadelphia on June 17, 18 and 19, Governor E. C. Stokes, Senator Boyd Avis, of Woodbury; Judge Joseph H. Gaskill, of Mount Holly; Postmaster George W. Pollitt, of Paterson; Judge Frank J. Higgins, of Jersey City; Edmund C. Hill, of Trenton; William H. Parry, of Newark; Senator Everett Colby, of Essex; Fred F. Meyer, Jr., of Newark, and Chas. A. Trimble, of Elizabeth.

SOFTNESS OF SEALSKIN.

Is Rivaled by Human Hair Where Dandruff is Eradicated.

Sealskin is admired the world over for its softness and glossiness; and yet the human hair is equally as soft and glossy when healthy; and the radical cause of all hair trouble is dandruff, which is caused by a pestiferous parasite that saps the vitality of the hair at its root. Newbro's Herpicide is the only preparation that is fatal to the dandruff germ. Without dandruff there is no falling hair, but a luxuriant growth of glossy, soft hair is certain. Scouring the scalp won't cure dandruff. Kill the dandruff germ. Thousands of women owe their beautiful suits of hair to Newbro's Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

THE SPENDERS

By HARRY LEON WILSON

Copyright, by Lothrop Publishing Company.

Here are chiefs of renown from the farthest fastnesses; they and their curious households: the ironmonger from Pittsburg, the gold miner from Dawson, the copper chief from Butte, the silver chief from Denver, the cattle chief from Oklahoma, lord of 300,000 good acres and 30,000 cattle, the lumber prince from Michigan, the founder of a later dynasty in oil, from Texas. And, for the unaesthetic but effective Attila, an able fashioner of pork products from Chicago.

Here they make festival, carelessly, unafraid, unmolested. For, in the lapse of time, the older peoples have learned not only the folly of resisting inevitables, but that the huge and hairy invaders may be treated and bartered with not unprofitably. Doubtless it often results from this amity that the patrician strain is corrupted by the alien admixture—but business has been business since as many as two persons met on the face of the new earth.

For example, this particular shelter is builded upon land which one of the patrician families had held for a century solely because it could not be disposed of. Yet the tribesmen came, clamoring for palaces, and now this same land, with some adjoining areas of trifling extent, produces an income that will suffice to maintain that family almost in its ancient and befitting estate.

In this mammoth pile, for the petty rental of $10,000 or $15,000 a year, many tribes of the invaders have found shelter and entertainment in apartments of many rooms. Outwardly, in details of ornamentation, the building is said to duplicate the Chateau Blois, those splendid palaces of Francis I. Inside are all the line and color and device of elegant opulence, modern to the last note.

To this palace of an October evening comes the tribe of Bines, and many another such, for a triumphal feast in the abode of Barbarian Silas Higbee.

The admirable host—if one be broad-minded—is now in the drawing-room, seconding his worthy wife and pretty daughter who welcome the dinner guests.

For a man who has a fad for ham and doesn't care who knows it, his bearing is all we have a right to expect that it should be. Among the group of arrivals, men of his own sort, he is speaking of the ever-shifting fashion in beards, to the evangel of a Texas oil field who flaunts to the world one of those heavy mustaches spuriously extended below the corners of the mouth by means of the chin growth of hair. Another, a worthy tribesman from Snohomish, Washington, wears a beard which, for a score of years, has been let to be its own true self; to express, fearlessly, its own unique capacity for variation from type. These two have rallied their host upon his modishly trimmed side-whiskers.

"You're right," says Mr. Higbee, amiably, "I ain't stuck any myself on this way of trimming up a man's face, but the madam will have it this way—says it looks more refined and New Yorky. And now, do you know, ever since I've worn 'em this way—ever since I had 'em scraped from around under my neck here—I have to go to Florida every winter. Come January or February, I get bronchitis every blamed year!"

Two or the guests only are alien to the barbaric throng.

There is the noble Baron Ronault de Palliac, decorated, reserved, observant—almost wistful. For the moment he is picturing dutifully the luxuries a certain marriage would enable him to procure for his noble father and his aged mother, who eagerly await the news of his quest for the golden fleece. For the baron contemplates, after the fashion of many conscientious explorers, a marriage with a native woman; though he permits himself to cherish the hope that it may not be conditioned upon his adopting the manners and customs of the particular tribe that he means to honor. Monsieur the baron has long since been obliged to confess that a suitable mesalliance is none too easy of achievement, and, in testimony of his vicissitudes, he has written for a Paris comic paper a series of grimly satiric essays upon New York society. Recently, moreover, he has been upon the verge of accepting employment in the candy factory of a bourgeois compatriot. But hope has a little revived in the noble breast since chance brought him and his title under the scrutiny of the bewitching Miss Millicent Higbee and her appreciative mother.

And to-night there is not only the pretty Miss Higbee, but the winning Miss Bines, whose dot, the baron has been led to understand, would permit his beloved father unlimited piquet at his club, to say nothing of regenerating the family chateau. Yet these are hardly matters to be gossiped of. It is enough to know that the Baron Ronault de Palliac when he discovers himself at table between Miss Bines and the adorable Miss Higbee, becomes less saturnine than has for some time been his wont. He does not forget previous disappointments, but desperately snaps his swarthy jaws in commendable superiority to any adverse fate.

The other alien, Launton Oldaker, was present under terms of honorable truce, willingly and without ulterior motive saving—as he confessed to himself—a consuming desire to see "how the other half lives." He was no longer the hunted and dismayed being Percival had met in that far-off and impossible Montana; but was now untroubled, remembering, it is true, that this "slumming expedition," as he termed it, had taken him beyond the recognized bounds of his beloved New York, but serene in the consciousness that half an hour's drive would land him safely back at his club.

Oldaker observed Miss Psyche Bines approvingly.

"We are so glad to be in New York!" she had confided to him, sitting at her right.

"My dear young woman," he warned her, "you haven't reached New York yet." The talk being general and loud, he ventured further.

"This is Pittsburg, Chicago, Kansas City, Denver—almost anything but New York."

"Of course I know these are not the swell old families."

Oldaker sipped his glass of old Oloroso sherry and discoursed.

"And our prominent families, the ones whose names you read, are not New York any more, either. They are rather London and Paris. Their furniture, clothing, plate, pictures and servants come from one or the other. Yes, and their manners, too, their interests and sympathies and concerns, their fashions—and—sometimes, their—er—morals. They are assuredly not New York any more than Gobelin tapestries and Fortuny pictures and Louis Seize chairs are New York."

"How queerly you talk. Where is New York, then?"

Oldaker sighed thoughtfully between two spoonfuls of tortue verte, claire.

"Well, I suppose the truth is that there isn't much of New York left in New York. As a matter of fact I think it died with the old volunteer fire department. Anyway the surviving remnant is coy. Real old New Yorkers like myself—neither poor nor rich—are swamped in these days like those prehistoric animals whose bones we find. There comes a time when we can't live, and deposits form over us and we're lost to memory."

But this talk was even harder for Miss Bines to understand than the English speech of the Baron Ronault de Palliac, and she turned to that noble gentleman as the turbot with sauce Corail was served.

The dining-room, its wall wainscoted from floor to ceiling in Spanish oak, was flooded with soft light from the red silk dome that depended from its crown of gold above the table. The laughter and talk were as little subdued as the scheme of the rooms. It was an atmosphere of prodigal and confident opulence. From the music-room near by came the soft strains of a Haydn quartette, exquisitely performed by finished and expensive artists.

"Say, Higbee!" it was the oil chief from Texas, "see if them fiddlers of yours can't play 'Ma Honolulu Lulu!'"

Oldaker, wincing and turning to Miss Bines for sympathy, heard her say:

MRS. APPLEGATE WELL AGAIN!
"I have had a bruised leg and foot for several years, caused by the brass eyelets of my shoe, which became very sore and painful especially at night. It itched, burned and ached me till it nearly set me crazy. I used everything I found and was suggested to ease it and nothing gave me any relief till I found and applied Azienza Cream which I think is a wonderful remedy for all sores and inflammation of the skin. The hard knots on my legs were as painful as bee stings, with discolored and purple spots. A running sore on my instep size of a half-dollar; the top of my foot a seething sore clean around to my heel. The bone was sore for a whole year and very painful. I used five and one-half jars of Azienza Cream and healed the sore all up. The foot remained tender and I continued to use to strengthen and toughen the skin until now it is entirely well." GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

"The Pit" will continue every evening with Wednesday and Saturday matinees this week, which will also be its final week with Mr. Lackaye as Curtis Jadwin. Monday evening, May 7th, the last week of Wilton Lackaye's engagement, a special production and company will appear in Du Maurier's "Trilby" in which Mr. Lackaye will portray his original role of Svengali. "Trilby" was among the first of the many plays dramatized from popular novels which came into vogue 10 or 12 years ago, but unlike most of its competitors it achieved enormous success. While its skillful dramatization by Paul M. Potter has much to do with its success it must be conceded by both author and dramatist that the drama's triumph in this country was due to the strikingly intense characterization of the malignant hypnotist afforded by Mr. Lackaye. As a brilliant piece of stage work it was the theatrical sensation of the period. Lackaye's Svengali is estimated by many prominent and conservative critics as his ablest piece of work. His performance of this role has certainly left a lasting impression upon all who chanced to witness it. Its revival at the Academy at a time when this actor is at the height of his powers will unquestionably prove an exceptional attraction to admirers of the histrionic art exemplified by one of America's leading actors. Mr. Lackaye will be assisted by a competent supporting company provided by Manager Brady, which will include Jane Oaker in the title role. Miss Oaker has been credited my judicious playgoers in the principal cities with presenting an ideal embodiment of Du Maurier's barefooted heroine.

A NEW SUGAR REFINERY.

Plant With 5,000 Barrels Capacity at Riverside.

A new sugar refinery will be started tomorrow in the port. It will be known as the Empire State Refinery and is located at Riverside. The plant is to have a capacity of 5,000 barrels when at full working capacity. he first sugar will be landed tomorrow and as soon as a sufficient quantity of raw sugar has accumulated the fires will be lighted and refining started. Joseph Reed, of 360 Union street, this borough, who for years past has looked after Arbuckle Bros.' outside sugar, is to have charge of the cargoes for the new concern. This is said to be formed by the wealthy grocers of Chicago.

STATE NAVAL MILITIA MAY LOSE THEIR SHIP.

New York Wants Jersey Craft to Replace St. Mary's, if Cruiser Is Unavailable.

Washington, May 2.—The New York State authorities have asked the Navy Department for the cruiser Topeka, for use as a school ship, to replace the old St. Mary's which is declared quite out of date and altogether unfit for the proper instruction of the naval militia.

It is understood at the department that if the Topeka cannot be given to New York the Portsmouth may be turned over to the State instead. The Portsmouth is now being repaired at the Brooklyn Navy Yard for the use of the New Jersey naval militia. If the Portsmouth goes to New York a howl of protest may be expected from Jersey, unless another ship equally as good is placed at its disposal.

AUTOMOBILES IN RELIEF WORK.

Never has the automobile had such a chance to vindicate itself as in the San Francisco earthquake disaster. The correspondent for one New York newspaper goes so far as to declare that "the automobiles have saved the day for San Francisco. In the very first hour following the most destructive shocks, the owners of hundreds of private machines made the utmost use of them in hurrying their families and some of their personal effects to places of safety. Later, every automobile in the city was commandeered by the military or civil authorities and pressed into the service of transporting food supplies to the parks, where supply depots were hurriedly established to feed the hungry throngs. The Red Cross Society carried on all of its messenger work with automobiles, which whizzed about in all sections with the streaming Red Cross flags warning all to make way for them. Day and night ever since that frightful early morning, the cars have been driven on their errands of mercy, nearly always at top speed, carrying food to the hungry, surgical aid and medical relief to the injured and sick, and clothing and shelter to the homeless.

RECORD IN SUPPLY OF PARTS.

An indication of the extent to which the business in foreign automobiles has grown in this country is afforded by the supplies of parts and accessories kept in stock by the largest of the importing houses in the Broadway Automobile row. A consignment of parts just received by the Panhard & Levassor American branch, at Broadway and Sixty-third street, is believed to give that concern the largest supply in the city. In retail selling price the Panhard parts department represents $180,000 and comprises from six to twenty pieces of every part that enters into the make of that car. Not only are there supplies for machines of 1906 model, but also for the models of former years. Six complete Panhard classes of 1906 type could be quickly assembled from parts in stock, including frames, engines, running gear and other equipments. In fact, a chassis was recently assembled, the work being done in the mechanical department on the premises. All the big dealers in foreign cars now carry full supplies, but it is asserted that the record for quantity is held by the agency named.

As Jerseyman Sees Law.

Trenton, N. J., May 2.—The opinion of John E. Gill, secretary of the Associated Automobile Clubs of New Jersey, on the Frelinghuysen law is as follows: "I am sorry that such a measure as this has gone through our Legislature, but it is only a warning to the reckless drivers who have indirectly caused its passage to be more careful in the future, or next year a law will be passed that will practically prohibit the pastime in New Jersey. My personal opinion of the measure, however, is that it is all that we could expect, and we should try to use our highways with a little more care.'

FITZ STILL IN THE RING

Unlike Other Fighters He Retains Vim Because He Eschews Liquor.

IS PAST FORTY YEARS

Never Traveled the Booze Route—Young Corbett and Terry McGovern As Samples.

Ambitious athletes, aspiring baseball players, and readers in general can well take a lesson from the life of "Bob" Fitzsimmons, who is now in our midst. Taking everything in consideration the good hearted "Bob" has wrapped around himself a record to be well proud of. In the pugilistic world he is still a big factor and able to give anybody a fight for the championship, and it's a good bet to place, that he can lick any of them in the ring under fair conditions. And yet he is crowding the half century mark in the march of life, being about forty-two years of age.

But everybody, almost every person interested in sports will say in wonderment, why he is still in the game, while a long list of other stars have sunk into the depths of obscurity.

Ask him, and you will receive but one answer and that is to the effect that he always took care of himself—he never traveled the booze fighting route—the path that has steered more promising ball players, boxers and athletes into oblivion than any other thing under the sun.

Fitz will tell you that the booze will undermine your constitution, which is an essential asset of every successful athlete. It saps out the vitality, it preys upon a man's mental powers, and before the victim is aware of the fact, he is a physical wreck.

The venom, when it gets into a man's system eats up the nerves. With the life of the nerves extinguished the staying and recuperative powers of a man disappears.

It is very seldom that an athlete realizes the rapidity of the sapping out powers of booze as he glides along the maddening pace—but alas he comes to a full realization when it is too late.

He discovers this fact when he faces an opponent who is full of health and vigor. Before him he weakens. The runner cannot stand the strain brought upon by the speed of his rival. His limbs quake in his superhuman effort to keep pace with the driving rod rapidity of his conqueror; the boxer falls under the stream of sledge hammer blows of his healthy and vigorous antagonist; the ball player loses his eye, and with his sight dimmed, others take his place, and he is relegated to the rear.

That this is true, take for instance the careers of Terry McGovern and "Young" Corbett. Only twenty-five years of age both of these boys had the brightest of prospects and the road to fortune seemed easy until they broke down their health in plunging into the white light whirl and completed their careers in wild dissipation. Their stars have set forever and others are taking their places.

So when you come to sum the whole matter up, just contrast the life led by "Bob" Fitzsimmons who is now forty-two years of age, and the lives of Young Corbett and Terry McGovern, both of whom have fallen down by the wayside, and are down and out, because they let slip by a golden opportunity.

No champion can conflict with the booze.

By the way fans are talking up baseball the opening game will be a hummer Saturday, and the crowd, too.

With Fitz on the bases mixing his French with the Spanish coaching it will be a ball game worth going to.

If it rains Saturday Sergeant Naegle will have a hard time in dodging the baseball Mafia. It's pretty strong in the old town just now.

"Billy" Beck is pitching gilt-edged baseball these days. On the recommendation of Manager Daab he was signed by St. John's College team, of Brooklyn, and pitched his initial game Sunday against the crack Trenton team, which included all of last year's Y. M. C. A. players in its lineup. The game lasted thirteen innings and ended in a tie, the score being 1 to 1.

Hoboken fans are after big game and to satisfy their appetites Manager Daab has provided an excellent menu for Sunday by arranging a game with the New York Americans. It will be the first appearance of Clark Griffith's high salaried artists in that town and it is foolish to say that there will not be a large turnout to see what the Yankees look like.

Just $11 worth of sports came out to greet the new team Saturday at Recreation Park. It appears that they haven't got over the quake that Plainfield administered last summer.

That's going from bad to worse.

If the old ancestors of the present day sports in Somerville could rise up in their graves what would they say about a series? With that old spirit, "to do Plainfield," they would go down into their "jeans" and get a team together which would make somebody sweat.

Despite the discouraging conditions it is hoped that the old time patriotism and town pride will be aroused before the autumnal flowers bloom.

Umpire Jack Merrity is carrying around with him a much wider smile than last summer. Tersely put, the cause of all this happiness is due to the fact that Jack's engagement to a charming Jersey City miss was recently announced.

We will wind up today's discourse with a thrilling domestic melodrama as presented at an West Front street fireside Sunday. Hubby is about thirty years old, old enough to do better, every one will agree. Wifey had a nine pound shad in the oven overbaked two hours owing to Hubby's non-arrival from a ball game in which he participated during the morning.

It was indeed a terrible state of affairs, for there was a house full of company waiting for the shad and Hubby, too. Pretty soon wifey got real, real mad, and away she went—less than a mile a minute clip, and didn't use cuss words either.

She spouted as follows—"Well what do you think of these thirty-year-old clowns going off Sunday morning and playing ball? It is regular kid business. What would you think of grown up women playing jacks? Just as bad. Why that would be awful for me to go out and stay four hours playing jacks."

Hubby then entered and gave a truthful and graphic explanation how he batted in the winning run in the sixteenth inning with a slashing two bagger into right field.

The shad went on and everybody rejoiced.

The friends of "Lou" Wiltse, the popular baseball pitcher now with the York, Pa., Tri-State League Club, will regret to learn that his arm has been giving him some trouble and he will not be able to pitch for the present. A little too much use of the arm early in the season did it no good, and he has been unable to go in a regular game since the season opened.

STEEPLECHASE RACES.

Arrangements for Annual Exhibition Being Arranged by Dr. Knott.

Arrangements are being completed for the annual steeplechase exhibition to be held at the Plainfield Driving Park on Thursday, May 30, and Saturday, June 2, under the auspices of the National Steeplechase and Hunting Association. Dr. M. O'M. Knott, who has charge of the affair, is assured of a large number of entries for both days and in addition to the outside horses, expects to have a number of local entries.

There will be several flat races and steeplechase events on Thursday and Saturday and handsome prizes will be offered in each. It was thought at first that the show might be held at the new show grounds of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club, but all the time will be needed to put those grounds in shape for the annual horse show on June 7, 8 and 9. It was then arranged to hold the steeplechase at the old track.

THE GOLD MEDAL TROUPE AT SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Local Minstrel Aggregation Gives Another Performance Before a Large Audience.

Continuing the tour over the "Kerosene" circuit, the Gold Medal minstrel troupe invaded South Plainfield last night, and presented its black-face entertainment to a large and appreciative audience at Washington Hall. The success achieved at Scotch Plains and New Market was repeated, every one of the sixteen artists scoring individual hits. A. E. Willard was a newcomer in the olio and "brought down the house" with his laughable "rube" monologue and musical sketch. Harry Johnson, of Westfield, also introduced a trap drumming specialty in the "Windy Boys" that won him rounds of applause.

The troupe has several more dates to fill before the season closes, the next stop being at Watchung. Stirling, Mount Bethel and Bound Brook will be visited during the present month.

CHERRY BLOSSOM FETE PRETTY AND SUCCESSFUL

HEAVENLY REST CHURCH AFFAIR ENJOYED BY A LARGE NUMBER.

Great success attended the first day of the Japanese Cherry Blossom fete and bazaar at the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Clinton avenue, yesterday. The parish house auditorium was crowded afternoon and evening, and the programme was much enjoyed.

The room was prettily decorated in bright colors. The effect was heightened by the brightness of the electric lights, which were turned on for the first time. The fete opened at 3 and continued until 10 o'clock.

The entertainment, which was presented afternoon and evening, included "The Japanese Wedding," an action-picture of a half hour's duration; a fan drill, by twenty young girls from the Sunday-school; a solo by Juan A. Babcock, with a chorus by the girls in the fan drill; a solo by Mrs. E. E. Brown, supported by the drill girls; and orchestral selections by Dr. J. H. Buchanan, G. W. V. Moy, Ernest Higham, Garret Dunham and Whitney Frazee.

The "Wedding" was a pretty spectacle, and unusually well presented. It was acted by John Ludgate, as the groom; Miss Mary Ludgate, bride; and Mrs. Ludgate, Harry Fraleigh, Mrs. E. E. Brown, Miss Jennie Wenzel, Miss Elizabeth Forster, Miss Alice Forster, Miss Leola Smith, Miss Violet Hallard, Miss Nellie Squier, and Miss Josephine Romond.

The bazaar features were directed as follows: Japanese table Mrs. Bayard Hawthorne and Mrs. Sutton; candy table, the Misses Forster and Mrs. Ida Peterson; grabbag, Mrs. Merrill and Mrs. J. A. Babcock; ice cream tickets, Mrs. Milton Lambertson. Mrs. B. F. Ferguson poured tea, assisted by Miss Eleanor Williams.

The affair is under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild. The officers, who are in general charge of the arrangements, are: President, Mrs. B. F. Ferguson; vice president, Miss Elizabeth Forster; secretary, Mrs. Bayard Hawthorne; treasurer, Mrs. Harry Fraleigh.

Under direction of the general committee, contributions for the San Francisco relief fund are being taken at the bazaar and will be sent through The Daily Press.

Between the Acts.

At the rehearsal of the Comedy Club play, "On Change," held at the Park Club last evening, it was announced that between the acts at the public production tomorrow evening Miss Helen Stevens will give two fancy dances which have been arranged especially for this occasion. One is a Spanish dance and the other a "Dream" dance. The posters for the show, which adorn the clubhouse walls and are to be seen in several of the local drug stores, are the work of Miss Curtis, Effingham Pinto and Ferd. C. Iglehart, Jr.

DEATH COMPLICATES SUIT

Mrs. Bridget Burke's Demise Begins Another Chapter to Litigation.

OVER INSURANCE FUND

Paid On Son-in-Law James Anderson's Life and Sued For By His Father.

Mrs. Bridget Burke, who lived for many years on West Fourth street near Plainfield avenue and who was one of the best known residents in that section of the West End, died at her home yesterday afternoon. She had been in poor health for a long time and failed rapidly in the past few weeks.

Mrs. Burke was about sixty years old and until a short time ago kept a small notion store in the front part of her residence. The boys of twenty years ago were all her patrons and she knew everyone by the nicknames they gave each other.

Mrs. Burke's death will add further complications to the long drawn out legal contest between herself and John Anderson, of New Brunswick, for insurance money paid by the Catholic Benevolent Legion at the death of the former's son-in-law. James Anderson married Miss Rose Burke and made her his beneficiary. She died before him and he passed away a short time afterward without naming anyone else. The courts recnized Mrs. Burke and another daughter, Miss Julia Burke, as heirs-at-law to Rose Anderson and proceeded to pay them the money.

Anderson's father brought suit, claiming next of kin to the son, and just after papers had been served, Miss Julia Burke died. The proceedings were then re-instituted and Mrs. Burke was named as defendant in the action alone. The case dragged along and finally a decision was handed down in Mrs. Burke's favor and the insurance was paid to her by the organization. Anderson's lawyer, William Newcorn, filed an appeal and the matter is still pending. Mrs. Burke has been represented by Attorney John P. Owens, who will continue to look after the suit in behalf of her relatives. She leaves a sister, but no other kin nearer than cousins.

Mrs. Burke's funeral will be held at St. Mary's church tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

It was stated erroneously yesterday that the minimum rate would not go into force until 1914. The rate will be reduced five cents every January, beginning next year. It is now $1.25, net.

Dragged in a Runaway.

H. C. Hadley, of 315 West Front street, had a narrow escape from injury in a runaway last night. As he was stepping into his runabont at Somerset and Front streets the horse started westward on a run. Hadley clung to the side of the carriage and was dragged between the wheels to Central avenue, where the runaway was checked. He was not hurt.

The wedding of Miss Marion Woodcock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Woodcock, of West Seventh street, to Dr. Frank T. Clawson will be celebrated at the home of the bride's parents at 7:30 this evening. The ceremony wil be witnessed by a gathering of guests.

P. H. S. Annual Concert.

The annual concert of the musical clubs of the Plainfield High School will be held in the new building on Thursday night, June 7, and will include "The Evening Hymn," by Schumann.

Date for "His Nephew's Uncle."

LOST HIS MIND AND HIS LIFE FOR WEALTH

FORMER PLAINFIELDER ONCE WEALTHY DIES IN ASYLUM, A PAUPER.

William E. Dean, formerly of this city, once one of the best known horsemen in New York and owner of the largest and most prosperous stables in upper New York, was buried yesterday, practically a pauper. Harlem Lodge, F. and A. M., of which he was a member, with Supreme Court Judge Vernon M. Davis, former Postmaster Charles W. Dayton and other prominent Harlem residents, paid for his funeral. Dean died in the insane asylum at Middletown, N. Y., of paresis, on Sunday.

Dean once ran a road house in Park avenue, the place now occupied by John I. Holly.

Following the loss of a considerable sum of money in New York contracts, in which he embarked with the hope of making a fortune, Dean brooded and worried himself into paresis. He became violent and uncontrollable.

His stable stood on the north side of 125th street, just east of Seventh avenue, for qaurter of a century. In the days when upper Seventh avenue and Jerome avenue served the same for owners of fast stepping horses, that the Speedway does today, Dean knew all of the famous owners, who regarded him as one of the best judges of thoroughbred horseflesh in this country. He made considerable money in those times, his income being estimated by many to be as high as $20,000 a year.

Dean's acquaintances suggested that he go into the contracting business as a side issue and he took their advice. But he knew nothing about that business and the great profits he looked for never materialized. Instead, he lost everything he had, eventually losing his interst in the stable. Friends say that this blow turned his mind.

Masonic funeral services were held over Dean in a Harlem undertaking shop Tuesday evening. He was sixty-four years old.

MRS. GINNA'S PARTY NETS $170 FOR CHAPEL.

Sale of Fancy Articles and Cake for Benefit of Bethel.

Mrs. Stephen A. Ginna, of Watchung avenue, opened her home yesterday afternoon for a sale for the benefit of Bethel chapel, in which she is greatly interested, and assisted by other women and children who are identified with this work, about $170 was realized as profit.

There was a sale of fancy and useful articles, flowers, cakes, while tea was served throughout the afternoon. he spacious lawn surrounding the home was used to good advantage, many of the tables being placed there. The women assisting Mrs. Ginna included Mrs. Alexander MacKinzie, Mrs. F. S. Martin, Mrs. William Myers, Mrs. F. W. Yates, Mrs. H. V. Borden, Mrs. Charles King, Mrs. T. M. Day and Miss Jackson.

Found Snake in Letter Box.

When Letter-carrier Thomas Meaney, attached to the local office, opened the mail box at Watchung and Mountain avenues, Tuesday, his hand encountered something that made him withdraw it hastily. Pulling the lid down as far as it would go he looked in cautiously and discovered a half-dead garter snake on top of the letters. tI had evidently been captured by school children and after killing it, as they thought, had dropped it in the box. Meaney hauled it out and finished the job.

Pleasure-Seekers Ducked.

A rowboat containing two boys and two girls, whose names could not be learned, was upset near the shore on South Plainfield pond yesterday morning. The mud made it difficult for the party to get out of the water, and one of the girls was half drowned before her companions rescued her.

JUDGE RUNYON DECLINES GOVERNOR'S OFFER OF JUDGESHIP, AFTER REFUSING THE SURROGATESHIP OF UNION COUNTY

City Judge William N. Runyon.

No Tender of Office Will Induce Him to Forsake Colby Forces.

URGED HIM TO ACCEPT

Stokes and Other Political Leaders Offered Him Rich Appointments But Young Leader Refuses Everything.

Neither honors nor riches freely offered by the regular Republican organization in the county and State could tempt Judge William N. Runyon to abandon the cause of reform in New Jersey's politics, though appointments as surrogate and judge of Union county lay at his feet. That he would have none of them is shown by a letter sent by the popular city judge to Governor Stokes last night in which he firmly declined to accept any honors the chief executive of the State had offered.

Judge Runyon's declination last night followed his firm refusal of an appointment to succeed Vail as judge of Union county tendered in the afternoon by County Chairman Frank H. Smith on behalf of Governor Stokes. This "plum" was offered when it was found that the berth of surrogate at $5,000 a year did not make the judge waiver in the least from his avowed determination to accept nothing from the organization.

A week ago yesterday, Judge Runyon was summoned to Trenton to meet Governor Stokes on important business. The two had luncheon together Wednesday a week ago and on that occasion the chief executive of the State formally tendered the surrogateship to the young leader who recently left the regular organization forces to join the Colby movement in Union county. The judge explained his position in thanking the governor for the tender of the office, but declined. He stated that he could not see his way clear conscientiously to receive any honors from the party when he was an avowed believer that political conditions in New Jersey and particularly in Union county were sorely in need of reformation. Before parting, however, the governor secured his promise that he would not formally decline until he consulted with his friends.

According to the plans outlined by the Governor, Mr. Stokes proposed to advance George T. Parrot, of Elizabeth, to the county judgeship and elevate Benjamin Vail to the Circuit Court judgeship. This was made possible by the declination of former Governor Foster M. Voorhees to the Circuit Court bench. Parrot wanted to become judge and Senator Ackerman favored him for the position. Parrot has had a cinch on the surrogateship for fifteen years and the job is worth at least $5,000 a year. He has had his eyes on the county bench for some time according to good report.

Following the conference at Trenton, several State leaders and influential men sought out the judge. When they learned that he had conscientious scruples against receiving office when allied with the Colby movement they appeared to take the same view that he held, it is said.

When it was found that Runyon was obdurate, word came from Trenton that the judgeship was his for the asking or even for the accepting. That had been the intimation of one political wiseacre long before the judge was called to the State House on Wednesday a week ago. The politician in question had seen Runyon in the latter's office and is reported to have said: "Do you know you can be judge of Union county if you want to?"

Runyon happened across County Chairman Smith at Elizabeth yesterday and the direct offer of the judgeship was made at that time. Smith repeated what Governor Stokes had said, that the tender of the office carried with it no promises and that the judge would be free to do as he pleased so far as party politics were concerned. Runyon again declined and told Smith that he would communicate directly with the Governor declining any position whatever.

The story as here related was told to a representative of The Daily Press by a close friend of Judge Runyon last night. It was vouched for in every detail, and when the Judge, himself, was approached on the subject later he corroborated it although

SHRANK FROM OATH TO A FALSEHOOD

BIBLE OVERCAME EX-POLICEMAN'S DENIAL OF HIS IDENTITY IN COURT.

Patrolman Maurice Higgins found an old man drunk on New street yesterday afternoon, and brought him to the station house. He said his name was James Davis.

When he was arraigned before City Judge Runyon this morning, Chief Kiely looked at him closely.

"I recognize you now," said the chief suddenly; "you're an old Elizabeth policeman."

The old man shook his head "Not me," he said.

"Yes, you," said the chief. "Your name is Smith."

The prisoner said the notion was ridiculous. He was James Davis, and lived over the mountain. He never was a policeman anywhere.

Judge Runyon, who had been looking at the old man intently, picked up the Bible and held it toward him.

"Take hold of this and swear that you are not an ex-Elizabeth policeman named Smith," he said.

The prisoner half-raised his right hand, then dropped it.

"I can't do it," he said shamefacedly.

"Well, Smith," said the magistrate kindly, "you have manliness enough left to shrink from bringing discredit on your old force. I'll suspend sentence."

The old man slipped away. He is supposed to be living in the valley somewhere.

OLD MARRIAGE REPORT REVIVED BY WARRANT

MRS. GERTRUDE BELLIS ARRESTED ON ANOTHER WOMAN'S CHARGE.

The young woman who is down in the city directory as Gertrude L. Bellis, a widow, and is known generally as Gertie Coddington, her maiden name, was arrested yesterday on a warrant against "Gertrude Sherman," sworn out by Charles Pagliuca. A report that Mrs. Coddington-Bellis had been married to Bert Sherman was persistently circulated some time ago, and as persistently denied by the couple.

Mrs. Pagliuca—formerly a Miss Kitty Muldowney—who had her husband make the charge, says she knows what she is doing in having the warrant drawn against Gertrude Sherman. She says she knows positively that the couple were married.

Mrs. Coddington-Bellis-Sherman is charged with having broken the peace and good morals ordinance of the city on May 1 by quarreling with, and striking, Mrs. Pagliuca. The case will be heard before City Judge Runyon next Monday.

BENEFIT BOUT IS BARRED.

No Boxing Contest at Elizabeth Club's Show for San Francisco.

A boxing bout of five rounds which was to have been the feature of an entertainment to raise money for the San Francisco sufferers in the Edward Clark Club, connected with Grace Episcopal church, Elizabeth, has been declared off as Prosecutor English objects and has ordered that the contest be stopped. The entertainment is set for next Friday night.

The Rev. Henry Hale Sleeper, rector of the church, and Joseph Jessup, superintendent of the club, have decided to enter no objections to the Prosecutor's stand in the matter. The amount that would have been raised for the fund will, it is expected, prove less than it would have been had the glove contest been permitted. Another number will be substituted.

The clubhouse was given by the wife of Bishop Potter in memory of a son by her first husband.

Moving pictures are always popular with all classes, not alone with regular theatre-goers, but amongst what is known as "non-theatre-goers."

Especially popular are pictures of scenes and subjects that are familiar to everybody, and at this time when ill-fated San Francisco is the chief topic of conversation and news, the fact of being able to see that beautiful city of the Golden West as it was before the destruction should be a magnetic attraction.

Next Monday night at the New Plainfield theatre, Manager Counihan has booked a moving picture attraction showing the points of interest of San Francisco. The Golden Gate, the Marvelous Cliff House, Russian Hill, Chinatown, the Chinese theatre and other interesting views. In conjunction with the San Francisco pictures will be given a variety of other views with the latest illustrated songs. Special attention is centered in this attraction for the reason that Manager Counihan has arranged to make it a benefit performance.

Twenty-five per cent. of the gross receipts is to be turned over to the Daily Press for the San Francisco relief fund. Aside from the fact that of the performance in itself being an interesting and amusing one, it should be largely attended indeed, when given in so good a cause.

DAVIS DEMANDS FULL RETRACTION.

Jersey City Democratic Leader Will Sue if Beach Does Not Apologize.

In his criticism of the police authority of Jersey City for allowing the Eastern League baseball game last Sunday for the benefit of the San Francisco sufferers, William H. Beach, a member of the West Side M. E. church, referred to Robert Davis, a big stockholder in the Jersey City Club, as "the arch enemy of Jersey City for twenty-five years."

Mr. Davis directed yesterday Counsellor Joseph M. Noonan to bring a suit for damages against Mr. Beach unless he retracts the objectionable remarks.

While Mr. Beach and others are working hard to prevent any future Sunday baseball games, a movement is on foot to give a benefit game next Sunday for St. Francis' Hospital.

Many prominent citizens and clergymen have expressed themselves as favoring Sunday games.

Rev. Father Sullivan, rector of St. Aloysius Catholic church, said:

"I am not opposed to the Sunday baseball game if the crowd is orderly—and that depends upon the efficiency of the police anywhere—and also if all saloons in the vicinity of the ball grounds are closed. I understand that all the saloons in the neighborhood of the Jersey City Club's grounds were closed last Sunday."

Rev. Gottlieb Andrew, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Evangelical church, said:

"I do not agree with these west side people in this matter. I am in favor of Sunday baseball playing if those who attend such games conduct themselves as a respectable, law-abiding body. I consider that the Sunday baseball match draws the majority of young men from the saloons."

COAL HEAP FROZEN.

Big Pile at Hampton Junction May Have to Be Dynamited.

Hampton Junction, May 3.—When employes at the coal storage plant here began the work of reloading chestnut coal from one of the massive heaps into cars for shipment to tidewater yesterday they discovered that it was so tightly frozen that it was impossible to work the reloader more than two inches deep into the bank where it struck the frozen anthracite with apparently no more effect than if it had been a stone wall. The bank of coal that is frozen is one which has been standing at the storage yards for over a year. It is probable that the greater part of the freezing was done during the winter of 1904 and 1905. There is a great demand for chestnut coal at present, and as the officers of the company have ordered the coal that has been lying on the ground the longest time to be the first shipped from here it may be necessary to use explosives of some kind in order to get the coal from this massive bank.

Rolling Mill at Elizabeth.

Elizabeth, May 3.—The Briquet Company, which has been negotiating with the Bethlehem Steel Company for a lease or purchase of the old Crescent shipyards in this city, has decided to locate its plant in another section of the State. Official announcement is made by Judge Patrick Gilhooly, counsel for the Steel company here, that the latter concern will construct an auxiliary plant in this city for the purpose of having tidewater freight facilities. The old shipyards will be made into a rolling mill. An effort has been made for some time to have the "Crescent," a semi-circular street in the Port closed. The city has not a clear title to this property and the Streets and Parks Committee reported it back to Council Monday night for further consideration by the Law Committee. The new plant will employ 200 men at the start. The property extends to a distance of almost a third of a mile along the water front.

HEREAFTER CALL IT ROOSEVELT BOROUGH.

Cartaret Has Sunk Its Identity in the Formation of a New Borough.

A referendum vote was taken in Carteret, Chrome, East Rahway and Canda, Tuesday, to determine whether these places together with others along the Staten Island Sound should be consolidated into one borough bearing the name Roosevelt. The vote was overwhelmingly in favor of the change. There were 377 votes for the consolidation and the new name, and only one was registered in opposition. The balloting took place in the regular polling booth in what was Carteret.

The new township extends on the west from what is known as Blair's road to the Staten Island Sound, and from the Rahway River to Woodbridge.

It is thought that the formation of the new borough will be a great boom to the locality. More improvements are expected, and an expeditious manner of transacting the business of the borough can be looked for. There are plenty of factories in the locality and the taxes from them are large. The only concern left out of the borough for a long distance along the sound shore is the Port Reading Coal Company.

The fact of the organization of the new borough has given an impetus to several new concerns to start business there. Applications for a charter for the Roosevelt National bank has been granted by the comptroller of the currency. The charter is signed by Hamilton Kean, Joseph Herman, E. W. Heil, Henry Conard and Robert Carson, collector of the port of Perth Amboy. The capital of the bank is $25,000.

There is talk of the location of a big electrical plant near Roosevelt. Incorporation papers have been drawn for a new company under the laws of New York State, and it is believed that the company may establish a branch in Roosevelt. John F. Wallace, the former Panama engineer, is to be the president of the new electrical construction company.

WESTFIELDER MISSING.

Wife Fears He Is Suffering From Mental Trouble.

Westfield, May 3.—Julius Smith, a blacksmith employed by H. L. Fink, and whose home is on Downer street, disappeared from his home one week ago yesterday, since which time his wife has been making diligent search for him. Up to date neither Mrs. Smith nor the police have been able to find any clue of the missing man. Chief O'Neill, to whom Mrs. Smith appealed, has put forth every effort, but to no avail.

When last seen in Westfield Smith started for work, leaving his home in his usual good spirits. He is described as being 45 years old, 5 feet 7 inches tall, sandy mustache and brown eyes. He wore a suit of black clothes, a white shirt through which ran a blue stripe, and a derby hat. Besides his wife Smith left one child.

Mrs. Smith fears that her husband is suffering from some mental derangement. Before coming to Westfield the missing man lived at Newark for over sixteen years.

E. Ryder, of Yonkers, spent Monday visiting A. D. Thompson.

OFFER TO ASPHALT STATE'S HIGHWAYS

PHILADELPHIANS MAY REVOLUTIONIZE ROAD IMPROVEMENTS IN JERSEY.

Trenton, May 3.—Philadelphians promise to revolutionize the road improvement system of New Jersey, if State Road Commissioner Hutchinson, of this city, will give them the chance. They want to substitute asphalt for the macadam now used and make the highways dustless as well as better and more durable in other respects.

This proposed "settling" of the dust problem will be of great benefit and delight to the thousands of automobilists who tour the roads of the State, as well as to horsemen, and to the people who live adjacent to the public highways.

The Philadelphia offer comes from a company which proposes to build asphalt roads through country districts at the same cost as that of macadam, about $8,000 a mile. Country asphalt will not be like city asphalt, but the material is said to be far superior in many ways to the macadam now in vogue.

Sample Road.

The company wants to build a mile of road at some point to be designated by the commissioner in order to show what the new material will produce in the form of improved highway construction. The commissioner is likely to permit the test and to designate a place where the new road material will be given a thorough trial. The company guarantees all roads to last ten years without repair.

The New Jersey State Road Department has caught up with all arrears and is now doing business on a strictly cash basis. When Commissioner Hutchinson took hold of the office he put his foot down hard on the prevailing practice of approving and building roads in anticipation of money not yet in hand. He made public announcement that unless this year's Legislature made a special appropriation to carry the department through the present fiscal year on a cash basis, no more new roads would be authorized until the regular annual appropriation became available November 1 next. At that date it would have been too late to have started road building and as a consequence no new work would have been done this year.

The Legislature accordingly made a supplemental appropriation of $130,000 to clear up this year's road account and for the next fiscal year, beginning November 1, an appropriation of $20,000 was allowed.

STATE HOMOEOPATHS ELECT NEW OFFICERS.

State Meeting of Association of Men of Small Dose School.

The fifty-third annual session of the New Jersey State Homoeopathic Medical Society was held Tuesday morning and afternoon in the assembly chamber of the state house at Trenton.

Officers elected at the morning session were as follows: President, Dr. Edwin De Baun, Passaic; first vice president, Dr. Ella P. Upham, Asbury Park; second vice president, Dr. Charles F. Adams, Hackensack; third vice president, Dr. L. E. Griscom, Camden; recording secretary, Dr. Carl H. Wintsch, Newark; honorary corresponding secretaries, Dr. Wallace M. George, Camden, and Dr. Lason Dennis, Newark; corresponding secretary, Dr. Alfred Drury, Paterson; treasurer, Dr. F. Rabe, Weehawken; censors, Dr. B. H. Garrison, Red Bank; Dr. Charles H. Church, Newark; Dr. Anna J. Crowthers, Elizabeth; Dr. C. C. Straughn, Matawan; Dr. C. F. Hadley, Camden.

The opening prayer was made by Rev. J. Morgan Reed, D. D., of the First Methodist church, of Trenton, and Mayor Frederick W. Gnichtel made the address of welcome.

The work of the session was technical to the profession of medicine. Among the exhibits was one of the child born a few weeks ago in South Jersey with its heart on the outside of the body.

Papers were read by the following doctors: Bevier H. B. Sleight, M. D., Newark, "Cholelithias." Carl H. Wintsch, M. D., Newark, "Treatment of Pruritus Ani," and "Report of Case of Complete Cardiac Protrusion." William F. Beggs, M. D., Newark, "Nasal Obstructions, Its Causes and Treatment." Edward Hill Baldwin, M. AMERICAN LEAGUE.

The total receipts of the Detroit team in the South were less than $700, while expenses were more than $2,200. Manager Armour, however, was satisfied with the trip, as the team returned to Detroit in good condition to begin the league race.

The Cleveland team is undergoing a lot of reform under Larry Lajoie. Larry has forbidden poker playing among his men on the trips. He has threatened to fine the first man caught playing the game, as he says it keeps the men up late, and takes the speed out of them.

The Detroits played at Toledo, Pitcher Mullen's home town, on April 11, and on this occasion Mullen did himself proud, striking out six, giving but three hits and landing on the ball himself for two terrific drives, the second being clear over the armory, the longest hit for a home run ever made in Toledo.

Umpire Tim Hurst is now starring in a rubberneck automobile of his own invention. It is just like the others, except in Hurst's the scenery moves instead of the machine. He has a patent on the scheme and is making money with it in museums and will have it at Coney Island. His show is entitled "Seeing New York Under Canvas."

EASTERN LEAGUE.

Pitcher Good has joined the Montreal Club. It was reported that he had jumped to the outlaws.

President Harry Taylor, of the Eastern League, would like to see the sacrifice bunt eliminated.

Limrie, who is under contract to Manager Buckenberger, has been allowed to play again with Akron, Ohio.

McConnell, the new Buaffo first baseman, is six foot five in his stocking feet and it is said he can reach in every direction.

Mr. Barrow, of Toronto, says Yale will make a good first baseman, and Tommy Ronan is one of the most promising players in the squad.

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Pittsburg will return Dr. Moskiman to the Pacific Coast League.

In the absence of Joe Kelley, Tom Corcoran is acting captain of the Reds.

Pitcher Scanlon signed with Brooklyn on the opening day of the championship season.

Tommy Sheehan, Pittsburg's utility man, is another little "rabbit" like Tommy Leach.

Barney Dreyfuss says that the Pittsburgs are 30 per cent. stronger this season than last.

The New York Club has sold Substitute Infielder Clyde Robinson to the Pittsburg Club.

Outfielder "Bull" Smith, of Wheeling, remains with the Chicago Nationals as utility man.

The Chicago Club has released Pitcher Walter Mueller and will probably send Pitcher Dodge to Omaha.

Pitcher Reulbach, of Chicago, has cut out his old side-arm movement, and is doing better without it.

Bennett, the Southern second baseman, has shown as the best of the youngsters St. Louis recruited last fall.

PENN FOOTBALL.

Quakers Still Hold Open Date for Harvard.

Philadelphia, May 3.—The football schedule at the University of Pennsylvania has practically been arranged for the coming season. Only one date, Nov. 10, remains open and that is on account of the refusal of Harvard to give definite promise of another annual game with the Quakers. Michigan is the only new team the Red and Blue eleven will play this year, unless another eleven never played before is engaged for Nov. 10.

Possibly Princeton may be induced to arrange a game with Pennsylvania on that date. All the contests next fall as scheduled will take place on Franklin Field.

Providence, May 3.—By a vote of the stockholders of the Gorham Manufacturing Company Tuesday action was taken tending toward the consolidation of some of the largest silverware producing concerns in the country. RUNYON REFUSES JUDGESHIP unwilling to go into details.

"Judge, you've been offered the surrogateship, have you not?" said the Daily Press man.

"That's so, but I refused it," responded the genial young lawyer.

"How about the county judgeship; did you refuse that too?".

"Yes, both positions were offered to me but I have written the Governor saying that I could not conscientiously accept any office under the circumstances."

When asked why the Governor wanted to give him either one of the jobs, the Judge declared that he could impute no wrong motives to anyone but that in his position it would not be right for him to take office from the hands of the Republican organization when he has espoused the Colby principles.

He said that he had left the local organization's forces because he believed that there should be more popular government; government without dictation from a few men. That the defeat of John Cose was directly the cause of his joining the Colby forces, he denied, saying what he learned at that time opened his eyes to the real condition of affairs.

When he did retire, according to his own words, he intended to stay out of politics. A few days later Senator Colby called on him at his office and urged him to help the cause of reform. The picture painted by the Senator from Essex at that and subsequent conferences, Runyon said surprised him, and he then determined to do what he could to bring about a better condition of affairs politically.

Shortly afterwards he was invited to the Colby meeting at Elizabeth and on invitation of Chairman Jones made a speech in which he pledged himself to the reform movement. He was placed on the committee of five to arrange a big meeting of Colbyites, which will be held in Elizabeth tomorrow night. The Colby League of Union county will be organized at that time and it is expected that Runyon will be asked to become permanent chairman of the league which will do battle with the Republican organization next fall.

NEW DOCTOR IN TOWN.

Former Army Surgeon Settles Here After Looking About for Location.

Dr. Harold D. Corbusier, recently of the U. S. Army, has settled in this city as a general practitioner. He has rented a house on Watchung avenue, on the South side.

Dr. Corbusier has had a somewhat adventurous life since leaving college in 1899. Right after graduating from the University of Michigan, Dr. Corbusier was appointed a surgeon in the service. He was with the army in China during the Boxer insurrection, and afterwards saw service in troubled districts in the Philippines. He left the army a few months ago, and went to New York before looking about for a place in which to settle. One of his friends told him of Plainfield, and after an inspection of the city he decided it was the location he desired.

Dr. Corbusier is a comparatively young man, and married.

ADMITS THAT DUKE GAVE HER STOCK

BUT MISS SANDS' DIRECT TESTIMONY REMAINS UNSHAKEN.

Neither Mrs. Lillian N. Duke, the defendant, nor Frank T. Huntoon, named as co-respondent, was present when the trial of the suit for divorce brought by James B. Duke was resumed before Vice-Chancellor Pitney at Newark yesterday. Samuel Kalisch, of counsel for Mrs. Duke,, in a letter read by Chauncey G. Parker, who is associated with Mr. Kalisch in the case, explained that as he was engaged in another suit in the Circuit Court, he would like to have the hearing put off until this afternoon. The court, however, denied the request.

Mr. Parker supplemented Mr. Kalisch's request with a statement to the effect that his absent associate had especially prepared himself for the cross-examination of Miss Nellie Sands, Mrs. Duke's former maid, who last week gave damaging testimony against her former mistress. The vice chancellor replied that even if the defense did not feel like proceeding with the cross-examination of Miss Sands, counsel would go on with the affirmative case against the petitioner.

Mr. Parker, however, went on with the cross-examination. In answer to his preliminary questions Miss Sands told that she was "more than twenty-five years old" and a native of Norway, from where she came to America nine years ago. She first entered the employ of Mrs. Duke when the defendant was Mrs. McCready. It was Mr. Huntoon's habit, witness said, to visit at Mrs. McCready's house about three times a week, and he kept on coming after her marriage to Mr. Duke.

On the night of August 30 witness said she met Mr. Duke at Fifth avenue and Sixty-seventh street, New York, and was informed by him that he had caught Mrs. Duke. This, witness said, had made her cry, and she asked Mr. Duke to forgive Mrs. Duke. Mr. Duke told her that he never would forgive his wife, and she then accompanied him in a cab to the home of Junius Parker.

"I was very much astonished, and made up my mind that I couldn't go back, as I couldn't take her part," witness said in explanation of her remaining away from Mrs. Duke's house after the disclosure of Mrs. Duke's alleged relations with Huntoon.

"Haven't you told people that you were kidnapped?" Mr. Parker asked.

"No, sir. I never mentioned any such thing to anybody," witness answered.

Witness admitted having received a diamond ring from Mr. Duke as a Christmas present, but said that it was given to replace one that Mr. and Mrs. Duke had given to her and she had lost. She told also of a gift from Mr. Duke of ten shares of stock of the American Tobacco Company, with the explanation that it had been promised to her by Mr. Duke on the day of his marriage to Mrs. Duke. Witness denied in response to other questions that she knew anything about Mrs. Duke being watched while she was in the latter's employ or that Mr. Duke had promised to be a father to her.

"I didn't speak to Mrs. Duke after August 30," Miss Sands explained, "because I knew I would have to go on either side, and I couldn't go on her side. I would rather have taken her part, though."

After Mr. Parker got through with his cross-examination of Miss Sands, Alan H. Strong, counsel for Huntoon, subjected her to a searching questioning, but her direct testimony remained unshaken.

When Mr. Strong got through with the witness, the vice chancellor directed the defense to go on with its side of the case. Mr. Strong thereupon moved in behalf of his client that the petition be dismissed on the ground that the court has no jurisdiction. There was no proof, he said, of the residence of either petitioner or defendant in New Jersey. Mr. Strong also made the point that in the earlier jurisdictional phase of the case his client had not been made a party to the proceedings, and that this omission vitiated the entire proceedings.

The vice chancellor, however, ruled against this contention, and Mr. Parker called as his first witness Fred Reinert, a city surveyor of New York City, who produced maps showing the location of 68 West Sixty-eighth street, New York city, the home of Mrs. Duke.

The Loyal Daughters Circle, King's Daughters, of Netherwood, is packing a box to be sent to the San Francisco sufferers and an earnest appeal is made to the public for clothes, shoes, or in fact anything in good condition, that will be of use to the people who have been bereft and made destitute by the great calamity which has befallen San Francisco. The box has already been augmented by a gift of twenty-five dollars from the circle, which has been sent to The Daily Press to be forwarded with other subscriptions. Donations will be gratefully received at the residences of Mrs. A. B. Davies, of Belvidere avenue, and Mrs. L. M. Archer, of Woodland avenue.

CHURCH EUCHRES ARE GAMBLING, HE SAYS

ERSEY CITY JUDGE SAYS PLAYERS CAN BE ARRESTED.

Every clergyman in Jersey City who permits euchre-playing for prizes and every person who participates in the game is liable to arrest and indictment. Judge James D. Manning, of the Second Criminal Court, made this announcement yesterday in giving a decision in the case of several men arrested recently in a raid on the Tenth Ward Democratic Club's headquarters, No. 576 Newark avenue.

The prisoners were charged by Detective Sergeant Monahan, who is attached to Mayor Fagan's office, with gambling. When the raid took place the accused men, all of whom are members of the political club, were engaged in a game of poker. Monahan confiscated the chips that each player had before him on the table.

Former Assistant District-Attorney Noonan, a member of the club, represented the defendants at the hearing, which took place yesterday before Judge Manning.

Questioned by Mr. Noonan, Detective Monahan said he did not understand how the game of poker was played. He had never gambled at cards, he said, and did not know what was meant by a "kitty." He declared that when he entered the card-room seven men were seated at the table, and each had chips piled up before him. One of the defendants, Monahan said, remarked that he had just won a full pot.

"By that," said Counsellor Noonan, "he meant he had won a full pot of coffee."

Monahan did not dispute the statement.

Roundsman Langan, of the Oakland avenue station, was called as an expert to explain how poker is played. Counsellor Noonan interposed an objection, and said:

"I have played the game all my life and I am not qualified to testify as an expert. The more I play the game the less I know about it."

Urging the discharge of the prisoners, Counsellor Noonan said there was no proof of gambling. He also insisted that the police had no more right to go into the club headquarters and make arrests than they had to invade a private home and raid whist games.

"The law governing card playing," Mr. Noonan said, "was never intended to apply to these men. To take the law literally a man playing cards in his own home is a criminal, and every clergyman who encourages euchre in his church where prizes are offered are criminals. They are guilty of keeping disorderly houses. They can all be indicted under this law, and every man or woman who plays at these euchres can be indicted for gambling."

Judge Manning decided to hold the prisoners for the Grand Jury. In reply to Mr. Noonan's remarks he said:

"If any one makes complaint to me that a clergyman is conducting a euchre or any other kind of card game I shall be forced by the law to hold him for the Grand Jury in the same manner that I now hold these defendants. If it is proved that the clergymen encourage the playing of any game for money or valuables they are guilty of gambling."

As a result of Judge Manning's interpretation of the law it is believed there will be fewer church euchres than formerly and whist parties will be on the lookout for the police.

BRINGS SUIT OVER TAXES.

City of Elizabeth Will Be a Party Defendant in Personal Assessment Case.

Elizabeth, May 3.—Suit has been started in the Court of Chancery between the Electric Storage Battery Company of New York and Louis L. Rebouiln and others, in which this city has been made a party defendant. The suit is being brought by the storage battery company and Mr. Rebouiln to prove the city's right to assess personal property.

According to an explanation made by the city attorney, James C. Connolly, the city taxed the property of the E. Rebouiln Fils Company for real and personal property. Before the taxes were paid the company went into the Bankruptcy Court, and the taxes have not yet been paid. The Electric Storage Battery Company of New York had the prior lien upon the property, and, while it was willing to pay the taxes on the real property, it questioned the right of the city to assess its personal property.

WANTS HER HUSBAND DECLARED LEGALLY DEAD.

Trenton Woman Takes This Action to Have Will Probated.

Trenton, May 3.—Chancellor Magie heard argument yesterday afternoon upon the application made by Mrs. Charlotte Sternkopf, of Newark, to probate the will of her husband, Edwin Sternkopf, who mysteriously disappeared from his home nearly eight years ago, and has not been heard from since. The application is somewhat unusual inasmuch as it invokes the power of the Prerogative Court to declare a person legally dead. The witnesses examined were Mrs. Sternkopf, Frederick T. Hey and Edwin Sternkopf, Jr., of 16 Warwick street, Newark, who is the eldest son of the testator.

According to the story of Mrs. Sternkopf, who was represented by Charles F. Kocher, of Newark, her husband left his home at about 5:30 o'clock in the morning of July 31, 1898, before the rest of the family had arisen. Nothing was heard from him until August 2, when his wife received a package by express containing cash amount to about $500 in gold and bills, and a silver watch, which was identified as her husband's. The timepiece was wrapped in a bill-of-fare of a Long Branch hotel, and, with the money, was in a cigar box. In the box there was a paper on which was written the following:

"Ich brauche kein geld mehr, Ich bekomme arbeit," which means: "I will not need any more money, I expect to get work."

Mr. Sternkopf left an estate valued at about $30,000, part of the realty of which he held in his own name and part jointly with his wife. His will appointed his wife executrix and bequeathed to her a life interest in his entire estate. Upon the death of his wife $500 was to go to the daughter and the remainder in equal parts to the three sons, Edwin, William and Frederick. The daughter, Mrs. Caffrey, is issue by a former wife of Sternkopf, the sons being the children of the present Mrs. Sternkopt.

The case, which was taken directly to the Prerogative Court, will be further argued before the chancellor in Newark, May 21.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning May 6.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Among the wheat or the tares—where am I?—Matt. xiii, 24-30. (Consecration meeting.)

The parable of the tares is one that is easily understood and also easy of interpretation. It is one of the sad parables of Christ. It sets forth the fact that God has an enemy and the further fact that man has an enemy, willing and desiring to destroy his soul. An enemy of the body is bad enough, but an adversary of the soul is infinitely worse. God sows wheat, but amid this very wheat sown by God Satan sows tares, and tares are not only worthless in themselves, but also injurious to the best development of the wheat. But to bodily uproot the tares endangers the very life of the wheat, and hence Christ declares that wheat and tares are to be allowed to grow until the harvest, when they can safely be separated.

The parable of the tares seems to declare against all discipline in the church. But this cannot be its significance. Discipline is clearly taught in other portions of the Scriptures, and Scripture cannot contradict Scripture, for that would be God contradicting Himself, which is an utter impossibility. It must mean, therefore, that there must be a patient, tolerant spirit in the church of Christ because of the impossibility of having a perfectly pure church in this world and because extreme intolerance always does more harm than good. Not every trivial offense must be made a subject of discipline by the church. No standard of perfection is to be set up or demanded. If so the church would soon have no members and no adherents, for no one lives a perfect life.

The weakness of human nature is to be taken into consideration and instead of the church being in a continual agitation by the disciplinement of its members it is to be cautious and conservative, forbearing and long suffering, trying to win back by "the spirit of meekness" all who have gone astray. The church is not infallible. What seems to it to be tares may be wheat, and what seems to be wheat is very often found to be but tares. The apostles may have been suspicious of Judas, but they waited for God to expel him from their fellowship. The early church may have had some doubts as to the character of Ananias and Sapphira, but it waited for God to expose them and to punish them.

The topic puts the question of wheat and tares where it should be put. There always have been and are today in our churches and Endeavor societies two classes of members—the good and the bad. And each one should answer for himself the question as to which class he belongs. We ourselves know or can know by self examination whether we are wheat or tares. We know our motives in confessing Christ. We know why we are members of Christ's church. We know the kind of lives that we are living and whether our hearts are really right with God or not. Let us search ourselves deeply and pass judgment only upon ourselves and leave the judgment of others where it belongs—with God. Ask yourself the question in the most searching way possible. Am I wheat or tares? If wheat, thank God and do more for Him. If tares, do not even pull yourself out of God's vineyard. God can transform tares into wheat. In any field he could make the stubbles and thistles good grain. Desire that He transform you. Ask Him to do so, and He will do it, and you'll be no longer a hindrance to the growth of others, but a help to them. Do it, and do it now.

President of the Irish Union.

Rev. John Pollock is a past master in many arts, from the sketching of a pretty design for a convention badge to the drafting of a constitution for a national union. The latter has recently been claiming his attention, and as a result they are to have a capital constitution for the European Christian Endeavor union, which will probably come into existence next July, when the world's Christian Endeavor convention meets in Geneva. Rev. John Pollock is chairman of the provincial committee. He has written many of the Christian Endeavor songs most used in the British isles. His present pastorate is in Belfast, Ireland.

TO KILL THE DANDRUFF GERM.

Is the Only Possible Way of Having An Effective Cure.

If you see a woman or a man with luxuriant glossy hair, you may be sure neither has dandruff to amount to anything. In nearly every case where women and men have thin brittle hair, they owe it to dandruff. There are hundreds of preparations that "claim" to cure dandruff, but not one but Newbro's Herpicide tells you that dandruff is the result of a germ burrowing into the scalp, and that permanent cure of dandruff and its consequent falling and baldness, can only be had by killing the germ; and there is no other preparation that will destroy that germ but Newbro's Herpicide. "Destroy the cause, and you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

May 6: "Our Call to Service"—John xv, 16; xvii, 18; Acts i, 8; Rev. xxii, 17; II Cor. ii, 3.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

We are called by Christ to service. Every one who professes to be His follower is commissioned to go forth and call others to discipleship. This is so inevitably a part of our Christian life that there is no surer test of our spiritual condition than the interest which we consciously have in the salvation of others.

The test of magnetism in the piece of steel is its power of affecting other pieces of steel. The test of our discipleship in Christ is our power to bring other men to the Master.

Yet how many who call themselves by His name have never seriously considered it any part of their work to be interested in the spiritual well being of others! How many people of your acquaintance ever spoke a sentence to you outside of meeting on any religious theme? To how many have you ever spoken on the matter of religion unless it was in some church service?

Some would be almost shocked if told they have any responsibility for the salvation of any one but themselves. Is not that the work we pay our minister to do, and if we pay him to do it why should we interfere in his work? This is the way some will put it.

It will be worse than useless to undertake to discharge these duties in a mechanical or routine fashion. Sometimes in periods of revival people with more zeal than discretion feel impressed with their duty to speak to the unconverted and urge them to seek salvation. Having but limited experience and scant sense of social amenities and proprieties, they frequently give grave offense and make mischief where they intended to do good.

The basis for all efficient service of any kind must be a deep and genuine interest in the ones to be reached. There must be heart sympathy for them. Any spirit of harshness will certainly defeat all good intentions. The soul that really and keenly feels for another has a bond which will have influence for good. Study of means of approach and methods of help will be sure to yield results of value. The earnest desire to be helpful to the Master will keep us in constant waiting on Him in the spirit of prayer for guidance and will so pervade us as to give our manners and speech a quality of attractiveness which will draw others to Him.

Let us remember that He has called us and we must call others. Let us make our whole being and all our words and acts one continuous call to men to seek Him.

Service For Christ.

In return for the love which brought the Son of Man down from heaven, in return for the love which led Him to die for us on the cross, we cannot give Him holy lives, for we are not holy; we cannot give Him pure souls, for our souls are not pure. But this one thing we can give, and this is what He asks—hearts that shall never cease from this day forward till we reach the grave to strive to be more like Him, to come nearer to Him, to root out from within us the sin that keeps us from Him. To such a battle I call you in His name. And even if at the last day you shall not be able to show any other service, yet be sure that when thousands of His saints go forth to meet Him and to show His triumph He will turn to embrace with arms of tenderness the poor penitent who has nothing to offer but a life spent in one never ceasing struggle with himself, an unwearied battle with the faults that had taken possession of his soul.—Frederick Temple.

Silent Worship.

Take time to be separate from all friends and all duties, all cares and all joys; time to be still and quiet before God. Take time not only to secure stillness from man and the world, but from self and its energy. Let the word and prayer be very precious, but remember even these may hinder the quiet waiting. The activity of the mind in studying the word or giving expression to its thoughts in prayer, the activities of the heart, with its desires and hopes and fears, may so engage us that we do not come to the still waiting on the All Glorious One. Though at first it may appear difficult to know how thus quietly to wait, with the activities of the mind and heart for a time subdued, every effort after it will be rewarded. We shall find that it grows upon us, and the little season of silent worship will bring a peace and a rest that give a blessing not only in prayer, but all the day.—Andrew Murray.

Very Near to Heaven.

We are very near to heaven
When the wondrous snowflakes fall,
When we hear the rippling brook
In the woodland's shady nook,
Or the wild bird's tuneful call.

We are very near to heaven
When we bask in sunshine bright,
When we see the steadfast stars
Or when cloud their brilliance bars
In the darkness of the night.

We are very near to heaven
Mid the vastness of the sea,
Whether calmly sails our bark
Or to dashing waves we hark
And the blast blows loud and free.

We are very near to heaven
In the presence of the young,
When at eventide the prayer
Passes upward through the air,
With their praises sweetly sung.

When we others' burdens bear,
When in friendship's fervent clasp
Some poor brother's hand we grasp
And with him our best we share.

When we soothe a troubled soul,
Seek the broken heart to bind
And with tender touch and kind
Strive to make the wounded whole.

THE SPENDERS

By HARRY LEON WILSON

Copyright, by Lothrop Publishing Company.

"Yes, do, Mr. Higbee! I do love those ragtime songs—and then have them play 'Tell Me, Pretty Maiden,' and the 'Intermezzo.'"

He groaned in anguish.

The talk ran mostly on practical affairs; the current values of the great staple commodities; why the corn crop had been light; what wheat promised to bring; how young Burman, of the Chicago board of trade, had been pinched in his own wheat corner for four millions—"put up" by his admiring father; what beef on the hoof commanded; how the Federal Oil company would presently own the state of Texas.

Almost every Barbarian at the table had made his own fortune. Hardly one but could recall early days when he toiled on farm or in shop or forest, herded cattle, prospected, sought adventure in remote and hazardous wilds.

"'Tain't much like them old days, eh, Higbee?" queried the crown prince of Cripple Creek—"when you and me had to walk from Chicago to Green Bay, Wisconsin, because we didn't have enough shillings for stage fare?" He gazed about him suggestively.

"Corn beef and cabbage was pretty good then, eh?" and with sure, vigorous strokes he fell to demolishing his filet de dinde a la Perigueux, while a butler refilled his glass with Chateau Malescot, 1878.

"Well, it does beat the two rooms madam and me started to keep house in when we was married," admitted the host. "That was on the banks of the Chicago river, and now we got the Hudson flowin' right through the front yard, you might say, right past our own yacht landing."

From old days of work and hardship they came to discuss the present and their immediate surroundings, social and financial.

Their daughters, it appeared, were being sought in marriage by the sons of those among whom they sojourned.

"Oh, they're a nice band of handshakers, all right, all right," asserted the gentleman from Kansas City. "One of 'em tried to keep company with our Caroline, but I wouldn't stand for it. He was a crackin' good shinny player, and he could lead them cotillon dances blowin' a whistle and callin', 'All right, Up!' or something, like a car starter—but, 'Tell me something good about him,' I says to an old friend of his family. Well, he hemmed and hawed—he was a New York gentleman, and says he: 'I don't know whether I could make you understand or not,' he says, 'but he's got Family,' just like that, bearin' down hard on 'Family'—'and you've got money,' he says, 'and Money and Family need each other badly in this town,' he says. 'Yes,' I says, 'I met up with a number of people here,' I says, 'but I ain't met none yet that you'd have to blindfold and back into a lot of money,' I says, 'family or no family,' I says. 'And that young man,' he says, 'is a pleasant, charming fellow; why,' he says, 'he's the best-coated man in New York.' 'Well, I looked at him and I says: 'Well,' says I, 'he may be the best-coated man in New York, but he'll be the best-booted man in New York, too,' I says, 'if he comes around trying to spark Caroline any more—or would be if I had my way. His chin's pushed too far back under his face,' I says, 'and besides,' I says, 'Caroline is being waited on by a young hardware drummer, a good steady young fellow traveling out of little old K. C.' I says, 'and while he ain't much for fam'ly,' I says, 'he'll have one of his own before he gets through,' I says; 'we start fam'lies where I come from,' I says."

"Good boy! Good for you," cheered the self-made Barbarians, and drank success to the absent disseminator of hardware.

With much loud talk of this unedifying character the dinner progressed to an end; through selle d'agneau, floated in '84 champagne, terrapin canvoyed by a special Madeira of 1850, and canvasback duck with Romanee Conti, 1865, to a triumphant finale of Turkish coffee and 1811 brandy.

A CAKE WALK.

After dinner the ladies gossiped of New York society, while the barbaric males smoked their big oily cigars and banqued reminiscences. Higbee showed them through every one of the apartment's 22 rooms, from reception hall to laundry, manipulating the electric lights with the skill of a stage manager.

The evening ended with a cake walk, for the musical artists had by rare wines been mellowed from their classic reserve into a mood of rag-time abandon. And if Monsieur the Baron with his ceremonious grace was less exuberant than the crown prince of Cripple Creek, who sang as he stepped the sensuous measure, his pleasure was not less. He enjoyed to observe that these men of incredible millions had no hauteur.

"I do not," wrote the baron to his noble father, the marquis, that night, "yet understand their joke; why should it be droll to wish that the man whose coat is of the best should also wear boots of the best? but as for what they call une promenade de gateau, I find it very enjoyable. I have met a Mlle. Bines, to whom I shall at once pay my addresses. Unlike Mlle. Higbee, she has not the father from Chicago nor elsewhere. Quel diable d'homme!"

CHAPTER X.

THE PATRICIANS ENTERTAIN.

To reward the enduring who read politely through the garish revel of the preceding chapter, covers for 14 are now laid with correct and tasteful quietness at the sophisticated board of that fine old New York family, the Milbreys. Shaded candles leave all but the glowing table in a gloom discreetly pleasant. One need not look so high as the old-fashioned stuccoed ceiling. The family portraits tone agreeably into the half-light of the walls; the huge old-fashioned walnut sideboard, soberly ornate with its mirrors, its white marble top and its wood-carved fruit, towers majestically aloft in proud scorn of the frivolous Chippendale fad.

Jarvis, the accomplished and incomparable butler, would be subdued and scholarly looking but for the flagrant scandal of his port-wine nose. He gives finishing little fillips to the white chrysanthemums massed in the central epergne on the long silver plateau, and bestows a last cautious survey upon the cut-glass and silver radiating over the dull white damask. Finding the table and its appointments faultless, he assures himself once more that the sherry will come on irreproachably at a temperature of 60 degrees; that the Burgundy will not fall below 65 nor mount above 70; for Jarvis wots of a palate so acutely sensitive that it never fails to record a variation of so much as one degree from the approved standard of temperature.

How restful this quiet and reserve after the color and line tumult of the Higbee apartment. There the flush and bloom of newness were oppressive to the right-minded. All smelt of the shop. Here the dull tones and decorous lines caress and soothe instead of overwhelming the imagination with effects too grossly literal. Here is the veritable spirit of good form.

MRS. APPLEGATE WELL AGAIN!

"I have had a bruised leg and foot for several years, caused by the brass eyelets of my shoes, which became very sore and painful especially at night. It itched, burned and ached me till it nearly set me crazy. I used everything I found and was suggested to ease it and nothing gave me any relief till I found and applied Azienza Cream which I think is a wonderful remedy for all sores and inflammation of the skin. The hard knots on my legs were as painful as bee stings, with discolored and purple spots. A running sore on my instep size of a half-dollar; the toe of my foot a seething sore clean around to my heel. The bone was sore for a whole year and very painful. I used five and one-half jars of Azienza Cream and healed the sore all up. The foot remained tender and I continued to use to strengthen and toughen the skin until now it is entirely well." (Signed) Mrs. Hannah Applegate, Evergreen Ave., Avon, N. J., Sept. 3rd, 1905. 50 cents. Ask the druggist or by mail. Azienza Specialties Co., Jersey City, N. J.

A. E. Force & Co., proprietors of "The White Store," are showing a most attractive line of dry goods for spring and summer wear, while every other department is just filled with new goods all at the lowest prices. AUTOMOBILE NOTES.

When Gasolene Pipe Breaks.

It is a good idea to carry with you a moderate-sized length of small rubber hose for an emergency which may rise at any time owing to a sudden rupture of the gasolene feed pipe running from the supply tank to the carbureter. A common cause of leakage is due to the gasolene pipe becoming unsoldered from the cone-shaped pocket at the bottom of the tank, and when this occurs the average automobilists is liable to be towed to the nearest repair shop unless he has a soldering outfit with him and can use it to advantage after the tank has become emptied. Even then, if he has no extra gasolene with him, he will be up against it. If you carry with you the small hose mentioned above, with one end of it fitted to a short length of small pipe, together with a gallon or two-gallon can of extra gasoline, you can manage to keep the car running, provided the spout to your extra can of gasoline is fitted with a cork stopper. The loose end of the rubber hose can be stretched over the fractured end of the gasoline pipe, the other end of the hose to which the short length of extra pipe is attached can be pushed through an improvised hole made in the cork stopper of the can of extra fuel, and by propping up or holding the can you are able to supply your motor with gasoline, and reach home or a place where repairs can be made.

Price of Ice at Elizabeth.

The price of ice in Elizabeth will not be advanced until after June 1. This statement was made today by Frederick H. Franklin, superintendent of the Elizabeth Ice Company, the largest plant in the city. He said that his company had enough on hand at present to last until the middle of June. After that the company would have to buy its supply on the market. He said the people of Elizabeth would not be charged an exhorbitant price for the commodity. The price here now is fifty cents a hundred. He thought it would go up to eighty cents, but no higher.

Final "Patience" Rehearsal.

The Plainfield Operatic Association held its final rehearsal of the comic opera "Patience," to be given at the Casino tonight. The entire company was customed and the score was rendered a very satisfactory manner, assuring a fine performance tonight. The tickets are selling very fast and a large house is expected. William Holmes, the director, promises that the production will be the best yet given by the amateurs.

"JIMMY" SAVED THE DAY

Bertwhistle's Yarn Sounds Like One of Sam Wilbur's Fishing Stories.

'TWAS DUMB LUCK

Two Men On Base and Two Out When "Jimmy's" Liner Is Caught By a Bull Terrier.

In speaking of lucky hits Jimmy Bertwhistle tells a good yarn which may be true—at any rate it is just as entertaining as some of the fishing yarns Freeholder Sam Wilbur is in the habit of spinning, especially after one of those Lake Hopatcong excursions.

It was in the days when "Jimmy" was "comin' out" when he played center field and donned the mask for the O. N. T. Club at Newark. The "threaders" were playing a game with the Irvington team and the score stood 3 to 3 in the tenth inning. The O. N. T.'s had two men on base, one on first and the other on second, with two men gone to the bad, and "Bertie" up at the bat with two strikes gone by.

The frenzied multitude exuded one united death rattle as "Bertie" missed his second swipe at the ball and was about to give up in despair when a sharp crack of the bat announced that the ball had been struck. It was a line hit that touched the short stop's mit and the ball bounded out into left field.

The fans went up in the air and in the midst of the exultation and joy making a brindle bull terrier leaped out of the breachers and skidooed after the ball. The canine gave the excited left fielder of the Irvington's a nervous shock and he didn't interfere with the brindle terrier. In fiendish joy the dog secured an everlasting grip of the ball and ran off with it to its master in the bleachers. The three runs crossed the plate and the O. N. T.'s won the day, and great was the rejoicing thereof, declares "Jimmy."

A Philadelphia fan would classify that as "dumb New York luck."

The much touted "Rube" Ramsay, the former High Bridge terror in the pitching line, always had a burning desire to play ball in Plainfield. Flemington is represented with a strong team this season with Ramsay in the box. It wouldn't be a bad idea for Manager Daab to make an effort to hook on a game with the rural aggregation from old Hunterdon.

Plainfield players who make home runs in the opening game Saturday will be presented with pairs of shoes by Morris C. Van Arsdale. Mr. Van Arsdale has always been an enthusiastic rooter for the Plainfield team and is always anxious to do anything to boom the sport. He may decide to let the offer stand for every Saturday.

"Billy" Dalton's Yonkers team opened up the season Sunday with a defeat at the hands of the Tuckahoe's, score 3 to 0.

Did you ever see Bob Fitzsimmons in a ball game? If you haven't don't miss the opportunity to be present at the opening game on Saturday. It will be the biggest attraction ever presented to local baseball fans. A pennant raising, B. Fitz umpiring, and to make it a complete success all that is required is plenty of sunshine and a victory over the All Cubans.

It's too bad that Manager Conklin can't have his own way and arrange a series with Plainfield.

Willie Deegan is planning to tender a reception to members of the Plainfield team one week from Saturday night at his Scotch Plains booze emporium. A steak dinner is the main feature, after which the members will be invited to participate in the regular Saturday evening village dance.

George McComb has started already to boom an association football team. From the tone of his talk it begins to look like the West End being represented with the British sport in the fall.

"Zeke" Barnes on first base for the Clinton Avenues is considered the fastest first sacker in the amateur ranks around these parts. "Zeke" is not only taking care of his territory but he is slamming the ball pretty hard.

George Whitley is working his arm out in practice every night and is open to play with the local team.

"Teddy" Overton will catch for East Millstone this season while Mintford, the former crack twirler of Leal's school, will officiate on the slab.

Our esteemed "culled" friend John Venable announces the fact that he will be on hand at the game Saturday prepared to back his favorites, the All Cubans, to the limit.

Patrons of the grandstand are wondering whether Mr. Dooley and his ponderous voice will be on hand. If he isn't he will be missed.

The Plainfield High School team will play the sophomore class team of Rutgers College at New Brunswick on Saturday.

The Plainfield High School second team will meet the Whittier team on Crescent Oval today.

S. W. Rushmore's Auto Balks.

Samuel W. Rushmore, of this city, accompanied by two women, was making a flying trip in his auto touring car through Elizabeth this morning, when the car got stuck on the trolley tracks in Broad street and refused to go. A trolley car was approaching at a lively rate of speed and the motorman was unable to stop quick enough to prevent striking the machine. The damage to the auto and car was slight. In the course of fifteen minutes Mr. Rushmore fixed his machine and started off for Plainfield.

ELIZABETH SENDS $5,000.

San Francisco Sufferers Get $4,000 and Santa Rosa $1,000.

Elizabeth, May 3.—Through the Citizens' Bank $4,000 was wired from Elizabeth yesterday to San Francisco to go toward the work of relief there. The sum of $1,000 was sent in the same way to Santa Rosa, Cal.

It was decided to distribute the money in this way at a meeting of the Mayor's relief committee last evening. Besides the money that has been forwarded from here through the lodges, churches, and the $5,000 from the Singer employees, Treasurer P. J. Ryan reported that he had $6,200 on hand from general subscriptions. The Rev. J. E. Stuchell, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who lived for eight years in the Santa Clara valley, where the damage was heavy, called the attention of the committee to the fact that the extent of the disaster in the small towns had been lost sight of on account of the mignitude of the calamity in San Francisco. He suggested that money be sent to some of the smaller places. From information he had from relatives he believed that Santa Rosa was the most in need. Several bales of goods will be forwarded by Adams Express, the transportation being free.

Subscriptions are still coming to the Mayor and Mr. Ryan. The remaining money in the local fund will be sent as the committees decide.

BELCHER'S EFFECTS SOLD.

The household effects of William H. Belcher in his former home, No. 655 East Twenty-ninth street, Paterson, N. J., were sold at auction yesterday by order of Daniel C. Campbell, trustee of the bankrupt estate of the fugitive ex-Mayor.

There was a large crowd at the sale and the goods brought fair prices. The interest of the bidders seemed to centre on the library. A large number of books were sold. Among them was a copy of "The Golden Treasure," which was a gift to Belcher after he became Mayor. The flyleaf was inscribed "Presented to His Honor William Henry Belcher, Worthy Mayor of Paterson."

An antique clock brought $50 and a piano was sold for $165. The former Mayor's law library will be sold later.

German Reformed Entertainment.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the German Reformed church there will be an entertainment in the church, tonight, at which time the articles left over from the fair will be disposed of.

Lewis T. Rogers and family, of Madison avenue, who have been been spending the winter at Daytona, Fla., returned home last night.

The Christian Missionary Alliance will meet tomorrow afternoon at 3:15 o'clock at the W. C. T. U. rooms for prayer and Bible study.

ALL IS READY FOR UMPIRE TO YELL "PLAY BALL"

Plainfield Club's Season Opens Tomorrow Afternoon Here.

ON CRESCENT OVAL

Mayors of City and Borough to Hoist Championship Pennant—"Lanky" "Bob" to Umpire the Bases.

Baseball will be king tomorrow. On Crescent Oval in the afternoon the season of 1906 will be ushered in with due pomp and ceremony and on such elaborate plans as never before witnessed in this city. It will be a great day for local fandom and for all lovers of the great American pastime.

Recollections of the struggle for supremacy and the glorious victories over Westfield last season, together with the magnificent record made by the team, will be called back to the minds of hundreds by the swinging to the breeze, the flag, emblematic of the Union County championship—the first pennant Plainfield has ever seen or heard of since the days of the old Crescent League.

The ceremony of hoisting the flag will take place promptly at 3:45 o'clock and will be participated in by Mayor James F. Buckle, of the city, Mayor N. B. Smalley, of the borough, as well as other prominent citizens, including "Bob" Fitzsimmons, who is now residing here. Mr. Fitzsimmons generously promised Mayor Smalley to be present and add his mite toward making the opening of the season successful in every way. The fighter is a warm baseball fan himself and is well up in all points of the game. In view of these attainments he has consented to assist Umpire Merrity in judging the plays. At his own suggestion, Mr. Merrity will look out for the ball and strike end while he will judge the bases.

The fact of the well known and popular boxer being present will alone attract a host who have never thought of him as a real live actor or participant in the national sport. After the preliminary exercises of hoisting the pennant the game between the Plainfields and All Cubans will be started. Both teams will be on the field early and indulge in practice. The Plainfield players will leave New York on the 1:20 express, arriving here at 2:11. Through the generosity of Proprietor Jerome Leary, of the Hotel Iroquois, a special dressing room has been arranged, provided with hot and cold water, where the players will dress before and after the game. They will be taken to and from the grounds in a bus, while the visiting team will prepare itself for the fray at the dressing room on the grounds.

Realizing the fact that Plainfield fans are desirous of seeing first-class ball games Manager Daab made no mistake in booking the All Cubans as a star attraction. The Cubans appeared here twice last season and ran away with two games—both heartbreaking struggles to lose. In Hoboken, with the same team against them, the situation was reversed and there they lost two games, thereby quitting the season with honors even. The brilliant playing of the Cubans won for them many admirers in this city and they will be given a royal welcome when Umpire Merrity pulls the bell tomorrow.

The Plainfield team will present a strong front. Jack O'Neill will occupy his old position behind the bat. His playing was gilt edged last season and will be the same this season. He is glad to return here and will need no introduction to the Plainfield public.

In the box Manager Daab will operate either Willie Deegan or Phil Smith, the local High School box artist, who made a reputation for himself last season against Westfield. There is no doubt that Smith is a comer and will be put in action regularly this season.

The team as a whole is a slugging aggregation, hard hitters, fast base runners and brilliant fielders. Henriques, who takes Driscoll's place on the initial bag this season, is no stranger to Plainfield fans. His work with the Hobokens so far this season has been excellent. He has shown his sticking abilities and has worked fast on the base. Wilson, who will coyer second, is another hustler. Having the benefit of several years of experience in the western association he will add power to the team. Wilson is also a substitute catcher and will be prepared to help O'Neill out if occasion requires. "Tommy" Curley, the new short stop, is a jew-

FOUR RUNAWAYS CAUGHT.

Little Boys, None Over Twelve Years, Captured by Railroad Policeman.

Somerville, May 4.—Four runaway boys, ranging in age from five to seven years, were captured by Special Policeman Michael orcoran, of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, Wednesday night in a freight train which stopped at the Raritan station, one mile from here. The runaways said they were bound for the West and had boarded the train at Plainfield, where they lived with their parents.

The boys gave their names as David Freeman, Ernest Waldron, Patrick Honan and George Blim. Blim is a negro. The boys were cold and hungry, and were glad to be captured. They cried themselves to sleep in their cells in the Somerset county jail last night. The authorities are now making an effort to communicate with the boys' parents at Plainfield.

Fitz is already getting in shape and he is confident that he will be in championship form when he steps into the ring on Decoration day.

NOW OWN DAY NURSERY

COSTS BUT $2,600

Mr. McCutchen Raises Part of Consideration and Mrs. Reed Provides for the Transfer.

Plainfield City Union, King's Daughters, at its annual meeting yesterday, authorized the purchase of the property it now occupies as a Day Nursery, located at 444 West Third street. The possibility of losing the property, which is owned by Miss Carney, resulted in quick action on the part of the union.

It was arranged to have the treasurer pay to Miss Carney $600 in cash, and the balance of the purchase price, $2,000, remain as a mortgage on the property. The president, Mrs. Charles A. Reed, and the secretary, Mrs. A. M. Laggren, were authorized to sign the deeds. This will save the union a monthly rental of $18, which can be used to pay the interest on the mortgage. Since it has been incorporated it was necessary to adopt new bylaws. The incorporators will serve as the trustees for the coming year.

The executive committee of the union met yesterday morning and heard a report from the Day Nursery committee. This showed that since the nursery was opened on January 23 last there has been cared for 675 children. There were 220 children at the nursery last month and the work is constantly growing.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Charles A. Reed, who, without compensation, attended to the work of incorporation, and to Samuel St. John McCutchen for his assistance in raising $600 with which to make a payment on the Day Nursery property. Miss Carney received two other offers for the property at about $3,000.

The report of the treasurer showed that the receipts were $815.90, and after meeting expenses there is a snug balance on hand. Mrs. W. L. C. Glenney, chairman of the nurse committee, presented an excellent report. This showed that for the year the city nurse made 862 visits, 156 pieces of clothing, etc., have been contributed to the Day Nursery from the nurse's closet, and $13.80 was received from pay patients. There is now a balance of $6.85 on hand.

Mrs. A. E. Faber's first annual report of the Day Nursery work was read. The nursery was opened on January 23 last, at 444 West Third street. At that time 348 packages of groceries and useful articles were received. Since then there have been numerous gifts, including two subscriptions to magazines. There has been on an average of nine children at the nursery every day, fifteen being the largest for any one day and three the smallest. There has been received $32.75 from the five cents a day charge for each child. Special mention was made of the services of Dr. Albert Pittis and Miss Olive DeLany, the nurse, who visits the nursery daily.

Encouraging reports were received from a majority of the circles in the union showing that the past year has been one of prosperity. All have contributed toward the support of the city nurse, the Children's Home, the Day Nursery, the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, while many circles have assisted a number of families. The circles represented pledged a total of $995 toward the support of the city nurse and the work for the coming year. The circles reporting and the amounts pledged are as follows:

Charity Circle, $150; Cheerful Workers, $60, an increase of $10; Daughters of the Cross, $250; Brightside Circle, $15; Whatsoever Circle, Park Avenue Baptist church, $15; Golden Rule Circle, $25; Cup Bearers Circle, $75; Silver Cross Circle, $100; Loyal Daughters, $150, an increase of $50; Benevolent Band, $150.

The City Union now has a total membership of 329, an increase of twenty-eight over last year. One new circle, the Emanuel, of Faith chapel, with a membership of ten, was admitted to the union. It was announced that Whatsoever Circle, of Trinity Reformed church, had disbanded. With a few slight changes the bylaws are about the same as those used before the incorporation. The trustees will serve until May, 1907, while the officers' terms will be for one year.

A suggestion by Mrs. Josiah Browne was that at the annual meeting the business be transacted in the morning, a luncheon served at noon at the expense of each member and that the afternoon be devoted to an address by some prominent charity worker. The idea will be taken up by the officers.

WILL BUILD 50 HOUSES

OPERATORS CONTRACT

Big Corporation In New York Buys Over 100 Lots and Agrees to Put Up Residences at Once.

Within a year, according to plans announced this morning in connection with a big realty deal, fifty houses will spring up in Highland Park, located on what was known as the Mulford Cole farm.

Over a hundred lots in the park have been sold to the L. W. Spear Real Estate Corporation, one of the largest companies of its kind in New York, and the management has taken steps to put moderate sized houses on fifty of them without delay. The company has contracted with the Highland Park Realty Company, of which Elston M. French is president, to erect fifteen houses within ninety days, and have the other thirty-five up within a year. The sale price of the lots to the Spear corporation was made by Elston M. French's agency.

The development of its Highland Park holdings by the Spear company will do a lot to maintain and boost the boom in Plainfield realty. They will advertise their Plainfield property largely in the New York papers and other high class advertising mediums, spreading the knowledge of the city's good points before millions of people. The Spear office in this city will be in the McCutchen building, where, through Mr. French's agency, the corporation has rented a store on a long lease. All their local operations will be directed from this point.

The success of Highland Park as a field for residential development is assured. Nearly 200 lots have been sold there. F. L. C. Martin is among the recent purchasers. He bought a number of fine sites.

In connection with the proposed operations of the Spear Corporation, it is interesting to note that L. W. Spear, president and manager of the company, will make his residence in this city. Mr. French brought all the beauties of the city before him, and it was not a hard task to induce him to become a Plainfielder. He has rented the handsome residence owned by Mrs. Eugene A. Gross, 722 West Seventh street. Mr. Spear is one of the brightest real estate operators in New York, and his personal interest in the city will make him one of the great factors in its development.

WEDDING CEREMONY OF 50 YEARS AGO REPEATED.

Feature at Anniversary Celebration Given by Mr. and Mrs. Herman Killer.

Gathering a large number of friends about them at the home of their son-in-law, Herman Klinsman, of Harrison avenue, last night, Mr. and Mrs. Christian Keller, of that thoroughfare, celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding. The guests included two daughters, Mrs. Klinsman and Mrs. H. Kreutzfeldt, seven grandchildren and one great-grandchild, Herman Waters. Rev. Paul Mergler, of New York, who married Mr. and Mrs. Keller in New York in 1856, was also present and "tied the knot" just as he did a half century before. The only other guest at the original wedding who is living is Mr. Keller's brother, Jacob Keller, of the borough, but he was unable to attend the celebration because of illness.

Features of the gathering were vocal and instrumental music, the latter being continued until midnight. The celebrants received many gifts, one of them a gold mounted pipe to Mr. Keller. It was presented to him by his great-grandchild, Herman Waters, a very small boy but able to make the "speech."

Friends from a distance who were present came from New York, Bayonne, Newark and other places.

PARROT DECLINES BERTH

Surrogate Refuses County Judgeship on Account of Ill Health.

COMMEND MR. RUNYON

Opinion, However, On Plainfielder's Declination Somewhat Divided —Some Political Chat.

Opinion regarding the wisdom of Judge Runyon in declining the county judgeship and the surrogateship when offered by Goverrntor Stokes, as told exclusively in The Daily Press yesterday, appears to be much divided. Outside of the regular Republican organization here there seems to be general approval of his action. The anti-administration forces took the offer as a bait and declared that the young leader, who is now in the Colby ranks, did only the proper thing in turning down any plum offered by the State organization.

It is reported that former County Chairman Hamilton F. Kean was the man who wanted to have the office of judgeship go to Runyon in the first instance. He is said to be very friendly to the Plainfielder and wrote the Governor asking for his appointment. Today Judge Runyon was amazed when told that some of the leaders had not given up hope. He stated emphatically that his decision was final and that he would continue to work in the reform movement.

No less an authority than County Chairman Frank H. Smith is responsible for the statement that Surrogate George T. Parrot will not be county judge. He declared last night that the position had originally been offered to Parrot but that the latter had declined. Ill health was the cause of his refusal to be elevated to the bench.

It is quite certain that Judge Benjamin Vail will be advanced to the Circuit Court but the appointment is not likely to be made until someone is found who will become county judge. Among the names mentioned for the place today was that of Winfield S. Angleman, of this city. Several politicians spoke favorably of him but what his real strength is cannot be learned.

MISS WOODCOCK BRIDE OF DR. F. T. CLAWSON

CEREMONY PERFORMED IN PRESENCE OF 150 GUESTS.

At the home of the bride's parents on West Seventh street at 7:30 last evening, Miss Marion D. Woodcock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Woodcock, was made the wife of Dr. Frank T. Clawson, also a resident of West Seventh street. The ceremony was performed in the parlor, prettily decorated with apple blossoms, palms, ferns and smilax, by Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church. Guests numbering 150 were in attendance from this city, New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Newark, Rahway, New Rochelle, N. Y., and El Paso, Texas.

Miss Woodcock wore a gown of white crepe de chine, trimmed with lace, and a tulle veil. She carried a bouqet of lillies-of-the-valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Ellena Woodcock, as maid of honor, whose gown was of pink crepe de chine. Her bouquet was of bride roses. R. D. Rice, of this city, was best man and Dr. Marc Clawson and Dr. O. B. Whitford were the ushers. The bridal party was preceded by Miss Margaret Rice as flower girl, carrying a hat filled with sweet peas. She was dressed in white mulle. The bride was given away by her father. William Dunn played the wedding march.

Following the ceremony a reception was held during which Dr. and Mrs. Clawson were the recipients of hearty congratulations. A collation was served afterward and at its conclusion the bride and groom departed amid showers of confetti for a southern wedding trip. They will visit several points of interest and on returning will make their home on West Seventh street.

The decorations throughout the house were very pretty, a color scheme of pink and white being maintained. The dining room was all in roses and carnations and in the hall flowers of the same hue were set off by a profusion of smilax.

The bride and groom have hosts of friends in the city and elsewhere as was attested by the large number of presents they received. They comprised silverware, pictures, cut glass, bric-a-brac and furniture. Dr. Clawson has practiced dentistry in Plainfield for a long time and is a recognized authority in the profession.

CODINGTON SLATED FOR COUNTY ATTORNEY AGAIN

TWO CONCERNS LOOK HERE FOR LOCATIONS

ONE $750,000 CAPITALIZATION WANTS GIFTS AND PERQUISITES.

Two factory propositions were brought before the Board of Trade at its meeting last night, in communications received by Secretary F. H. Smith. Both seekers after sites want gifts from the city or citizens.

John A. Thompson, 35 Wall street, says he is looking for two and one-half acres, on which an automobile factory is to be put up by a $750,000 company, which has just been organized. The company wants the two and one-half acres for nothing, exemption from taxes for six years, and $15,000 in subscriptions to preferred stock from citizens. Mr. Thompson didn't mention anything else the promoters wanted, but his last letter was written in a hurry and he may have forgotten one or two things.

The second proposition is from a cut glass factory in Lawrenceville, Pa. It gives work to 100 men and is running, seemingly, steadily. The owners want to move nearer to New York. The welcome they want from the city is not so expensive—just a suitable building deeded over to them after a certain stipulatory period of activity, with so many men employed, has passed.

Both propositions were referred to committee. The board was not wildly excited over them.

An answer from the Central Railroad regarding the kick on the curtailment of fast service to New York was read by Secretary Smith. The company says it took the Philadelphia-New York trains from this station because the service was inaugurated for the benefit of long haul traffic, and the needs of that traffic dictated the arrangement of the schedule, and not those of the stoppoints. The express service from here to New York was better, as it was, than the service to or from any town of the same approximate distance from New York on any road.

Two Hours of Laughter.

"Variety is the Spice of Life"—"Originality the Spice of Oshkosh." In fact Oshkosh this year is brimfull of spice, both various and original, and the third annual performance on the evenings of Friday and Saturday, May 11 and 12, will be extremely novel and entertaining. The cast contains the names of well-known amateurs who have held the most prominent places in all the successful shows in Plainfield during the last few years and it is seldom that such an aggregation of versatility can be gathered together.

King's Daughters Elect.

After the regular meeting the trustees of the King's Daughters Union elected these officers for the coming year: President, Mrs. Charles A. Reed; vice president, Mrs. Frank W. Jones; recording secretary, Mrs. A. M. Laggren; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Anna Most.

Masons Give $100.

Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., has contributed $100 for the relief of the San Francisco sufferers. The money has been sent to the Grand Master of the State and will be used for the benefit of fellow Masons.

There are Others Mentioned For the Job, According to Current Reports.

CAUCUS ON TUESDAY

Position Held by Plainfielder For Long Time Worth About $1,500 Per—Ward and Newcorn Spoken Of.

Judge William R. Codington is sure to be re-elected county attorney next Wednesday when the Union County Board of Freeholders holds its annual meeting at Elizabeth. That's what the political oracle says and he ought to know. There's going to be a little fight over the appointment, however, for there are several other aspirants for the job.

Among those who would not be adverse to being county attorney is Clarence D. Ward, of Rahway. He was Judge Vail's law partner before the latter got on the bench and is a relative to Director King. Just what strength he has is not certain but it is unlikely that he will make a very big showing when the vote is taken at the caucus on Tuesday morning.

Another man who is being pushed for the place is Assemblyman William Newcorn. He is said to have friends galore among the county politicians and there may be some strong wire pulling during the next four days. Newcorn is secretary of the local Republican executive committee but he has made no effort to secure an endorsement from that body.

The job pays but $200 a year when a fixed salary is counted. But it is worth much more than that sum. Some say that $1,500 can be made out of the position in a single year. Judge Codington has had a cinch on the job for a long time, and it is reported that he is not apt to lose his grip.

Director King, Collector Wood and Clerk Ryno are also said to be slated for reappointment.

Was Shylock Unjustly Treated?

One of the regular debates was held at the Plainfield High School, yesterday afternoon, the question being "Resolved, That Shylock was unjustly treated." Miss Cornelia Lounsbury and Adelbert von Brakle, representing the affirmative, won the debate by five points to three, the negative side being represented by Miss Julia Fitzgerald and George Henry Fisher. Miss Lock was the critic and Miss Pope was the judge. Another debate will be held in two weeks.

Joint Festival May 17 and 18.

The strawberry festival to be given at Trinity Reformed church under the joint auspices of the Ladies' Christian Work Society and the Young Women's Mission Band, will be held on May 17 and 18 and not May 7 and 8 as was stated yesterday.

Promised to Be Good.

Frank Scheelien, arrested yesterday for drunkenness, was arraigned before Judge Runyon in the city court this morning. Sentence was suspended on his promise to reform.

LIBERAL GIVING NOT THE TRUE MEASURE OF A CHURCH

The last issue of "The Messenger," the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church paper, has the following to say regarding church attendance:

One of the most noticeable features of our annual meeting was the shamefully small attendance. If the number of votes cast for Elders equalled the number present, then 97 per cent. of our membership did not care enough about what was going on to come and hear about it, for only 3 per cent. of our people voted. Possibly some may have felt that it was a formal matter, anyhow, and they would have no chance to express their opinions or to vote for their own candidates. If any had such feelings ample time was given for the expression of them. But no one did say anything. It seems to us that the time to speak about such things is in the meeting and not outside. If we did not vote in the right way some one should have told the meeting what the right way was.

The reports were well worth hearing and speak for themselves; but we really think that Dr. Zelie and Mr. McKelvey and Mr. Tildon and Mr. Howard, and those who have helped them accomplish such splendid results the past year, have a right to expect the encouragement which comes from a goodly attendance at the meeting at which the work is reported.

Our membership, both in church and Sunday-school, is something to be proud of and shows the power that is in this great church. Our gifts of money were liberal, and, compared with some churches, large; but money is not the true measure of a man, nor of a church. There was a certain church mentioned in Scripture, which said to itself: "I am rich, and have gotten riches, and have need of nothing." The counsel given to her was to buy "Eye-salve to anoint thine eyes, that thou mayst see." To one of the other churches this was written, "I know thy tribulation, and thy poverty," and immediately there is added, "But thou art rich"—rich and blind, poverty-stricken but rich, such are the paradoxes of God.

In this life of a church neither large numbers nor abundant wealth can take the place of the personal consecration of the members to Jesus Christ and the power which comes into and works through a life so consecrated. Because 1,738 of us have given to foreign missions $5,718—the cost of a couple of good automobiles, and to home missions $5,218—what it would cost a couple of our families to spend the summer in Europe—we ought not to sit down well pleased, thinking we have done all.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Edward Harrigan, the veteran character comedian and his own company of competent players in his great comedy success, "Old Lavender," is the offering at the New Plainfield theatre for tonight. In the history of the local stage there is no more attractive chapter than that furnished by Harrigan's plays. His gallery of characters are drawn with a rare fidelity to life, and to the actor who made them famous they are old familiar faces. They are wholesome plays and their simple humor and pathos rang true.

Edward Harrigan, at New Plainfield Theatre Tonight.

Don't forget the performance at the New Plainfield theatre on Monday night. The attraction, the San Francisco pictures, should be specially interesting to children, as every child of no matter what age, has not only read and studied of the wonders of the Golden Gate City; but has in the last few days become as familiar with the subject as those of more mature age. After seeing the pictures one can almost truthfully say that they have had a free trip to San Francisco, for the small price of admission makes the statement virtually true. Aside from the pictures of San Francisco, an attractive programme will be made up of other views and subjects including the ever popular illustrated songs.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Communion services will be held at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church Sunday morning.

Miss Gertrude Hinz, of Brooklyn, a contralto soloist of note, who has been secured by the First Baptist church, will sing on Sunday for the first.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

It has been learned beyond a shadow of a doubt that Fred Lang, murderer of Kate Gordon, did not commit suicide in the woods near Bonhamtown, as had been thought. A New York detective engaged for the purpose hunted for clues of his whereabouts in South Bethlehem, Pa., where he came from, and discovered that he came there the afternoon of the day on which the murder was committed, drew his money from the bank and disappeared. It is supposed he went West. The reward for his capture may be increased.

Mrs. E. C. Dutcher has assumed the superintendency of the Methodist Episcopal Sunday-school. Mrs. Doolittle, wife of the retiring pastor, held that position. Rev. Mr. Dutcher will probably continue to teach the Bible class he conducted last Sunday.

On a training run, "Bob" Fitzsimmons touched the borough yesterday. He loped from the Plainfield theatre to the borough line, turned, and loped back, with two or three enthusiastic young Dunellenites chasing after him.

The debate between the Holy Name Societies of St. John's church and St. Joseph's church, of North Plainfield, has been indefinitely postponed. "It is doubtful if it will be held at all," said a member of St. John's yesterday.

The Tennis Club has not yet put its court into shape, but the members are beginning to talk up the game and action will soon be taken. It is likely that the court will be rolled and marked by the end of next week.

With State Commissioner Hutchinson as their guest, the freeholders made a trip of inspection over the roads of Piscataway Wednesday. The commissioner spoke highly of the roadwork all through the township.

One more social affair will be held by Court Dunellen before warm weather checks lodge activity. It is being arranged by the same committee—Dr. P. W. Brakeley, J. H. L. Peters and Bert Brandon.

The congregation of the Methodist Episcopal church will greet their new pastor, Rev. E. C. Dutcher, and his wife at a reception tonight. The Ladies' Aid Society is arranging the affair.

Mrs. J. B. Coryell started to move her household goods yesterday to Corning, N. Y., where she will make her home. She is being assisted by relatives.

"The Lippincott Square Church Coup" is to be the title of the entertainment at the Presbyterian church May 11. It will be very funny.

A large, new safe for the Building and Loan Association was received at the depot yesterday.

Dr. Whitford has been appointed to fill out the unexpired term of Assessor Bunting.

Communion will be celebrated at the First Methodist church Sunday morning.

Mr. Tappen has taken over and begun to operate Nelson Giles' milk route.

Mahlon R. Dayton has contributed $10 to the San Francisco relief fund.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The local ball season opens tomorrow afternoon, the principal attraction will be the Plainfield game at Crescent Oval. Manager Daab has gathered together a team of all stars to represent Plainfield and Hoboken on the diamond this year and the local cranks can rest assured of seeing good, clean, fast and snappy games during the season. Manager Daab's schedule of games includes the fastest of the semi-professional teams in this section of the country. "Willie" Deegan will do the box work in the opening game and there will be a large attendance of local cranks from here when the old familiar cry of "Play Ball" is heard.

A picked team from here will play the Somersets, of Plainfield, on the local diamond tomorrow. If enough enthusiasm is manifested at the opening game a regular team may be organized, there is enough good amateur material in town to make a fast team with a little practice.

The new bridge over Green brook on Union avenue has been accepted by the Board of Freeholders and the road is again open to the public. The new bridge is a duplicate of the one recently erected on Mountain avenue and is practically freshet proof.

Judge Vail held up the Graceland licenses on Tuesday, for the purpose of investigating several little matters which have happened in that end of the township of late.

Tomorrow is circus day in Plainfield, Robbins Bros.' big show being scheduled for two performances, afternoon and evening.

"Old Lavender," one of Edward Harrigan's greatest successes, will be the attraction tonight at the New Plainfield theatre.

The weekly prayer and praise meeting will be held tonight at the Baptist church.

A meeting of the Township Committee will be held tonight in the town rooms.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Fred La Tourette and family have returned to their home here, after an absence of over six months.

Phil Smith is to pitch for the High School on Saturday.

M. Weinberger, who has been spending a few days at Atlantic City, will return home tonight.

By Tom Muir.

Rex Beach's stirring novel of an Alaskan gold rush, "The Spoilers," which ran in serial form in Everybody's Magazine, is to be dramatized. It will be produced at the Colonial theatre, Boston, on September 24.

Twenty-five per cent. of the receipts at the New Plainfield, Monday night, when the San Francisco pictures are to be shown, will be added to The Daily Press fund for the stricken city. Thomas M. Muir has been appointed to represent the newspaper in balancing the financial sheet.

Joe Weber, proprietor of Webers Music Hall, will introduce into "Twiddle Twaddle" next Monday night, a diversion called "The Fakes," a farcical burlesque on The Fays, whose entertainment is well known to Plainfielders. From descriptions, Judge Runyon could get after him for pirating as the stunt is practically the same as the one he gave in the local Elks' minstrel show last February.

The appearance of Edward Harrigan and his company at the New Plainfield tonight will mark the last dramatic performance of the season at this house. The San Francisco pictures will be given Monday night and after that the house will be dark until August 10, when "A Desperate Chance" will play a return date. Manager Counihan will spend the summer at Atlantic City, Treasurer Cunningham will temporarily resume his old position in the box office at the Philadelphia baseball grounds and Assistant Treasurer Leonce Texier will add to his experience in the amusement line by joining Thompson & Dundy's forces at Luna Park.

Mrs. C. D. Holman, of Pittsfield, Mass., is spending a few days at the home of her mother, Mrs. J. W. Yates, of East Seventh street.

NEW COMPANIES MADE IN APRIL

LARGE CAPITAL REPORTED IN THAT DIRECTION—FEWER BIG CONCERNS.

New York, May 4.—New incorporations continue to be heavy, both in the eastern states and elsewhere. The total authorized capitalization of big companies chartered in New York, New Jersey and Maine during April was $232,080,000, compared with $180,111,111, in April, 1905; $74,700,000 in April, 1904, and $105,374,000 in March last. For the first four months of this year the total represented by eastern corporations having a capital of $1,000,000 or more is $952,049,000, against $587,606,111 for the corresponding period of last year and $271,0008,200 in 1904. This year's total promises to easily eclipse last year's, which was $1,694,187,211.

Adding to the April total already quoted $85,750,000 representing the charters taken out in other states, and $51,777,000 representing concerns incorporated with less than $1,000,000 and more than $100,000, the grand total for the month is $369,607,000.

The following table shows the distribution of the incorporations among the principal eastern states:

Totals for companies having $1,000,000 capital:
New Jersey	$33,100,000
New York	145,480,000
Maine	53,500,000
Total	$232,080,000
Miscellaneous	85,750,000
Total for companies having $100,000 capital:
New Jersey	$16,180,000
New York	18,997,000
Maine	11,525,000
Massachusetts	1,600,000
Total	$48,302,000
Miscellaneous	3,475,000
Grand total all companies	$369,607,000

GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

"The Free Lance."

John Philip Sousa's new opera, "The Free Lance," which Klaw & Erlanger have given a most sumptuous production, has made a genuine hit at the New Amsterdam theatre. The music is by far the most attractive Mr. Sousa has composed for the light operatic stage, and, from a general standpoint, excels in melody and brilliancy of composition the best numbers of his former hits, "The Bride-Elect" and "El Captain." The score contains three rousing marches, the most conspicuous of which is "On to Victory." These numbers create a genuine furore at every performance. But the marches do not by any means compose all the stirring musical effects. There are many dainty numbers which create equal interest and enthusiastic applause. The score is finely orchestrated and the striking choruses are rendered most admirably by a large and unusually well trained chorus. Mr. Smith's book is a really comic story, cleverly unfolded with many ingeniously developed sutuations. The lyrics possess a very catchy rhythmic quality and many are distinguished by a charming poetic fancy. These verses are quite the best this prolific composer of rhymes has written in many a season. Joseph Cawthorn, by his unctuous comedy methods, predominates in the fun-making of the opera, in which he is splendidly seconded by Jeannette Lowie, the quaintly and cunningly comic Griselda, the goose girl. Nella Bergen in the prima donna role of the Princess Yolande is doing the best work of her career and is receiving really remarkable praise for her songs, "Three Love Stories" in the first act and "The Carrier Pigeon" in the second. Seats for "The Free Lance" can be secured by mail or telegraph.

Florence Roberts.

Florence Roberts, the San Francisco actress who recently made her first appearance in New York in a new play, "The Strength of the Weak," at the Liberty theatre, will continue at this house but one more week, ending her run here on Saturday night, the 12th inst. John Cort, the western manager who introduces this artiste to New York theatregoers, has made no mistake in bringing his star to the East. She has made a marked personal hit and her future appearances in the metropolis will always create not a little interest because of her really great merit as a player. Star, play and cast are excellent.

Sam Bernard.

Sam Bernard, in Chas. Frohman's production of "The Rollicking Girl," will end his run at the New York theatre Saturday evening, the 12th inst., and will be followed on Monday, the 14th, by Braden & Peters' production of "The Gingerbread Man." Mr. Bernard has played just one year without interruption in "The Rollicking Girl." Hattie Williams, the clever comedienne who has distinguished herself in his support, has done the best work of her career in the role of Ilona and next season will become a star in a musical play under Mr. Frohman's management.

Miss Margaret Ewart, of Fairview avenue, who went to the hospital on Friday last for an operation for appendicitis, returned home Wednesday night.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

Elmer Flick thinks so well of his three-year-old gelding Macalla, by Ananias, that he is considering starting the youngster in the colt stakes at the Berea, Elyria and Wellington fairs next fall.

Griffith nas been beset with more hard luck than falls to most managers, but this season his pitching staff is in better condition than it has been and he has picked up several very promising youngsters.

The "North American" gets off the following: "Mr. Gin Rickey, the new St. Louis player, is not a souse, but a corking good backstop." Also this one: "Without Drill, discipline may be lacking in the Detroit team this season."

Clarkson has under Griffith's tutelege improved considerably this spring. He is fast mastering the fade away ball which Christy Mathewson works so successfully, and is learning to change his pace while pitching to a batsman.

Shipke, the third baseman of last year's Omaha team, who led the Western League in home runs, is Lajoie's choice for a utility second baseman, while Barbeau will cover short or third in case of an accident to Bradley or Turner.

EASTERN LEAGUE.

Proctor Carr, the well-known third baseman of the Harvard team, now a resident of Buffalo, has joined the magnates and has become a stockholder in the Buffalo Baseball Company and will be on the advisory board.

The stock of the Newark Club will remain in the control of the Newarkers. That fact has been settled by the announcement that fifty shares of the stock have been purchased by Frederick N. Sommer, a Newark advertising man. The story has been assiduously circulated among the fans that the minority shares has been acquired by Sam Harris and his theatrical star, George M. Cohan. Mr. Sommer said yesterday: "It is true I have bought the minority shares, and by chief reason for so doing is to give Manager Burnham the support he needs in order to manage the game properly."

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Second Baseman Raymer, of the Bostons, has joined the Johnstown outlaw team; so has Boston's former second baseman, Lauterborn.

Mr. Pulliam's new umpire, Conway, made a good impression by his work in the games in Brooklyn. He is on the spot for teh decision.

Ex-pitcher Pink Hawley is managing the La Cross (Wis.) team again this season. Pink won the pennant in the Wisconsin League last year.

It is now a settled fact that Jimmy Sebring will not play with the Cubs. He is really down and out so far as organized baseball is concerned.

Chief Zimmer, who has seen many baseball stars come and go, declares that the Pittsburg Club has two real finds in Pitcher Karger and First Baseman Nealon.

Pitcher Hillebrand does not smoke, drink, chew tobacco or swear, and has never lost his temper but once or twice since becoming a member of the Premiers.

According to Captain Clarke, of the Pirates, John J. McGraw has been playing the races heavily lately and has let lots of from $5,000 to $25,000 get away from him.

TENNIS.

A club tournament for men's doubles, tennis, will begin at the Plainfield Country Club courts tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Entries will close tonight with T. M. Day, 740 Carlton avenue, chairman of the tennis committee.

GOLF.

The May competitions will be started at the Westfield Golf Club tomorrow, qualifying round.

In addition to the weekly competition for the Golf Committee cup at the Plainfield Country Club, tomorrow, there will be the first competition for the May cup at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and a women's clock golf competition at 3 o'clock. A week from tomorrow there will be a team match with Columbia University.

RUNYON OF THE RIGHT SORT.

It took more than the ordinary moral courage with which man is endowed for Judge Runyon to refuse the tender of Governor Stokes of an appointment either as surrogate or county judge. In these days, especially, men are apt to consider their own material interest more than the principle of the thing when lucrative offers are made to them. Consequently it would not have been thought very strange by many had the judge accepted a snug office.

From what he says, Judge Runyon evidently took the view that he was to be so honored because he is out of harmony with the party organization. On that ground he refused is as a matter of conscience.

A man that will do what he has done is surely to be commended. Would that there were more like him.

FREEHOLDERS MAY CLEAN GREEN BROOK

COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO CONSIDER THE PROPOSITION.

The Union County Board of Freeholders at its May meeting in Elizabeth, yesterday, adopted a resolution referring to the Plainfield members of the board for the decision question of cleaning Green brook from Scotch Plains to a point in Plainfield. The matter was presented to the board after action was taken on it by the Plainfield Common Council, through a resolution offered by Chairman W. L. Gloak, of the street committee.

If the committee deems it wise for the county to assist in this work of improvement, a recommendation will be made that the Union county members confer with those from Somerset county and see what can be done.

Councilman Gloak has decided to do all in his power to have Green brook widened, deepened and cleaned so that in heavy rains it will be better able to carry off the water. At present the lands adjoining in the East End of the city overflow damaging property.

Freeholder Meisel reported to the board that the Morris Traction Company which has just completed the work of laying trolley tracks in Morris avenue, had left that thoroughfare in a very bad condition and he registered a kick against it. He said that the road was not put in the same condition as before.

Freeholder Swain, who is an employee of the traction company, characterized his colleague's words as "hot air," and said that the road was all right. A lively war of words followed with the result that the company will be asked to properly repair the road.

The board, on the recommendation of the Plainfield members, decided to repair the Scott avenue bridge at an expense of $1,200. There will be a fourteen foot span at this point over Cedar brook. It was also decided to put the Leland avenue bridge in good condition at the expense of $1,500 to each county, this being a county line bridge. The structure was reported to be in an unsafe condition.

Miss Gloriana McQueen, of New Bedford, Mass., is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Frank Frentz, of West Third street, for a few days.

SHOUT 'GOVERNOR' COLBY

George L. Record Also Boomed For Senatorship at Dollar Dinner.

REFORMERS SPEAK

Mayor Fagan's Boom For Record Seconded by Senator Colby Who Pledges His Vote.

Mayor Mark M. Fagan, of Jersey City, advanced Corporation Counsel George L. Record as a candidate for United States Senator as a successor to Senator John F. Dryden last night at a Fagan dollar dinner in Columbian Hall, Jersey City. While the nomination was a surprise, it was received with enthusiasm by nearly all of the six hundred guests at the dinner. Many of the more conservative men in the reform movement at the dinner looked upon the step of Mayor Fagan as purely a personal one. It was pointed out that there had been no reform party conference on the Senatorship affair, nor had one been in immediate prospect.

In introducing Senator Colby, the toastmaster referred to him as "a man I hope soon to see the Governor of the State of New Jersey."

This announcement caused prolonged applause, and three cheers and a tiger for "Governor" Colby were given with a will.

James W. McCarthy, president of the Jersey City Board of Aldermen, was the toastmaster, and ex-Freeholder George W. Nelson made the address of welcome. The Rev. Dr. J. F. Heindell made the invocation. The Bergen Republican quartette sang. The speakers whose remarks aroused intense enthusiasm besides Mayor Fagan, Senator Colby and Mr. Record were Assemblyman Martin, Corporation Attorney Robert Carey, Sheriff Sommer, of Essex, and City Controller Thomas McEwan, Jr.

TO TEST VAPOR LAMPS

SUPERIORITY CLAIMED

Agents for Manufacturing Concern Explain Its Qualities and Allege That Lamp Is Better Than Arc Light.

C. H. Vom Baur, one of the engineers of the Cooper Hewitt Electric Co., explained the advantages of the Cooper Hewitt mercury vapor lamp for street lighting to the Board of Trade last night. He came before the body at its request. The Board is interested in bettering the street lighting, especially in the business section. The P. S. C. was interested in Mr. Vom Baur's appearance, because it likes the Cooper Hewitt light and would welcome a trial of it.

Mr. Vom Baur was introduced by W. C. Hubbard, of this city, who is general sales agent of the Cooper Hewitt Company. Mr. Hubbard, in his introduction, said cities were judged by their lights, and Plainfield was lacking in that feature of municipal progress. It was one of the few places lighted by incandescent lamps.

Mr. Vom Baur spoke at length on the new lamp. It is a clearer, steadier light, than any other in use, and costs less than incandescents and arcs for greater illumination. The light comes from a long tube, in which mercury is vaporized by the arc created by the break in the quicksilver stream between two electrodes. It casts hardly any shadow, and the peculiar greenish tinge to the light, which makes it undesirable for some fields of commercial lighting, is unnoticed in street illumination.

The mercury vapor lamp, of standard 28-inch size, will shed an average of 850 candle power, with reflection, as against 125 candle power in two incandescent lamps. All ordinary arc light, of the sort now in service here throws 280 candle power. A mercury vapor lamp will throw an 850 candle power light, better distributed, steadier and softer, for two-thirds of the cost.

It was explained that the Plainfield streets could be admirably lighted with one light to a block. The mercury vapor light is peculiarly adaptable to vistas in which foliage figures, as in this city.

President Woolston said he was convinced the Cooper Hewitt light was better than the arc, and just what the city needed. He felt that immediate steps should be taken to have the P. S. C. give a test of the light on Park avenue or Front street. The board agreed with him and on motion a committee composed of Charles H. Frost, Councilman Buxton and Charles H. Runyon, was instructed to see if such test lights could not be placed.

Mr. Hubbard advises that the test lights be placed in a row on Park avenue, one at Front street, one at Second street, and the third at North avenue. With the lights so placed, it is claimed, a newspaper could be read without trouble anywhere on the avenue between Front street and North avenue.

The P. S. C. has secured the loan of three lamps from the company for use at the carnival. It is interested in the lamp because it is economical in operation, and cuts down the idle current perceptibly.

DUKE GETS DIVORCE; HUNTOON MUST PAY.

Vice Chancellor Decides Suit in Favor of Tobacco Magnate—Case Not Argued.

Newark, May 4.—James B. Duke, of the American Tobacco Company, won the first round in his suit for divorce against his wife this afternoon, when Vice Chancellor Pitney, at the conclusion of the evidence for the defence, announced that he considered the allegations of the plaintiff charging Mrs. Duke with improper relations with Captain Frank T. Huntoon of the Old Guard of New York proven, and stated that he would recommend that the divorce decree be granted.

After the court had concluded, Mr. Landabury said that inasmuch as Mr. Huntoon was a party defendant, he should be held for the costs of court as well as counsel fees, whereupon the vice chancellor said that he had consulted the chancellor in the matter and signed an order to that effect. He allowed Mr. Duke's counsel $3,000, which must be paid by Huntoon.

WASHINGTON LETTER

GEN. ALGER'S ACHIEVEMENTS INSPIRING TO OUR YOUTH.

CONSTITUTIONAL EXPERTS.

To Boom "Uncle Joe" for the Presidency — Satisfied as Speaker and Looks Forward to Retirement —Splendid Vigor.

WASHINGTON.—Senator Russell Alexander Alger, of Michigan, has yielded to the inevitable and announced that he will not be a candidate for re-election on account of the precarious condition of his health. It cost the old war horse a struggle to make this declaration, as only a month ago he had announced that he would stand for re-election. Mr. Alger has been in delicate health for a number of years, but by careful watching and nursing he has been able to continue in the public service and perform work calculated to prostrate a much stronger man. He has suffered a great deal from weakness of the heart and this feature of his physical condition is what has compelled him to retire from public life.

Senator Alger in his life and achievements presents to the American youth an example worthy of their emulation. He is another of the scores and hundreds of rich and successful Americans who began life as a poor boy. Like most public men he was born on a farm and at the age of eleven years lost both his parents. At that early age he did farm work, and was a farm laborer for seven years, attending school in the winter and later teaching school to secure money to pay for his education. He studied law and was admitted to the bar, but on the breaking out of the war, he gave up his profession and entered the army.

Gen. Alger's record in the civil war is one of the most brilliant in the volunteer service. He served almost four years and participated in 66 battles and skirmishes. He rose from the rank of captain in the Second Michigan cavalry to that of brevet major general of the United States volunteers. During the Spanish war in relating to some young officers his experience he said that while colonel of the Fifth Michigan cavalry he and his command were overtaken one night by a storm and bivouaced in an open field. They went to sleep and in the morning when he awoke he looked out over a field of white hummocks, snow having fallen during the night which covered his whole command, while asleep.

Not in Robust Health.

THE announcement by Senator Alger that he will retire at the end of his term has directed attention to a number of members of the senate who are also in bad physical condition. Senator Cullom, of Illinois, has just returned from a long stay in Florida, which he was compelled to make on account of his health. He is 77 years of age and is growing very feeble. He has pulled through his last illness, but is not able to stand the strain that he did even two years ago. Then there is Senator Gorman, of Maryland, for so many years the acknowledged leader of the Democrats. Those who know Mr. Gorman's physical condition do not expect that he will ever be able to take up active service again in the senate and they regard it doubtful whether he will even appear in the chamber again. Mr. Gorman is understood to be suffering from Bright's disease which may end fatally at any time.

Senator Depew, of New York, has gone into a retreat and he is virtually dead to the world. Even his colleague, Senator Platt, a physical wreck himself, says that Depew should resign if he is capable of writing a resignation. The once famous after dinner speaker and raconteur is mentally dead, the dread disease, aphasia, having taken possession of his faculties. Senator Platt is barely able to shuffle his way to his seat in the senate chamber, his legs being almost wholly paralyzed. He is still green at the top, however, and as mentally alert as ever.

Senator Mallory, of Florida, is one of the invalids of the senate and Senators Morgan and Pettus, of Alabama, have both perceptibly fallen off in health during the past year. Senator Frye, of Maine, is not so vigorous as he was two years ago and his colleague, Senator Hale, has suffered two or three attacks of illness that have caused some alarm. There are eight or ten United States senators who are in anything but robust health.

Able Men in the Senate.

THE United States senate has done more in the past six weeks to reinstate itself in the confidence and admiration of the people than it had done in six years previous. Since the railway rate question debate came up in the senate the country has been pleased and astonished by the high grade of statesmanship and ability displayed on the floor of the senate. It is admitted by old members of congress that at no time within their recollection have there been more able men in the upper branch of congress than at the present time. An examination of the records of congress and the debates held in the days so much talked of when Benton, Calhoun, Clay and Webster were great figures in the senate, does not show any superiority over the profound discussions that have taken place within the past few weeks.

Such men as Knox, of Pennsylvania, Spooner, of Wisconsin, Rayner, of Maryland, Bailey and Culberson, of Texas, Fulton, of Oregon, Foraker, of Ohio, Dolliver, of Iowa, and Long, of Kansas, have contributed to the debate on the railway rate question more information, more sound reasoning on constitutional points than has ever been heard in the senate within the same period of time. The big lawyers of the senate are mighty careful what they say on a constitutional point, as the law which they are trying to construct will eventually be passed upon by the supreme court of the United States. The latter body in construing the law is in the habit of studying closely the debates in congress that were had while the laws were being formed. Forthis reason constitutional experts like Senators Knox, Spooner or Bailey are very careful to have their arguments well thought out before delivering them.

Senators do not care to have their names associated with a law declared unconstitutional by the supreme court. They have a good deal of pride in their own knowledge and ability and they are anxious to put up to the supreme court such laws as will stand the full test of constitutionality.

Reception to "Uncle Joe."

NEXT the 7th of next month "Uncle Joe" Cannon, speaker of the house of representatives will be tendered an unusual honor by men in every branch of public life. That will be the 70th anniversary of his birth and his friends, from President Roosevelt down, are determined to do him honor. It was first thought that a dinner should be given in his honor, but since then it has been decided that the affair shall take the form of a splendid reception and a thousand or more guests will be invited to shake the veteran's hand and attest their respect and affection for him. This function will partake to some degree of the character of a political boom for "Uncle Joe," as certain of his friends are determined to put him in the field for the presidential nomination in 1908.

Among the public men who do not believe that Mr. Cannon is too old to be nominated for president is President Roosevelt himself. The latter regards the veteran Illinois statesman as so vigorous in mind and body as to silence any criticism of his age. The speaker takes all this talk of his candidacy in good part and does not allow himself to be led away or influenced one whit by the complimentary things said of him. He said the other day that his great ambition was again to be speaker of the house and then retire in favor of some one else. He considers the place he holds as second only in honor and power to that of the presidency.

Speaker Cannon says that he has a great desire to get through with the work of congress and get out home among the Danville folk. He is a great lover of the country and of country fare. He wants to get out and see the crops grow, especially the corn. He holds the record in Washington as an eater of roasting ears. During their season they are one of the staple articles of food upon Mr. Cannon's dinner table. Some of his facetious friends have suggested that it would be cheaper for him to live in a livery stable, as he is so fond of corn.

Attorney General Moody.

ATTORNEY GENERAL MOODY keeps denying the persistent rumors that he is about to retire from the cabinet. He notified the president last winter that he would retain his portfolio as attorney general until the end of the present congress, which will be the 4th of next March. He now declares that he has not changed his mind nor altered his plans. The constant rumors of his retirement include the probability of his entering politics again in Massachusetts and becoming a candidate for the United States senate to succeed Senator Crane.

Mr. Moody has been one of the very hard working members of the cabinet and as attorney general he has had an unusual amount of big work to attend to. He has not been in as robust health as formerly and his close application to his duties has worn him down until he has lost very considerably in weight. He is not the stout rotund figure he was when he entered the cabinet. His face is thinner and shows the lines of worry and work. Before he left the navy department he met with a severe accident while on an official visit to the naval academy at Annapolis. The horses attached to his carriage ran away and Mr. Moody was thrown out of the vehicle and severely hurt about the head. It has been noticed that since that accident he has not been as vigorous as he was before, either mentally or physically.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

RECIPES.

Nut Roast.

Shell nuts and grind enough to make two cups, or they may be chopped fine. Take a 5-cent loaf of bread which is two days old, and break the crumb fine, discarding the crust. Mix the crumbs and nuts together with a level teaspoon of salt, a saltspoon of pepper and a half level teaspoon of poultry seasoning, mixed herbs or any sweet herb that is liked; for instance, rosemary or summer savory. Melt one-quarter cup of butter, add one cup of milk and stir into the mixture, then shape into a loaf on a buttered pan that is not much larger than the loaf. Bake an hour and baste often with butter melted in water. Make a rich tomato sauce while it is baking. With a broad knife lift the nut roast to a warm platter or serving dish and pour the sauce around it.

Cornstarch Cake.

Cream two-thirds cup of butter, add two cups of sugar and beat light. Add one cup of milk alternately with one cup of cornstarch and two cups of flour sifted with five level teaspoons of baking powder, and last the stiffly beaten whites of four eggs and a teaspoon of lemon flavoring.

Cream Cake.

Put two eggs in a cup and fill the cup with sweet cream. Turn into a bowl and beat light. Add one cup of sugar and beat, then one cup of flour sifted with two level teaspoons of baking powder. Add a half teaspoonful of lemon flavoring and bake in a loaf.

Braised Liver.

Cut one onion, one carrot, one stalk of celery and one small turnip into slices and add two sprigs of parsley. Put the vegetables into a raising pan or a kettle that has a tight-fitting cover. Wash a liver and lay it on the vegetables, pour in two cups of stock of any kind, cover and bake two hours in a moderate oven. Take up the liver. Melt a rounding tablespoon of butter in a frying pan or saucepan, add the same amount of flour and when mixed stir in the gravy from the pan after it is strained. Stir and season with a tablespoon or more of any kind of catsup; pour over the liver and serve hot.

Whole Wheat Muffins.

Dissolve one yeast cake in one cup of milk, add one more cup of milk and a saltspoon of salt. Mix with three cups of whole wheat flour, cover and let rise very light. Cut down, add two well-beaten eggs and fill greased gem pans half full. Throw a piece of cheesecloth over and let rise light, then bake.

Washington Pudding.

Beat one-third cup of butter and one cup of sugar together until light, add one beaten egg, one-half cup of milk and one and one-third cups of flour sifted with two and one-half level teaspoons of baking powder. Bake in two large layer tins and spread while warm with jelly or jam and served with a hot liquid pudding sauce.

Cocoanut Cakes.

Put the whites of three eggs and one cup of powdered sugar on a platter and beat until very light with a wire spoon. Add a few drops of vanilla and one and one-half cups of shredded cocoanut. Drop teaspoons of the mixture on a buttered pan a little way apart and bake in a very slow oven until they feel firm.

WOMEN.

Women are born, not made.

There is only one kind of women—namely, women.

Against the eternal feminine the daily male has no chance at all.

Schopenhauer did not approve of women. Women did not approve of Schopenhauer.

The chief topics of conversation in female society are husbands and servants. The distinction seems arbitrary, and doubtless is seldom drawn.

Those whom the gods love (i. e., ladies of the chorus) dye young.

The popular idea that women have no sense of humor is quite mistaken. They marry us.—London Punch.

Don't forget that V. W. Nash, Sr., of Park avenue, is selling the best mined coal at the lowest market prices.

George F. Brown, of Somerset street, deals in high grade real estate. Consult him if you are looking for good property.

S. Hirsch, the Watchung avenue tailor, does first class work and guarantees satisfaction. He makes a specialty of riding habits.

E. B. Maynard's barber shop on North avenue is one of the best in the country and all work done there is satisfactory to the last degree.

H. W. Marshall's laundry on East Front street is one of the best equipped in the State and it is his boast that no laundry turns out better work.

John A. Koch, the Watchung avenue butcher, is selling the choicest cuts of beef to be found anywhere. Trade at this market and you will always be satisfied.

Orders for the local and metropolitan papers, periodicals and magazines may be left at Harper's Park avenue stationary store. This place is also headquarters for toys and games.

R. W. Barnes, the Park avenue grocer, has a store full of good things. He would appreciate your stopping in and looking around because it is a certainty that you will leave an order.

The Edison and Columbia phonograph records are no sooner put out than they are received by Harry K. Lister, the North avenue dealer. Those for June are especially good, so drop in and hear them. Lister deals in bicycles also.

House hunting at any time of the year is a hard job and it is doubly so in the spring. The best way out of the difficulty is to consult E. M. French & Co., the North avenue real estate specialists. They have a large list of desirable properties for rent or sale at all times of the year.

NO RESTRICTION UPON SEEDS DISTRIBUTION.

Washington, May 4.—So far as the House is concerned there will be no restriction upon the free distribution of garden and flower seeds by members of Congress through the department of agriculture. After fighting over the matter for two days, during which greater disorder reigned in the hall than any other discussion at this session has created, the committee of the whole by the overwhelming vote of 153 to 58 overruled the committee on agriculture and inserted the usual amount carried for this purpose in the agriculture appropriation, and then, upon the initiative of the committee on agriculture, the sum placed at the disposal of the bureau of plant industry, which has control of the seed distribution, was increased by the further sum of $76,000, making the total amount $926,121, as against the $587,200 originally reported.

Circus Day Tomorrow.

Alpha and Omega, whose seemingly superhuman achievement of simultaneously leaping fifty feet through high and empty space on ordinary bicycles is the latest and most strenuously starting sensation, are announced to make their first appearance here with The Frank A. Robbins Co. All New Great Feature Shows tomorrow. The bicycles used are of the ordinary safety pattern, and thus mounted, and grasping the handle bars with a grip of steel, Alpha and Omega start from a platform forty-five feet from the ground. Before them lies, at an incline of forty-five degrees, a board path, less than three feet wide and a hundred feet in length, which at the bottom ends in a sharp upward curve, directly in line with and separated by a break of some fifty feet from another platform ten feet above the ground. A gentle shove from an attendant and they are off on a brief but fearsome journey, the ending of which no man, not even themselves, can foretell.

He Opened His Door.

I know a woman who spent last winter down South. In the room next to her was an elderly man, and everybody in the hotel was worked up as much as could be to know whether he wore a toupee. If he did, it blended so beautifully with his black hair that you couldn't tell where it left off; but the semi-bang arrangement in front made everybody suspicious. Everybody tried to find out about that hair, but nobody could. Every evening at 8 the elderly gentleman retired to his room, and, of course, nobody could tell what he took off after the door was locked. The woman next door stood it as long as she could, and then she determined to find out or die in the attempt. About 10 one night she knocked furiously at that man's door.

"Oh, Mr. Blank!" she cried, "get up quick. I'm sure the hotel is on fire and we'll all be burned in our beds."

She heard Mr. Blank scuttle out of bed, and an instant later he opened his door with every evidence of extreme excitement. He had on a suit of swell pink pajamas, but he had a derby hat pulled down clear to his eyebrows. Nobody ever did find out whether he wore a toupee or not, and I suppose nobody ever will.—Kansas City Independent.

Governor Signs Election Bill.

Trenton, May 4.—Governor Stokes signed yesterday the Marelli Pure Election bill. The measure provides a penalty of disfranchisement for five years of any person offering a bribe to influence a voter or who shall give money to any person to be used for bribing voters, or any person receiving a bribe to influence his vote. The same penalty is to be imposed on employers who threaten or improperly influence the voters in their employ. A second offence is to be punishable by disfranchisement and a fine of $1,000 or imprisonment for five years, or both.

Telegraphic Team Match.

The first of a series of team matches will be conducted tomorrow night between Co. K, of this city, and Co. L, of Princeton. It will be known as a telegraphic team match, that is each team will shoot on its own range under the direction of an officer detailed from the Second Regiment. The team making the highest score will receive the honors. By this method the expense of travelling will be eliminated and it is believed that the results will be just as satisfactory.

Mrs. John L. Terry, of North avenue, entertained her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. William Ryno, of New Market, and Miss Jennie Amerman, of Somerville, yesterday.

Miss Louise Walta Andrews, daughter of a prominent financier of Derby, Conn., is spending a few days with her friend, Miss Mary Ellen Valiant, of Myrtle avenue.

AUTOMOBILE NOTES.

Automobiles drivers should know that the F. L. C. Martin Automobile Company is keeping its garage open until 1 o'clock in the morning. Customers' cars are washed and polished during the night so that they are ready for their owners early next morning. This is an innovation recently adopted by this company, and there is no doubt that it will be greatly appreciated by automobilists. This company has always been enthusiastic in its enterprise in making automobiling popular.

P. H. S. SCRUBS WIN IN OPENING CONTEST

"JOC" LOIZEAUX PITCHES WELL, SHUTTING WHITTIERS OUT, SCORE 7 TO 0.

A game between the Plainfield High School scrub team and the nine of the Whittier School on Crescent Oval yesterday afternoon, opened the city juvenile scholastic championship series. The team of the High School showed excellent form, although they had practiced but seldom, and as a result the Whittier team was shut out by the score of 7 to 0.

"Joc" Loizeaux was on the slab for the scrubs and his delivery was an enigma to the grammar school lads, few of them being able to connect safely. Captain Doane caught Loizeaux's delivery in fine shape. Edgar Freeman and Ed. Mosher proved to be the best all around players for the scrubs, both in the field and with the willow.

G. Elliot, who pitched for the Whittiers' had good control, but the ragged fielding of his teammates was anything but encouraging. The Whittiers also showed an inability to connect with the ball when hits meant runs. Chilton did the best work for Whittier.

"Cleat" Flanders and Charley Loizeaux officiated as umpires.

The line-up:

P. H. S. Scrubs.	Whittier.
"Joc" Loizeaux	G. Elliot pitcher.
"Tues" Doane	Ransberger catcher.
Dutcher, Bond	Dave Smalley first base.
Edward Mosher	Brick second base.
Edgar Freeman	Van Zandt third base.
M. Rubenstein	Chilton short stop.
D. Wilcox	McCarthy left field.
"Bug" Bogardus	Woodhull center field.
Gideon Fountain....	Elliot, Phillips right field.

WESTFIELD GOES DOWN BEFORE N.P.H.S. TEAM

BOROUGH LADS TURN TABLES ON THE TOWN BOYS.

The North Plainfield High School baseball team defeated the Westfield High School team yesterday at Westfield, by a score of 9 to 4. When these teams met before, Westfield was the victor by a score of 8 to 6. Yesterday the borough boys outplayed their opponents. It is possible that another game will be arranged between the nines to be played at Westfield. Yesterday's lineup and score by innings follow:

N. P. H. S.—Van Arsdale, 2b; Webster, c; Kenney, ss; Peacock, p; Burtis, 3b; M. Van Arsdale, lf; Smith, cf; Dunning, 1b; McClintock, rf.

DIAMOND DUST.

After hibernating in a dull atmosphere for six months baseball fans will take a peep out tomorrow and break loose with the old time guesto.

In anticipation of a record breaking crowd tomorrow the gates will be opened at 2 o'clock and Cashier Runyon prepared to receive the shekels.

It's a ten to one shot that no one in the frenzy will remember to shout lobster or robber at the umpires tomorrow. With Merrity and Fitz on the boards the card couldn't very well be improved on.

It is said that some of the gentle sex are going to attire themselves in the colors of the pennant. At the suggestion of one of the enthusiastic fans of the feminine class we would state for their information that the colors of the pennant are red and white.

The emblem will be floated to the breeze at 3:44 sharp, the rope being pulled by Sergeant Leonard. Some of Harry Dreier's bombs will announce the uprising.

Score Card Publisher Nash would like to receive applications before Saturday noon from boys desiring to sell cards, and to supervise the water pail and bats.

Manager Daab has arranged a game with the strong Suburbans for May 12. This team is made up of strong timber. On Saturday the New Yorkers shut out the strong Dover club by the score of 2 to 0.

Those who attend the opening ball game tomorrow afternoon will notice a number of improvements at Crescent Oval. The entrance to the grounds has been greatly improved by the removal of the old bank of the bicycle track so that the ground is on the level with the diamond. A new arrangement has been made which will no doubt be greatly appreciated by persons who come to the games in carriages and automobiles. The electric machine will occupy the space on the right hand side of the diamond while the space on the left hand side will be reserved for the carriages. By this arrangement all confusion will be avoided.

Baseball matters are sizzling to a cherry heat among the employes of Pond's Tool Works, according to reports of Secretary Robert Gow, who hails from that section. There is no more loyal rooter in town than Mr. Gow and he doesn't expect to miss a game this season. Last year he missed one.

Tommy Timbo received a consignment of fresh peanuts yesterday, which will be disposed of for the relief of the hungry between the spasms.

PATIENCE SCORES A HIT

Judge Runyon as "Bunthorne" Displays Marked Ability.

AUDIENCE DELIGHTED

Mrs. Ward is Roundly Applauded—Others in the Cast Also Good.

With a splendid cast of soloists, a full chorus of seventy voices and an orchestra of thirteen pieces, the comic opera, "Patience," was given at the Casino, last night, by the Plainfield Operatic Association. It was the first amateur production since "The Pirates of Penzance," given at the New Plainfield theatre during the winter, and it was a distinct triumph. It was to be regretted that the Casino was not filled to overflowing, but the large audience thoroughly enjoyed the production and bestowed liberal praise on the performers and their leader, William Holmes.

The opera is not new to Plainfielders, it having been given here a few years ago, but under the careful training of Mr. Holmes there has been a decided improvement and as predicted by those who have followed the rehearsals, it was the best amateur production yet given.

Miss Hortense Marie Sheldon made a charming "Patience." She not only acted the part well, but in her singing scored a great hit. She has a voice of wide range, sweetness and strength and she was given a flattering reception throughout the performance. Her past experience in amateur work was a great advantage to her and she used every opportunity in making "Patience" an ideal one.

As "Bunthorne," the flesh poet, William N. Runyon was great. His excellent work put life and snap into the performance and as usual he came in for a large share of applause, proving that he is as popular as ever. The greatest enthusiasm was shown when he and Mrs. F. M. Ward, as "Lady Jane" sang a duet. Their strong voices in perfect harmony made the auditorium ring and they were obliged to respond to three encores.

Too much praise cannot be given Mrs. Ward for her interpretation of her part as "Lady Jane." Possessing a natural ability for dramatics, she is well fitted for the work and those who saw her as "Ruth" in "The Pirates of Penzance," liked her equally as well in "Patience." Her voice is an ideal one for the part and her acting was grace and ease in every action.

Mrs. Ralph K. Miner, Miss Elizabeth V. Day and Miss Elizabeth C. Mathewson, as rapturous maidens, performed excellently and in their solo work are entitled to the highest commendation. Ralph B. Shipman, as "The Colonel," carried his part well. Although his voice is not quite strong enough, it possesses a quality that is pleasing. An occasion for great outburst of applause was in the trio selection by Mr. Shipman, Joseph C. Martin as "The Major," and Elmer D. Cutting as "The Duke." They were clearly at their best in the song, "It's Clear That Mediaeval Art." William J. Tallamy, as "Archibald Grosvenor," the idyllic poet, was delightful in the part. His singing and acting was greatly enjoyed. In his duet with "Bunthorne" there were several encores.

Although he did not appear until the last act, Clifford A. Braider, as "Reginald Bunthorne's Solicitor," was very amusing. His makeup produced much laughter in the short time he was on the stage.

Of course, to Mr. Holmes great praise is due. His earnest and painstaking work in training the company for this and other performances has placed him in the first rank for such effort and it was largely due to him that such a fine show was given. The orchestra was all to be desired and too much cannot be said of the uniform excellence of the chorus, in perfect harmony and the completeness of the costuming of all who took part.

The proceeds from the production will go into the association's treasury, after expenses are paid and it will then be decided what disposition will be made of it.

The entire chorus taking part in last night's production was as follows:

Mrs. Clifford A. Braider, Mrs. Fred M. Letson, Mrs. Albert I. Littell, Mrs. Luella E. Decker, Miss E. Edna Baldwin, Miss Mary A. Baldwin, Miss Edith F. Boice, Miss K. May Brouwer, Miss Nellie L. Brown, Miss Dorothea E. Bull, Miss Emma C. Craig, Miss Julia E. Day, Miss Ida M. Dealaman, Miss Josephine M. Dealaman, Miss Irene B. Dunham, Miss Mary H. Dunham, Miss Ada M. Dunham, Miss Mary E. Lannon, Miss Kittie McCann, Miss Nora B. Schenck, Miss Blanche A. Skinner, Miss Mabelle A. Smith, Miss Mary A. Smith, Miss Lizzie W. Stafford, Miss E. Nellie Tabb, Miss Abbie E. Van Cleef, Miss Ada Van Doren, Miss Grace E. Weeks, Miss Henrietta J. Winn, Louis O. Barton, Harold A. Brownell, A. S. Brouwer, Jr., John B. Calder, Paul R. Collier, Sidney R. Craig, J. (Continued From Page 1.)

el. He is a brilliant fielder and a wonderful place hitter. "Tommy" wears a happy smile which alone will make him a winner. He hails from the village of Montclair and made quite a reputation in the Lackawanna League last season.

On third will be the old reliable veteran, Sergeant Michael Leonard, who will this season captain the team. His record as a player is well known here and elsewhere. It is generally admitted that he is the best third baseman that came over the pike. Of the outfielders, George Mallen, the former Westfield captain, will be in center field. It will certainly look somewhat queer to see our once well known enemy gowned in a Plainfield uniform, but time works changes. Mallen's great playing last season made a favorable impression on Manager Daab, and as he is a good judge of ball players, he lost no time in signing Mallen after it was settled that Westfield would have no team this season. Looking over the past every fan hails with delight Mallen's acquisition.

Jimmy Bertwhistle, who will take care of Creganville this season, is the fellow who made many Plainfielders shudder in fear when he came to the bat while on the Westfield team. Bertwhistle is recognized as one of the fastest fielders in the business and is sure to become a favorite here. The guardian of right garden is William Heffron. He is a graduate of the St. John's College team, of Jersey City, where he was one of the heaviest hitters on the nine. He is considered fast in every department of the game and is looked upon by Manager Daab as a future leaguer. Jack Dunn, of the Providence team, thought so well of the youngster as to take him along on the spring training trip this year. Heffron will work out all right.

Church Fair Closes Tonight.

In connection with the fair held at the Christian church, Grove street, last night, supper was served. There were about 100 patrons and under the direction of Mrs. George Rockafellow, this part of the affair was a success. The mission orchestra rendered selections from 8 to 10 o'clock, and all of the booths did a good business. The fair will close tonight with an auction. William C. Smith will be the auctioneer.

THE SPENDERS

By HARRY LEON WILSON

Copyright, by Lothrop Publishing Company.

Throughout the house this contrast might be noted. It is the brown-stone, high-stoop house, guarded by a cast-iron fence, built in vast numbers when the world of fashion moved north to Murray Hill and Fifth avenue a generation ago. One of these houses was like all the others inside and out, built of unimaginative "builder's architecture." The hall, the long parlor, the back parlor or library, the high stuccoed ceilings—not only were these alike in all the houses, but the furnishings, too, were apt to be of a sameness in them all, rather heavy and tasteless, but serving the ends that such things should be meant to serve, and never flamboyant. Of these relics of a simpler day not many survive to us, save in the shameful degeneracy of boarding houses. But in such as are left, we may confidently expect to find the traditions of that more dignified time kept unsullied;—to find, indeed, as we find in the house of Milbrey, a settled air of gloom that suggests insolvent but stubbornly determined exclusiveness.

Something of this air, too, may be noticed in the surviving tenants of these austere relics. Yet it would hardly be observed in this house on this night, for not only do arriving guests bring the aroma of a later prosperity, but the hearts of our host and hostess beat high with a new hope. For the fair and sometimes uncertain daughter of the house of Milbrey, after many ominous mutterings, delays, and frank rebellions, has declared at last her readiness to be a credit to her training by conferring her family prestige, distinction of manner and charms of person upon one equipped for their suitable maintenance.

Already her imaginative father is ravishing in fancy the mouldiest wine cellars of continental Europe. Already the fond mother has idealized a house in "Millionaire's Row" east of the Park, where there shall be twenty servants instead of three, and there shall cease that gnawing worry lest the treacherous north setting current sweep them west of the Park into one of those hideously new apartment houses, where the halls are done in marble that seems to have been sliced from a huge Roquefort cheese, and where one must vie, perhaps, with a shop-keeper for the favors of an irreverent and materialistic janitor.

The young woman herself entertains privately a state of mind which she has no intention of making public. It is enough, she reasons, that her action should outwardly accord with the best traditions of her class; and, indeed, her family would never dream of demanding more.

Her gown to-night is of orchard green, trimmed with apple blossoms, a single pink spray of them caught in her hair. The rounding, satin grace of her slender arms, sloping to the opal-tipped fingers, the exquisite line from ear to shoulder strap, the melting ripeness of her chin and throat, the tender pink and white of her fine skin, the capricious, inciting tilt of her small head, the dainty lift of her short nose,—these allurements she has inventoried with a calculating and satisfied eye. She is glad to believe that there is every reason why it will soon be over.

And, since the whole loaf is notoriously better than a half, here is the engaging son of the house, also firmly bent upon the high emprise of matrimony; handsome, with the chin, it may be, slightly receding; but an unexcelled leader of cotillions, a surpassing polo player, clever, winning, and dressed with an effect that has long made him remarked in polite circles, which no mere money can achieve. Money, indeed, if certain ill-natured gossip of tradesmen be true, has been an inconsiderable factor in the encompassment of this sartorial distinction. He waits now, eager for a first glimpse of the young woman whose charms, even by report, have already won the best devotion he has to give. A grievous error it is to suppose that Cupid's artillery is limited to bow and arrows.

And now, instead of the rude commercial horde that laughed loudly and ate uncouthly at the board of the barbarian, we shall sit at table with people born to the only manner said to be worth possessing;—if we except, indeed, the visiting tribe of Bines, who may be relied upon, however, to behave at least unobtrusively.

As a contrast to the oppressively Western matron from Kansas City, here is Mistress Fidelia Oldaker on the arm of her attentive son. She would be very old but for the circumstance that she began early in life to be a belle, and age cannot stale such women. Brought up with board at her back, books on her head, to guard her complexion as if it were her fair name, to be diligent at harp practice and conscientious with the dancing master, she is almost the last of a school that nursed but the single aim of subjugating man. To-night, at seventy something, she is a bit of pink bisque fragility, bubbling tirelessly with reminiscence, her vivacity unimpaired, her energy amazing, and her coquetry faultless. From which we should learn, and be grateful therefor, that when a girl is brought up in the way she ought to go she will never be able to depart from it.

Here also is Cornelia Van Geist, sister of our admirable hostess—relict of a gentleman who had been first or second cousin to half the people in society it were really desirable to know, and whose taste in wines, dinners, and sports had been widely praised at his death by those who had had the fortune to be numbered among his friends. Mrs. Van Geist has a kind, shrewd face, and her hair, which turned premturely grey while she was yet a wife, gives her a look of age that her [illegible] years belie.

Here, too, is Rulon Shepler, the money-god, his large, round head turning upon his immense shoulders without the aid of a neck—sharp-eyed, grizzled, fifty, short of stature, and with as few illusions concerning life as the New York financier is apt to retain at his age.

If we be forced to wait for another guest of note, it is hardly more than her due; for Mrs. Gwilt-Athlestan is truly a personage, and the best people on more than one continent do not become unduly provoked at being made to wait for her. Those less than the very best frankly esteem it a privilege. Yet the great lady is not careless of engagements, and the wait is never prolonged. Mrs. Milbrey has time to say to her sister, "Yes, we think it's going; and really, it will do very well, you know. The girl has had some nonsense in her mind for a year past—none of us can tell what—but now she seems actually sensible, and she's promised to accept when the chap proposes." But there is time for no more gossip.

The belated guest arrives, enveloped in a vast cloak, and accompanied by her two nephews, whom Percival Bines recognizes for the solemn and taciturn young men he had met in Shepler's party at the mine.

Mrs. Gwilt-Athlestan, albeit a decorative personality, is constructed on the same broad and generously graceful lines as her own victoria. The fair-minded observer would accept as sufficient promise of a good third. Yet hardly could a slighter person display to advantage the famous Gwilt-Athlestan jewels. The rope of pierced diamonds with pigeon-blood rubies strung between them, which she wears wound over her corsage, would assuredly overweight the frail Fidelia Oldaker; the tiara of emeralds and diamonds was never meant for a brow less majestic; nor would the stomacher of lustrous gray pearls and glinting diamonds ever have clasped becomingly a figure that was svelte—or "skinny," as the great lady herself is frank enough to term all persons even remotely inclined to be svelte.

But let us sit and enliven a proper dinner with talk upon topics of legitimate interest and genuine propriety.

Here will be no discussion of the vulgar matter of markets, staples, and prices, such as we perforce endured through the overwined and too-abundant repast of Higbee. Instead of learning what beef on the hoof brings per hundred-weight, f. o. b. at Cheyenne, we shall here glean at once the invaluable fact that while good society in London used to be limited to those who had been presented at court, the presentations have now become so numerous that the limitation has lost its significance. Mrs. Gwilt-Athlestan thus discloses, as if it were a trifle, something we should never learn at the table of Higbee though we ate his heavy dinners to the day of ultimate chaos. And while we learned at that distressingly new table that one should keep one's heifers and sell off one's steer calves, we never should have been informed there that Dinard had just enjoyed the gayest season of its history under the patronage of this enterprising American; nor that Lady de Muzzy had opened a tea-room in Grafton street, and Cynthia, Marchioness of Angleberry, a beauty-improvement parlor on the Strand "because she needs the money."

"Lots of 'em takin' to trade nowadays; it's a smart sayin' there now that all the peers are marryin' actresses and all the peeresses goin' into business." Mrs. Gwilt-Athelstan nodded little shocks of brilliance from her tiara and hungrily speared another oyster.

"Only trouble is, it's such rotten work collectin' bills from their intimate friends; they simply won't pay."

Nor at the barbaric Higbee's should we have been vouchsafed, to treasure for our own, the knowledge that Mrs. Gwilt-Athlestan had merely run over for the cup-fortnight, meaning to return directly to her daughter, Katharine, Duchess of Blanchmere, in time for the Melton Mowbray hunting season; nor that she had been rather taken by the new way of country life among us, and so tempted to protract her gracious sojourn.

"Really," she admits, "we're comin' to do the right thing over here; a few years were all we needed. Hardly a town house to be opened before Thanksgivin', I understand; and down at the Hills some of the houses will stay open all winter. It's coachin', ridin', and golf and auto-racin' and polo and squash; really the young folks don't go in at all except to dance and eat; and it's quite right, you know. It's quite decently English, now. Why, at Morris Park the other day, the crowd on the lawn looked quite like Ascot, actually."

Nor could we have learned in the hostile camp the current gossip of Tuxedo, Meadowbrook, Lenox, Morristown and Ardsley; of the mishap to Mrs. "Jimmie" Whettin, twice unseated at a recent meet; of the woman's championship tournament at Chatsworth; or the good points of the new runner-up at Baltusrol, daily to be seen on the links. Where we might incur knowledge of Beaumont "gusher" or Pittsburg mill we should never have discovered that teas and receptions are really falling into disrepute; that a series of dinner-dances will be organized by the mothers of debutantes to bring them forward; and that big subscription balls are in disfavor, since they benefit no one but the caterers who serve poor suppers and bad champagne.

"But I'm glad," she confides to Horace Milbrey on her left, "that you haven't got to followin' this fad of havin' one wine at dinner; I know it's English, but it's downright shoddy."

Her host's eyes swam with gratitude for this appreciation.

"I stick to my peg," she continued; "but I like to see a Chablis with oysters and good dry sherry with the soup, and a Moselle with the fish, and then you're ready to be livened with a bit of champagne for the roast, and steadied a bit by Burgundy with the game. Phim sticks to it, too; tells me my peg is downright encouragement to the bacteria. But I tell him I've no quarrel with my bacteria. 'Live and let live' is my motto, I tell him,—and if the microbes and I both like Scotch and soda, why, what harm. I'm forty-two and not so much of a fool that I ain't a little bit of a physician. I know my stomach, I tell him."

"What about these Western people?" she asked Oldaker at her other side, after a little.

"Decent, unpretentious folks, somewhat new, but with loads of money."

"I've heard how the breed's stormin' New York in droves; but they tell me some of us need the money."

"I dined with one last night, a sugar-cured ham magnate from Chicago."

"Dear me! how shockin'!"

"But they're good, whole-souled people."

"And well heeled—and that's what we need, it seems. Some of us been so busy bein' well-familied that we've forgot to make money."

"It's a good thing, too. Nature has her own building laws about fortunes. When they get too sky-scrapy she topples them over. These people with their thrifty habits would have all the money in time if their sons and daughters didn't marry aristocrats with expensive tastes who know how to be spenders. Nature keeps things fairly even, one way or another."

"You're thinkin' about Kitty and the duke."

"No, not then I wasn't, though that's one of the class I mean. I was thinking especially about these Westerners."

"Well, my grandfather made the best barrels in New York, and I'm mother-in-law of a chap whose ancestors for three hundred and fifty years haven't done a stroke of work; but he's the Duke of Blanchmere, and I hope our friends here will come as near gettin' the worth of their money as we did. And if that chap"—she glanced at Percival—"marries a certain young woman, he'll never have a dull moment. I'd vouch for that. I'm quite sure she's the devil in her."

"And if the yellow haired girl marries the fellow next her—"

"He might do worse."

"Yes, but might she? He's already doing worse, and he'll keep on doing it, even if he does marry her."

"Nonsense—about that, you know; all rot! What can you expect of these chaps? So does the duke do worse, but you'll never hear Kitty complain so long as he lets her alone and she can wear the strawberry leaves. I fancy I'll have those young ones down to the Hills for Hallowe'en and the week-end. Might as well help 'em along."

At the other end of the table, the fine old ivory of her cheeks gently suffused with pink until they looked like slightly crumpled leaves of a la France rose, Mrs. Oldaker was flirting brazenly with Shepler, and prattling impartially to him and to one of the twin nephews of old days in social New York; of a time when the world of fashion occupied a little space at the Battery and along Broadway; of its migration to the far north of Great Jones street, St. Mark's Place, and Second avenue. In Waverly Place had been the flowering of her belle-hood, and the day when her set moved on to Murray Hill was to her still recent and revolutionary.

Between the solemn Angstead twins, Mrs. Bines had sat in silence until by some happy chance it transpired that "horse" was the word to unlock their lips. As Mrs. Bines knew all about horses the twins at once became voluble, showing her marked attention. The twins were notably devoid of prejudice if your sympathies happened to run with theirs.

Miss Bines and young Millbrey were already on excellent terms. Percival and Miss Milbrey, on the other hand, were doing badly. Some disturbing element seemed to have put them aloof. Miss Millbrey wondered somewhat; but her mind was easy, for her resolution had been taken.

Mrs. Gwilt-Athlestan extended her invitation to the young people, who accepted joyfully.

MRS. APPLEGATE WELL AGAIN!

"I have had a bruised leg and foot for several years, caused by the brass eyelets of my shoe, which became very sore and painful especially at night. It itched, burned and ached me till it nearly set me crazy. I used everything I found and was suggested to ease it and nothing gave me any relief till I found and applied Azienza Cream which I think is a wonderful remedy for all sores and inflammation of the skin. The hard knots on my legs were as painful as bee stings, with discolored and purple spots. A running sore on my instep size of a half-dollar; the top of my foot a seething sore clean around to my heel. The bone was sore for a whole year and very painful. I used five and one-half jars of Azienza Cream and healed the sore all up. The foot remained tender and I continued to use to strengthen and toughen the skin until now it is entirely well." (Signed) Mrs. Hannah Applegate, Evergreen Ave., Avon, N. J., Sept. 3rd, 1905. 50 cents. Ask the druggist or by mail. Azienza Specialties Co., Jersey City, N. J.

MAYOR DOREMUS WILL FIGHT 80 CENT ICE.

City Attorney to Ascertain If Legal Steps Can Be Taken Against Newark Dealers.

Mayor Henry M. Doremus, on behalf of the people at large, has taken steps to ascertain whether any legal measures can be employed to invalidate the increase of 100 per cent. in the price of ice for family use which was put into operation on Tuesday by the members of the Independent Ice Dealers' Association and by ice retailers generally in Newark.

At the request of the Mayor, made yesterday, City Attorney Malcolm MacLear will examine the conditions of the ice business and will carefully go over the law on the question. The latter would not say last night just what shape his investigation may take, but it is understood that if it is followed by any legal steps he will follow the form of the proceedings which he took against the local fire insurance rate combine. The case is still in the courts.

It is likely that Mr. MacLear will take up the right of the local dealers to combine and raise the price of ice from forty cents to eighty cents a hundred pounds, with the probability of further increasing it to $1.

Mayor Doremus is anxious to have the matter taken up at once in order to settle it before the very hot weather and its necessity for a great deal of ice for the poor arrives. He is determined to protect the poor against the imposition of the higher price for ice if it is possible. The retailers are blaming the wholesale dealers in natural ice and makers of artificial ice for the conditions, declaring that the latter have raised the wholesale rate 100 per cent.

MERRYMAKERS LOST IN SWAMP AT NIGHT.

Stage Drivers Miss Road, and Forty May Riders Don't Get Home Until Morning.

Forty young men and women from Pleasantdale, who started on a May ride Tuesday night, did not reach home until daylight Wednesday morning, after a trying experience. They were accompanied by ministers and other chaperons. The plan was to ride to Two Bridges, have a supper and be home by midnight. The drivers were not familiar with the road, and the first thing the merrymakers knew their stage was stuck fast in the Troy Meadows, with mud and water on every side.

William Dixon, while driving home with his wife, about midnight, heard the notes of a bugle coming from the swamp. He surmised that something was wrong and got out to investigate. He is familiar with the swamp and showed the drivers a hay road and helped them out.

Mr. and Mrs. Dixon then invited the party, all of whom were cold and chilled, to their house, at Hanover Neck. There they removed some of the mud and had some supper and a plentiful supply of hot coffee before starting for Pleasantdale.

'PHONE WAR STILL ON.

Farmers Employ Guards to Keep Company from Stringing Wires.

Bloomfield, May 4.—The war between the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company employees and Councilman William Hepburn, of Brookdale, is still on, with the prospects of continuing indefinitely. The telephone men have been stringing wires across the Hepburn farm without the consent of the owner, and as fast as they are put up the employees of Hepburn cut them down under the protection of the police. Monday night the telephone men put up twenty-five wires while the Hepburns were asleep, and this morning Chief Collins was appealed to by the Hepburns for police protection. Two policemen were sent to the scene, and under their protection the wires were cut down.

In the slaughter some of the wires connecting the Newark reservoir fell. These the Hepburns will replace. The city of Newark has permission. The telephone company says it has a right to use the poles, but the Hepburns say it is untrue, and will fight the corporation to the end.

The farmers in the Brookvale district are to employ regular men to guard their property from the invasion of the corporation gang day and night, and tents will be erected for their use.

JUDGE SCORES HOTEL MEN.

Attempt to Relicense the "Bowery" Section Is a Partial Failure.

Long Branch, May 4.—The attempt to relicense the "Bowery" at the opening of the May term of court Tuesday in Freehold partially failed. Two licenses for hotels were refused, and a wholesale license in the district was also refused. Two applications were laid over. These were Lewis Troper, for the Keystone Hotel, and Max Fees, for the Suburban. One new application, that of Frank Mead, for the Leland Park Hotel, at Pleasure Bay, owned by J. N. Flanigan, a member of the City Council, was laid over.

Judge Foster, in refusing the licenses of Van Doren Hendrickson and William Sandlass, the former at Long Branch and the latter at the Highlands, reminded them that he granted the licenses, and did not propose to give licenses to men who openly violated the law regarding Sunday selling.

ECCENTRIC RECLUSE DEAD WHO DUG DAILY FOR GOLD.

Ward D. Stafford, Whose Peculiar Actions Attracted Crowds, Succumbs to Pneumonia.

Ward D. Stafford, of Stafford's Hill, Bloomfield, died Tuesday in Newark. He was eight-three years old. Pneumonia caused death.

In 1849, after the discovery of gold in California, Mr. Stafford went to that region He was three months in getting to the gold fields, and had to endure so many hardships en route that he became discouraged and returned home after a month's experience.

At his home in Bloomfield, Mr. Stafford assumed the garb of a miner. He grew very eccentric and believed there was gold in the hills of his farm. The old man, with long, flowing locks, worked unceasingly digging tunnels and caves in the ground. He built shafts and his property looked like a mine in full operation.

Hundreds of persons visited the place each week and watched the old miner's fruitless hunt for gold.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP HIT HARD IN NEWARK.

City Hall Commissioner Decides Not to Have Independent Lighting Plant in Building.

After wrangling several months, the Newark City Hall Commission in charge of the construction of the new $2,500,000 municipal building decided yesterday by a vote of 2 to 1 not to install an independent electric-lighting plant in the building. This action was taken in disregard of the stand taken by Mayor Doremus in favor of an independent plant, and in the face of a report from the commission's engineer, James M. Seymour, Jr., that such a plant, if installed and operated, would net the city a saving of many thousand dollars a year.

President James E. Howell favored the independent plant. He was overruled by Commissioners Gottfried Krueger and Thomas Cressey. The two latter favor having the city buy its light from the Public Service Corporation.

BAD PLACE FOR TRAMPS.

All Beggars Will Break Stone, Wearing Ball and Chain.

Mayor Van Sickle, of Hackettstown, has issued a proclamation that every person soliciting alms from house to house or loitering within the town limits will be arrested and put to work breaking stone, wearing a ball and chain.

The residents of the town have become alarmed over the recent depredations of robbers. The houses of H. M. Johnston, former Councilman James Tamblyn, John Peterson and others have been entered. The plunder taken consisted of considerable money, jewelry and silverware.

The police decided after an investigation the robberies were by a gang of tramps that has been hanging about the town.

BULLET IN BRAIN 8 MONTHS.

Edward Carson Dies from Wound Received Last Labor Day.

After lingering since last Labor Day, with a bullet in his brain, during which time he has been visited by physicians and surgeons from all parts of the country, Edward Carson, twenty-five years old, died Wednesday in St. Vincent's Hospital, West New Brighton.

Carson was shot during a row in a dance hall at South Beach. The bullet was located by means of the X-ray, but being on the edge of the brain no attempt was made to remove it.

HURRYING SEWER SYSTEM

North Plainfield Council Listens to Corporation Counsel's Remarks.

FOLLOWING STATUTES

Special Meeting of Body Set for Friday, May 11—Many Favor Proposition.

Relative to the question of establishing a sanitary system of sewers in the borough, Charles A. Reed, borough counsel, made a few remarks at the May meeting of the North Plainfield Council, last night. As expressed by Mayor Smalley, the matter appears to be progressing slowly and it was with a view to shedding some light on the subject that he asked Mr. Reed to speak.

Mr. Reed said that he did not want to be understood as putting any obstacles in the way of the improvement. "The work of obtaining the consents of the property owners of the borough, together with definite plans of the system to be used is what is desired especially," continued Mr. Reed. "The Mayor urged that petitions be drafted and signatures of property-owners be obtained. He also wanted the matter started before Charles W. McCutchen, one of the largest property-owners in the borough, went abroad. I saw Mr. McCutchen, discussed the matter with him and he informed me that he would not sign a petition for sewers until he learned definitely what system would be used, the method of disposal and the probable cost.

"Until the consents of property-owners controlling half the assessed valuation of the borough is obtained little can be done. The engineer is working on plans and will probably be ready to report within a week or so. After the plans are adopted, consents obtained it will be necessary to hold an election. If the proposition is carried the consent of twenty-five per cent. of the property-owners will have to be secured for the issue of bonds, which will require another election. The statutory provisions will have to be followed very carefully. I have been in favor of sewers for the borough a long time and favor them today. There are some people who once said that it was desired to saddle the borough with a sewer system to increase the tax rate, but today those same people are anxious to have a sewer system here and I believe that everything possible is being done to hasten the improvement."

Mayor Smalley remarked that the difficulty seems to be that most people do not understand the conditions and the details necessary to make the improvement and they are restless with the present unsatisfactory conditions. He said that as yet no reply had been received from the Plainfield Common Council regarding his letter as to the advisability of using the Plainfield system of sewers, but he understood that such a reply would be forthcoming by Tuesday of next week. At the suggestion of the Mayor the Council adjourned to meet on Friday night, May 11, when it is hoped that further steps can be taken.

At the adjourned meeting Councilman Van Winkle will also make a report on the recommendation of the Board of Trade, of Plainfield, that a committee be appointed to confer with a committee from the Common Council looking toward the consolidation of borough and city.

Beisel Gave Up Suit.

James Beisel, who pitched a few games for the Plainfield team last year, under the management of Lines Groo, gave up a suit he had held since that time to the association this morning. The surrender of the suit marked the end of a small war Beisel had declared on the association. When first approached for the suit, he said Mr. Daab owed him for six games he served with the club last year, and intended to hold the suit as a hostage for his pay. Later he softened a bit and said he would take legal advice as to the surrender of the uniform. The advice must have been adverse, because he gave up the suit this morning when V. W. Nash made formal demand.

Carpenter, Dunellen, a returned missionary, and Dr. Anna Degenring, of Elizabeth, who will soon go to the foreign field.

EVERYTHING READY FOR OPENING GAME

EVENT AT CRESCENT OVAL TODAY WILL BE A GALA ONE.

Everything is in readiness for the opening of the local baseball season on Crescent Oval, this afternoon, when the Plainfield aggregation will meet with the fast All-Cuban combination. The Plainfield Baseball Association, through its officers and committees, has worked hard for several weeks in preparation for this event and feel sure that a record-breaking crowd will attend the initial contest.

The oval has been greatly improved by grading and provisions have been made for automobiles and carriages by increased room. Patrons on foot will now be able to enter and leave the grounds without dodging autos and carriages. The grounds will be opened at 2 o'clock and the game will start at 3:45.

Mayor James F. Buckle and "Bob" Fitzsimmons will divide the honors in opening the season and the unfurling of the county championship pennant will be an event of more than usual interest. Word has been received that a delegation of Westfield fans is expected to attend the game and watch their old favorite, George Mallen, play his first game for Plainfield. The trolley company has made special arrangements to carry people to and from the oval and nothing now remains but a crowd that will test the capacity of the grounds to make the opening all that it should be.

FACTORY LAYS MEN OFF; NO MATERIAL ON HAND.

Spicer Company Compelled to Cut Down Its Working Force.

Owing to the fact that it has been impossible to get forgings used in the manufacture of its universal joints, the Spicer Universal Joint Manufacturing Company was obliged to lay off about a dozen employees last night. The mills have promised many times to fill the order of the local concern, but there is such a demand all over the country for steel as well as iron that it has simply been impossible to get the material on time.

The local company has been employing over one hundred men and there are plenty of orders ahead to be filled just as soon as material can be secured. The company does not believe that the men will be off more than a few weeks at the most. Under present conditions it has been impossible to keep all hands fully employed and the company decided to pay the employees not needed in full to date and lay them off. In the meantime if they can secure employment elsewhere they will be free to do so.

Warning to Bad Boys.

A number of boys have again been engaged in the practice of destroying property at Crescent Oval and only within a few days new locks have been broken off the dressing-room doors there. Mayor N. B. Smalley, who is chairman of the grounds committee, is determined that this practice shall cease and will adopt severe measures to do so. On Thursday the P. H. S. second team played a game of baseball on the oval with the Whittier School. Neither team had any right to play on the grounds, and it is said that the new locks were tampered with that day. Mayor Smalley wants it clearly understood that outside of the regular Plainfield and North Plainfield High School teams, no other nine has any right to use the oval and anyone caught doing so will be severely dealt with.

Hearing Adjourned.

M. Sorenson has retained V. W. Nash, Jr., and Peter Robinson has retained W. S. Angleman, to defend them in the separate suits brought by the Rochester Nursery Company, on contract, in Justice Hand's court. The hearings have been put off until May 12.

'ON CHANGE' WAS FUNNY

Comedy Club's Closing Production of Season Highly Successful.

PLAYED AT PARK CLUB

Large Audience Enjoyed the Performance to the Full—Cast Handles Lines and Business Cleverly.

The Comedy Club closed it's season at the Park Club last night with "On Change," a three-act farce, in a way to make the audience regret that the performances was not beginning instead of an ending. There was a good-sized house, despite the presence of "Old Lavender" in town, and the audience gave frequent testimony that it did not find anything to regret over the choice of a play.

Funny in itself, the farce was acted with a degree of cleverness and finish that made it an irresistible appeal to the faintest sense of humor imaginable. It was splendidly staged; every detail of the settings was admirably worked out.

The farce was an adaptation of a popular German play. It had a plot that worked out well, and was rich in incidents that carried the action on rapidly. The story is of a bookish professor who scoffs at money-making as a puerile field of activity requiring no brains. His broker cousin gets tired of the old man's raps and gives him $100,000 with which to speculate. He gives him a month in which to go broke and discovers that it takes a lot of brain-work to beat the game. The old man goes to smash in two weeks, and his distracted efforts to buck the market furnish a lot of fun. Some interest is furnished by a scapegrace nephew of the professor's wife and the young daughter of the broker.

The cast was well balanced and all its members interpreted their parts quite to the satisfaction of the audience which was lavish with applause. The leading parts were taken by Henry C. White, the professor; Charles H. Lyman, the broker; H. R. Loder, the nephew; Miss Louise Saunders, the broker's daughter; Mrs. H. C. White and Miss Grace E. Overton. They were supported by Effingham Pinto, William R. Cock, Victor McCutchen, Miss Mabel Van Deventer and Morgan T. Townsend.

A miniature conservatory was passed across the footlights at the end of the last act.

Miss Helen Stevens tripped prettily through two dances between acts. After act 1 she appeared in a Spanish dance and in a "Dream Dance" after act 2. She scored a very decided success.

Oshkosh Matinee.

The sale of seats for the evening performances of Oshkosh has been so satisfactory that owing to the many requests the management announce a matinee performance for Saturday, May 12, especially for children, and also for those who cannot attend during the evening. The performance will be complete in every sense and the management believe the programme this year will appeal particularly to the youngsters, as well as the older folk. Tickets are now on sale at Armstrong's drug store. All seats reserved.

A Surprise for Miss Strader.

In honor of her thirteenth birthday anniversary, a surprise party was given to Miss Madeline Strader, daughter of Mrs. Abby Strader, in the New Madison, last night. The company, comprising twenty young folks, spent a pleasant time playing all kinds of games, after which refreshments were served. Miss Strader received many gifts from relatives and friends as reminders of the happy event.

John S. Gibson, of Newark, and Mayor Mark Fagan, of Jersey City, will address the Colbyites of Union county at Elizabeth tonight. Senator Everett Colby, of Essex county, Counsellor George L. Record and Judge William N. Runyon, of this city, will also probably make brief remarks.

The Plainfield delegation will leave on the 7:32 train for Elizabeth. According to the announcement, the meeting will be called to order promptly at 8 o'clock. It will be held in the Cory building. Chairman Jones will be in charge and he will be assisted by a committee consisting of Judge Runyon, of this city, Thomas Debevois, of Summit, R. B. Cisell and Evarad Tucker, of Elizabeth.

It is intended to form a permanent organization tonight. This will be known as the Colby League of Union County and will have representation in every voting district in the county. A county chairman will be selected and also ward and district chairmen. There will also be an advisory and an executive committee.

Arrangements are now being made for a mass meeting in Plainfield. The speakers on that occasion will be Mayor Fagan and Senator Colby. Some prominent men in both Plainfield and North Plainfield will also make remarks.

FOURTEEN KILLED IN RAILROAD WRECK

MAN SAID TO HAVE LIVED HERE IS AMONG THE DEAD.

Altoona, Pa., May 5.—Running at the rate of forty-five miles an hour, making up for lost time, two of the great flyers on the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Chicago and St. Louis express and the Chicago mail, met in head-on collision on the Petersburg branch at Williamsburg, shortly before midnight.

Fourteen passengers are known to be dead and from forty to fifty are injured, several of them fatally.

Among the dead is Portano Farro, reported to have lived in Plainfield, N. J. Among the injured is J. S. Marrault, also said to have been a resident of Plainfield.

The full extent of the disaster is not yet known and will not be until the relief and wrecking trains return from the scene. Seven mail cars, two passenger coaches and three locomotives were demolished, and the victims were pinned under the wreckage.

Fortunately fire did not add to the horror of the disaster. Many of those buried under the wreckage were alive when rescuers reached the scene, but died before they could be taken out.

Passengers who escaped with slight injuries, worked side by side with the trainmen to rescue those less fortunate.

But the rescuers were practically helpless until the arrival of the wrecking train with tools.

BOROUGH FATHERS' WORK

Reports and Petitions Take Up Time of the North Plainfield Council.

BALANCE OF $1,062

John Reinman Appointed Special Marshal—No More Firemen Just Now.

Several petitions of more or less importance were received at the May meeting of the Borough Council, last night. J. W. Coddington asked for an electric light on Watchung avenue, between Pearl and Chatham streets; L. J. Bremmer asked for two lights on Walnut street, and they were both referred to the light committee.

Mayor Smalley appointed John Reinmann as a special marshal and the appointment was confirmed. It was reported that during the past month eleven arrests were made and $35 collected in fines.

The report of Collector George F Brown showed that there has been received during the month $176.35 as taxes and interest, $797.50 for liquor license, $3.88 as interest from the bank. Bills payable by note note amount to $3,000. The balance on April 1 was $143.06. The total receipts were $4,340.62; disbursements, $3,278.16, leaving a balance of $1,062.46.

Mr. Lee, chairman of the street committee, reported an expenditure of $153.80 for street work during the month.

Mayor Smalley presented a claim from North Plainfield township for $61.19 for the medical attention, care and board of a sick child living in the borough. The child, it appears, was taken ill in the township with scarlet fever and could not be removed. The parents being unable to pay for the care of the child the township had to do it. At the suggestion of Counsel Reed the bill was referred to the borough overseer of the poor for settlement.

A resolution, offered by Councilman Smith, authorizing the purchase of two uniforms for regular firemen at an expense not to exceed $20 each, was adopted, as was also a resolution by Councilman Lee that the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company be allowed to open Grove street, near Park place, for the construction of underground conduits. Another resolution by Mr. Lee provided for the advertising for bids for flagging and curbing, with the granting of power to the street committee to award the contract. This resolution was adopted.

The question of appointing an additional fireman was raised, but Mayor Smalley said that there is no present need for an extra man and until such time, he would not make the appointment.

BOARD OF TRADE SEEKING CONSOLIDATION.

Requests City and Borough Councils to Appoint Committees for Conference.

At last night's meeting of the Borough Council, a communication was received from the local Board of Trade, asking that a committee be appointed to confer with a similar committee from the Plainfield Council, looking toward consolidation of the city and borough.

The Board of Trade recently determined to have the matter brought before the people, believing that the sentiment is for it and is appealing direct to the governing bodies. The request to the City Council was made at the last meeting and the communication was placed in the hands of the committee on public affairs. The Borough Council, last night, decided to put the matter over until next Friday night, when a special meeting called by the committee on laws, ordinances and taxation is to be held. It is the belief that some recommendation will be made at that time.

STOKES' DENIAL NOT SUBSTANTIATED BY ACKERMAN

MRS. KUENLEN TAKES FRUITLESS JOURNEY

LETTER FROM NEW YORK GIRL RAISED HOPES OF DAUGHTER'S DISCOVERY.

Another fruitless journey was made to New York yesterday in the hunt for Helen Kuenlen. Mrs. Mary Kuenlen, the mother, made the trip with Chief Kiely, to follow instructions in a letter from a young woman in the city who thought she had located the missing girl.

The letter, unsigned, was received by Mrs. Kuenlen Thursday. The writer said she knew where a young woman answering Miss Kuenlen's description was rooming. She instructed Mrs. Kuenlen to meet her, with the $500 reward in her possession—this point was emphasized—at the corner of Morton and Hudson streets yesterday morning. The writer was to wear certain things to distinguish her.

Mrs. Kuenlen showed the letter to Chief Kiely and the latter advised her to follow the clue. They went to the city on the 8:36 train yesterday morning, and at 10 o'clock they met a young woman who acknowledged writing the letter. She proved to be honest enough in her part, but the girl she took the anxious mother to was not Miss Kuenlen. To Chief Kiely and Mrs. Kuenlen she didn't even look like her. The chief had warned the mother to expect nothing but disappointment, so the outcome of the trip did not affect her noticeably.

GOV. STOKES LAUDS HIS PARTY'S WORK

ASKS WHY ATTEMPT SHOULD BE MADE TO DISRUPT G. O. P. ORGANIZATION.

Trenton, May 5.—At the annual dinner of the Republican Club last night, attended by many distinguished guests, Gov. Stokes briefly reviewed the success of the Republican party in New Jersey and said that the State was free from scandals that have dishonored other sections of the country.

He told how the party had built up the schools, and said that while other States are struggling to find new sources of revenue to save the people from the burdens of a direct State tax New Jersey is not only caring for its institutions but is relieving the burdens of its taxpayers by appropriating money to the taxing districts.

The Governor took a rap at the reformers. After saying the people of the State are contented and happy he said:

"What is there in this condition that warrants the disruption of the party in power or that justifies an attack on its credit and good faith? What is there in this state of affairs to demand a political revolution, to warrant a desertion of party standards, to justify condemnation of party policies? These policies have been progressive, consistent and quick to comply with the demands of genuine reform.

"Every good Republican ought to be proud of the record of his party, which has afforded a hearing to every thoughtful suggestion and coined it into legislative enactment. What is there to quarrel over in a party actuated by such a spirit except the question of personal control? Surely no new organization is necessary except for these purposes."

HOME AND WIFE GOING.

Wells Sued For Possession of Premises As Well As Divorce.

Lee Wells, a long-haired Indian, who is being sued for a divorce, stands a chance of losing his home as well as his wife. James Eatz, who owns the house on Cottage place where Wells lives, has started a suit for possession of the premises in Justice Mosher's court. It will be heard next Thursday. F. J. Blatz is lawyer for the plaintiff.

In connection with this suit a question of Wells' first name arises. He has always been known here as "Lee" Wells, but it is said that his right Christain name is "Frank." It is alleged he swore to that himself in matters connected with the divorce proceedings. Wells' wife is a negress.

Senator Says He Acted on Behalf of Governor in the Judgeship Offer.

HE SAW HIM FIRST

Union County Senator Admits He Had a Talk With Stokes Before Telling County Chairman to Act.

Despite the assertion of Governor Stokes that "no tender was made to Judge Runyon and no assurance given" regarding the Union county judgeship, the office was offered to him by County Chairman Frank H. Smith who stated distinctly today that he was authorized to do so by Senator Ernest R. Ackerman. Senator Ackerman, himself, confirmed Mr. Smith's statement and declared positively that in giving such authority he was acting for the Governor.

In a dispatch to the Newark News Governor Stokes is quoted as saying that he knew nothing of any offer of the judgeship to the Plainfield lawyer, but in direct denial of such assestion is the statement of Senator Ackerman that he had a chat with the Governor before notifying the county chairman to make the offer.

When shown the Governor's denial, Judge Runyon would make no comment except to say that Mr. Smith told him that he had been authorized to offer the judgeship to him. He appeared to be very much surprised at the denial made by Mr. Stokes and appeared as if he hardly credited the report from Trenton.

Before leaving for New York this morning, Senator Ackerman in answer to the direct question said that he was acting for Governor Stokes when he told Mr. Smith to go ahead and make a proffer of the judgeship. "There was not the slightest reason for anyone to say that the judgeship was used as a bait," said Mr. Ackerman. "Judge Runyon would have been free to act with Colby and the offer was made to him in the most friendly spirit. Governor Stokes has repeatedly said that he wants young blood in important offices and he wants good men there too."

County Chairman Frank H. Smith stated that any formal statement regarding the matter would have to come from Senator Ackerman. "I merely acted for him," said he. Mr. Smith said also there was no political motive in the offer. It has been made, he declared, in the best of faith because it was thought that Judge Runyon was a capable man for the position and the organization wanted to help him.

The story from Trenton follows:

The Governor said that he had in mind for some time the possible appointment of Judge Vail for the position of circuit judge, rendered vacant by the resignation of former Governor Voorhees. That appointment if made and accepted would, it was explained, create a vacancy in the Court of Common Pleas in Union county or in some other position if that vacancy were filled by the promotion of any other official of that county.

The Governor said that among the names that had been presented to him for consideration in connection with this was that of Judge Runyon, of Plainfield. He saw Judge Runyon personally and asked him if such a contingency arose he would care to consider the suggestion. No tender, the Governor says, was made to Judge Runyon, and no assurance given, as the matter had not taken definite shape.

The Governor says he knows nothing of the tender to Judge Runyon of the Common Pleas judgeship by County Chairman Smith. The latter, the Executive says, did not act as his representative in that "undoubtedly friendly" talk with Judge Runyon.

Continuing, the Governor said:

"To charge the Executive with an attempt to proselyte because he appoints a man who affiliates with a certain political element, and, on the other hand, to charge the Executive with hostility to that element if he fails to give it official recognition, is not an attitude that bears analysis or that appeals to right thinking and fair-minded people.

"Judge Runyon's suggested appointment," the Governor commented, "is no more open to suspicion than this. Democrats are appointed to positions on the Supreme bench, and it would be a narrow partizan who would charge that these appointments were made to wean these gentlemen away from their political faith."

NEW JERSEY FORESTERS TO MEET ON TUESDAY

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF AMERICAN ORDER WILL BE HELD IN W. HOBOKEN.

Final arrangements are now complete for the annual convention of the Grand Court, State of New Jersey, Foresters of America, to be held on May 8 at Liberty Hall, West Hoboken, and the parade and reception to follow on that evening. Reports indicate that the convention will be marked by the largest attendance and the greatest demonstration in the history of Forestry in New Jersey.

It is thought that Past Chief Ranger Michael J. Ryan, of Court Winfield, of Bayonne, will be elected grand chief ranger. He is said to have the solid backing of the Hudson county delegates and expectations are that he will be elected to that exalted office without opposition.

The convention will begin its session at 9 a. m. Early in the afternoon a recess will be taken, during which dinner will be disposed of in Liberty hall. The remaining business will then be taken up and will be completed, it is expected, by 5 p. m. at the latest.

At 7 p. m. there will be a parade from Liberty Hall to Heflich's Hall in West Hoboken, where a reception will be held. A number of bands will be in line, and a platoon of police will be at the head of the procession. Next will come the delegates to the convention and they will be followed by the members of Court Winfield, of Bayonne; Court West Hoboken, Court Friendship, of West Hoboken; Court Harmony, of Hoboken; Court Astley, of Jersey City; Court Hillside, of North Bergen; Court Jan Ziska and Court Pride, of Italy, of West Hoboken; Court Palisade, of Union Hill; Court Congress, of Jersey City; Court West New York, and Court Guttenberg, and the remaining Hudson county courts. Many of these courts will each be headed by a band and Court Frank, or Orange, 300 strong, and headed by a band, will also be in line.

The line of march for the parade from Liberty Hall, at Spring and Shippen streets, will be as follows: To Clinton avenue, to Hackensack Plankroad, to Malone street, to Clinton avenue, past the town hall, where they will be reviewed by Mayor Thos. Nolan and other members of the town council and town officials, through Clinton avenue to High street, to Hudson boulevard, to Hill street, to Summit avenue, to Hoboken street, to Hudson boulevard, to Irving street, to Hudson Boulevard, to Irving street, Jersey City Heights, to Summit avenue and thence to Heflich's Hall, at Summit and Paterson avenues.

Special request is made that flags be displayed and houses be decorated along the line of march at numerous points along which there are to be displays of fireworks.

The delegates from places in the State outside of Hudson county will begin to arrive in West Hoboken on the evening of May 7. Sleeping accommodations have been provided for them by local members of the Hudson county committee of arrangements.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

Rev. and Mrs. E. C. Dutcher were warmly welcomed to Dunellen by the congregation of the Methodist church and their friends in other denominations at a reception in honor of the new pastor last night. The affair was a great success, largely attended and delightful in its nature. Representatives from all the other churches of the borough and village were present, and Mr. Dutcher and his wife were sore-armed before the evening closed exchanging cordial handshakings.

Chicken-raisers in this neighborhood are anxiously watching a strange poultry disease that has appeared among fowls in nearby sections of Somerset county. In the disease, the breast of the fowl swells to twice its natural size and death quickly follows. The cause is unknown and no hint of a cure has been found. The breeders here are particularly anxious, because indications in this neighborhood have pointed to an unusually successful year.

A road running through Mrs. John R. Maltbie's property at West Dunellen has been closed by order of the township committee. The action was taken at Mrs. Maltbie's request. The road was little used and she felt that the thoroughfare was doing the property more harm than good. She went to a lot of trouble getting the necessary formalities in shape before applying to the board. She was forced to travel to Baltimore to secure one consent to the closing of the road.

A COUGH ONE YEAR OLD.

Should Be Christened.
Its Proper Name is Consumption.

You can put your heel on a lion's cub just after its birth and crush its life out. Were it a lion, grown and strong, your chance for life would be small. Certainly the same measures that killed the cub so easily would have been a waste of time with the full-grown beast.

A cough, however slight and simple, it may seem, may be the lion's cub. Kill now and at once. Don't wait and take any chances. Don't try to smother it with opiates or narcotics. It is sure to break out again with redoubled violence.

Take immediately, PISO'S CURE for CONSUMPTION, not because you have already got Consumption, but because this remedy has been proven to be one of the very best and quickest cures for all kinds of coughs and colds and that if you take it you can laugh at the dangers that might otherwise result from the very worst colds.

It cured your father and your grandfather just as it will cure your children, grand-children and great grand-children long after you are gone to your long home. Note the following:

Holdenville, I. T., Feb. 2, 1905:

"I bought a bottle of Piso's Cure for Consumption, after suffering eight weeks of a severe cough and had tried many remedies, and all failed to do me any good, and after taking one bottle of Piso's Cure for Consumption, I was relieved and feel that it is my duty to recommend your remedy and continue to use it.

To the Trustees of Grace Church, Plainfield, First Baptist Church:

Gentlemen:

Always have your church buy linseed oil at barrel prices. Don't let them pay $1.50 a gallon for canned oil, which ought to cost but 60 cents a gallon. Ready-mixed paint is about half oil and half paint. Buy oil fresh from the barrel, and add it to the L. and M. Paint, which is semi-mixed, and you then get a full gallon of paint at the lowest price.

4 gallons L. & M. mixed with 3 gallons Linseed Oil will paint a moderate sized house.

Actual cost L. & M. about $1.20 per gallon.

C. S., Andrews, Ex-Mayor. Danbury, Conn., writes, "Painted my house 19 years ago with L. & M. Looks well today."

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

The Cleveland Club has released Pitcher Monte Wood and Infielder Ingerton to the Zanesville Club. Wood is kicking against the transfer, as he wants to play with Sioux City.

President Ban Johnson is happy because in the spring season series between the teams of the American and National Leagues, the Americans won more than 80 per cent. of the games.

Manager Jones says that time spent in the South this spring by the White Sox was time wasted, and that his team is far from being in good physical condition to begin the league race.

Larry Lajoie has "fixed" his batting order and says he will not change it before June 1, no matter how things go. Jimmy Collins holds the record for making few shifts in his batting lists.

Griffith is not inclined to let Hogg go after carrying him all last year. Hogg is just now rounding to his best form physically, and he has much better control in his pitching than last year.

EASTERN LEAGUE.

Frick, Toronto's new third baseman, is apparently as strong as a bull. He is chock-full of confidence and is not at all apprehensive regarding his chances of making the team.

The Toronto Club has released two pitchers today, Watts and Kerivan, outright. Watts has gone back to his home in London, and Kerivan will go to a team in the Interstate League.

Offa Neal, who played shortstop for Baltimore last year, will wear a Providence uniform this year. Neal is held by the New York Nationals, and McGraw has given his services to Jack Dunn.

Catcher Jack Dillon, for the last three years with the Jersey City Eastern League Club, failing to agree on terms with this club, can sign to play elsewhere. Permanent address, 18 Newark avenue, Jersey City, N. J.

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Cincinnati is already short-handed in the pitching corps. Chech as a blistered toe and Ewing a lame arm.

Joe Nealon is making good on first with Pittsburg. He is touted as the real National find of the coming season.

The New York Club has turned the southpaw pitcher, Forrest Wright, back to Louisville; so Wiltsie's job is still safe.

Ned Hanlon has great faith in George Schlei. He believes he can make another Bresnahan out of the Silent Admiral.

Joe Kelley did not start in the race with the Reds owing to a leg strained in sliding in the second Detroit game.

Jack Doescher gives promise of taking the place of Doc Newton, who was Brooklyn's best left-handed pitcher three years ago.

Pitcher Frank Corridon, whom the Plainfield Club sold to Toledo, played second violin in a Providence orchestra last winter.

Ex-Captain Adrian C. Anson, now City Clerk of Chicago, announces that he is a candidate for the office of sheriff of Cook county.

Those youngsters Fred Tenney has are going some just now and the disgusted fans in Boston are starting to take notice of the team.

Too Many Cooks?

Play ball!

It is quite probable that the Governor is more angry over the story leaking out than he is that Judge Runyon declined the proffered county judgeship.

Plainfield's baseball season opens today on Crescent Oval under unusually satisfactory conditions. In the person of Philip Daab, the association has a manager who knows his business "from a to z" and a team has been gathered together that should be winner. All that is needed is the general support of the public and there is not the least shadow of a doubt that this requirement will be furnished in the shape of big crowds at each and every game.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

The Political Bargain Counter.

The Republican machine in Union county has just failed in what promised to be a fine dicker for the bosses. There was a first-class office for sale at second-hand, and the machinists thought they would have no difficulty in finding a purchaser who would be able and willing to give them a consideration for the bargain. In order to make the deal, it was necessary to secure a middleman, and the bosses found one in the person of Governor Stokes. They told the Governor that the job belonged to them, but it would be an accommodation if he would tender the place to Judge William N. Runyon, of Plainfield, whose custom they desired to retain, as he had recently shown a tendency to trade with a rival concern. The Governor saw the force of the argument, and as he did not like to disappoint his friends, he placed the offer of the office of surrogate of Union county before Judge Runyon, not even requiring a promise to pay to bind the bargain.

The Plainfield man, however, was different from some other politicians, and refused to accept the tempting offer, although it had every appearance of being a large financial benefit to him. His declination of the prize was astounding to the machinists, but they were not discouraged. They established a bargain counter and spread upon it the offices of Circuit Court judge, surrogate and judge of the County Court The goods were exhibited in their best light. It was pointed out that Judge Vail might be induced to take the circuit judgeship, Surrogate Parrot might be prevailed upon to retain his present office, and that Judge Runyon could, in that event, gobble up the seat on the county bench without so much as putting down a cent or pledging his office as collateral security that he would leave the Colby following and align himself with the "regulars." Judge Runyon was advised to think the matter over and consult with his friends, with the assurance that the bargain would remain open until he could do so. That promise was kept, but the judge did not even return to look at the goods for the third time. Instead, he sent a letter to Governor Stokes to the effect that he could not conscientiously accept a $5,000 office "for nothing," and he did not care to exchange for it that valuable consideration, his political independence.

There was no intention on the part of the bosses to advertise this special sale, but the news of the offer leaked out in some way. The "regulars" cannot understand the meaning of this "new idea" in politics. It is so contrary to the customs of the past that they fear it will prove demoralizing. It may be said that, from the standpoint of the machine, the change has not simplified the already complicated situation in Union county, but it ought to be effective in binding more closely together the people who have decided to trade in the Colby camp, because they believe that there they will secure a square deal.—Newark News.

HEAR FROM REV. WALZ

Missionaries Lose Heavily in the San Francisco Earthquake.

A VIVID DESCRIPTION

Letter to William D. Murray From Wife of Minister—Couple Well Known Here.

William D. Murray has received the following letter from Mrs. E. L. Walz, wife of Rev. Mr. Walz, dated San Francisco:

Fort Mason, San Francisco.

My Dear Mr. Murray:

There have been so many inquiries from all directions as to Louis' and my welfare that we will write you as a central point for those in the Cresent Avenue Church who may inquire. Our church and our home were both burned to the ground, and all but about four of our parishioners were burned out. Louis worked as volunteer fireman so that we couldn't attempt to save much. We knew that when he went, but we saved more than we thought would be possible. A mahogany chair and table, a wide margined Bible with many notes, all of Louis' sermons, some of our silver and my violin were all saved. Over a thousand books we had were burned. As Louis has never repeated a sermon, he is now going to do that for a while for though we have no church, all our people are united in wanting us to keep the church together and in rebuilding as soon as possible.

We have been urged to cross the bay and be with different friends in Oakland and Berkeley. Rev. and Mrs. Charles Newhall, brother and sister of Mr. Henry Newhall, have been particularly kind in every way. We have felt that we ought to stay here in San Francisco with our people, and not for one moment have we regretted doing so, not even when ten of us were in one tent trying to rest on the ground. Later on "Uncle Sam" had more tents and Louis and I have one for ourselves, and all are equally well off. For four days and nights we dared not undress—nor could we have done so for we had nothing to change to. Since then the Newhalls fitted us out with a complete change. We could not before that communicate with any one outside of San Francisco nor could any one communicate with us. Even now we can only return to San Francisco on a pass if we go to Oakland.

We love our people as never before—most of them are working people and the sacrifices they are willing to make for us is most touching. One man who had no insurance, but had a wife and three children, came to us and said, "I have ten dollars and I want youse to have half, and so long as I have a penny it is yours." He and his wife had not asked us if we had anything before they said this, but just wanted to "help us out." The different ones have said over and over again that they "were desperate until they saw Mr. and Mrs. Walz—then they felt safe," and so we have a goodly community around us, of which we are the parents, happy in the trust of our big family.

We have $2,500 insurance on our church, and are very anxious to rebuild on our good lot. It will take $7,000 to build anything like a satisfactory building, and we want help from outside. Could you help us raise money? Our people say they want the church rebuilt before they want their homes, and Louis and I feel the same way. One working man with $3 in his pocket and $50 pay due him, has headed the rebuilding fund from our own church with the $50 that his employer was about to pay him, and we have it now. That seems to be the spirit of our church—to rebuild at whatever sacrifice to ourselves. We will all do every bit we can, but we need help from outside besides—to the amount of $3,500, and we do hope Plainfield people will want to help in this much needed work.

Louis joins me in warmest regards to all our good friends in Plainfield.

Very sincerely,
Pauline Humphrey Walz,
(Mrs. E. L. Walz.)

MISSIONARY EFFORTS IN FLOWERY KINGDOM

ADDRESS BY REV J. H. BALLAGH AT TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH.

Rev. J. H. Ballagh, a returned missionary from Yokohoma, Japan, addressed the Young Women's Mission Band, of Trinity Reformed church, yesterday afternoon. Mr. Ballagh, who represents the Board of Foreign Missions of the Reformed church in America, has been engaged in mission work in Japan for forty years and is thoroughly conversant with every phase of it.

In his talk yesterday Mr. Ballagh reviewed in an entertaining manner the work accomplished in Japan for Christ. He said that rapid strides are being made there by the missionaries and the Japanese are becoming more receptive every year to the teaching of the Bible. The missionary finds the natives very anxious to learn about Christ.

Mr. Ballagh referred to the recent act of Japan in sending $100,000 to the San Francisco sufferers, and used it as an illustration as to the readiness with which the empire responds to appeals of this kind. There are many thousand Japanese in San Francisco who have suffered by the earthquake, and while the money contributed by Japan will be used to help the Japanese who are destitute, there were no restrctions placed on the contribution, the committee in charge being allowed to spend it according to its best judgment.

The missionary related some interesting facts about the workers in the foreign fields, telling of their particular work. Mr. Ballagh denied the published statements that missionaries are often times responsible for disturbances in Japan or China. He said that these troubles are due to the interference of natives who are constantly plotting against the government.

In the course of his remarks the speaker said that one fact above all others is rapidly spreading over Japan and that is that while the nation is heathen in some respects it is Christian at heart and this is doing more to Christianize the empire than anything else, and Mr. Ballagh predicts a great future for that people.

The address was one of great encouragement for the members of the mission band and, no doubt in the future they will be more deeply interested in the foreign work.

Communion services will be held at the First Presbyterian church tomorrow morning and in the evening Rev. Dr. W. I. Steans, of the Westfield Presbyterian church, will preach for Mr. Herring.

LITERARY.

He will be a difficult reader to please who does not find much to interest him in the May number of the Atlantic. It opens with a leading article, Man and the Actor, by Richard Mansfield, in which the foremost American actor writes with sincerity and eloquence on the meaning of an actor's life and of the present conditions upon the American stage. It is followed by a remarkable paper by John Burroughs in his best vein entitled Camping with President Roosevelt, containing a full and breezy account of President Roosevelt's camping trip in the Yellowstone country two years ago, and incidentally presenting one of the most intimate pen portraits of the President that has ever been written. Charles J. Bullock's paper on Life Insurance and Speculation is a comprehensive, thoroughly informed and lucid presentation of the whole subject. Other essays of the first interest are: The Critic and the Law, by R. W. Child; Baedeker in the Making, an instructive and entertaining account of the famous guide-books from the inside, by J. F. Muirhead; Holidays and History, a plea for more holidays and more serious observance of them, by W. R. Thayer; The Terraced Garden, by Mrs. W. P. Wainwright; Froude, by Goldwin Smith; The Primitive "Tripper," by Herbert V. Abbott; and The Art of Composition, by Wilbur L. Cross.

A Possible Reason.

Willie—The jaybird is the same as the bluebird, ain't it, Pa?

Pa—I believe so.

Willie—Well, if it's a bluebird, why is it called a jay?

Pa—Probably because it comes along predicting the arrival of Spring and then gets caught in a blizzard.

Always the Way.

Towne—Luckey doesn't have to work hard, that's certain.

Browne—How do you know that?

Towne—Because he gets a large salary.

CLEANLY WOMAN.

Erroneously Thinks by Scouring Her Scalp That She Cures Dandruff.

Cleanly woman has an erroneous idea that by scouring the scalp, which removes the dandruff scales, she is curing the dandruff. She may wash her scalp every day, and yet have dandruff her life long, accompanied by falling hair, too. The only way in the world to cure dandruff is to kill the dandruff germ, and there is no hair preparation that will do that but Newbro's Herpicide. Herpicide by killing the dandruff germ, leaves the hair free to grow as healthy Nature intended. Destroy the cause you remove the effect. Kill the dandruff germ with Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

The Advertising Show which will be held at Madison Square Garden, New York, for one week beginning last Thursday will have many surprising novelties to interest the progressive business man. Everything in the advertising line will be exhibited and quite a number of original ideas will be exploited for the first time.

"Mrs. Temple's Telegram" is without doubt one of the most laughable farces produced in recent years. It goes with a scream from start to finish. It is immensely pleasing to the public which is flocking to the Madison Square theatre in such numbers as to realize the expectations of Manager Walter N. Lawrence that it will run well into warm weather. That it could play all of last summer in Chicago at regular theatre prices at Power's theatre in that city, one of the leading and largest theatres there, proves that it is a popular form of attraction for the summer. William Morris in the principal role gives dash and vim to his performance and Harry Conor is inimitable in a comedy role which is in line with the characters he interpreted at the Madison Square theatre in the days of the Hoyt farces. Mr. Lawrence has a remarkable play in "Mrs. Temple's Telegram" inasmuch as it is now in its sixty-fourth consecutive week of playing without losing a single performance since the farce was introduced as his opening attraction on February 1st of last year.

"The show that makes every other show look like a side show" is the trenchant criticism of the New York World in speaking of "A Society Circus" at the New York Hippodrome, the costliest and most magnificent production ever yielded by any stage either in modern or ancient theatricals. This sentiment is voiced by every spectator who has visited the nation's playhouse. Including as it does the best of all that is entertaining, the programme arranged by Thompson & Dundy is impossible of duplication. It affords three hours and a quarter of drama, opera and circus. The last mentioned portion of the bill presents the world's champion artists seen for the first time in America on the hippodrome stage. They are the highest salaried specialists before the public today, and their feats excite the wonderment of all. The gorgeous ballet, the "Song of the Flowers," and the beautiful aquatic tableau, The Court of the Golden Fountains, and the herd of plunging horses remain intact. Matiness are given daily.

The vogue of "Charley's Aunt at the Manhattan theatre, New York, continues, and its time has been extended from the period originally allotted to it at this house. This very amusing comedy by Brandon Thomas had nearly a thousand performances in this country during its original popularity, and those who now enjoy it will admit that it is as effective as ever thanks to the artistic and highly-amusing work of Etienne Girardot, who plays his original role of the bogus aunt, and his clever associate actors. There is no telling how long "Charley's Aunt" may continue at the Manhattan, but those who have not seen it should take advantage of the present opportunity without delay. The regular matinee at the Manhattan is on Saturday, and for those who cannot avail themselves of the evening performances, this affords a chance to witness the funniest play now running in New York.

"Mr. Hopkinson."

At Fields' theatre, "Mr. Hopkinson," the brilliant farce which has set all New York laughing, now established in its new quarters, still continues to pack that playhouse at every performance. There is no doubt that this delightful farce will continue there long after the warm weather has set in.

The usual verbiage of the press agent, which, certain as death, always follows in the wake of such a great success as "Mr. Hopkinson" really is, in this case is dispensed with, and in its place a few excerpts from the metropolitan critics are used, which readily establishes the quality of entertainment that "Mr. Hopkinson," built for laughing purposes only, certainly is.

"It has been so long since a really funny farce has been played in New York that 'Mr. Hopkinson' seems almost too good to be true. Here is one at last that you can laugh at honestly."—L. V. De Foe, in The Morning World.

"There is no question as to the pleasure 'Mr. Hopkinson' afforded, and is likely to afford successive American audiences. The laughter was continuous, and the applause more pronounced than is usual."—Adolph Klauber, in The Times.

"There is abundant mirth to be extracted from 'Mr. Hopkinson.'"—W. W. Winter, in The Tribune.

"The farce, by R. C. Carto, called 'Mr. Hopkinson,' proved to be the best piece of theatrical entertainment that has been seen here in years."—W. W. Bullock, in The Press.

"'Mr. Hopkinson' is not only funny, but is also witty and clever, and is a 'go.'"—New York Herald.

"One of those rare, remarkable things that ocassionally enliven a blue moon, happened when R. C. Carton's English farce, 'Mr. Hopkinson,' had its first American production. It was so good and funny that it would make a cat laugh."—Alan Dale, in The Journal.

By HARRY LEON WILSON

Copyright, by Lothrop Publishing Company.

When the guests had gone Miss Milbrey received the praise of both parents for her blameless attitude toward young Bines.

"It will be fixed when we come back from Wheatly," said that knowing young woman, "and now don't worry any more about it."

"And Fred," said the mother, "do keep straight down there. She's a commonplace girl, with lots of mannerisms to unlearn, but she's pretty and sweet and teachable."

"And she'll learn a lot from Fred that she doesn't know now," finished that young man's sister from the foot of the stairway.

Back at their hotel Psyche Bines was saying:

"Isn't it queer about Mrs. Gwilt-Athlestan? We've read so much about her in the papers. I thought she must be some one awful to meet—I was just scared—and instead, she's like any one, and real chummy besides; and, actually, ma, don't you think her dress was dowdy—all except the diamonds? I suppose that comes from living in England so much. And hasn't Mrs. Milbrey twice as grand a manner, and the son—he's a precious—he knows everything and everybody; I shall like him."

Her brother, who had flung himself into a cushioned corner, spoke with the air of one who had reluctantly consented to be interviewed and who was anxious to be quoted correctly:

"Mrs. Gwilt-Athlestan is all right. She reminds me of what Uncle Peter writes about that new herd of shorthorns: 'This breed has a mild disposition, is a good feeder, and produces a fine quality of flesh.' But I'll tell you one thing, sis," he concluded with sudden emphasis, "with all this talk about marrying for money I'm beginning to feel as if you and I were a couple of white rabbits out in the open with all the game laws off!"

CHAPTER XI.

AFTERNOON STROLL AND AN EVENING CATASTROPHE.

Miss Milbrey, the second morning at Mrs. Gwilt-Athlestan's house party, faced with becoming resignation what she felt would be her last day of entire freedom. She was down and out philosophically to play nine holes with her host before breakfast.

Her brother after a night of it with Mauburn, awakening less happily, made a series of discoveries regarding his bodily sensations that caused him to view life with disaffection. Noting that the hour was early, however, he took cheer, and after a long, strong, cold drink, which he rang for, and a pricking icy shower, which he nerved himself to, he was ready to ignore his aching head and get the start of Mauburn.

Outside most of the others had scattered for life in the open, each to his taste. Some were on the links. Some had gone with the coach. A few had ridden early to the meet of the Essex hounds near Easthampton, where a stiff run was expected. Others had gone to follow the hunt in traps. A lively group came back now to read the morning papers by the log fire in the big cheery hall. Among these were Percival and Miss Milbrey. When they had dawdled over the papers for an hour Miss Milbrey grew slightly restive.

"Why doesn't he have it over?" she asked herself, with some impatience. And she delicately gave Percival, not an opportunity, but opportunities to make an opportunity, which is a vastly different form of procedure.

But the luncheon hour came and people straggled back, and the afternoon began, and the request for Miss Milbrey's heart and hand was still unaccountably deferred. Nor could she feel any of those subtle premonitions that usually warn a woman when the event is preparing in a lover's secret heart.

Reminding herself of his letters, she began to suspect that, while he could write unreservedly, he might be shy and reluctant of speech; and that shyness now deterred him. So much being clear, she determined to force the issue and end the strain for both.

Her arrival had shown not a little interest in pretty Mrs. Akemit, and was now talking with that fascinating crea-

"WHY DOESN'T HE HAVE IT OVER?"

ture as she lolled on a low seat before the fire in her lacy blue house gown. At the moment she was adroitly posing one foot and then the other before the warmth of the grate. It may be disclosed without damage to this tale that the feet of Mrs. Akemit were not cold; but that they were trifles most daintily shod, and, as her slender silken ankles curved them toward the blaze from her froth of a petticoat, they were worth looking at.

Miss Millbrey disunited the chatting couple with swiftness and aplomb.

"Come, Mr. Bines, if I'm to take that tramp you made me promise you, it's time we were off."

Outside she laughed deliciously. "You know you did make me promise it mentally, because I knew you'd want to come and want me to come, but I was afraid Mrs. Akemit mightn't understand about telepathy, so I pretended we'd arranged it all in words."

"Of course! Great joke, wasn't it?" assented the young man, rather awkwardly.

Down the broad sweep of roadway, running between its granite coping, they strode at a smart pace.

"You know you complimented my walking powers on that other walk we took, away off there where the sun goes down."

"Yes, of course," he replied absently. "Now, he's beginning," she said to herself, noting his absent and somewhat embarrassed manner.

In reality he was thinking how few were the days ago he would have held this the dearest of all privileges, and how strange that he should now prize it so lightly, almost prefer, indeed, not to have it; that he should regard her, of all women, "the fairest of all flesh on earth" with nervous distrust.

She was dressed in tan corduroy; elation was in her face; her waist, as she stepped, showed supple as a willow; her suede-gloved little hands were compact and tempting to his grasp. His senses breathed the air of her perfect and compelling femininity. But sharper than all these impressions rang the words of the worldly-wise Higbee: "She's hunting night and day for a rich husband; she tries for them as fast as they come; she'd rather marry a sub-treasury—she'd marry me in a minute—she's marry you; but if you were broke she'd have about as much use for you . . . ."

Her glance was frank, friendly, and encouraging. Her deep eyes were clear as a trout-brook. He thought he saw in them once almost a tenderness for him.

She thought, "He does love me!"

Outside the grounds they turned down a bridle-path that led off through the woods—off through the golden sunwine of an October day. The air bore a clean autumn spice, and a faint salty scent blended with it from the distant sound. The autumn silence, which is the only perfect silence in all the world, was restful, yet full of significance, suggestion, provocation. From the spongy lowland back of them came the pleading sweetness of a meadow-lark's cry. Nearer they could even hear an occasional leaf flutter and waver down. The quick thud of a falling nut was almost loud enough to earn its echo. Now and then they saw a lightning flash of vivid turquoise and heard a jay's harsh scream.

In this stillness their voices instinctively lowered, while their eyes did homage to the wondrous play of color about them. Over a yielding brown carpet they went among maple and chestnut and oak, with their bewildering changes through crimson, russet, and amber to pale yellow; under the deep-stained leaves of the sweet-gum they went, and past the dogwood with scarlet berries gemming the clusters of its dim red leaves.

But through all this waiting, inciting silence Miss Milbrey listened in vain for the words she had felt so certain would come.

MRS. APPLEGATE WELL AGAIN!
"I have had a bruised leg and foot for several years, caused by the brass eyelets of my shoe, which became very sore and painful especially at night. It itched, burned and ached me till it nearly set me crazy. I used everything I found and was suggested to ease it and nothing gave me any relief till I found and applied Azienza Cream which I think is a wonderful remedy for all sores and inflammation of the skin. The hard knots on my legs were as painful as bee stings, with discolored and purple spots. A running sore on my instep size of a half-dollar; the top of my foot a seething sore clean around to my heel. The bone was sore for a whole year and very painful. I used five and one-half jars of Azienza Cream and healed the sore all up. The foot remained tender and I continued to use to strengthen and toughen the skin until now it is entirely well." Bishop Has Received that Amount for San Francisco—Churches Still to Be Heard From.

Bishop John J. O'Connor announced Thursday that although all the Catholic churches in the Newark diocese have not yet been heard from, more than $10,000 had already been received for the relief of the San Francisco sufferers.

The bishop forwarded $5,000 to Archbishop Riardan, of the archdiocese of San Francisco, a few days after the disaster, afterward issuing an appeal to the churches of the local diocese to take a special collection to make up this sum. The additional amount given will be sent this week.

AUTOMOBILE NOTES.

MR. THOMAS ON CALIFORNIA.

E. R. Thomas, the well-known Buffalo manufacturer, narrowly escaped being caught in the San Francisco calamity. He returned to Buffalo last week, grieved at the affliction of 'Frisco's population, but very enthusiastic over the beautiful automobile roads, splendid climate, and beauties of California. "California is certainly an automobile paradise," says Mr. Thomas. "Three hundred days of the 365 the weather and roads are splendid for automobiling. In fact, the roads, by comparison, with the exception of New Jersey and Massachusetts, are far superior in general to the roads in the Eastern States. The road scenery in an automobile from Los Angeles to San Diego, I believe to be the grandest on this continent. Another fact that attracted my attention was the general courtesy extended by the farmers to automobilists. They would generally give them a fair share of the road to pass, and instead of a scowl, would meet them with a smile." Mr. Thomas left San Francisco on the last train previous to the earthquake.

The Circus Today.

The Frank A. Robbins shows arrived here early this a. m. and in a couple of hours had their tents erected on the lot at Randolph road. The outfit is neat looking, the horses being exceptionally fine, sleek and fat and well groomed. The general appearance of those connected with the show is away above what one usually sees with shows of this kind. Our exchanges speak in the highest praise of the performances and it is safe to predict full tents both this afternoon and night, so you might just as well join the crowd and go to the circus.

The San Francisco Fire.

The great conflagration in San Francisco, appalling as it was in loss of life and destruction of millions of dollars worth of property, has set people to thinking and wondering if the claims will be paid.

The Fire Insurance Companies Represented By Us Will Pay Their Losses In Full and still be Perfectly Sound Financially.

This fact is not only assuring to the people of San Francisco, but very important and gratifying to all policyholders to know beyond doubt that they are insured in such Strong Companies.

How about your Fire Insurance—are you fully protected? Let us write a policy for you.

FANVILLE IS VERY HAPPY

Large Crowd Will Witness the Pennant Raising and Game This Afternoon.

FITZ WILL BE THERE

News of the Baseball World Boiled Down—Manager of the Westfield Team Explains the Situation at Mt. Ararat.

Howdy Mister Baseball Fan? How be ye?

The day is yours. If anybody butts in on your pleasure, steps on your toes, or breaks your hat during the argument this afternoon tell it to the umpires.

Before going out to the game come prepared for all sorts of arguments. If you happen to get in a verbal combat with a brother fan about the longest game on record remember that it was played at Buffalo in the late 60's between the Niagara and Columbias, the former winning by the score of 209 to 10.

Time really works wonders when you think of it. Charlie Dixon says that George Mallen is a crackerjack of a ball player and Mr. Mallen puts in a modest claim that "Jack" Merrity is ace high among umpires.

The locals should stand a fair chance of defeating the Cubans this afternoon, that is provided the Cubans haven't lost their sea legs.

The bats have all been sand-papered and punky hits will be out of the question. The slapsticks will connect good and fair.

Phil Smith is as fit as a fiddle and it would not be surprising that he was put in the box to dish them up to the visitors.

Dame Rumor states that Mayor Wyckoff has under consideration the idea of appointing Fitz town constable of Dunellen. They have been looking for an able bodied man to do police duty in that burg for some years.

Reports from Westfield received during the past week indicate that there will be a good representation of Mt. Ararat fans on hand to witness the opening game this afternoon. If it turns out to be true do not chew old crusts over again, but extend the fist of brotherly love.

The whack of LaPorte's home run drive on Wednesday has resounded around the world so to say. The metropolitan newspapers have given it columns and it is now entitled to a place in the baseball gallery of famous players. It is now about time for some cousin of Mr. LaPorte to spring up in our midst.

It may be repeated, for the benefit of those who haven't heard about it, that the baseball season will be opened on Crescent Oval this afternoon when the Union county champions will have as their opponents the All Cubans. The visitors are in the "Perfecto" grade when it comes to talking baseball.

Prominent among the spectators will be Bob Fitzsimmons, who will umpire the bases. Preceding the game the pennant will be floated, and then every inflated baseball fanatic will have a license to break loose and shout.

In order to accommodate the crowd the trolley company has promised to run extra cars on the Arlington avenue line. It is hoped that the company will stick to its promise this year—to give good service.

If perchance you do not get an opportunity of going out to the game yourself keep posted on the doings by reading a full account of the ceremonies in Monday's Daily Press.

Anything in the line of a vehicle is eligible to take no part be it road wagon, auto runabout, business, carriage or trap.

Fire was discovered at 1 o'clock this morning in the Elmira Creamery, Broad street, near West Jersey street, Elizabeth, the building being ruined and the contents greatly damaged. The fire reached such proportions that it was necessary to call out the entire Elizabeth department and it was 2:30 o'clock before the flames were gotten under control.

County Tax Boards.

Governor Stokes has not yet named the county boards of equalization of taxes, though the law provided for their appointment on May 1st. It is said that they will be named at some early date, possibly tomorrow. There is one board of three men for each county. The members of the Somerset board said to have been selected are P. V. D. Van Doren, of Millstone; Newton B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, and Stewart Kenney, of the firm of Terriberry & Kenney, of this place.

Found Nest of Snakes.

RUNYON HEAD OF UNION COUNTY EQUAL TAX LEAGUE

Organization Launched at Meeting Addressed by Fagan, Gibson, Colby and Record.

MUCH ENTHUSIASM

H. L. Hall and R. H. Depew on Executive Committee; Col. M. W. Tyler and Former Mayor Randolph on Advisory Board.

The Colby movement was formally organized in Union county at a meeting in Elizabeth Saturday night. City Judge William N. Runyon was made president. Thomas M. Debevois, of Summit, was chosen vice president; William F. Groves, Elizabeth, secretary, and John H. Eggens, Elizabeth, treasurer.

The meeting was held in G. A. R. Hall, Broad street. It was largely attended, and the gathering was full of enthusiasm. Plainfield was well represented, men from every ward appearing in the delegation.

Saturday's meeting launched the movement in earnest. A constitution, which provides for the organization of branches, and all the necessary county machinery, was adopted.

In article one of the constitution the name of the organization is fixed as "The County Republican League For Equal Taxation." These are the objects stated:

"To promote the best interests of the Republican party in the County of Union. To eliminate bossism and corporate control of the Republican party. To further the cause of equal taxation, limited franchises, taxation of franchises, popular selection of United States Senators, popular interest in primary elections and such other progressive measures as may be necessary in the interests of the people. To promote honest elections and prevent political corruption in every form."

Provision is made in the constitution for the organization of branches in every ward in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Rahway, and Summit and in all the districts outside of them. An executive committee of not more than twenty-five and an advisory committee of not more than ten are to be formed. As a starter for their organization these committeemen were named by acclamation Saturday: Executive committee, R. J. Cissell, Judge Barr, Everard K. Tucker, Elizabeth; H. L. Hall, R. Henry Depew, Plainfield; W. H. Wheeler, W. S. Doty, Summit; Ernest B. Rubsamen, New Providence. Advisory committee, J. V. V. Hoire, Elizabeth; W. S. Bate, Elizabeth; Col. Mason W. Tyler, L. V. F. Randolph, Plainfield; Jacob Wilcox, Summit; James Alton, New Providence. The executive committee will fill vacancies in its own ranks and those in the advisory committee.

Judge Runyon's election to the presidency was greeted with prolonged applause. He was nominated by Mr. Cissell, who referred to the fact that he "had been tried and not found wanting."

In accepting the office Judge Runyon, after thanking the assemblage for the honor conferred on him, urged the reformers to remember that the movement was not started in a spirit of animosity; that it was entered into to spread good government, honest government, throughout the State.

He thougnt it only fitting, he said, to say a word concerning himself. It had been charged that he was actuated in joining the movement by a spirit of spleen and a spirit of spite. He assured his colleagues that that was not the case. A small matter in Plainfield had brought to his mind and to his notice things he had not realized before. He felt then that if he was a good citizen it behooved him to seek different associations. He had no ill-feeling, and would try to serve his new associates in all honesty of purpose.

The organization was to remember, the Judge continued, that it was up against practical politics in its most practical phase. A politician affiliated with the ring, who called himself his "good friend," had told him how sorry he, the politician, was that he had gone into the movement because it was going to fall flat in the county. He must expect a hard and relentless fight; the bread and butter of those in the movement would be attacked; and the organization would seek to hurt all those connected with it. That was one of the conditions, the Judge said, the reformers were up against. But it would make them work with greater energy, courage, loyalty, zeal and devotion. Union county in the future would be found following the lead of Essex and Hudson. They ought to be on the side of the right and better things in life. He felt certain that if each one felt a sense of personal responsibility, no matter what his position or rank might be, they should and would win.

Following the election of officers and the adoption of the constitution speeches were made by Mayor Mark L. Fagan, of Jersey City; Senator Colby, George L. Record, of Jersey City, and John S. Gibson, of Newark, a leader in the reform fight in Essex. All the speakers were received with loud and sustained applause.

Mayor Fagan was the first speaker. He related his experience in Hudson county and Jersey City. He told how he found himself in trouble as soon as he started to give the people what he had promised them before the election. He found corporations outrageously undertaxed, and when county leaders came to him and sought to have the taxes kept at their old level, he discovered that those leaders were directly or indirectly connected with the corporations.

For five years, he went on, it had been said "It is in the air," but it was more true that "it was in the hearts of the people"—a desire for better things in connection with government, city, State and National. Being in the hearts, all that was necessary was somebody to take the lead. There were, he thanked God, energetic, able and courageous men ready to take the leadership, and there was no doubt as to the results.

When he tried to do his duty in Jersey City, the speaker continued, he was interfered with. He was told that his first duty was to his party. He couldn't see it that way. He was a good Republican, but he didn't know of any better way to serve it than by honestly serving in office.

One thing Mr. Fagan said he desired to impress on his hearers. That was the necessity of going to the primaries. It was of no use to talk and complain unless the voters turned out at the primary. If the boss made the nominations, it made no difference to him or his employer, the corporations, who was elected. At long as the bosses nominated, the corporations were always elected. The honest voters owed it to their citizenship to do some speaking and some work in connection with the government. The politicians thought of politics all the time.

The change in Jersey City had not come because of Fagan or Record, but because the people were back of the fight that was made. And the backing was secured and held because every promise to the people was kept and things were done that not even been promised. And the backing of the people had made wonderful results. In every State of the Union, no matter how great was the power of the corporations and the bosses, the power of the people was a thousand times greater.

Mr. Fagan closed with an earnest plea for work at the primaries. There were enough men present, he said, to win the fight in Elizabeth if they went into it with that duty actuating them.

Mr. Gibson followed Mr. Fagan. He told of the fight in Essex county, and how less than a dozen men had launched it. When such results had been attained there after so humble a start, what could not a representative gathering of the sort before him do in Union?

The speaker pointed out how the expression of the electorate's disgust with regnant political machines had moved the Legislature to acts that would never have ben taken otherwise. They were only at the beginning of the work. The Legislature was to be held in line on franchise limitation, and greater safeguards against franchise jobbery were needed; franchise taxation needed attention.

Mr. Gibson made a hit with a whack at the organization men who have been yelling "Muck-rakers!" at the Colbyites. "We're called muck-rakers by the muck-makers," he said, and the assemblage gave way to unbounded delight.

Corporation Counsel Record, who followed Mr. Gibson, opened his speech by congratulating the Union county organization in having "a chief virtuous enough to refuse the traditional thirty pieces of silver." The audience clapped enthusiastically.

The chairman had said, Mr. Record went on, that the new organization was up against a hard fight. He desired to emphasize that. The chairman himself probably did not realize how hard the fight would be. The strength of the machine lay in money; cash was their power. And the cash came from the corporations. It was not the machines they were up against, but tremendous interests,

BASEBALL SEASON OPENS

Clinton Avenue Team Took Place of All-Cubans Who Failed to Appear.

PLAYED FAST BALL

Plainfield Team Squeezed Out a Victory By Close Score—Fitzsimmons Umpired the Bascs.

The hopes of 2,500 baseball fans were blasted and trailed in the dust Saturday over the non-appearance of the All Cuban team which was booked to play the opening game with the Plainfields. The inability of the Cubans to be here was conveyed to Manager Daab as he stepped off the 2:11 train Saturday afternoon, in a telegram from Nat C. Strong, who is engaged as the team's booking agent this season. The telegram was bereft of any detailed information but simply stated that the players had not arrived on the Havana steamer in New York, Saturday, as expected.

Almost crushed with the information Manager Daab hardly knew which way to turn or what course to pursue. Luckily the Clinton Avenue team had an off-day and Manager John Kriney was hunted up, who after much difficulty, succeeded in getting his aggregation on the grounds with uniforms.

In the meantime the grounds were packed with indications for a record-breaking crowd of 3,000 or over. In order to inform the waiting fans of the disappointment word was despatched to the grounds, where President Runyon, of the Baseball Association, announced it to the crowd. He made known the fact that all who didn't care to remain could have their money refunded at the gates.

Although the news took the heart out of all the fans not over two hundred left the grounds. They thoroughly appreciated the unfortunate turn of events but exhibited its true sportsmanship by remaining until the Clinton Avenue and Plainfield teams started off, which was shortly after 4 o'clock.

Everybody who remained was well paid as a rattling good struggle ensued between the amateurs and semi-professionals, the latter winning out by the score of 3 to 1. The majority prepared themselves for a one-sided runaway match, but the Clinton Avenues, with Montross in the box, played an exceptionally strong game and proved a bothersome problem for the semi-professionals throughout the contest. The West End team was fast in the field but its inability to execute any base hit work prevented any run-getting, with the exception of the solitary tally that went across the plate while Deegan was on the slab.

"Jimmy" Montross was never in better form and fooled his opponents at every stage of the game. He mixed his slow ones with speedy shoots and kept them guessing until the last

HEARST MAN HEADS UNION DEMOCRATS

ELIZABETH MAN SUCCEEDS JOHN MOODY AS CHAIRMAN.

Judge Owen P. Mahon has been elected chairman of the Union County Democratic Committee to succeed John Moody. The name of William E. Tuttle, of Westfield, did not come up for discussion, he having refused to accept the nomination. George Cladek, a member of the Board of Freeholders, from Rahway, has been chosen vice chairman. No changes are made in the other offices.

Judge Mahon is the police justice at headquarters in Elizabeth. He is a great admirer of Hearst and is in accord in many ways with the doctrines of John Moody, who resigned.

Delirious from a severe attack of pneumonia, Winfield Chase, aged twenty-four years, son of former Chief of Police W. S. Chase, eluded his nurse at 3.30 yesterday morning and escaped from his home on Willever street, near the Safe Works. Clad only in an overcoat and wearing a thin pair of socks he walked directly to the center of the city. He was picked up by Sergeant Frederickson at Front street and Park avenue just as he was on the point of collapsing.

He was wrapped in blankets and then taken back home in the patrol wagon. The long walk and exposure aggravated his illness and today his condition is critical.

CONFERENCE WITH P.S.C.

President McCarter and Other Officials to Meet P. P.A. Executive Committee.

AT CASINO TONIGHT

To Take Up the Complaints of Local Gas Consumers Concerning Alleged Exorbitant Bills.

The Public Service Corporation and the Plainfield Protective Association will hold a conclave at the Casino tonight, hoping to come to some satisfactory agreement regarding the alleged exorbitant gas bills in this city and in North Plainfield. Thomas H. McCarter, president of the P. S. C., and a number of other officials, including Col. Hine, will be on hand to meet President Depew and the members of the P. P. A.'s executive committee.

For a month or so, the P. P. A.'s executive committee has been going over the grievances of local gas consumers and a good deal of investigating of the complaints has been made. When the agitation first arose, the P. S. C. announced its willingness to treat with the organization and at its own request the conference was arranged.

President Depew and his colleagues will lay before President McCarter the grievances and it will then be up to the P. S. C. to straighten matters out.

It was said this afternoon that Frank Bergen, chief counsel for the Public Service Association, will also be present tonight.

FITZ HEARS NEWS OF MOTHER'S DEATH

VISIBLY AFFECTED WHEN PRESS REPORTER READS HIM DISPATCH.

Returning from his usual morning jaunt shortly before noon today, Pugilist Robert Fitzsimmons, at the Hotel Iroquois, received the sad news that his mother, Mrs. Jane Fitzsimmons, had died at her home in Timaru, New Zealand, yesterday. The information was conveyed to him by a Daily Press reporter, a cable dispatch to that effect having reached the office but a short time before.

The big-hearted fighter was visibly affected by the news as mother and son have always been greatly attached to each other and it was the latter's hope that he might soon bring her to his farm at Dunellen. Mrs. Fitzsimmons was nearly 100 years old but she had always enjoyed good health and neither she or "Bob" doubted but what she could stand the journey. She was the mother of twelve children, the former champion being the youngest. There are five daughters and one son living at Timeru and two sons in America, Robert and William, the latter residing in Philadelphia.

"Bob's" father, who was also over ninety, died about eighty years ago.

HARRY BARTON DIED AT COUNCIL BLUFFS.

Plainfielder Passed Away in the West After a Long Illness.

Following a long illness which he had sought in vain to overcome, Harry Barton, of West Fourth street, died Friday at Council Bluffs, Iowa. He had been undergoing outdoor treatment in the western city for the past year or more and had remained to the end in hope that a change for the better would come. The body has been brought East and the funeral will be held from his former residence on West Fourth street tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be at Hillside.

Mr. Barton was twenty-nine years old and was employed for many years by A. E. Hoagland, the expressman. He afterward secured an appointment as motorman on the Elizabeth-Plainfield trolley line and held the position until he met with an accident at Elizabeth two years ago. He was changing the fender on his car when an express wagon knocked him down and ran over him. He sustained a broken leg and other injuries which brought on the pulmonary trouble that resulted in his death.

He leaves a widow, who was formerly Miss Fannie Overland, and two children, Harry and Percy, aged eight years and two years. He was a member of Somerset Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., and the organization will be represented at the funeral.

GOLFERS DIVIDE HONORS

H. D. Hibbard and E.B. Shoemaker Each Return a Score of 81.

PLAY FOR THE MAY CUP

Many Enthusiasts Engage In Weekly Competitions—Mrs. E. E. Iremonger Wins Clock Golf Contest.

While the initial tennis tournament, men's doubles, at the Plainfield County Club, on Saturday, attracted several golf enthusiasts, there was a good sized entry for the Golf Committee cup, weekly competition, and some excellent scores were returned. Tnere were also a number who entered and played, but for various reasons did not post their scores afterward. It was a delightful day for golf and the course showed improvement.

Henry D. Hibbard and E. B. Shoemaker were tie for first honors for the Golf Committee cup, each returning a net score of 81. As the former had a low handicap and the latter played from scratch their scores were considered exceptionally good at this time of the year. C. B. Morgan won the remaining point with a score of 83, from scratch. Mr. Hibbard and Mr. Shoemaker each received 2½ points.

The scores for the Golf Committee cup are as follows:

Henry D. Hibbard, 86, 5-81; E. B. Shoemaker, 81, 0-81; C. B. Morgan, 83, 0-83; Hugh F. Fox, 99, 15-84; G. F. Earl, 104, 15-89; James P. Murray, 104, 13-91.

Another event of interest on Saturday was the first play for the May cup, presented by E. B. Shoemaker. This is to be competed for each Saturday in the month. Henry D. Hibbard and E. B. Shoemaker divided the honors in the initial competition with a score of 81. The scores:

Henry D. Hibbard, 86, 5-81; E. B. Shoemaker, 81, 0-81; Hugh F. Fox, 99, 15-84; G. F. Earl, 104, 15-89; James P. Murray, 104, 13-91.

In the women's clock golf contest, the first one held this season, Mrs. E. E. Iremonger was the winner with a score of 23.

The Park Golf Club opened the season on Saturday with general play. As the schedule of events have not yet been entirely completed the attendance was small for the opening day. It is expected that by another week the play will be well underway at this popular club and that there will be considerable rivalry in the various competitions.

There was an informal opening of the Middlebrook Country Club, Findern, on Saturday and a large number of members took part in the general play. Arrangements are now being made for a tournament on Decoration Day, handicaps to be determined on the same general basis as for last Election day. It will be under the management of Charles Byer, Jr., from whom all information can be secured.

Ie is intended to urge the Common Council to allow the firemen and the policemen to turn out on that occasion and it is quite probable that there will be a number of organizations in line.

HORSE THIEVES VISIT PISCATAWAY TOWNSHIP

TAKE CHARLES DAY'S IHORSE AND CHARLES THORNTON'S BUGGY.

Horse thieves are again at work in Piscataway township and the residents are up in arms. Yesterday morning between 3 and 3.30 o'clock thieves entered the barn of harles Day at New Market and stole his valuable horse and best harness. From there they went to Charles Thornton's barn nearby and appropriated his new buggy, which they made their escape in the direction of New Brunswick.

The Pitcataway Township Protective Association took charge of the matter at once and sent out a general alarm.

The protective association offers a standing reward for the detection and conviction of thieves. Mr. Day values his horse at about $150 and the harness at $50. The buggy is worth about $100.

The principal witness this morning was Miss Godwin, daughter of the injured woman, she describing her mother's condition at the time of the accident and since then. It was also brought out at the morning session that Miss Godwin is to be married on June 5 in St. Stephen's church, although this appeared to have no particular bearing on the case.

COP'S SUBAQUEOUS TRIP

Fugitive Took Refuge in the Guinea Egg Pond and Patrolman Followed.

BOTH MUD SOAKED

Prisoner Had Broken Up Wedding Feast Because the Bride Had Jilted Him.

If Chief Kiely sees fit to establish a submarine corps in the local police department Patrolman Morris Higgins will undoubtedly secure the first appointment. He established his eligibility to the position last night by leaping into the muddy depths of "Guinea Egg pond," located on West Fourth street at Evona avenue, and hauling out Frank Raymond, who had plunged into it to escape him. When the officer and his quarry reached dry ground both were fit subjects for a Turkish bath, mud and water oozing from their clothes and shoes at every step.

Raymond, who resides in the West End, had been courting Marie Parvelo up to a short time ago but she recently took a liking to Peter Puscho, a Safe Works employee, and agreed to marry him last night. Raymond didn't like the idea of being cast aside and last Friday warned Marie, Peter and all the rest concerned that if the wedding took place he would drop around and so some execution with a revolver. Arrangements for the nuptial event were made just the same and though a sharp eye was kept out for anyone coming with a gun at Peter's home on Evona avenue last evening, the disconsolate swain got in before the doorkeeper could give an alarm. Some of the guests say he had a pistol and others say he didn't, but at any rate there was a stampede, the bride and groom being among the first to leap through a window and make for safer quarters.

Raymond backed out into the road and stood there inviting anyone who cared to come out and be bored full of holes. While he was doing this one of the guests ran to a telephone and asked the police to send out the reserves, resulting in Parolman Higgins being rushed to the scene. Raymond sighted the bluecoat coming and immediately "beat it" down Evona avenue but he soon found that the officer was gaining on him.

When the pond was reached, the fugitive never hesitated an instant, but leaped into the water and then by ducking swam directly to the middle. Higgins stood on the bank and ordered him to come out but Raymond only dived beneath the surface and playfully blew up a few bubbles. Even the drawing of the policeman's revolver failed to scare him and when bullets began whistling about he would go down below and stay until his breath gave out. Higgins has solved many a problem like this one and he decided to end matters by doing the aquatic act himself. He suddenly leaped into the water and caught Raymond by the collar before he had a chance to swim the opposite way. He put up a fight for a moment but one or two taps with the billy served to quiet him and keep him that way until the jail was reached.

Peter Puscho and a bunch of witnesses were in court this morning and Raymond had somehow managed to get a few to appear in his behalf. There was a lot of conflicting testimony as to whether or not he had a pistol and this point was dropped. On general principles, however, Judge Runyon fined him $5 and warned him he would impose a quadruple amount if he bothered Puscho and his bride or did the disappearing plunge act again.

The proceeds from the luncheon will be for the benefit of the building fund.

Goff Retiring From Hotel Business.

of carriages, when you want to buy, is not as simple an affair as buying a paper of pins or a bag of salt. There is much about a carriage, buggy, runabout or other pleasure vehicle for style and pleasure, that must be considered. Don't buy a carriage you can't see or try. Catalogue carriages look nice on paper, but they don't wear well on the road. Our carriages come from the foremost makers, and have all the new desirable features. PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The local ball team opened the season Saturday afternoon by defeating the Somersets, of Plainfield, by the score of 8 to 4. The work of both teams was snappy and a good clean game was witnessed. The home team won out by timely batting in the sixth and seventh innings. The interest shown in the game and the work done by the "scrubs" will no doubt lead to the organizing of a regular team to again represent the town on the diamond. There is enough material here to put a strong amateur team in the field and there is no reason why the lovers of the game here cannot enjoy a game every Saturday. The local lineup in Saturday's game was: Mooney, c; Johnston, p; H. Alberts, 1b; Reick, 2b; Eller, ss; Frentz, 3b; J. Alberts, lf; Fiannery, cf; Miller, rf; Vanderbilt, sub. Umpire, Edward L. Hand.

The Township Committee has passed an ordinance compelling anyone desiring to make connection with the water or gas mains to first obtain a permit from Township Clerk Edward L. Hand. Fifty cents is to be charged for each permit granted. The committee has been forced to pass this ordinance on account of the condition in which plumbers have left the sidewalks and gutters in making a number of connections in the past.

The failure of the All Cuban team to show up at Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon, was not due to any fault of the management of either team, simply Government red tap, their ship being held at Quarantine. Never mind, the pennant was flung to the breeze and the local cranks had an opportunity to see "Bob" Fitzsimmons anyway.

The attraction at the New Plainfield theatre tonight is an exhibition of moving pictures and stereopticon views of San Francisco. A part of the proceeds will be donated to the relief fund for the stricken city started by The Daily Press.

inning. Montross' fine work elicited applause at intervals throughout the game. O'Loughlin's work behind the bat was also clever.

"Bob" Fitzsimmons' work as umpire on the base lines was free from criticisms. The exponent of the manly art was the recipient of many "jollies" and words of advice from the grandstand at intervals, but he failed to get rattled and performed his duty in a business-like manner.

During the vain wait for the Cubans the pennant was unfurled to the breeze amid a demonstration of enthusiasm. The emblem floated proudly and defiantly, its presence giving the appearance of being more like a ball field than ever.

The unfortunate experience of Saturday will not be duplicated in the future, and the officials of the association appreciate the indulgence of the fans and the fairness of spirit displayed on receipt of the disappointing news.

There will be no more booming up of "opening games in this column until March, '08.

The fanning "bugs" were a might disappointed over the non-arrival of the All Cubans, but the snappy exhibition put up by the Clinton Avenue team partially atoned for the unfortunate catastrophe.

Although devoid of its artistic polish the opening demonstrated the fact that baseball under the management of Manager Daab and the Plainfield Baseball Association will be a successful venture.

The sight of seeing "Smiling Jimmy" Montross in the box attired in an old Hope chapel Y. M. A. uniform brought back recollections to many of the spectators of the days of the city amateur league when "Jimmy" was an idol in every sense of the word. When it was announced that Jimmy would pitch for the Clinton Avenues vigorous applause from the grandstand and bleachers greeted the news.

By his performance "Jimmy" demonstrated that he is still a twirler to be reckoned with. He had the heavy batters of the Plainfields guessing all the time and at no period of the contest could they gauge his delivery with any degree of effectiveness. He had the satisfaction of fanning Henriques out twice.

Smith, Deegan and Kelly each pitched three innings. There is no doubt that Smith has the goods and that he will be seen in a goodly share of the games through the season. "Jack" O'Neill says the boy has a tantalizing drop that will fool the best of batters.

The Plainfield fielders had a comparatively easy time of it as there was very little slugging on the bill of the Clinton Avenues.

"Jack" Martin, of the Clinton Avenues, gave a gilt edged exhibition. His accurate throwing to first base and fast playing in the infield won the admiration of the spectators. Several of the old time experts, like John Cose, for instance, assured everybody that he has the goods.

Those who have declared that Harry Montross cannot catch fly balls have another guess coming. He gobbled everything in sight and nothing was too hard for him to get after.

"Dick" Scott, who calls himself a "has been," covered first bag to perfection. There was one thing lacking with Dick—he forgot to bring along his batting eye—but as this was his first game in three seasons the failure of his slap stick work can be excused. Dick says that Deegan is the king pin of the Plainfield twirling staff, and that Montross can put it all over Smith and Kelly.

Dean Robert Fitzsimmons, of the Plainfield Biff Studio, advised Jack O'Neill to cable to Paris for a pair of new motor skates to be used in base running.

The American athlete had to go all the way to Greece to convince everybody that he is the best in the world.

The automobile is vindicated. During the month of April in New York wagons killed 50 per cent. more pedestrians than did trolley cars.

There was no kicks coming on Fitz's umpiring. He handled one of two close decisions in a la Emslie style.

The St. Louis Nationals have the coolest hot weather battery in the business—Glade and Rockey.

George Mallen looks very much in place on the Plainfield team.

C. Denman felt like a fish out of water and was among the Westfielders who witnessed the game.

Lou Wiltse got his bumps Saturday. Pennsylvania B. B. history says he was knocked out of game and box in the fourth inning by Lancaster.

There is still some hope for Brooklyn. It will have a chance to meet Cincinnati soon.

The sporting editor is in receipt of the following challenge: "The Plainfield Stars have organized and are ready to play any amateur team in the country. Address all letters to F. D. Selby, 1405 Evergreen avenue, Plainfield, N. J." The lineup for the season will be: P. Coleman, cf; W. Davis or M. Conton, 1b; C. Peterson, 3b; R. Johnson, rf; F. Somerset, lf; T. Plummer or E. Johnson, 2b; H. Gordon, ss; B. Fitzgerald, c; J. Garner, p.

If there are any more such sweeping challenges from amateur teams, baseball scores or other items of interest, the column is open.

Last Friday the Elizabeth Evening Journal printed the following relative to the situation in Westfield: "It's all wrong about baseball being dead in Westfield, says Charles Nicolas, the manager of the new team in that place, and he says it very emphatically. It may be that the attendance at the game last Saturday was not so hearty as would have been desired, but for all that Nicolas says his men are going to stick, and to put up the real article of ball. Also, Manager Nicolas states that the man who asserts that the receipts on Saturday were only $11 as against $80 expenses, has another guess coming. Nicolas believes that Westfield will come to support his team in good shape. He says the people there are getting much interested because the opening game showed that the Westfield team is not a second rater. Levy satisfied as a pitcher, and Fritz was all there at the other end. Just to show that he is not working a con, Nicolas has issued a defi to the Plainfield aggregation and also to Burke's Stars, and he intends to play for the championship of Union county. Tomorrow the Westfield nine will meet the Newark Stars. Levy and Fritz will make up the Westfield battery, Miller and Hansen will do the same for the Newark Stars."

Amateur Ball Series.

Two amateur teams, captained by Burlin Banks and George McVoy, have arranged a series of three games, to be played on grounds secured at Warrenville. The contests are not to be public. They are designed merely to furnish Saturday afternoon sport for eighteen congenial companions, and the captains refuse to make public either the names of their players or the dates of the games. The scores will not be published.

(Other sporting news on page eight).

"DUTCH" IDES' DENIAL.

Claims He Did Not Participate in Series of Central Robberies.

Bayonne, May 7.—Frank Ides, alias "Dutch" Ides, who escaped from the Rahway Reformatory for the third time last November, and was arrested in a poolroom here on Tuesday afternoon, begs for a chance to reform. To Chief of Detectives Dougherty, of the Central railroad, who put Ides through a cross-examination in an effort to learn if he knew anything about the series of freight car and station robberies that have been committed along the line of the road since his escape from the Rahway institution, Ides disclaimed having committed any of the thefts referred to and frankly told Chief Dougherty that he had warned his comrades against committing robberies along the line of any railroad, as he would surely be blamed for whatever was done.

The police are not deeply impressed with Ides' disposition to reform, and because of his character are not inclined to show him any clemency.

AFTER STANDARD OIL.

In a special message to Congress, President Roosevelt, strikes at the Standard Oil Company, basing his official utterances on a report made by Special Commissioner Garfield.

Following are the salient features of the message:

"The report shows that the Standard Oil Company has benefited enormously up almost to the present moment by secret rates, many of these secret rates being clearly unlawful. This benefit amounts to at least three quarters of a million a year.

"A very striking result of the investigation has been that shortly after the discovery of these secret rates by the Commissioner of Corporations the major portion of them were promptly corrected by the railroads, so that the most of them have now been done away with.

The hands of the government have been greatly strengthened in securing an effective remedy by the recent decision of the Supreme Court in the case instituted by the government against the Tobacco Trust, which decision permits the government to examine the books and records of any corporation engaged in interstate commerce.

"But in addition to these secret rates the Standard Oil profits immensely by open rates, which are so arranged as to give it an overwhelming advantage over its independent competitors. The refusal of the railroads in certain cases to prorate produces analogous effects. . . . The granting to the government of the power to substitute a proper for an improper rate is in very many instances the only effective way in which to prevent improper discriminations in rates.

"It is unfortunately not true that the Standard Oil Company is the only great corporation which in the immediate past has benefited and is at this moment benefiting, in wholly improper fashion, by an elaborate series of rate discriminations which permit it to profit both at the expense of its rivals and of the general public.

"The government should have power by its agents to examine into the conduct of the railways—that is, the examiners under the direction of the Interstate Commerce Commission should be able to examine as thoroughly into the affairs of the railroads as bank examiners now examine into the affairs of banks.

"What is needed is the conferring upon the commission of ample affirmation power, so conferred as to make its decisions take effect at once, subject only to such action by the court as is demanded by the Constitution. . . . I am well aware that within the limits thus set the commission may at times be guilty of injustice; but far grosser and far more frequent injustice, and injustice of a much more injurious kind, now results and must always result from the failure to give the commission ample power to act promptly and effectively within these broad limits."

DR. VAN DYKE ON THE MUCK RAKE.

Dr. Cleveland and Dr. Van Dyke disagree on the merits of the muke rake as a cure for the ills of the nation. While the former President deplores the tendency of the newspapers and magazines to "flaunt" the wrongdoing of those in authority, the Princeton professor exclaims: "Let in the light; let us get after the tricksters in politics, the shysters in literature, the grafters in business, the shirkers in labor."

Commenting on his speech, the Newark News says:

"Dr. Van Dyke has enlisted in the ranks of the so-called muck-rakers, by his advocacy of such a policy. Politics is filled with tricksters and grafters and to get after them will, according to the regulars, create factions, induce party disloyalty, promote mugwumpery, break machines, destroy bossism and overthrow the whole system that it has taken years to establish. So much the better if it does, but there is one fact to be kept in mind, it takes a muck rake to remove muck, and muck-rakers thrust out muck-makers."

SOAKING THE CONSUMER.

Plainfield is not the only city in New Jersey to have reason to complain of the exorbitant price of ice. Jersey City, Newark and Paterson suffer even more heavily. In two of these municipalities the alleged combines demand a cent a pound while in Newark the rate is eighty cents a hundred.

But unlike Plainfield the authorities in Newark, Jersey City and Paterson are awake to the fact that they must do something in the matter. Newark's mayor has already taken a hand in the affair and will use all means in his power to bring the alleged combine of dealers to terms.

Wouldn't it be a good thing for Mayor Buckle to do a little investigating as to the cause of the rise here?

By Tom Muir.

Liebler & Co., who control "Raffles," will organize a second company to present the play in England next season. Charles Du Maurier, a young and versatile actor, will play the part created by Kyrle Bellew.

Fred Bennett, who has been the efficient stage manager at the New Plainfield since its opening, joins Edward Harrigan's company at Philadelphia today for the remainder of the season. It closes in New York on June 2. Mr. Bennett will watch the staging of "Old Lavender."

Keep in mind the fact that tonight will be your last opportunity to visit the New Plainfield theatre until August 10. It might be well to remember also that one-quarter of the receipts for the San Francisco pictures will be added to the Daily Press fund for the relief of the unfortunates in the California city.

Plainfield certainly gets the wrong end of the deal in the circus line. While local people were paying fifty cents for a seat in the Frank Robbins show Saturday, New Brunswickers on the same day had the opportunity of looking over Barnum & Bailey's big aggregation for the same money. There is hope for us, however, as Stanley Dawson, treasurer for Ringling Brothers show, bigger yet than B. & B.'s, says it will pay Plainfield its first visit this season.

MUTUAL LIFE TRUSTEES.

Six Nominated to Fill Vacancies—Election and Bylaw Alterations.

New York, May 7.—At a meeting of the trustees of the Mutual Life Insurance Company Thursday the following were nominated to fill six of the eight vacancies in the board: Nathaniel Thayer, of Boston; Hugo Baring, of Baring & Co.; Louis Stern, of Stern Bros.; George P. Miller, a lawyer, of Milwaukee; Charles S. Brown, a partner in the real estate business of Douglas Robinson, brother-in-law of President Roosevelt, and Leroy Springs, the cotton manufacturer, of Lancaster, S. C., who was recommended for the place by the policy-holders' committee of that State.

These trustees will be elected at a special meeting of the board that has been called for Monday. At the same time the bylaws as revised by the bylaws committee will probably be adopted. The report of the committee was presented, but nothing concerning the changes recommended was made public.

"Bob" Davis' Criticizer Retracts.

Jersey City, May 7.—William H. Beach, president of the Layman's Association of the Newark Methodist Episcopal Confernce, and a prominent member of the West Side M. E. church, sent Thursday to Robert Davis a letter retracting his statement that Mr. Davis was "the arch enemy of Jersey City." Mr. Davis is a stockholder in the local baseball club, and Mr. Beach criticized him for allowing last Sunday's ball game at West Side Park.

McCarter, president of the Public Service Corporation, to close two roads in order to rearrange his new property at Rumson, has been refused by the township committee of Shrewsbury township. Mr. McCarter desired to close part of Kemp avenue and also part of the Ridge road, his object being to change the appearance of his land, which the old roads intersect. RUNYON HEAD OF LEAUGE financial and commercial. If it were simply a case of fighting the practical politicians, the latter would be short and easy. The politician held his position of power not by virtue of his brains, because he didn't have any, but through the cash in vast, unlimited quantities that stood behind him. In a straight fight between machine and reform, the latter would sweep the former from its base in two weeks. The powerful interests back of the bosses made the fight a hard one. All attacks on special privileges called every interest of the same sort as that attacked to arms.

In closing, Mr. Record urged his hearers to go into battle with a large and unshakeable faith in the all-conquering power of right. As the cause made itself felt, he said, the popular espousal of its creed would produce leaders, results and a marvelous measure of success would follow.

Senator Colby spoke last, and briefly. He merely desired to add a word of encouragement, he said in opening. In Essex and Hudson they had all been through the same experience through which the chairman was passing. Whenever reformers grabbed something substantial and hung on they were offered $5,000 jobs and other things. (Laughter and applause.)

The fundamental principle on which the new idea rested, he continued, was merely that representatives should represent the people and not dinner-party conferences of the organization leaders. The people were behind the movement. The night before he had gone to Atlantic City with a carful of periodical publishers on their way to a meeting of their association, and their spokesman had told him that every man in the gathering—composed of men whose writings reached millions and millions of people and who knew the pulse of the public as few others could know it—was with the movement. They knew what the people were thinking and knew the leaders in the new movement were on the right track.

The battle was for the maintenance of proper taxation of railroads in this State, Mr. Colby went on, for the popular selection of U. S. Senators through the primaries, and for the enactment of a law compelling chairmen of committees in the Legislature to present bills on the demand of a certain number of legislators. Whenever there was a thoroughly rotten political condition. it could be traced to a bad political idea, and in this fight it was to be remembered that men were not the marks for assault, but ideas.

Different issues were to be considered in different counties, the speaker said in closing. The Union county men were to raise up their own. He urged on them the necessity for hard work. They were to get their candidates early in the field and get into the field themselves. They were to tell every single voter what they stood for and what they hoped to do. If they did that, no power could best them.

Before the meeting closed it was voted to have 1,000 copies of the constitution printed for use in organizing the branches throughout the county. A meeting of the executive committee will be held at Mr. Groves' law office next Monday night, to lay out the first steps of the county campaign.

VAN AND TROLLEY CAR WERE IN COLLISION.

Drivers Hurled From Wagon But Escaped Injury.

One of Captain William Hand's furniture vans in charge of Henry Redd and Charles Johnson, attempted to cross the trolley tracks on East Second street, near Berckman, Saturday afternoon, and was struck by an eastbound trolley car. It is claimed that the driver of the van made such a short turn that the motorman was unable to stop his car in time to prevent a collision.

Both Redd and Johnson were thrown off the seat, injured. The van was partially wrecked and the horses slightly cut. The front of the trolley car was damaged to some extent, but the motorman was not hurt. Travel was delayed for a time.

POOR, SHE REFUSED TO BE DISHONEST.

Would Not Sell $1,000 Brooch Daughter Found, Though Advised to Do So.

Mrs. Henry Nathan, wife of a merchant of Paterson, recovered Saturday a diamond brooch worth $1,000 which she lost three days ago. It was found by Katie Weber, twelve years old. The mother of the little girl is so poor that she is compelled to seek aid from the Charity Organization, but she declined to listen to the advice of her neighbors to sell the brooch.

She called on Otto W. Davis, secretary of the Charity Organization. Mr. Davis found that the loss had been advertised in the local newspapers and that the police had been notified. He accompanied Mrs. Weber to Mr. Nathan's store. Mr. and Mrs. Nathan handsomely rewarded the mother and daughter.

Mrs. Nathan lost the brooch on her way to a dentist's office, and the little Weber girl picked it up on Ellison street.

CRIPPLED BOY MISSING.

Had Shown a Desire to Earn Money for Himself.

An alarm has been sent out for Christopher Bryant, Jr., thirteen years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher M. Bryant, of Washington, Warren county, who has been missing from the home of his parents since last Wednesday.

The lad was anxious to make money by his own efforts and worked for a local milk dealer in the mornings and sold newspapers in the afternoons. He was last seen Wednesday morning riding on a wagon on Broad street, driven by Henry Scribner.

Scribner drove to Clinton, but he says the boy returned to Washington with him.

The boy is small for his age and a cripple as a result of a paralytic stroke sustained several years ago. He was dressed in a mixed gray suit when he left home.

UNION ENEMY OF NEGROES.

Woman Denounces Federation of Labor to Cornell Students.

Ithaca, May 7.—Mrs. Mary Church Terrell, president of the National Association of Colored Women, delivered Friday one of the most impressive addresses that has been heard at Cornell this year in pleading for fair play for the negro race.

Mrs. Terrell declared that the American Federation of Labor was one of the greatest enemies of the advancement of the colored race, in its edict that no negroes should be allowed in unions and that union men should not work with colored men. She said the negro is judged by the most vicious of his race rather than by the best.

Will Be Tried for His Life.

Morristown, May 7.—The grand jury came into court Thursday with eleven indictments after having been out two days, the shortest session held by a grand jury in this county in a quarter of a century. Samuel Monich, charged with murdering Mrs. Harriet C. Decker, of Montville, was brought into court Thursday and pleaded not guilty to the charge. His counsel, Mayor Charlton A. Reed, stated that Monich was willing to plead guilty to murder in the second degree, but after considering the matter Justice Abram Q. Garretson decided it was not right for him to accept that plea, and Monich will be placed on trial for his life.

Boy Born on Lackawanna Ferryboat.

Hoboken, May 7.—Mrs. Herman Parker, of Clifton Park, gave birth to a boy today on the ferryboat Binghamton, of the Lackawanna line, while the boat was on its way to New York. The woman was accompanied by two friends, intending to visit New York on a shopping expedition. Mrs. Parker and son were taken to a New York hospital.

Company K Wins Telegraph Shoot.

Company K won the twelve men team telegraph shoot with Co. L, of Princeton, Saturday night. The Plainfield boys made a total of 1054 points as against 1014 by their opponents. The Princetonians had Lieutenant Tull stationed at this end to transmit the scores and Regimental Adjutant John M. Rodgers represented Plainfield at Princeton.

Unknown Swede Killed.

An unknown Swede was struck and killed by a train on the Lehigh Valley Railroad at Aldene, this morning. The body was picked up and taken to South Plainfield, when George Cole was summoned to remove it to his morgue in this city. The remains are now at the morgue awaiting identification.

Death of Mrs. Amos Jackson.

Mrs. Annie E. Jackson, wife of Amos Jackson, died at her home on Clinton avenue, yesterday. She was sixty years old and had resided in Plainfield for a long time, coming here from England. She is survived by five sons and a daughter. The funeral will be held at her late home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock and interment will be at Hillside.

Samuel Block Heard From.

Samuel Block, formerly of Plainfield, but recently of San Francisco, has been heard from and is expected here this week. He was in San Francisco during the earthquake and it was feared at first that he was among the dead as he was living in the centre of the disturbance.

WIFE IS MISSING; MYSTERY ABOUT IT.

Last Seen Going Toward Railroad Station With Boarder's Suit Case.

Mrs. Robert Newing, who conducted a boarding-house at No. 288 Gregory avenue, Passaic, has not been home since Thursday and efforts to trace her have failed. Mrs. Newing is thirty-six years old and good looking. Her husband formerly kept a grocery at Englewood, but now is in business in New York.

When he returned home Thursday night he found a note from his wife saying she had gone to Englewood. When she did not return he went there to look for her, but did not obtain any trace of her.

Joseph Strauss, a Passaic butcher with whom Mrs. Newing traded, appears to have been the first person to see her. She called at his store Thursday afternoon, he says, carrying a suit case which she told him belonged to one of her boarders who was going to leave town. She said she was carrying the case to the station for him because he had something else to carry himself.

She went on to say that she was going to Englewood to try to collect some of the bills owed to her husband by persons there. She then left the butcher's and went in the direction of the railroad station. None of the Newings' friends at Englewood saw her there Thursday afternoon, and so far as can be learned she did not collect any of the outstanding accounts there.

The suit case Mrs. Newing was carrying belonged to John Hoppe, one of the boarders. He has not been at the boarding-house since Thursday.

SHERMAN ABANDONS TRIP.

Priest Traveling With U. S. Troops Feels Hurt Over Criticism.

Cartersville, Ga., May 7.—Rev. Thomas Sherman, son of General William Tecumseh Sherman, has abandoned the trip over the route taken by his father in his famous march to the sea during the Civil War.

The action is a result of the order by President Roosevelt revoking the order for a practise march of cavalry from Fort Oglethorpe over the way that General Sherman made famous.

Father Sherman felt much hurt when he learned that his trip had aroused bitter criticism from Southerners and upon learning that President Roosevelt had taken action Father Sherman had his effects removed from the army wagon and taken to the home of General Granger. General Granger was secretary to General Sherman and has lived here for some years.

May Buck Ice Combine.

The increase in the price of ice was discussed by the Business Men's Protective Association of Harrison Friday, and a committee was appointed, consisting of John J. Moen, Julius Hoexter, William Burgesser and Charles J. Witt, to learn if the people of the West Hudson towns would support an independent ice company. The members all favored such a move and agreed to subscribe for shares if a plant was started. It was thought that a plant large enough for West Hudson could be built for $25,000.

HAIR TELLS CHARACTER.

Color of Hair Said to Indicate a Person's Temperament.

Many people believe that blonde, or light hair denotes affection and dark hair constancy. A person without hair is not devoid of character; far from it. The disposition of the average baldheaded man is to show such solicitude for the welfare of others, that he neglects himself. A germ causes baldness. Prof. Sabouraud, of Paris, France, innocculated a rabbit with Dandruff germs, causing it to become totally bald in five weeks' time. To rid the scalp of these dangerous germs it is necessary to apply Newbro's Herpicide.

"Destroy the cause—you remove the effect."

THE SPENDERS

By HARRY LEON WILSON

Copyright, by Lothrop Publishing Company.

Sometimes her companion was voluble; again he was taciturn—and through it all he was doggedly aloof.

Miss Milbrey had put herself bravely in the path of Destiny. Destiny had turned aside. She had turned to meet it, and now it frankly fled. Destiny, as she had construed it, was turned a fugitive. She was bruised, puzzled, and not a little piqued. During the walk back, when this much had been made clear, the silence was intolerably oppressive. Without knowing why, they understood perfectly now that neither had been ingenuous.

"She would love the money and play me for a fool," he thought, under the surface talk. Youth is prone to endow its opinions with all the dignity of certain knowledge.

"Yet I am certain he loves me," thought she. On the other hand, youth is often gifted with a credulity divine and unerring.

At the door as they came up the roadway a trap was depositing a man whom Miss Milbrey greeted with evident surprise and some restraint. He was slight, dark, and quick of movement, with finely cut nostrils that expanded and quivered nervously like those of a high-bred horse in tight check.

Miss Milbrey introduced him to Percival as Mr. Ristine.

"I didn't know you were hereabouts," she said.

"I've run over from the Bloynes to dine and do Hallowe'en with you," he answered, flashing his dark eyes quickly over Percival and again lighting the girl with them.

"Surprises never come singly," she returned, and Percival noted a curious little air of defiance in her glance and manner.

Now it is possible that Solomon's implied distinction as to the man's way with a maid was not, after all, so ill advised.

For young Bines, after dinner, fell in love with Miss Milbrey all over again. The normal human mind going to one extreme will inevitably gravitate to its opposite if given time. Having put her away in the conviction that she was heartless and mercenary—having tasted in the desert of doubt—he now found himself detecting in her an unmistakable appeal for sympathy, for human kindness, perhaps for love. He forgot the words of Higbee and became again the confident, unquestioning lover. He noted her rather subdued and reserved demeanor, and the suggestions of weariness about her eyes. They drew him. He resolved at once to seek her and give his love freedom to tell itself. He would no longer meanly restrain it. He would even tell her all his distrust. Now that they had gone she should know every ignoble suspicion; and, whether she cared for him or not, she would comfort him for the hurt they had been to him.

The Hallowe'en frolic was on. Through the long hall, lighted to pleasant dusk by real Jack-o'-lanterns, stray couples strolled, with subdued murmurs and soft laughter. In the big white and gold parlor, in the dining room, billiard room, and in the tropic jungle of the immense palm garden the party had bestowed itself in congenial groups, ever intersecting and forming anew. Little flutters of high laughter now and then told of tests that were being made with roasting chestnuts, apple parings, the white of an egg dropped into water, or the lighted candle before an open window.

Percival watched for the chance to find Miss Milbrey alone. His sister had just ventured alone with a candle into the library to study the face of her future husband in a mirror. The result had been, in a sense unsatisfactory. She had beheld looking over her shoulder the faces of Mauburn, Fred Milbrey, and the Angstead twins, and had declared herself unnerved by the weird prophecy.

Before the first in the hall Percival stood while Mrs. Akemit reclined picturesquely near by, and Doctor von Herzlich explained, with excessive care as to his enunciation, that protoplasm can be analyzed but cannot be reconstructed; following this with his own views as to why the synthesis does not produce life.

"You wonderful man!" from Mrs. Akemit; "I fairly tremble when I think of all you know. Oh, what a delight science must be to her votaries!"

The Angstead twins joined the group, attracted by Mrs. Akemit's inquiry of the savant if he did not consider civilization a failure. The twins did. They considered civilization a failure because it was killing off all the big game. There was none to speak of now except in Africa; and they were pessimistic about Africa.

Percival listened absently to the talk and watched Miss Milbrey, now one of the group in the dining room. Presently he saw her take a lighted candle from one of the laughing girls and go toward the library.

His heart-beats quickened. Now she should know his love and it would be well. He walked down the hall leisurely, turned into the big parlor, momentarily deserted, walked quickly but softly over its polished floor to a door that gave into the library, pushed the heavy portiere aside and stepped noiselessly in.

The large room was lighted dimly by two immense yellow pumpkins, their sides cut into faces of grinning grotesqueness. At the far side of the room Miss Milbrey had that instant arrived before an antique oval mirror whose gilded carvings reflected the light of the candle. She held it above her head with one rounded arm. He stood in deep shadow and the girl had been too absorbed in the play to note his coming. He took one noiseless step toward her, but then through the curtained doorway by which she had come he saw a man enter swiftly and furtively.

Trembling on the verge of laughing speech, something held him back, some inexplainable instinct making its if known in a thrill that went from his feet to his head; he could feel the roots of his hair tingle. The newcomer went quickly, with catlike tread, toward the girl. Fascinated he stood, wanting to speak, to laugh, yet powerless from the very swiftness of what followed.

In the mirror under the candle light he saw the man's dark face come beside the other, heard a little cry from the girl as she half turned; then he saw the man take her in his arms, saw her head fall on to his shoulder, and her face turn to his kiss.

He tried to stop breathing, fearing discovery, grasping with one hand the heavy fold of the curtain back of him to steady himself.

There was the space of two long, trembling breaths; then he heard her say, in a low, tense voice, as she drew away:

"Oh, you are my bad angel—why?—why?"

She fled toward the door to the hall.

"Don't come this way," she called back, in quick, low tones of caution.

The man turned toward the door where Percival stood, and in the darkness stumbled over a hassock. Instantly Percival was on the other side of the portiere, and, before the other had groped his way to the dark corner where the door was, had recrossed the empty parlor and was safely in the hall.

He made his way to the dining room, where supper was under way.

"Mr. Bines has seen a ghost," said the sharp-eyed Mrs. Drelmer.

"Poor chap's only starved to death," said Mrs. Gwilt-Athelstan. "Eat something, Mr. Bines; this supper is go-as-you-please. Nobody's to wait for anybody."

Strung loosely about the big table a dozen people were eating hot scones and bannocks with clotted cream and marmalade, and drinking mulled cider.

"And there's cold fowl and baked beans and doughnuts and all, for those who can't eat with a Scotch accent," said the host cheerfully.

Percival dropped into one of the chairs.

"I'm Scotch enough to want a Scotch high-ball."

"And you're getting it so high it's top-heavy," cautioned Mrs. Drelmer.

Above the chatter of the table could be heard the voices of men and the musical laughter of women from the other rooms.

"I simply can't get 'em together," said the hostess.

"It's nice to have 'em all over the place," said her husband, "fair women and brave men, you know."

"The men have to be brave," she answered shortly, with a glance at little Mrs. Akemit, who had permitted Percival to seat her at his side, and was now pleading with him to agree that simple ways of life are requisite to the needed measure of spirituality.

Then came strains of music from the rich-toned organ.

"Oh, that dear Ned Ristine is playing," cried one; and several of the group sauntered toward the music room.

The music flooded the hall and the room, so that the talk died low.

"He's improvising," exclaimed Mrs. Akemit. "How splendid! He seems to be breathing a paean of triumph, some high, exalted spiritual triumph, as if his soul had risen above us—how precious!"

When the deep swell had subsided to silvery ripples and the last cadence had fainted, she looked at Percival with moistened, parted lips and eyes half-shielded [illegible] would betray too much of her quivering soul.

Then Percival heard the turquoised brunette say: "What a pity his wife is such an unsympathetic creature!"

"But Mr. Ristine is unmarried, is he not?" he asked, quickly.

There was a little laugh from Mrs. Drelmer.

"Not yet—not that I've heard of."

"I beg pardon!"

"There have been rumors lots of times that he was going to be unmarried, but they always seem to adjust their little difficulties. He and his wife are staying over at the Bloynes."

"Oh, I see," answered Percival, "you are a jester, Mrs. Drelmer."

MRS. APPLEGATE WELL AGAIN!

"I have had a bruised leg and foot for several years, caused by the brass eyelets of my shoe, which became very sore and painful especially at night. It itched, burned and ached me till it nearly set me crazy. I used everything I found and was suggested to ease it and nothing gave me any relief till I found and applied Axienza Cream which I think is a wonderful remedy for all sores and inflammation of the skin. The hard knots on my legs were as painful as bee stings, with discolored and purple spots. A running sore on my instep size of a half-dollar; the top of my foot a seething sore clean around to my heel. The bone was sore for a whole year and very painful. I used five and one-half jars of Axienza Cream and healed the sore all up. The foot remained tender and I continued to use to strengthen and toughen the skin until now it is entirely well." An orchestra will provide music, and a quartette from Philadelphia, composed of high degree Masons, will sing several selections.

The Grand High Priest I. Layton Registrar, historian of the grand chapter, and chairman of the special committee of eight, charged with the work of arranging the anniversary, will read the history of the grand chapter, which he has been preparing for five years. Copies of the history will be distributed to the guests.

The Past Commanders' Association, Knights Templar, will convene this evening in the asylum of Palestine Commandery No. 4, Knights Templar, in Masonic Hall. Officers will be elected and other business transacted.

The forty-eighth annual conclave of the grand commandery, Knights Templar, of New Jersey, will convene in Masonic Hall Tuesday morning.

Lawyer Weds His Accuser.

Hackensack, May 7.—Jacob Bakelaar, a lawyer of Passaic, who was sentenced to fifteen years in State prison and whose case is now before the Court of Errors, on a charge preferred by Miss Edna Page, of North Arlington, was married to the girl in the jail here Friday. Justice of the Peace Heath officiated. The girl gave her age as seventeen years, but at the time the charge was made, not over a year ago, she said she was under sixteen, and it was upon the grounds of this supposed fact that Gakelaar was convicted.

CITY REPLIES TO BOROUGH

Common Council Undecided That Joint Use of Sewer System is Feasible.

WANT PARTICULARS

More Definite Proposition from North Plainfield Before Any Decision Is Made.

In reply to the communication of Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, in which he asked the Plainfield Common Council what arrangements could be made whereby the borough could make use of the city sanitary sewer system and upon what terms, Chairman Gloak, of the street and sewer committee, presented the following report at the meeting of the Common Council, last night, and it will be transmitted to Mayor Smalley:

"The Committee on Streets and Sewers would report as follows upon the letter from Newton B. Smalley, Mayor of North Plainfield, in relation to disposing of the sewage of North Plainfield at the city disposal works.

"Plainfield's sewage disposal plant is capable of taking care, for a while, of a considerable quantity of sewage in addition to that of Plainfield, the time depending upon the rapidity with which connections are made in the borough and city, also, to a greater extent, upon the quantity of ground water in the sewers, the latter amount being difficult to predict in advance of the construction of a new system.

"In case it should be decided by the authorities of the borough and city that such an arrangement is mutually desirable, the committee would recommend that the following matters should be considered and provided for:

"The plan of the North Plainfield system to be subject to the approval of the city of Plainfield and the construction, material and workmanship to be subject to approval by engineer for the city. The expense of examination, inspection and approval on behalf of the city to be paid by the borough.

"The borough to give bond to indemnify the city against loss or expense that may be occasioned by leaks in sewers or by other defects.

"The contract to provide the maximum number of gallons per day.

"The borough to pay to the city as annual compensation, payable quarterly, such a proportion of the interest on the cost of the disposal works and land, and of the expense of operation and maintenance as the quantity of sewage from the borough bears to the total amount of sewage from city and borough.

"The agreement to be terminated at the option of either party, upon one year's notice of such intention being given.

"Your committee believes, however, that the matters referred to present questions of such importance and difficulty that the city is not prepared at the present time to decide whether the plan proposed is feasible, or if it is, what the details of such a plan would include and what terms would be fair and just to the city and the borough respectively; but your committee suggest that if the borough authorities desire to submit any definite proposition, and to mention in connection therewith the acts of the Legislature under which the proposition is submitted, the whole subject should receive careful consideration.

HIS FIRST ARREST.

Patrolman Dobson Got Up Out of Bed to Make It.

Patrolman Dobson, one of the new cops, got up out of bed yesterday afternoon to make his first arrest. Yells on Jackson avenue awoke him, and when he went outdoors to investigate he found Paul Petro, 32 years old, a Slav laborer, jumping up and down to the accompaniment of a lot of loud and mixed language. Paul was plainly and undeniably drunk and Dobson hustled into his official raiment for the solemn rite of the Initiatory Arrest.

Dobson waited in court this morning from 7:30 until 9:30, only to hear Judge Runyon put the case off until tomorrow morning, and tell him his attendance wasn't needed. The hearing was adjourned at the request of W. S. Angleman, Petro's counsel.

BOROUGHITES FORM A NEW SOCIAL CLUB

MEMBERS ARE INFORMED IT WILL BE STRICTLY NON-PARTISAN.

To promote sociability and continue pleasant relations among the members of a former association, well known North Plainfielders met last night and organized "The Somerset Club." It is to be non-political, this fact being impressed upon everyone of the sixty men that signed the charter roll. The store at Somerset street and Manning avenue has been secured for a club room and a pool table and furniture have already been installed.

The following officers were elected: President, William L. Smalley; first vice president, Peter A. Emmons; second vice president, David Carney; secretary, Harry M. Cook; treasurer, George F. Brown; trustees, John Shroop, Robert Trewin, Edward Cranston, Fred Kohler and Mayor N. B. Smalley. The next meeting is to be held Monday night at 8 o'clock when further details will be perfected.

Following the transaction of business last night, the members enjoyed a box of cigars, President Smalley standing "treat." There were several addresses and plans for the building up of the organization were talked over informally.

MRS. GODWIN AWARDED VERDICT FOR $1,000

STREET RAILWAY COMPANY ADMITTED LIABILITY IN SUIT.

The Supreme Court case of Emily Godwin and husband, of Netherwood, against the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway Company et. al. was concluded before Justice Fort and a jury at Elizabeth yesterday. The jury rendered a verdict in favor of Mrs. Godwin for $1,000 and in favor of her husband for $250.

In opening the case, Craig A. Marsh, counsel for Mrs. Godwin, stated that he would prove that on June 9 last, the trolley company propelled the car in which Mrs. Godwin was a passenger, at express-train speed, and to make matters worse, the motorman was seen to jump up and down on the front platform so as to cause the car to swing violently and to jump the track, thereby throwing Mrs. Godwin against the car seat in front of her and causing the injuries for which suit was brought. At the conclusion of the opening the defendant's counsel, Alvah A. Clark, said that the defendants would admit liability.

The trial proceeded, and the contest was as to how much, if at all, Mrs. Godwin was injured.

Five doctors testified pro and con. Two of plaintiff's doctors testified merely to injury to a vein which they admitted was almost if not entirely cured. The other doctor for plaintiff, said that he found symptoms of nervous troubles which he called neurasthenia, and he thought that these would last from one to two years longer. These doctors were Dr. Endicott, of this city; Dr. Beardsley, of Brooklyn, and Dr. Collins, of New York.

The defendants' physicians were Dr. Green, from Elizabeth, and Dr. Washington, from Newark. They both testified that the injury to the vein was due to an old trouble and not to the accident, and that they could not see any symptoms of nervous troubles of any character, and that on the contrary, Mrs. Godwin was apparently an unusually strong and vigorous woman, and in perfect health.

Mr. Clark first, and then Mr. Marsh argued these disputed questions before the jury, and Justice Fort in his charge declared that, now that the defendants admitted legal liability, the other questions were for the jury alone. It took the jury about an hour to find and report that Mrs. Godwin was entitled to $1,000 for her injuries, to which was added $250 for the husband, to defray doctors' bills and medicine expenses. It is not thought likely that either side will appeal.

THEATRE SEASON CLOSES

First Year of the New Plainfield a Successful One From Every Standpoint.

RE-OPENS AUGUST 10

Something About Manager Counihan Who Built the Playhouse and "Made It Go."

With the fall of the curtain after the moving picture exhibition, last night, the New Plainfield theatre ended its first season. From every standpoint it has been one of success and reflects credit upon the managerial ability of Proprietor Wm. J. Counihan, who believed that local play-goers were hungry for dramatic entertainment and sought to provide it. Every one of the thirty-four weeks during which the house has been open has brought to the city one or more of Broadway's best productions and Plainfield has ceased to look to the metropolis for this form of amusement.

The support given the theatre has encouraged Mr. Counihan to further effort and next season will be even still greater. As the saying goes, he stands "solid" with all the producers and hereafter Plainfield will get the best they have. During the summer the house will be in the hands of contractors who will install a complete system of automatic sprinklers, an added exit in the east wall of the orchestra, new decorations and other improvements that will make it even more safe and cosier. It is to re-open on August 10 and will present nothing but first class road attractions from then on until the latter part of next May.

The booking for 1906-07 is rapidly being completed and the following list will show what is in store for theatre devotees: Klaw & Erlanger's original "Ben Hur," Kyrle Bellew in a new play, The Rogers Brothers, Sousa's "Free Lance," now playing the New Amsterdam, Maude Adams in "Peter Pan," Williams and Walker, May Irwin, John Drew, "Woodland," "The Rollicking Girl," "The Gingerbread Man," Grace George in her new play "The Girl Who Has Everything," Cyril Scott in "The Prince Chap," Billy B. Van and Rose Beaumont in "The Errand Boy," Yorke and Adams in a new musical comedy, Nat Wills in a new play, James K. Hackett and Mary Mannering, Primrose, Dockstader's and Haverley's minstrels, "Wonderland," Robert Mantell, all of George Cohan's plays including "Little Johnny Jones," "George Washington, Jr.," and "Forty Five Minutes from Broadway," Blanee Walsh, "It Happened in Nordland," Arnold Daly, "The Lion and the Mouse," "Man and Superman," "Simple Simon Simple," "Bedford's Hope," "Sergeant Brue," Fritzi Scheff in "Mlle. Modiste," William H. Crane, Chauncey Olcott, Andrew Mack, Wilton Lackaye and many other of the best known stars in the profession. The same policy of giving popular priced dramas on Saturday afternoons and nights will be maintained.

Among the stars and productions that held the boards the past season were "The County Chairman," which opened the house on August 24, with Plainfield's minstrel man, George Thatcher playing "Sassafras Livingston," "Running for Office," "Way Down East," "David Harum," "A Message from Mars," Grace George in "The Marriage of William Ashe," Richard Carle in "The Mayor of Tokio," "The Redemption of David Corson," Sophie Brandt in "A Madcap Princess," Thomas Jefferson in "Rip Van Winkle," "Simple Simon Simple," Yorke and Adams in "Bankers and Brokers," "Robin Hood," Nat Wills in "The Duke of Duluth," Raymond Hitchcock, John Drew, Herbert Kelcey and Effie Shannon, Digby Bell, James O'Neil, Arnold Daly, Ezra Kendal, Henrietta Crosman, "The Heir to the Hoorah," "Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots," Blanche Walsh, Willie Collier, Mme. GOVERNOR NAMES VAIL

RIVALS FOR VACANCY

Angleman a Strong Candidate for County Judgeship—Atwater, Swift and English After Berth.

Senator Ernest R. Ackerman and County Chairman Frank H. Smith returned from Trenton last night with the nomination of Judge Benjamin Vail as judge of the Circuit Court, the position declined by former Governor Foster M. Voorhees about a fortnight ago. The appointment made by Governor Stokes is ad intrim, but there is no doubt that his action will be confirmed by the Senate next winter.

Judge Vail's appointment was a forgone conclusion from the moment that ex-Governor Voorhees declined the berth. It was hoped that an appointment to fill the vacancy in the county judgeship occasioned by Judge Vail's elevation to the higher bench could be made at the same time but there are so many aspirants for that honor that no decision will be announced by the Governor until the end of the week.

One of the most prominent candidates for the position is Winfield S. Angleman, of this city. He is said to have the support of Senator Ackerman and other county leaders and is being seriously considered by the Governor. Other candidates include City Attorney C. Addison Swift, Prosecutor N. C. J. English and District Court Judge Atwater, all of Elizabeth. All these rival candidates has a good following and their friends are using every effort with the powers that be.

Owing to the appointment of Judge Vail to the Circuit Court there will be no session of the Orphans' Court, which is connected with the Court of Common Pleas, in Union county, tomorrow. Judge Vail takes possession of his new office immediately.

BICYCLIST BADLY HURT.

In Collision With a Pony Fred Bach is Trampled Upon.

Fred Bach, of East Sixth street, an errand boy employed by Dudley Miller, riding a wheel, and Charles Arnold, Jr., of Liberty, astride a spirited pony, collided on North avenue yesterday afternoon. Both were going at good speed and Beach went down with a crash directly beneath the pony's feet. The animal stepped on the bicycle and must have struck the rider.

Bach quickly regained his feet but after saying he was not hurt, suddenly collapsed in the arms of Wm. L. Smalley. He was taken to Armstrong's drug store and remained in a comatose condition for a long time. Dr. Clawson was finally called and ordered his removal home in a carriage. The extent of his injuries has not been fully determined as yet but there is a possibility that he is hurt internally. It was said today that he had passed a very restless night.

CARRIER SUES FOR $20,000.

Glaentzer Asks Big Damages for Injuries Received From Fall.

Letter-carrier Charles Glaentzer, through his attorneys, Fred J. Huff and Winfield S. Angleman, has filed papers in a suit for $20,000 against Edward White, to recover damages for severe internal injuries received a week ago. The case will be tried in the Supreme Court and will probably be called at the fall term.

Mr. Glaentzer, while in the delivery of mail, fell through the glass walk directly in front of Harry Werner's clothing store, property owned by White. He was confined to his bed for a week and it is said that the injuries are such that it will be a long time before he recovers.

NO SPECIAL ELECTION NOW

Common Council Postpones Action on Water Question Until Fall.

MR. TYLER OPPOSES IT

Third Ward Man Fights for Immediate Action But Is Defeated When Vote is Taken.

Apparently exasperated by what he believed to be Councilman Buxton's desire to put off the special election on the municipal water question, which has been under consideration for some time, Councilman Tyler asked the chairman of the public affairs committee to show his hand at the May meeting of the Common Council last night. Mr. Buxton stated that the question had been considered at a joint meeting of the committees on streets and sewers and that of the public affairs and it seemed to be the opinion that it would be unwise to hold a special election at this time at an expense of $1,000.

Mr. Tyler recalled what was done at the joint committee meeting. He said that he understood that it was agreed Mr. Buxton would recommend some action at this meeting.

Mr. Buxton declared he understood it to be the opinion of the members at that committee meeting that it would be unwise to hold the election now, but, said the member, "I have a resolution here prepared by Corporation Counsel Marsh providing for a special election which I will present if the members desire."

Mr. Tyler started to explain who expressed themselves in favor of a special election at the meeting of the two committees. He mentioned Mr. Montgomery, but that member denied being at the meeting. The Third Ward member then referred to Mr. Hibbard's action, but the latter also denied being at the meeting. The incident caused considerable amusement among the members.

Finally, Mr. Tyler stated that he and Councilmen Gloak, Ginna and Mellick favored a special election, while Councilmen Buxton, Frank Randolph and Leslie M. Daniel were opposed. "This is too serious a matter to be put off in this way," said Mr. Tyler. "We ought to vote on it now and labor with might and main until we make the taxpayers appreciate the importance of action and I urge that action be taken to-night."

Mr. Buxton said that he thought it was foolish to think of spending $1,000 just now for a special election and he did not think that a few months would add any great value to the plant of the Plainfield Water Supply Company.

In response to the demand of Mr. Tyler and Mr. Hibbard, the chairman of the public affairs committee presented the prepared resolution. It provided that a special election be held on Tuesday, June 5, and that the customary eight days' notice be given in the official newspapers and posted in conspicious places, that voting machines be used, the polls being open from 6 o'clock in the morning until 7 o'clock in the evening, and that those in favor of the Common Council inquiring further into the matter vote "For" and those opposed vote "Against," and that the result of the vote be reported to the Common Council.

Mr. Hibbard seconded the resolution, but then the question arose as to whether the resolution was properly drawn for present action. Mr. Buxton stated that Mr. Marsh had drawn the resolution for action at the April meeting. Mr. Tyler said that he was given to understand that it was prepared to be presented last night.

Mr. Buxton informed the members that the election must be held on a Tuesday, although there was nothing to prevent the changing of the date. Mr. Hibbard then wanted to move that the date be fixed for Tuesday, June 2, instead of the 5th, but Mr. Tyler said that inasmuch as the resolution did not specify the polling places, something necessary according to the law, he doubted whether it would be legal to pass it. He thought that the matter could be straightened out in a few days and he then made a motion that when the meeting adjourn it be to meet on Monday, May 14, so that a corrected resolution could be prepared and presented and action taken at once. He previously moved that the resolution be referred back to the committee for correction. This motion was carried; the second one was not. Mr. Tyler said that he would make a test question, for the purpose of ascertaining whether the members desired immediate action, that is, all those voting in favor of holding a meeting on Monday night, would be considered in favor of a special election and those voting against it being opposed to the elec- The motion to hold a meeting Monday night was lost, Councilmen Buxton, Daniel, Montgomery, C. NEW THOROUGHFARE TO SOUTH PLAINFIELD?

POSSIBILITY OF TROLLEY CONNECTION BETWEEN THIS CITY AND VILLAGE.

W. S. Clardavoyne, of Orange, who owns eighty-four acres of land fronting on Plainfield avenue, and located between this city and South Plainfield, sees an opportunity to establish a shorter route between the two places by opening up a new road and possibly secure trolley service.

In a communication to the Common Council, last night, he asked the city to open up a new street to the city line, stating that he would ask South Plainfield to do the same from the city line to that village. He said that such a road would shorten the trip between the two places by three-quarters of a mile and he agrees to give the right of way for the improvement. He also thought that it would be the means of inducing the Public Service Corporation to extend the Arlington avenue trolley to South Plainfield.

Mr. Clardavoyne also said that a wealthy resident would probably be able to secure trolley connection between South Plainfield and New Brunswick if the improvements between South Plainfield and Plainfield were made. Mr. Clardavoyne's property which fronts on Plainfield avenue, extends back to Ceder creek. President Tolles referred the communication to the public affairs committee and it will be reported on later.

P. P. A. AND P. S. C. ARE ARRANGING PEACE

CONFERENCE BETWEEN COMMITTEE CORPORATION OFFICIALS.

Both sides to the conference between the Executive Committee of the Plainfield Protective Association and the officials of the P. S. C. at the Casino, last night, were pleased with results of the meeting. All the conferences were satisfied at its close, and hope of a speedy adjustment of all difficulties was fully expressed.

President Thomas N. McCarter, of the P. S. C., and other high officials of the corporation, were at the gathering. Practically all the members of the P. P. A. executive committee were there.

The conferrees got down to business without delay. A detailed statement of the complaints and objections which gave rise to the organization had been prepared by the P. P. A. representatives, and this was laid before the Public Service officials as the first step in the conference. Exactly what took place during the meeting could not be learned. It was agreed by both sides that nothing be said for publication relative to the actual proceedings, but it was learned that conciliation and reasonableness characterized the attitude of the corporation representatives all through the session. President McCarter made a brief statement of the company's position, emphasizing the expression of its willingness to listen to all complaints and a desire to improve the service wherever such action is shown to be necessary.

When the conference ended tangible results had been achieved. Positive steps had been taken to adjust all the dierences between the consumers and the P. S. C.

"When the matters have reached a stage a little further advanced, and positive statements may be made," announced C. J. Fisk, of the Executive Committee, this morning, "full details of the settlement arranged will be made."

Capt. Dobbins Has More Room.

One of the advantages that accrues to Capt. M. C. Dobbins and his patrons through the removal of his cigar store from Park avenue to 120 North avenue, is a greater amount of room for the transaction of pension business. Capt. Dobbin's voucher liquidations have been growing in number for some time and he was becoming hampered for lack of room in the old store.

Sentence Suspended on Woman.

In the city court yesterday, sentence was suspended on Mrs. Gertrude Sherman, charged by Mrs. Charles Pagliucci with striking her. Each side produced several witnesses and a lawyer to bear them out in what they had to say but the matter narrowed down to the usual neighborhood quarrel brought about by gossip.

Summer Sunday-school Schedule.

The officers and teachers of the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-school have decided that during the summer months to hold the sessions on Sunday between 12 and 1 o'clock, immediately following the morning services. The date for the change will be announced later.

LOWEST BID $9,953.14

FIFTEEN AFTER THE JOB

S. B. Opdyke, Jr., Asked Over Double the Amount Exacted by Callahan—Checks Returned.

Foster Callahan, of Elizabeth, with whom is associated Eugene Chamberlain, formerly engineer of Westfield, was awarded the contract for building the sanitary sewer extension, at the May meeting of the Common Council, last night. The lowest bid was $9,953.14, and a resolution was offered by Chairman Gloak, of the street and sewer committee, that it be accepted and the contract awarded to Mr. Callahan and that the Mayor and city clerk be authorized to sign the necessary papers.

There were fifteen bids in all and, a strange coincidence was that Stacy B. Opdyke, Jr., of New York, who is now completing a storm sewer contract here, was about the highest biddest for this new work, his figures being $21,229.31. The bids as figured out by Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett were as follows:

Foster Callahan, Elizabeth, $9,953.14; Henry Spinach, Naugatuck, Conn., $10,692.24; Charles Ippolito, Orange, $10,693.17; Antonio Costa, Orange, $11,204.37; Jacques & DeRossa, Elizabeth, $11,377.91; Sloan & Lutz, Newark, $12,043.60; Stacy B. Opdyke, Jr., New York, $21,229.31. Others who bid, and whose figures were all too high, were as follows: D. M. Rosser, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; Peter Morgan, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; John F. Hamilton, Philadelphia; Simon T. McNally, New York; Abraham Jelin, New Brunswick; James C. Park, Cranford; William J. McCloud, Elizabeth; Hamamond & Sloan, New York.

After the contract was awarded Mr. Gloak moved that the checks of all unsuccessful bidders be returned.

The streets to be sewered are as follows:

Darrow avenue, North Front street, Park lane, Park terrace, Irving place; Essex street, between Spooner avenue and Darrow avenue; Midway avenue, between East Third street and Berckman street; East Sixth street, between Richmond street and Central street; Columbia avenue, between Frederick street and Leland avenue; East Seventh street, between Leland avenue and Belvidere avenue; Berckman street, between East Front street and North avenue; East Fourth street, from Richmond street 750 feet west; East Second street, from Berckman street to Netherwood avenue; Leland avenue, from Columbia avenue to North avenue; North avenue, from the end of the present sewer to Terrill road.

FOR LIBRARY FUND.

Brotherhood of Warren Chapel Hold Benefit Entertainment.

For the benefit of the chapel and library fund, the Young Men's Brotherhood of Warren chapel presented an entertainment at Y. M. C. A. hall last night. Recitations, musical novelties and sleight-of-hand, all by professionals, were on the bill.

There was a good-sized audience, and as most of the unoccupied seats represented tickets sold but not used, the financial success of the affair was gratifying. The programme was enjoyable, and the audience gave frequent testimony of its appreciation.

The numbers were divided between H. Warren Rankin, prestidigitator, of this city; the Musical Stewarts, of this city, unique musical selections; and Miss Helen M. Miller, of New York, impersonator. They shared the honors equally.

Sprung An Original Excuse.

Frank Hale, a carpenter, was arrested by Patrolman McKeon, Saturday night, because he believed he was too drunk to reach his home. In court yesterday the prisoner handed up a new brand of excuse for falling to the ground just as the officer arrived and "pinched" him, claiming that he slipped on a banana peel. Judge Runyon observed that it might be so and suspended sentence to give him the benefit of the doubt.

THE FORUM.

Editor, The Daily Press:

It may have been amusing to the old clown in Robbins' circus and to some of his thoughtless admirers to make jokes on individuals at his show as he did here last Saturday on a young colored woman of my acquaintance. It was very embarrassing for her and I think very wrong in those show people to take advantage of their patrons in making them a part of their show without knowing them. If they wish to carry out such jokes I would advise them to do so among themselves.

A MONSTROUS OAK

That Grew From the Smallest Kind of an Acorn.

Fifty years ago in a little village of northwestern Pennsylvania, where the wind blows hard, the cold is intense and the steep hills make breathing difficult, a doctor, one of the wisest and best in the town, finding that hundreds of common colds and coughs, that hung on persistently through the spring and into the summer, resulted frequently in Consumption, looked about him for some combination of remedies that should be harmless and yet powerful enough to cure the cough quickly and to do the same for Consumption when it had declared itself, hit one day almost by accident upon just what he had been so long and persistently searching for.

It cured the patient upon whom it was tried and little by little its fame spread from person to person, from family to family, from the people in the village to the farmers in the surrounding country. People who had an incurable cough didn't go to the doctor for advice any more, they simply went to the drug store and got a bottle of the famous prescription that had cured so many friends and neighbors.

The doctor was Dr. Talbot, whose family still lives in Warren, Pa., and while the doctor is dead and gone the fame of his great discovery lives after him and instead of being confined to the town or the state in which he lived, it is known the whole world over.

The remedy is PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION and one who was cured gave the following testimony under oath:

"After having a cough for nearly one year the doctors pronounced my case consumption. I began trying cough and consumption cures with no results, until Piso's Cure for Consumption was recommended. Three bottles effected a cure. Eight years have rolled by since then, and I have passed a satisfactory examination for life insurance, and my lungs are perfectly sound.

"C. H. Denslow, Corry, Pa."

It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Cocaine, is harmless and is the best COUGH, COLD AND CONSUMPTION CURE today. All druggists sell it. They have to. 25 cts. Send for free book on "How Consumptives Ought to Live." The Piso Co., 198 Piso Building, Warren, Pa.

Apologies to T. Hamilton.

"Say, young feller," roared the fierce-looking manager of a touring circus to a smooth-shaven kid of 6 years, who had found his way into the canvas by way of his stomach, "wat do you suppose would ultimately become of this mammoth, mastodonic aggregation of pompous and glittering splendor, this gorgeous array of majestic beasts of the far-away African forest, superbly trained by masterly hands of fearless men at enormous expense, this magnificent exhibition of genuine chariot horses direct from the Roman stables, and these royal elephants with their stately equipage, and, mind you, this brilliant conglomeration of 3,000 bareback riders—what would become, I ask you, of the whole consarned outfit if we allowed every blooming idiot to crawl into our tent without liquidating the usual price of admission, which is the small sum of 50 cents, or half-price for children?"

"Whatcher — say — mister?" answered the bewildered, dirty faced intruder.

"I said," responded the manager of the cheap circus, "that you could go over yonder and select the best seat in the reserved row. Don't you understand plain English?"—Judge.

HOW WELL-KNOWN BALL PLAYERS HIT

EVERYONE HAS A DIFFERENT METHOD OF MEETING THE BALL.

Every professional ball player—in fact, every ball player—hits the ball in a different way. Their attitudes at bat, the way they grasp the club, the way they throw their bodies into the swing—everything is different. No two men hit alike.

Occasionally I see some youngsters whose actions remind me of some old-time batter, but that is seldom. The most striking instance of this I remember is Hub Hart, Comiskey's new man, who almost duplicates the movements of Walter Thornton, Anson's old pitcher, who, by the way, was one of the best hitters that ever broke into baseball.

Another striking resemblance, both at bat and in the field, is that of Bill Bradley, the Cleveland star, to Jere Denny. But it is seldom one even can detect a resemblance between the styles of players.

Delehanty's Style.

Ed Delehanty had an old style. He swung with his arms, with a lurching, slashing movement, quick as a flash, yet, in some way, he managed to get the strength of his body and his weight behind the drive. One to look at Del would have thought him a bum hitter—although he was one of the best, and at that there were times when Del looked like a sucker against a fast curve ball. He was a great hitter mainly because of a wonderfully accurate eye and his unusual ability to call the turn on what the pitcher was going to deliver.

Lajoie is a hitter much after the style of Delehanty. He is huge and powerful, with an ungainly lurch when he meets the ball, and he has a marvelous judgment of speed and a great eye. He is what is known as a wild pitch hitter. He hits them between a foot outside the plate than he does when they are over, but he is likely to cripple the first baseman if you pitch inside of him, for he pulls and slashes the ball fiercely to right. His free shoulder muscles permit him to hit high or low—and he crickets the ball off his feet as well as drives the high ones.

Whenever any one speaks of Lajoie I recall Cy Swaim, the elongated Washington pitcher. Cy was going to pitch against Philadelphia, and inquired tenderly of Joe Campbell:

"Joe, I'd like to meet Lajoie."

"You'll meet him this afternoon," remarked Campbell.

That afternoon Cooley led off with a double, Delehanty followed with a triple, and Lajoie smashed one ball over the wall.

"Did you meet Lajoie, Cy?" asked Campbell after the game.

"Yes," said Cy, "and he had two advance agents."

Anson a Great Hitter.

Anson was a great hitter. His position at bat was something to admire. He stood, feet together, but clutched firmly at shoulder arms position, and almost faced the pitcher. He took one short step forward with his left foot, and met the ball squarely between the seams. His hits were almost all line drives, that cleared the infield, and he was likely to cripple pitchers, for his eye was so wonderful that he drove the ball through the box half the time.

Anson swung the heaviest bat ever used by any ball player. He had them pieced up of boxwood, with heavy cores, and no other man in his team ever could handle his bats to advantage, although some tried it.

Yet Anson, for all his remarkable judgment, had a weakness. The pitcher who started a sweeping out curve at Anson usually fooled him, into dodging, and many times he roared at umpires when the ball cut the plate. The trouble was that Anson was likely to catch the next one, step back and kill it.

Did you ever watch Frank Chance come to bat? He steps up, grasps his bat, taps the plate, holds his bat in his right hand, while he pulls up his belt with his left, places his bat between his legs, pulls his cap on tighter, pulls up his trousers, grabs the bat again, taps the plate, and is ready. He goes through these same motions every time he faces a pitcher, and it is a cinch he wouldn't hit 200 if forced to leave them out.

Selbach's Pantomime.

Kip Selbach is another who has a pantomime to perform before hitting. He adjusts belt, cap, trousers, then raps his left foot with the bat, holds up his right foot and raps that, knocking all the dirt out of his spikes, and then, after another pull at his cap, is ready for business. He is a nervous hitter, and pitchers like Clark Griffith used to take advantage of his nervousness and keep him fretting by delaying the pitch until he couldn't hit much of anything. Dad Clarke vowed that Selbach couldn't make a hit if the pitcher was slow, and it is nortorious that Selbach never could hit those slow-ball pitchers—especially the irritating Nig Cuppy.

Another pantomimist was Pete Browning, who went through all sorts of antics before settling down to hit. He rearranged most of his clothing before he stepped up—but when he did! Pete was a great hitter. His style was that sweeping, slashing style, and he drove his bat with immense power, getting the weight of his entire body into the swing. Pete didn't care much except for his hits. Meeting him one night after a game, I asked seriously: "What was the score, Pete?"

"'Dunno—forget," said Pete. "But I got four."

Bug Holliday's Way.

Perhaps the man who put more strength behind his bat than any other hitter was Bug Holliday. Bug was enough to frighten a pitcher when he looked at him. He stood at bat on his right foot, his left leg akimbo, with only the toe touching the ground, and waved his bat wildly. When he swung full force at a ball he spun around two or three times. When he landed squarely on the ball it never stopped going—but the trouble was he didn't land squarely often enough.

But the oddest of all batters was Doggy Miller. He was short and stout, with plump little legs. He stood perfectly still at bat until just as the pitcher was winding up to deliver the ball, then he suddenly stuck his left leg out straight in front of him, gave a funny little ballet girl kick and threw himself forward to meet the ball.

His pefromance caused so much laughter that Doggy tried earnestly to stop kicking—but he couldn't hit unless he did.

Big Cutlery Sale

Landers, Frary & Clark Product.

It is only reasonable to suppose that a concern with a reputation such as is possessed by Landers, Frary & Clark would guard it pealously and that they would not risk it by turning out as perfect anything that was not strictly so. Every piece must reach their highest standard, else it is condemned as a "second" or branded imperfect, not that there is any real defect so far as looks and usefulness go, but simply a technical fault.

This is the reason why we sell this cutlery as imperfect. You'll never find anything wrong with it—and you'll save a pretty penny by investing in it at these special prices for this week's sale.

PERSONAL NOTES.

Rev. Thornwell Jacobs, of Nashville, Tenn., has been chosen financial agent for the building of a new Presbyterian college at Atlanta, Ga.

King Alfonso and Princess Ena are both descendants of Mary, Queen of Scots, as is every monarch in Europe, except the King of Sweden and the Sultan of Turkey.

Senator Piles, of Washington, never appears in the Senate without a white vest, and is known as the "white-vested Senator." He has these garments in many styles and patterns.

F. S. Pearson, of Great Barrington, Mass., has purchased 1,500 acres of forest land in that vicinity, including part of Baer Mountain, and will permit the timber to grow for the added beauty and benefit of the section.

Rev. J. A. B. Ahrens, a leader of German Methodism in the South, has just died in New Orleans. His literary work attracted attention on both continents. He wrote a history of Mexico as well as several theological books.

Few presiding officers of the Senate have been as popular as Vice President Fairbanks with the officials of the Senate. He has co-operated with them so as to expedite the business of the Senate, and that is an important matter to the clerks, who desire to have the business closed up every day.

Tennis is the principal exercise of the President on bright, warm spring days. He usually plays back of the White House, with M. Jusserland, James R. Garfield, Commissioner Cooley, of the Civil Service Commission, and Assistant Secretary Murray, of the Department of Commerce and Labor, as his opponents.

Dr. Esther B. Van Beman, instructori n Latin and archaeology at the Woman's College, has recently been appointed holder of the Carnegie fellowship for classical research work for one year in the American School for Classical Studies in Rome. Her special work is the "Cult of the State Vestae." She will continue for some time her investigations concerning it. A portion of this book, "Atrium Vestae," will shortly be published as a monograph.

The Virute of Publicity.

The laws of New York, says a contemporary, list thirty-five drugs which cannot be sold except when plainly labeled "poison," but any person, skilled or unskilled, may make use of any or all of these drugs in a patent medicine and offer it for sale without disclosing its ingredients. That this state of affairs must produce evil effects goes without saying, and the passage of the bill pending in Albany, compelling the proprietors of these patent medicines to print on the labels of their preparations the exact proportions of these ingredients contained in them, is demanded by considerations of public safety.

Publicity of the constituents of these compounds, many of which contain the dangerous drugs, must necessarily act as a warning against them, and a warning is certainly needed. State laws requiring publicity will do some good, but it is a question whether a Federal law is not essential to the attainment of the object sought. The "patent" on these nostrums is conferred by the Federal Government, therefore Congress can regulate the conditions under which they can be sold.—Newark Advertiser.

dolph, Frank Randolph and R. I. Tolles voting in the negative and Councilmen Ginna, Gloak, Hibbard and Tyler in the affirmative.

Before the vote was taken Mr. Tyler made a lengthy speech in which he tried to impress upon the members the importance of quick action. He referred to the timely advice of J. O. Osgood, W. L. Saunders and Mr. Church, the latter for twenty years engineer in charge of the Croton Aqueduct, who made an exhaustive study of the local water conditions in 1904, and who advised that steps be taken by the city to acquire the Plainfield Water Supply Company plant. Continuing Mr. Tyler said:

"It is the general opinion that immediate action is desirable. The amount added to the value of the local plant will be far beyond the $1,000 that a special election will cost and the vote is simply to ask the voters 'do you want us to go further?' We give away a franchise to a company that can be reproduced for $500,000 and that company is paying dividends on $2,000,000.

"It isn't safe to let this matter go on. The Plainfield Water Supply Company is depleting our own water supply by sending it down the road to Elizabeth. If at any time the supply gets low the company can charge as high rate as it pleases, the same as for gas and electricity."

In reply Mr. Buxton said that he did not think that a special election should be held until a plan of action is mapped out. Mr. Marsh, he said, had informed him that he did not require a special election to inquire into the matter and information could be obtained without a special election. If a large issue of bonds was going to be issued he thought it would be better to complete the sanitary sewer system, pave the streets and make other desirable improvements.

After assuring the members that the Common Council could not go ahead in this matter without authority, President Tolles remarked that he favored an election but not now. He said that it could be held in the fall with satisfactory results. A friend of his living in Orange informed him recently that if the people of that place had it to do over again they would not vote for municipal water works. The vote was then taken on Mr. Tyler's motion to hold an adjourned meetining Monday night and was lost.

Fire Department Changes.

On the recommendation of the Board of Engineers of the fire department, Mayor Buckle appointed Bernard Clark, Jr., a call-man to fill a vacancy in the fire department, Sidney Frazee a regular fireman, owing to the resignation of a member, Louis Feiring a call engineer and Joel Pennington a call-man, at the May meeting of the Common Council, last night, and the appointments were confirmed. The resignation of Charles Smith as call-engineer was received and accepted. These appointments were confirmed by the Common Council last night.

Irish Piping and Dancing.

Rev. Father John Greely, of County Mayo, Ireland, will deliver a lecture on St. Patrick at T. A. B. Hall, Wednesday night, May 9. An Irish piper will play and all the Irish dances will be exemplified. The proceeds of the affair will be for the benefit of the church at Ballyhaunness, County Mayo.

—Lewis Mann-Willis, of 1330 South avenue, lost a silver cross last night, which he prizes highly. He received it at St. Stephen's church last year for passing his examination. The finder will confer a great favor by returning it to the owner.

MORE SEWER EXTENSIONS

Improvement in Addition to That For Which Contract Has Just Been Awarded.

HEARING ON JUNE 4

Petition of Central Park Realty Co. —Must Have Pumping Stations.

Steps were taken at the May meeting of the Common Council, last night, to further extend the sanitary sewer system for which petitions have been received from the Central Park Realty Company and others. The section to be sewered, not having the gravity, will have to be provided with pumping stations and other appurtances.

Chairman Gloak, of the street and sewer committee, presented an ordinance, providing for the extension of the system through the following streets:

Randolph road, from Central to Park avenue; Park avenue from Randolph road to South End avenue; Arlington avenue, from Union street to Randolph road; Arlington place; Martine avenue, from Park to Hillside avenues; Berkeley avenue, from Park Terrace to Leland avenue; through the right of way of David Hand's property from Berkeley avenue to Leland avenue. Monday night, June 4, was fixed as the time when a public hearing will be granted. The necessary maps and plans were filed and if the ordinance is adopted then the Common Council will advertise for bids.

Mr. Gloak also introduced an ordinance providing for the laying of sidewalks in Prospect avenue, Farragut road, Leland and South avenues, Berckman street, East Front street, North avenue, Leland avenue to Terrill road. The ordinance was adopted on first and second readings.

Mr. Daniel took exception to the ordinance, understanding that perhaps many property-owners would be compelled to lay walks where they are not needed. Mr. Gloak explained that the walks would only be laid where the owners want them and if there is an ordinance covering this section, it will be that much easier to do the work. A public hearing will be granted on this ordinance on Monday night, June 4.

An ordinance introduced by Mr. Gloak and providing for the establishment of the grade on Leland avenue, from East Front street to North avenue, was adopted on first and second readings and ordered advertised. A hearing will be granted on this matter at the regular meeting June 4.

ENLIGHTENS COUNCIL ON THE NEW TAX ACT

CORPORATION COUNSEL MARSH COMMUNICATES WITH THE CITY FATHERS.

Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh in his report to the Common Council last night, informed that body that he had declined to agree to the application of the American Sewage Disposal Company, of Boston, which company has a suit against the city. The application was also denied by Judge Cross.

Mr. Marsh also presented the receipts and releases from the property-owners affected by the widening of Park avenue and Sycamore street and the opening of Stebbins place, stating that the several amounts of benefits had been paid. On motion of Mr. Daniel the receipts and releases were filed.

Another matter reported by Mr. Marsh was an explanation of the Hilliery tax act, adopted by the Legislature at its last session. This act will eventually change the tax rate and provides for the appointment of county board of taxation, whose duties will be similar to those of commissioners of appeal which board is abolished. It is the duty of the county board of taxation to see that a fair and equitable assessment is made throughout the county in accordance with the provisions of the new act. The new rate will not go into effect until next year.

WANTED QUICKEST OATH.

Italian Landlord Wasn't Particular as to Kind of Swearing.

Piero Lucci appeared in Justice Hand's court yesterday afternoon to press a suit for possession of premises on North avenue against Nick Spezzi. The latter failed to put in an appearance and the justice prepared for the formalities attendant on a judgment by default. The first step in that procedure is the swearing of the complainant.

"How will you be sworn?" asked the court. "On the Bible or by affirmation?"

"Wadda the quickes' way?" demanded Piero. "I wanne thadda duck out quick."

He got his judgment on the Bible. J. P. Owens was Piero's lawyer.

Mrs. I. L. McVoy, of East Front street, has returned home from a visit to relatives in Paterson.

MANY PETITION COUNCIL

Some Communications Referred While Others are Disposed of By City Fathers.

REPORTS ARE FILED

Request for Public Scales Denied—Appropriation of $750 For Care of Trees.

Many petitions and communications were received and disposed of at the May meeting of the Common Council, last night, and consequently the session was a lengthy one. Warren H. Marsh and others asked for a hydrant at Union and Stelle avenues. It was granted, as was also one at West Fourth street and Hunter avenue. The Central Park Realty Company petitioned for sewers in Martine and Thorton avenues, the matter being referred.

Property-owners in the vicinity of West Eighth street and College place asked to have Dunham street vacated. This is an imaginary street, an extension of College place, which appears on the map, but was never opened. The request was made to allow Mrs. J. R. Truell to build an addition on Truell Inn. The matter was referred as was a similar petition from David T. Kenney, who wants Hill avenue, in the Netherwood district, vacated to allow for the erection of the new building for the Vacuum Cleaner Company.

F. J. Schuck and other property-owners asked the Common Council to abate the nuisance of allowing rubbish to be dumped at West Sixth street and Arlington avenue. Matter referred to the public affairs committee. O. T. Waring, president of the Plainfield Trust Company, in a letter to Street Commissioner Gavett, urged that if permanent pavement was going to be laid in Park avenue, between Second street and the railroad, that creosoted wooden blocks be used. Matter referred to the street committee.

J. F. Cahill, Esq., petitioned the Common Council to adjust tax matters for C. R. Meehan, who had purchased property here under the Martin Act and he had been unable through an error to get possession of the same. The matter was referred to the proper committee. Corporation Counsel Marsh reported back the tax deeds for property on Plainfield avenue purchased by the city and later in the evening Mr. Daniel offered a resolution authorizing the overseer of the poor to collect the rents until further notice.

The Central Park Realty Company, owners of considerable property in the vicinity of Prospect avenue, Kensington avenue and Watchung avenue, petitioned for a sewer system, paved streets and sidewalks and the matters were referred.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported that thirty-five permits were granted during April.

Mr. Daniel offered a resolution, which was adopted, that $15.50 be returned to William Camp, it having been paid for taxes in error on property at 619-918 West Sixth street. Mr. Daniel also offered a resolution transferring $1,500 from the general to the fire fund.

Mr. Gloak offered a resolution, which was adopted, appropriating $300 for the care of the city dump, the money to be expended under the direction of Mayor Buckle.

It having been reported that Sydney Frazee, who was appointed a regular fireman, was not capable of filling the position owing to a crippled arm, Dr. C. B. Lufburrow, the city physician, presented a statement in which he said that he had found Mr. Frazee in sound health and that the injury to his elbow joint, which occurred when a child, would not interfere with his duties.

Mr. Buxton reported back the application of Van Zandt & Voorhees in which they asked that a public scales be located near their building on Park avenue, and upon his recommendation the request was denied.

Mr. Hibbard presented a letter from the New Jersey Central in which it was requested that the electric light on Terrill road bridge which crosses the railroad tracks be shaded as it is confusing to the engine-men. He then offered a resolution, which was adopted, providing that the request be granted if it can be without impairing the illumination of the light. Mr. Hibbard said that Corporation Counsel Marsh informed him that it would be wise to grant the petition for the city would be morally obligated should an accident occur as a result of the light being misunderstood.

In accordance with a resolution offered by Mr. Hibbard, $750 was appropriated for the spraying and care of trees during the coming year. This amount is a little in excess of that appropriated last year.

The Common Council granted Mr. Daniel's request for three electric lights on Darrow avenue, one to be at Essex street and Darrow avenue, one midway between Fourth and Essex streets, and one between Essex and Seventh streets.

On Mr. Daniel's motion the tax ordinance was adopted on third reading, and on Mr. Montgomery's motion the hack ordinance was adopted on third reading.

Mr. Daniel's motion that when the meeting adjourned it be to meet on Monday, May 21, was carried.

HIGH SCHOOL EXERCISES IN FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

AUDITORIUM OF NEW BUILDING NOT LARGE ENOUGH FOR COMMENCEMENT.

At the regular May meeting of the city Board of Education, last night, President Probasco was empowered to secure the First Baptist church for the High School's Commencement exercises next month. It was originally planned to hold them in the auditorium of the new building but it has been found the seating capacity is not large enough. All the arrangements for the graduation will be the same as heretofore, the clerk receiving instructions to engage the orchestra and police and secure diplomas and invitations. The speaker has not yet been engaged but Superintendent Maxson hopes to secure one within the next few days.

The board had planned to let the contract for grading the new High School grounds, last night, but not a single bid was received. The specifications evidently did not appeal to contractors and they will be modified. In the meantime, the buildings and grounds committee will confer with landscape architects in the hope of devising some plan for beautifying the property in keeping with the appearance of the city park directly opposite.

Dr. Maxson announced that W. D. Murray, Samuel Merwin and Miss Susan Hunting had been selected as the committee to judge the prize composition to be handed in by the High School students this month. May is the month in which preparations are made for securing bids for the coal supply but the matter was deferred because of the prevailing high prices and in the belief that a "fumble" would follow the cessation of mining troubles.

A communication was received from the Dunellen Board of Education stating that the proposition to allow its High School pupils to enter the Plainfield classes was entirely satisfactory and extending thanks for Plainfield's help in the matter. Another communication was received from Dr. Maxson informing the board that the cadet corps attached to the schools had gone out of existence and that the State rifles would be returned.

Leyden, chief officer of the Lehigh Valley's New York division, and will be held until the sisters arrive.

Another Suit Against P. S. C.

Miss Martha Parrot, sister of Surrogate George T. Parrot, of Elizabeth, is the plaintiff in a $10,000 suit against the Public Service Corporation, in the Union County Court, today. She seeks to recover for injuries received while riding in a trolley car a few months ago.

The Women's Society for Christian Work of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will hold a parlor sale of fancy and useful articles at the home of Mrs. W. C. Hubbard, 111 West Fifth street, tomorrow afternoon.

DISCRIMINATING LADIES.

Enjoy Using Herpicide on Account of Its Distinctiveness.

The ladies who have used Newbro's Herpicide speak of it in the highest terms, for its quick effect in cleansing the scalp of dandruff and also for its excellence as a general hair-dressing. It makes the scalp feel fresh and it allays that itching which dandruff will cause. Newbro's Herpicide effectively cures dandruff, as it destroys the germ that causes it. The same germ causes hair to fall out, and later baldness; in killing it, Herpicide stops falling hair and prevents baldness. It is also an ideal hair dressing, for it lends an aristocratic charm to the hair that is quite distinctive. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

STEPPED NOISELESSLY IN.

oracle, "is, in his present incarnation, imperfectly monogamous."

Some people came from the music room.

"Miss Milbrey has stayed by the organist, said one, "and she's promised to make him play one more. Isn't he divine?"

The music came again.

"Oh!" from Mrs. Akemit, again in ecstasy, "he's playing that heavenly strain from the second act of 'Tristan and Isolde'—the one triumphant, perfect love-poem of all music."

"That Scotch whisky is good in some of the lesser emergencies," remarked Percival, turning to her; "but it has its limitations. Let's you and me trifle with a nice cold quart of champagne."

CHAPTER XII.

THE DIVERSIONS OF A YOUNG MULTI-MILLIONAIRE.

To be idle and lavish of money, 25 years old, with the appetites keen and the need for action always pressing; then to have loved a girl with quick, strong, youthful ardor, and to have had the ideal smirched by gossip, then shattered before his amazed eyes—this is a situation in which the male animal is apt to behave inequably. In the language of the estimable Herr Doctor von Herzlich, he will see those avenues of modification in which the least struggle is required. In the simpler phrasing of Uncle Peter Bines, he will "cut loose."

During the winter that now followed Percival Bines behaved according to either formula, as the reader may prefer. He early ascertained his limitations with respect to New York and its people.

"Say, old man," he asked Herbert Delancey Livingston one night, across the table at their college club, "are all the people in New York society impecunious?"

Livingston had been with him at Harvard, and Livingston's family was so notoriously not impecunious that the question was devoid of any personal element. Livingston, moreover, had dined just unwisely enough to be truthful.

"Well, to be candid with you, Bines," the young man had replied, in a burst of alcoholic confidence, "about all that you are likely to meet are broke—else you wouldn't meet 'em, you know," he explained, cheerfully. "You know, old chap, a few of you western people have got into the right set here; there's the Nesbits, for instance. On my word the good wife and mother hasn't the kinks out of her fingers yet, nor the callouses from her hands, by Jove! She worked so hard cooking and washing woolen shirts for miners before Nesbit made his strike. As for him—well, caviare, I'm afraid, will always be caviare to Jimmy Nesbit. And now the son's married a girl that had everything but money—my boy, Nellie Wemple has fairly got that family of Nesbits awestricken since she married into it, just by the way she can spend money—but what was I saying, old chap? Oh, yes, about getting in—it takes time, you know; on my word, I think they were as much as eight years and had to start in abroad, at that. At first, you know, you can only expect to meet a crowd that can't afford to be exclusive any longer."

From which friendly counsel, and from certain confirming observations of his own, Percival had concluded that his lot in New York was to spend money. This he began to do with large western carelessness that speedily earned him fame of a sort. Along upper Broadway his advent was a golden joy. Tradesmen learned to love him; florists, jewelers and tailors hailed his coming with honest fervor; waiters told moving tales of his tips; cabmen fought for the privilege of transporting him; and the hangers-on of rich young men picked pieces of lint assiduously and solicitously from his coat.

One of his favorite resorts was the sumptuous gambling house in Forty-fourth street. The man who glides back the panel of the stout oaken door early learned to welcome him through the slit, barred by its grill of wrought iron. The attendant who took his coat and hat, the waiter who took his order for food and the croupier who took his money, were all gladdened by his coming; for his gratuities were as large when he lost as when he won. Even the reserved proprietor, accustomed as he was to a wealthy and careless clientele, treated Percival with marked consideration after a night when the young man persuaded him to withdraw the limit at roulette, and spent a large sum in testing a system for breaking the wheel, given to him by a friend lately returned from Monte Carlo.

"I think, really, the fellow who gave me that system is an ass," he said, lighting a cigarette when the play was done. "Now I'm going down and demolish eight dollars' worth of food and drink—you won't be all to the good on that, you know."

His host decided that a young man who was hungry after losing $100,000 in five hours' play, was a person to be not lightly considered.

And, though he loved the rhythmic whir and the ensuing rattle of the little ivory ball at the roulette wheel, he did not disdain the quieter faro, playing that dignified game exclusively with the chocolate-colored chips, which cost $1,000 a stack. Sometimes he won; but not often enough to disturb his host's belief that there is less of chance in his business than in any other known to the captains of industry.

There were, too, sociable games of poker, played with Garner, of the lead trust; Burman, the intrepid young wheat operator from Chicago, and half a dozen other well-moneyed spirits; games in which the limit, to use the Chicagoan's phrase, was "the beautiful but lofty North Star." At these games he lost even more regularly than at those where, with the exception of a trifling percentage, he was solely at the mercy of chance. But he was a joyous loser, endearing himself to the other players; to Garner, whom Burman habitually accused of being "closer than a warm night," as well as to the open-handed son of the chewing gum magnate, who had been raised abroad and who protested nightly that there was an element of beastly American commercialism in the game. When Percival was by some chance absent from a sitting, the others calculated the precise sum he probably would have lost and humorously acquainted him with the amount by telegraph next morning—it was apt to be nine hundred and some odd dollars—requesting that he cover by check at his early convenience.

Yet the diversion was not all gambling. There were long sessions at all-night restaurants where the element of chance in his favor, inconspicuous elsewhere, was wholly eliminated; suppers for hungry Thespians and thirsty parasites, protracted with song and talk until the gas-flames grew pale yellow, and the cabmen, when the party went out into the wan light, would be low-voiced, confidential and suggestive in their approaches.

Broadway would be weirdly quiet at such times, save for the occasional frenzied clatter of a hurrying milk wagon. Even the cars seemed to move with less sound than by day, and the early-rising workers inside, holding dinner pails and lunch baskets, were subdued and silent, yet strangely observing, as if the hour were one in which the vision was made clear to appraise the values of life justly. To the north, whence the cars bulked silently, would be an awakening sky of such tender beauty that the revelers often paid it the tribute of a moment's notice.

"Pure turquoise," one would declare.

"With just a dash of orange bitters in it," another might add.

And then perhaps they burst into song under the spell, blending their voices into what the professional gentlemen termed "barber-shop harmonies," until a policeman would saunter across the street, pretending, however, that he was not aware of them.

Then perhaps a ride toward the beautiful northern sky would be proposed, whereupon three or four hansom or coupe loads would begin a journey that wound up through Central park toward the northern light, but which never attained a point remoter than some suburban road house, where sleepy cooks and bartenders would have to be routed out to collaborate toward breakfast.

Oftener the party fell away into straggling groups with notions for sleep, chanting at last, perhaps:

"While beer brings gladness, don't forget
That water only makes you wet."

Percival would walk to the hotel, sobered and perhaps made a little reflective by the unwonted quiet. But they were pleasant, careless folk, he concluded always. They permitted him to spend his money, but he was quite sure they would spend it as freely as he if they had it. More than one appreciative soubrette, met under such circumstances, was subsequently enabled to laud the sureness of his taste in jewels—he cared little for anything but large diamonds, it transpired.

MRS. APPLEGATE WELL AGAIN!

"I have had a bruised leg and foot for several years, caused by the brass eyelets of my shoe, which became very sore and painful especially at night. It itched, burned and ached me till it nearly set me crazy. I used everything I found and was suggested to ease it and nothing gave me any relief till I found and applied Azienza Cream which I think is a wonderful remedy for all sores and inflammation of the skin. The hard knots on my legs were as painful as bee stings, with discolored and purple spots. A running sore on my instep size of a half-dollar; the toe of my foot a seething sore ocean around to my heel. The bone was sore for a whole year and very painful. I used five and one-half jars of Azienza Cream and healed the sore all up. The foot remained tender and I continued to use to strengthen and toughen the skin until now it is entirely well." CLOSE TO THE PEOPLE.

Hot Baby in Oregon.

When the infant of Mr. Haws, who lives on the Mathis ranch near Spray, grows up it will keep away from the "jag cure." When it came time to bathe the child last week they put it in a pan of water and to keep off the chill set pan and all on the stove, thinking the fire was out, and yet there would be just heat enough. There was caloric to spare, for when the increasing yells of the "kid" called attention to it the parents found the poor child was being boiled. The country doctor was hurriedly brought in, and the baby has been taken to Condon for treatment.—Portland Oregonian.

Rumination at Cactus Heights.

Cactus Heights, the favorite resort of Mazeppa Turner when he wished to become thoroughly absorbed in the wonders of this locality and "look upon nature up to nature's God," is adorned with three different kinds of cactus. Some very large and fine species of the cactus family were taken away by tourists last summer. It is claimed that some rare petrified cactus was found in some of the petrified beaver dams on highly romantic Honey Creek.—Turner Falls cor. Kansas City Journal.

A Squatter on the Banks.

Sometimes, sometimes, it may be soon, it may be later, but, sometimes, strangers will come among us seeking nature's assistance in the establishment of the means of production, and the religiously undisturbed and care-free Umpqua will be forever arrested and pressed into constant and helpful service, annually, hourly, momentarily increasing the wealth of him who caused her arrest. And yet we sit on her banks with perfectly composed thought, dreaming away our privileges, neglecting our opportunities, and denying our capibilities without so much as a beckoning smile to stay the onward tread of the fleeting, retreating river.—Roseburg (Ore.) Review.

"THE dividend of $113.80, declared on my Twenty-Payment Life Five-Year Dividend Policy for $5,000, was an agreeable surprise, and I compliment the Company on its ability to pay so generously on its insurance contracts. I consider my Prudential policy as one of the best assets I own."

Constable Recovers Badge.

In the discharge of his official duty yesterday, Constable John Manley recovered his badge, which had been lost for a month. Manley had advertised for the badge and searched all over his usual avenues of travel without getting trace of it. Yesterday he served a notice on a colored man on West Third street, who amazed him by handing over the missing badge as he took the summons. He had picked it up on the street a few days after Manley dropped it. He had only heard of Manley's loss the day previous.

'FOZZY' SAYS 'CHEER UP'

All-Cubans' Manager Apologizes For Failure to Make Good Saturday.

NEW MAN FOR 2D BASE

Daab Decides Wilson Not the Man to Hold Down the Bag—Two "Megaphones" With the Team.

Fellow delegates of the Grand Exalted Order of Base Ball Bugs. Greeting!

Look pleasant, for tomorrow Angel Gabriel may blow his horn. Sunshine will come again.

The baseball season has just begun. Next Saturday the second installment will be delivered. The fluke of Saturday was unfortunate and every baseball enthusiasts appreciated the embarrassing position the occurrence put Manager Daab and the Plainfield Baseball Association in. Manager Schlicter, who with Nat Strong, is the booking agents of the club, came from Philadelphia to Hoboken Sunday to express his regrets over the failure of the All Cubans to show up. Mr. Schlicter assured Mr. Daab that he couldn't understand where the trouble is, as only a week ago Manager Linares of the team cabled sufficient money to pay for the team's new suits which had been completed. The All Cubans have been booked with all the leading clubs and were to have started the season Saturday in Plainfield as well as appearing in Brooklyn Sunday.

The Suburbans, one of the fastest aggregations playing in New York, will be the attraction Saturday afternoon. The team is known as the Emeralds on Sundays and has been playing on the Catholic Protectory grounds for several years past. Tommy Barry, who was the third cushion artist for Westfield, plays third base and captains the team, while Paddy Cotter is the catcher behind the bat. The team opened up the season in Dover by shutting out the crack Morris county team by the score of 2 to 0.

A few Mauser lead drops could have been well spent on Manager Linares and his All Cuban delegation Saturday afternoon.

Fitz declared that they ought to have been chucked into New York bay for not keeping their end of the bargain.

Several hundred fans announced Saturday that they wouldn't manage a ball team for one hundred plunks a game and expenses.

Manager Daab has decided that Wilson is not the right man for second base and expects to have a new man to cover that position Saturday. Wilson piled up two errors Sunday against the New York Americans in addition to making a few yellowish throws. Manager Daab's chief objection to him is on account of his latter fault. A player with a bad wing is about as bad as a fellow who can't hit the ball.

G. Mallen's experience as a Plainfield player was short. After Sunday's game against the New York's, Mallen voluntarily left the team owing to the fact that he is not in good playing condition. Four weeks ago he captured a bad cold after a shower bath, which has now settled in his back and legs. Mallen told Mr. Daab he was satisfied that he was in bad shape and did not wish to handicap the team and would not attempt to play again until he had gotten in first class condition. It is possible that Reardon, of Ridgewood, a fast fielder and good sticker, will be secured as his successor.

With a little sunshine on next Saturday the game will be on in full blast.

Manager Nichols, of Westfield, entertains the idea that he can get together a team which will give the Plainfielders a good rub and is anxious to arrange a series. He is hot on the trail of Manager Daab for a game.

The association is now provided with two good orators in Umpire Merrity and Announcer William N. Runyon.

Fans desiring to avoid the usual crush at the gates Saturdays can secure tickets in advance of the game up to Saturday noon at James Blair's gents' furnishing emporium on Park avenue.

"Willie" Deegan, the baseball pitcher, has purchased a fine black pacer with a record of 2:12½. "Willie" made his first appearance with him on Saturday at the baseball game.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCK IN CONNECTICUT TOWN

New Haven, Conn., May 8.—East Hampton, this State, was shaken by an earthquake at 12:30 to-day.

Windows were broken, one building was demolished, clocks were stopped and many of the inhabitants were thrown from their beds.

Everybody was awakened by the clatter of breaking glass and china and the crashing of overturning furniture. With the memory of the San Francisco disaster fresh in their minds the people had no doubt about the nature of the disturbance. Without waiting to dress they swarmed from their houses into the biting morning air. Many made for the open field in wild terror.

It is generally agreed that there was but one shock, passing from southwest to northeast, but the direction of the tremor cannot be verified, as there are no seismographs in East Hampton.

Dennis O'Brien Wins Contest.

St. Mary's T. A. B. Society fair, which has been in progrees a week, came to a close last night. The finish was exciting through the voting contest for the most popular hackman. The prize, a rubber coat, was awarded Dennis O'Brien. His friends from the Timbo Social Club invaded the hall and jumped his votes from thirty-eight to 1,144. Michael Higgins was a close second, with Robert Evans, William Callahan and William Newman following in the order named.

Borough Health Board Meeting.

At the regular meeting of the borough Board of Health, last night, Secretary Dundon made it known that several property owners along Green brook had been emptying sewage into the stream. They had been served with notices to desist, he said, and if they do not comply arrests will follow. It was made known that the general health conditions of the borough are good and that a regular inspection of milk has been commenced and will be continued.

Found Owner of Lost Money.

Mrs. Alice Peel, of North avenue, a scrubwoman, lost a pocketbook containing $7, all the money she had in the world, while cleaning the Plainfield Drum Corps rooms in the First National Bank building Saturday. George Hermann, one of the corps members, found it yesterday. Instead of pocketing the bills and chuckling over his "luck," Hermann made inquiries and discovered Mrs. Peel's loss. He went to her house to return it.

Newsies Will Play.

Arrangements are being made for a series of baseball games between a newsboys' team captained by "Bunt" Schropper, and a grammar school team. The losing nine will pay for ice cream.

—The Plainfield Nurses Registry has started on its second year, and has proven a necessity to both physicians and the laity. The income from physicians and nurses has not been sufficient to support it. So hereafter any family supplied with a nurse will be charged a fee of one dollar for each graduate nurse and fifty cents for each non-graduate nurse. The registry will be open constantly, excepting between 4 and 7 p. m.

"The Prince of Pilsen," Kyrle Bellew and Edward Harrigan.

The construction and management of the New Plainfield theatre marked another step in Manager Counihan's career as a theatrical man, a business that he has been in since he was a mere boy. His first venture in this line was as usher in the Chicago Academy of Music when Dan Shelby was manager. He rose to the position of chief usher and then was advertising manager for several seasons. By this time he had acquired sufficient knowledge of show affairs to go in advance of Baker and Farron in "The Soap Bubble" and he piloted them in a prosperous tour through the western states. When the company closed he joined the Barnum & Bailey advertising forces and went ahead of the big circus when it made the first English tour. For three successive summers he remained with the show, leaving it in France to re-enter the theatrical field.

He entered the employ of David & Heyman, one of the largest firms of its kind in that day, and acted as business manager of the Columbia theatre, Chicago, for six years. He was then attracted by a tempting offer from John Havlin, proprietor of three St. Louis theatres, the Grand, Havlin's and the Imperial, and went to the Mound City to act as assistant business manager for all three. In this capacity he secured a wider knowledge than ever of theatrical and amusement affairs and when the St. Louis World's Fair project was boomed, he secured control of all the space on the Pike, letting out the concessions. Those who visited the immense exhibition know how well he regulated the attractions and what a variety of entertainment was afforded.

His success in this field created a demand for his services as a carnival and fair director but he refused all to sign as advance representative with Gus Hill and went out ahead of "Alphonse and Gaston" and "Happy Hooligan," taking the former to the Pacific coast and making big financial returns to his employer. He severed relations with Hill to come to Plainfield as manager of the New Plainfield theatre, which he constructed from what was formerly Washington Hall at an expense of $22,000. Before he entered the city the residents had been without a playhouse for five years and the undertaking was one fraught with great financial risk. He assumed it alone after a careful survey of the field and the success of the first season shows that he was right in his belief that Plainfield wanted theatrical amusement of the right sort.

He has become one of Plainfield's best known residents and enjoys the friendship of a large part of its population. He is a member of the local lodge of Elks, the Green Room Club, of New York; the Brooklyn Yacht Club, and the Knights of Pythias. With the theatrical men from one end of the country he is known as a "good fellow," a declaration that is seconded locally, and his opinion in show matters is always accepted by them. Mr. Counihan's wife is a native of the East and that is what brought him to this section. He says now that nothing could induce him to leave it.

A Critic.

An illustrator whose work for the magazines is now generally admired tells a story of his early days, when his lines were cast in harder places than at present.

"I was pretty hard up," says he, "and in the West was once obliged to make a living by 'quick paintings' at country fairs. I remember how, on one such occasion, I was surrounded by a crowd gazing raptly at my work. I was hurriedly conveying the colors from the tubes to my palette, and from thence to the cheap stuff supposed to be canvass, very anxious to get the effect desired, and to be through with the job, for I was desperately hungry.

"The man nearest me was absorbed. 'Say,' he finally exclaimed, 'you're a clever man, all right, painting two pictures at once!' Then, after a pause, he added: "But that one you got your thumb through is better than the other!"—Harper's Weekly.

Plainfielders Off For Germany.

Henry Liefke, B. Frank Coriell and C. W. Krausse, of this city, sailed at 6 o'clock this morning on the Kron Prinz Wilhelm for a two months' visit abroad. While away they will spend sometime with Mr. Liefke's brother, Julius Liefke. The party went aboard the steamer last night, where they entertained a number of Plainfielders at a farewell reception.

For the Benefit of Deaf People.

Persons desiring to make use of the acousticon which has been installed in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church may have it connected with their pews by paying the cost of the receiver. The system is working well and is very satisfactory.

Sized Up.

"Mrs. Nabor tells me," said Mrs. Subbubs, "that that new woman who moved in next door to her is very cold and uppish and—"

"Ah!" said Mr. Subbubs, "that simply means that she doesn't gossip."

CONVENTION OF DIOCESE

PLAINFIELDERS THERE

Howard Fleming on New Parishes Committee; J. B. Dumont On Finance Committee—The Plans.

The 134th annual convocation of the diocese of New Jersey opened in the St. James' P. E. church, Atlantic City, yesterday. The sermon was preached by the Rev. Hamilton Schuyler, of Trenton, and was followed by the celebration of the holy communion by the Right Rev. Bishop Scarborough, assisted by Dean Baker of the convocation of New Brunswick, and Dean Perkins, of the convocation of Burlington. Rev. E. M. Rodman, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, Rev. A. C. Peck and Rev. George A. Warner, of Plainfield, were present, together with lay delegates of Grace, St. Stephen's and Holy Cross churches, of this city.

The convention was called to order by Bishop Scarborough. At the conclusion of the services the Rev. Chas. Fiske, of Somerville, was elected secretary, vice the Rev. Herbert Stanley Smith, who has gone out of the country. The Rev. Howard E. Thompson, of Freehold, was appointed assistant.

These preliminaries out of the way, Bishop Scarborough named the following committees:

Rules of Order—The Rev. H. S. Sleeper, Elizabeth; the Rev. Samuel H. Jobe, Bordentown; the Rev. M. M. P. Pierce, South Amboy; James H. Carpenter, Camden; William J. Harrison, Lakewood; General A. A. Woodhull, Princeton.

Unfinished Business—The Rev. W. Dutton Dale, New Brunswick; the Rev. Gilbert R. Underhill, Camden; the Rev. William G. Sneed, Riverly; H. A. Rambo and J. Forman Sinnickson, Salem.

Certificates of Lay Deputies—Messrs. Harry Humphries, Camden; Warren R. Dicks, Elizabeth; Charles W. Buck, Freehold; Franklin B. Lewis, Mount Holly; H. A. Smith, Somerville.

Admission for new Parishes—The Rev. J. Brogden Shepard, Princeton; James L. Lancaster, Perth Amboy; the Rev. Robert McKay, D. D., Moorestown; Messrs, Bayard Stockton, Princeton; John J. Pearse, South Amboy; Howard Fleming, Plainfield.

Finance—Charles Ewan Merritt, Ht. Holly; John M. Carpenter, New Brunswick; Augustus DeVoe, Spottswood; J. Bingham Woodward, Bordentown; John B. Dumont, Plainfield; William D'Oller, Burlington.

There is a plan on foot to change the method of naming the standing committee, which is really an advisory committee to the bishop. There is a feeling among some of the younger members of the diocese that they would like the opportunity of being named on that, one of the most important of all committees and in the past it has been so that once a man was named it meant that he might be on the committee continuously. The new plan is to name two men each year for a period of two years, and fix it by rule so that no man shall be able to succeed himself at the completion of his term.

In his address, Bishop Scarborough said that it was nearly a third of a century since he had made his first address before the body.

He touched upon the liquor traffic as one of the greatest evils of the day, and spoke of the bishop's bill of this State, passed by the last Legislature, and gave the credit for its inception to the Catholic church. While it was not just exactly what he would like to have, yet he was thankful that the question had come and this much accomplished. The discussion which the bill had aroused had, in the bishop's estimation, been infinitely beneficial to the whole State.

Last evening there was a missionary service in the church, and the speakers were the Rev. J. R. Atkinson, rector of Trinity church, Elizabeth, and the Rev. F. L. Flinchbaugh, rector of St. John's church, Salem.

The concluding business session of the convocation was at 10 this morning.

Preparatory Service.

Preparatory service will be held in Hope chapel tomorrow night. Rev. L. R. Howard, the pastor, wil deliver a preparatory address. The communion service will be held Sunday night.

WOMEN'S EXCHANGE CALLS FOR SUBSCRIBERS

ITS WORK MUCH BETTER IF MORE WOULD AID FINANCIALLY.

The past year has been one of the most successful in the history of the Women's Exchange, according to the report of the secretary, Mrs. T. W. T. Maxwell, which has just been presented. The exchange starts the new year free and clear with all debts paid, which is an encouraging fact and will result in renewed vigor.

The exchange has been successful in the useful and necessary work of helping the many women who look to it for the support of themselves and those dependent on them, and also in supplying patrons with pure and wholesome food at reasonable prices.

Increased competition during the past year has compelled the exchange to appeal to the public and its friends in general to assist by becoming subscribers. If the annual subscription list could be enlarged at $5 per year, it would mean to those subscribing an outlay of less than two cents a day, but to the exchange an increase in this field of usefulness and enable it to continue the work with more confidence.

The receipts for the year beginning March 1, 1905, and ending March 1, 1906, were $5,644.22, of which amount $4,573.67 went directly to the consigners, showing how much good is being done by the exchange. Miss Shelton, the present superintendent, reports the present number of consignors to be ninety-six.

During the year Mrs. Howard Tracy, corresponding secretary, gave her house for a talk on Japanese flower arrangements by Miss Averill and the president, Mrs. O. T. Waring, gave her house and grounds for a lawn party which proved a great success. An entertainment was given by Miss Beatrice Herford, of New York, at the Casino, on February 16, in her original monologues. She was assisted by Miss Constance Trowbridge, of Brooklyn, contralto soloist, and by Miss Hyatt and Dr. Charles Davis, who gave a violin duet.

The following liberal donations were received for the benefit of the exchange: Miss Morris, $25; Mrs. Greenleaf, $50; Mrs. Lounsbery, $200. During the year the exchange sustained a great loss in the death of Mrs. Rowland B. Stover, who for ocer ten years was the faithful treasurer of the organization. Plans are now being formed for the coming year and the officers and members hope to make it even better than the last one.

GEORGE BALL BACK IN POLITICS AS A COLBYITE.

Retired Scotch Plains Leader in Harness Again for Reform.

The Colby movement in this county has drawn former County Committeeman George Ball, of Scotch Plains, a retired Republican leader of that place, back into politics. Mr. Ball, who announced his retirement from the game about two years ago after long service in the ranks, enrolled in the reform organization at Elizabeth Saturday night.

Several months ago, when the first groundswell of the Colby wave struck this section Mr. Ball declared that he was ready to espouse the movement. When Judge Runyon's declaration of independence was issued, Mr. Ball was one of the first to recognize the Judge as the best rallying figure for the reform movement in Union and stated immediately after the young Second ward leader's move that he would follow him into the reform ranks if he took the leadership.

Mr. Ball knows the political game thoroughly, and will be a valuable factor in organizing a branch of the Colby League in Scotch Plains. He is slated to start and head the movement there, and will probably get to work on the organization of the branch next week, after the executive committee of the league, which will meet for the purpose next Monday, outlines the general plans for organization throughout the county.

Mrs. Ignace Comcecz Arrested.

Mrs. Maria Winschnek has had Mrs. Ignace Comcecz arrested on a charge of disturbing the peace. The warrant was issued by Justice Hand. The compalinant alleges that Mrs. Comcecz called her vile names and quarrelled in a loud and boisterous manner at her house on North avenue Monday afternoon. The case will be heard Saturday morning. J. P. Owens is the complainant's lawyer.

Will Improve House.

John B. Brown has ordered a number of improvements made on his property at 535 West Fifth street. City water and sewer connections will be made and the house interior will be somewhat remodelled.

CARRIED OFF A BIG RUG

Nervy Negro Crook With an Odd Taste For Loot.

FROM LINCOLN SCHOOL

Got As Far As Railroad With His Swag Only To Be Nabbed By a Watchful Cop.

There is a colored prisoner at police headquarters whom the police believe is an old and daring crook. He was captured early this morning by Patrolman Dobson in the Netherwood section with the fruits of a nervy burglary in his possession. He is being held for a thorough probing into his past history.

The prisoner says his name is Lewis Johnson. When questioned at headquarters after his arrest he gave 331 Clark street, Elizabethport, as his address, but the Elizabeth police say there is no Clark street at the 'Port. There is a Clark place, but the numbers do not run into the 300's. Johnson's evident attempt to conceal his identity fits in with the police idea that he is an old crook, with a damaging record.

Johnson's operations this morning were at the Lincoln school. He cut a circle in one of the lower window panes big enough to admit his hand, undid the catch, and crawled in. He gathered a lot of pencils and small articles from various desks into his pocket, and then rolled up a $30 rug. He pushed the roll through the window, shouldered it, and went down lonely streets and back ways for the railroad.

Patrolman Dobson spotted him at the tracks, a short distance beyond the Netherwood station, at 4.30 o'clock. He didn't know anything about the robbery, but a strange colored man with a big rug was too suspicious a circumstance to pass over. Johnson's explanations didn't explain, and the officer headed him for the station house.

Three hours later, when the janitor of the school telephoned to police headquarters that somebody had broken in and carried off the best rug, the police saw light. The janitor, called to headquarters, promptly identified the rug, and the pencils found in Johnson's pockets.

Johnson was remanded pending investigation. The police will send his description to all surrounding cities. He may be wanted on a more serious charge than the one they have against him.

ASK FREEHOLDERS TO IMPROVE WATCHUNG ROAD.

Petition From Valley Residents Filed For Reference; Old Board's Final Session.

A formal petition for the improvement of the Watchung-Warren township road, which has been agitated for some time by residents along the thoroughfare, was laid before the Somerset Freeholders, yesterday afternoon, at the final meeting of the old board. The petition asks that the road be improved from Watchung store to the Warren township line. It was filed for future consideration.

Other petitions for road improvement referred to the thoroughfare known as the New Amwell road, from Millstone to South Somerville; the road from the Flagtown Station to South Branch and from there to the Duke estate in the township of Hillsborough. The petitions for these roads were also filed.

A communication from the clerk of Bound Brook borough asking permission to raise the crosswalks on Union avenue was read, and, on motion, tabled.

The claim of William Eltizer for $40 for damages alleged to have been sustained by him by reason of a defective bridge near Oak Stump in Bernards township was presented. The matter was referred to a committee consisting of Messrs. Bunn, Philhower and Demler.

Beautifying the Borough.

The borough Board of Health is seeking to induce residents to beautify the thoroughfares on which they live by making suggestions as to the improvement of lawns, yards, etc. A systematic campaign was conducted along Watchung avenue, Chatham, Pearl and Warren streets and as a result many touble-down fences were removed, curbs straightened and lawns trimmed. The attempt has brought about such good results that a systematic campaign has been planned.

Party for Miss Sharkey.

A party was tendered to Miss Blanche Sharkey, of Whitewood avenue, last night. There were twenty-five young people present and the evening was spent playing games and listening to vocal and instrumental music. At midnight supper was served.

WOMEN'S CLUB MEETING

The Monday Afternoon Club Largely Represented at Federal Convention.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE UP

Members Eulogize the Late Susan B. Anthony — Mrs. Ballington Booth Speaks.

More than 500 women delegates from various parts of New Jersey attended the semi-annual meeting of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs yesterday morning and afternoon in the Presbyterian church, Metuchen. The Monday Afternoon Club, of this city, was represented by Mrs. John M. Whiton, Mrs. F. O. Herring, Mrs. Isaac L. Miller, Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, Mrs. Israel C. Pierson, Mrs. Josiah Browne, Mrs. W. L. C. Glenney, Mrs. Craig A. Marsh, Mrs. Phillips, Miss Scribner, Mrs. W. F. Merrill, Mrs. Gilbert, Mrs. Ruth Leonard and Miss Leonard. The Plainfielders made the trip to and from Metuchen in a stage.

The morning session was occupied with the reception of reports from the various departments of work and all were of an encouraging nature. There was a good deal of a flutter during the morning when a decided note for woman suffrage was struck in the presentation to the body of a resolution urging the endorsement of suffrage principles and agitation to secure the ballot for working women. Heretofore suffrage has been determinedly avoided in all federation proceedings, and the conservative element is in fear of fruits of the seed sown yesterday.

The women united in honoring the late Susan B. Anthony, and a eulogy of her life was given by Rev. Antoinette Brown Blackwell, the veteran woman suffragist, and resolutions were adopted. A most delightful part of the afternoon session was the address of Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth, who told of her prison work. The meeting throughout was a great success and was considered the best held in several years.

LE ROY GATES' FATHER DIED IN NEW YORK.

Former Head of Big Baking Powder Concern Passes Away.

Charles Otis Gates, former president of the Royal Baking Powder Company, father of Le Roy Gates, of Second place, died last night in the Waldorf-Astoria, New York. Mr. Gates was taken ill about three weeks ago with acute indigestion, but blood poisoning was the cause of death.

Mr. Gates had intended to sail for Europe about the time he was taken ill. His wife and daughter are now in Carlsbad and were awaiting his arrival when he became ill. He leaves two young sons, who are in school in this country. Mr. Gates was fifty-four years old and was born in Iowa. He came to this city twenty years ago to take the professorship of English literature in Adelphi College, Brooklyn, and later was married to Miss Elizabeth Hoagland, daughter of Dr. Cornelius Hoagland, of Brooklyn.

Up to last February, Mr. Gates was the president of the Royal Baking Powder Company. He retired from active business at that time and sold his home in Brooklyn, intending to join his wife and daughter in Europe as soon as he had arranged his business affairs. He was a director in the Columbia Trust Company, the Manufacturers' Trust Company, the Hale Desk Company and the Greenwich Bank.

There were numerous floral tributes, among them a large pillow from Somerset Council, Jr. O. U. A. M.

At the grave in Hillside cemetery, where interment was made, a further service was conducted by the Juniors in charge of Councilor Watts. The pall bearers were William Hartpence, William Alberts, J. A. Dowe, C. F. Hulet, William LaTourette and E. G. Wilson.

—James T. Closson has had a number of minor improvements made about the grounds of his residence on East Front street.

GOVERNOR SEES COLBY

Reform Senator Confers With Stokes on Latter's Invitation.

HEART TO HEART TALK

After the Pow-Wow Governor Says Election of Record to U. S. Senate Is Now the Issue.

Trenton, May 9.—Governor Stokes and Senator Everett Colby had a heart to heart talk yesterday. It lasted nearly two hours, and was held in the Governor's private office at the Mechanics' National Bank. It is spoken of as a heart to heart talk because things were said by each that must have touched the heart of the other. No knives were used, and each of the parties kept his temper admirably. But there were psychological moments, so to speak, when there grips on each other's pericardium that must have pinched pretty hard.

Governor Stokes, when asked last night about his views of the latest development in Colbyism as derived from his talk with Colby yesterday, said:

"I am now positively satisfied that Record for United States Senator is the issue from now on in the reform movement, in fact Senator Colby admitted that was the cause."

Mr. Colby was requested to come down. The Governor wanted to talk over the appointments from Essex on the County Board of Equalization. The Essex Senator came down early in the day, because he was due this evening at the home of General Edward Burd Grubb, at Edgewater, where a meeting was held for the organization of a Colby movement in Burlington county. General Grubb, who was the Republican candidate for Governor in 1889, is out for reform and Colby, and hopes to turn the county over to the reformers next November.

The Governor and the Senator had their conference between 11.30 and 1.30 o'clock. They first discussed the County Board of Equalization outlook. The Governor stated that among the names mentioned were those of Halsey M. Barrett, of Bloomfield; Lathrop Anderson and Henry Dickinson, of Newark, and Thomas A. Davis and Coleman Kissam, of Orange. James Smith is understood to have presented the name of James Nugent.

Colby emphatically opposed the nomination of Mr. Barrett. He said he could not stand for him. The Governor said he did not know when he would make the appointments. He proposed to take his time and did not care for criticism, so long as he succeeded in making good appointments.

Then the conversation drifted to other things. Each asked the other about various speeches which they had made lately. Just what the various more or less pleasant interchanges of views were, each declined to state in detail. Both declared they had spent several enjoyable hours, but neither placed any accent on the "enjoyable." The Governor seemed to express himself in a friendly way toward George L. Record, but just why is not known. He believed Record's attitude would make Dryden more prominent in the Senatorial fight.

There was considerable gossip around the State House all day as to Record's candidacy for the United States Senatorship. The consensus of opinion seemed to be that his boom would materially injure the reform movement. Senator Colby, however, took the opposite view. He was very positive that it was absolutely necessary for the reformers to have a candidate that they could all indorse, and whom the public would approve when it knew more about him. Colby would not listen to any doubts that were expressed on the subject. He said he felt sure all talk of injurious attacks upon Record would fall to the ground. He would prove to be one of the strongest, as he was one of the ablest, men in the State.

When the Governor was asked how he stood on the United States Senatorship he declined to answer definitely, although he left the impression on Senator Colby that he expected to enter the race. The Senator and Governor were so much interested in their talk that the latter missed the opening of the bids for the construction of the new State House wing, and allowed half a hundred callers to gather around the corridors of the State House until he arrived.

Mrs. Jackson's Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. Amos Jackson was held at her late home on Clinton avenue, yesterday afternoon, and was largely attended by relatives and friends. The service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Doupe, rector of the Mission Church of the Heavenly Rest. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery, six sons acting as pall bearers. They were Henry, Robert, Arthur, Harold and Ernest Jackson.

C. N. CODDING SOLID FOR RANDOLPH PERKINS

SAYS THERE ARE NO FACTIONS IN WESTFIELD NOW.

Charles N. Codding, of Westfield, was asked yesterday about reported friction between himself and Randolph Perkins, in Westfield. Mr. Codding said reports of the kind were to be laughed at, as he and Perkins were the best of friends, working in harmony. Mr. Codding said that Westfield's voice will be for Perkins at the primaries and that there is not likely to be any opposition to him in his home town.

A Plainfield newspaper said Perkins was likely to have some opposition if reports coming from Westfield were true. "Well, you can say that reports coming from Westfield are not true," said Mr. Codding. "Perkins's career in the Legislature has been above reproach, his name has been given to some of the best laws ever placed on the statute books. There is neither Kean nor Fowler faction, nor any kind of a faction so far as Westfield is concerned. Perkins is our man."

It is said that Mr. Perkins will not again be a candidate for the mayoralty in Westfield.

of carriages, when you want to buy, is not as simple an affair as buying a paper of pins or a bag of salt. There is much about a carriage, buggy, runabout or other pleasure vehicle for style and pleasure, that must be considered. Don't buy a carriage you can't see or try. Catalogue carriages look nice on paper, but they don't wear well on the road. Our carriages come from the foremost makers, and have all the new desirable features. You will find quality and price right.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

Great preparations have been made for the presentation of the laughable "Pippincott Church Coup," in the chapel of the Presbyterian church Friday night, May 11, at 8 o'clock. Nothing quite so funny has been seen in Dunellen in years and every one can be sure of a good laugh. The entertainment will include vocal and instrumental music of a high order and recitations by an accomplished elocutionist. Children will be admitted half price.

The large grove at Edgerton Park has been put into shape for picnics and outings and thrown open to the public. Societies and individuals, out of town as well as local, will be welcome to the use of the place. It is one of the prettiest picnic spots hereabouts.

The new sprinkling service will be on a twice-a-day basis at present. Water will be plentifully used, so that the dust will not rise between sprinklings. Enough residential streets will probably be added to the route to keep the wagon going all day.

W. M. Ostrander, the widely advertised real estate operator, who is trying to boom Lincoln, has asked the township committee to relocate a piece of road near Blackford's lane. The committee will look into the matter.

No successor to Miss Estelle Sofield as organist of the First Baptist church has been secured. An effort is being made to have her keep the position another year.

The trustees of the First Baptist church have selected F. Percy Vail as treasurer to succeed the late Eugene Runyon.

Friendship Circle will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ogden Meeker. A large gathering is expected.

Communion will be celebrated at Holy Innocents' church Sunday morning at 8:30 o'clock.

Charles A. Coriell, Jr., is preparing to settle in his new home on Washington avenue.

A carload of trees for Edgerton Park will shortly be received and laid out by the agent.

Mrs. Alex. Herlich has returned from a week's stay with her parents at Warrenville.

Frederick Holden, who was taken with a slight illness last week, has recovered.

Roy Dutcher has been elected fourth vice president of the Epworth League.

Isaac Fostic has returned from a week's visit to his brother in Boston.

Col. W. J. Downey has joined the Edgerton Park improvement force.

DeWitt C. Fulton is recovering from the effects of a bad cold.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The marriage of Miss Ruby Gilbert Kieb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest C. Kieb, of the borough, and Laurens Hardy Van Buren, of Plainfield, will be solemnized Saturday night at 7:30 at Grace Episcopal church, Plainfield.

The local baseball team is trying to arrange a game for Saturday afternoon with a Rahway team, the game with the Orange F. C. team, of Plainfield, having been cancelled.

"Willie" Deegan is preparing for a large crowd at the opening of his dancing pavilion Saturday night. The entire proceeds will be donated to the San Francisco relief fund.

A meeting of the Woman's League will be held in Meyers Hall Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Work pertaining to the Industrial School is the business to be transacted.

Only the regular order of Arcanum business was transacted at the semi-monthly meeting of Fanwood Council held last night.

Mrs. Frank Putnam, of East Second street, Plainfield, has been visiting her mother, Mrs. A. L. Frentz, of Westfield avenue.

"Willie" Deegan has purchased a new black roadster that is reported to have a record of travelling under three minutes.

Conrad Peltz, of Westfield avenue, has been entertaining his father, Conrad Peltz, of Bayonne, for a week.

Mrs. Barbara Huff, who has been visiting Mrs. George Stillger, has returned to her home in Brooklyn.

Stephen Perretta is erecting a new house, adjoining his home on Hunter avenue.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Extensive improvements will be made in the residence of Joel D. Manning soon. He will place a circular tower on the north side of the house and widen the piazza.

Interest in the long desired trolley line to South Plainfield has again been encouraged.

No Sleep, No Rest, No Peace for the Sufferer from Kidney Troubles.

No peace for the kidney sufferer—
Pain and distress from morn to night.

Dull aching breaks your rest at night,
Urinary disorders add to your misery.
Get at the cause—cure the kidneys.
Doan's Kidney Pills will work the cure.
They're for the kidneys only—
Have made great cures in Plainfield.

John W. Snedeker, of 224 East Third street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "While suffering with kidney troubles, I used to feel in the morning that my sleep had not done me a bit of good, and all during the day I would suffer with a dull backache. Matters ran along in this way for some time, and I began to be bothered more and more with that tired, languid feeling of weakness and depression. My mother advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and I did so with very encouraging results, as I am now well and entirely free from backache and that feeling of weakness. I sleep well at night and feel that my rest is beneficial."

HANDICAPS NECESSARY

Metropolitan Golf Association's Committee Issues a Statement.

ARMY OF 2,500 GOLFERS

Voluntary Reports of Improvement Should Be Made—Criticism Is Invited.

New York, May 7, 1906.

To the Clubs of the Metropolitan Golf Association:

The 1906 handicap list of the Metropolitan Golf Association contains 2,254 names, against 1,560 last year and 1,250 in 1904. About 65 per cent. of the increase is due to including in the 18 group, players handicapped at 18 and over. We call attention especially to the new rule this year which provides that "no M. G. A. player is eligible to compete (except from scratch) in the handicap events of this association or in the handicap events at the open or invitation tournaments given by clubs belonging to this association, unless his name appears on this list. But players not listed who may wish to compete in handicap events during the season may obtain ratings and have their names added to this list by applying through their club handicapper or direct to the association handicap committee. All such players are advised to apply immediately, as additional ratings will not be given without careful consideration."

The object of this rule is to compel players who compete in open and invitation association handicap events to obtain ratings or else go from scratch. It is eminently unfair to the players who are carefully rated, to allow others to compete on guess handicaps alloted to the tee. At some of the events last year twenty-five per cent. of the starters in the handicaps were unrated, and asked for handicaps at the eleventh hour. It is impossible to rate players properly on such short notice. The rule will result in no harshness, as players who are not listed who have any intention whatever of entering handicap events this season, may apply at once for ratings and have their names added to the list.

The increase of 1,000 names has added greatly to the labor of this committee; and as some mistakes and omissions are likely to appear, we ask that our attention be directed to them as promptly as possible.

We have been greatly assisted by the care shown by club handicappers in making out reports. Every club has followed the new system inaugurated for the first time last season. It has been so well understood this year and our directions have been so closely adhered to, that something actually approaching standardization in golf handicapping is being attained. The same players, returned from different clubs, with links of varying degrees of difficulty, have been reported in numerous instances with the same handicaps. And this has been as true of the high men as the low men.

In addition, we have been able this year for the first time in the history of M. G. A. handicapping, to accept probably eighty or ninety per cent. of club ratings without change. In few instances have we deemed it necessary to vary very much from such ratings.

We present the result of our work with a final plea that club handicappers will not ignore our urgent request that voluntary reports be sent in to us throughout the season whenever one or more players show improvement in playing form. There will not be many such cases in any one club; and it will not therefore be difficult to comply with our request. On the other hand, it would be next to impossible for this committee, unaided, to watch out for cases of such improvement in any army of 2,500 golfers. If any player goes out and wins a handicap event, with a generous margin, and on a rating which should have been reduced, the responsibility must, we respectfully submit, rest on the club handicapper who fails to report the improvement in playing form.

We invite suggestions and criticism of our work at all times.

F. J. Phillips,

Princeton Gives $1,500.

Princetonians have contributed liberally to the San Francisco sufferers and $1,500 has already been raised. The recent performance given by the Triangle Club netted $700, and $30 was raised by private subscription among the students. The residents of the town contributed $500. Half of the entire amount will be sent to the National Red Cross Society at Washington, D. C., and the remainder to the relief commitee of San Francisco.

Is the city so poor that the Councilmanic police board cannot afford to have policemen detailed to Crescent Oval for the Saturday baseball games?

The Union County Board of Freeholders did the wise thing when it re-elected former City Judge W. R. Codington as county attorney. His record in that capacity is the best evidence of his fitness to be continued in office.

In selecting Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., as its candidate to succeed John W. Murray, Jr., on the County Board of Elections, the Union County Republican Committee picked out the right sort of timber for the job. Mr. Hetfield is a bright young lawyer and has a host of friends not only in this city, where he lives, but throughout the county.

Full credit to the prelates and clergy of the Catholic Church was given by Bishop Scarborough in his annual address before the diocesan convention of the Episcopal Church yesterday for leading the fight in favor of the "bishops' bill." His remarks on that subject were incorporated in a general talk on moral conditions of the day during which he declared his belief that "a new era of civic and political righteousness had come."

The Trenton State Gazette is working hard in behalf of friends but its efforts do not seem to be of the kind that will take away votes from the Colbyites. To discredit the Newark News for instance, it attributes something as coming from that paper, which really did not appear in its columns, and then vehemently denies the alleged story. A case in point is when the Trenton paper declares that there is no truth in the story that the Circuit Court judgeship was offered to Judge Runyon. As a matter of fact neither the News nor any other paper ever said that it was.

Tomorrow he will be at Trenton, where in the evening he will hold a reception, Friday, from 1 to 3 p. m., he will be at the aerie rooms at Newark, and next Tuesday, May 15, he will visit Atlantic City and in the evening will be tendered a grand banquet at the Arlington Hotel.

Send in Clothing for Sufferers.

The members of the Loyal Daughters Circle, King's Daughters, are packing a box of clothing to be shipped on Monday to the San Francisco sufferers. There is a great need of clothing in San Francisco and persons desiring to contribute to this box can send such articles as they may have to Mrs. A. B. Davies, of Belvidere avenue, or Mrs. Archer, of Woodland avenue. It is most likely that arrangements will be made to ship the box by the Blue Ridge Despatch fast freight which is operated over the New Jersey Central, as the line has offered to carry such freight free of charge.

HOW OAKLANDERS FARED

Mrs. Daniel Rapalje's Sister Pictures Devastation Wrought By Earthquake.

ON A CASH BASIS NOW

Oakland People Haven't Much to Complain of, She Says—Scene in San Francisco.

The following letter was received by Mrs. Daniel Rapalje from her sister at Oakland, April 30, 1906.

"For a day or so after the earthquake we were unable to send telegrams, but as soon as the lines were in order the people flocked to the office in such numbers that we had to wait for hours to get in, and the message was merely "put on file."

Such a shaking up as we did have! It seemed as if it never would stop, and it got harder and harder the longer it lasted!

Just think how much greater the loss of life would have been had it occurred even an hour later, when people would have been on the streets! Of course an immense amount of damage was done in all the cities about the bay, but it was nothing compared to the terrible fire which has laid San Francisco in ruins and left so many thousands of people homeless and absolutely destitute.

In Oakland, nearly all of the large business buildings were badly damaged, and there is scarcely a chimney left standing. We were without water or electricity for the first day only, but we are still unable to build a fire, as we are yet without a chimney. Fortunately we have a two burner gas stove, and manage very nicely with the cooking. But we begin to think a bath in the tub would be the nicest thing on earth!

We Oaklanders haven't much to complain of. What is troubling us more than anything else is the lack of ready money. The banks have all been closed until the last day or two, and they will cash no checks on San Francisco banks.

Since the earthquake, which is nearly two weeks now, everything has been on a cash basis, and it is impossible to get credit. Many well-to-do people had little ready money at the time, and as checks were not accepted, they had to practice economy along with the rest of us.

C.'s pay comes the middle of the month, in the form of a check on a San Francisco firm. It arrived the very day of the earthquake, and we have been unable to cash it until today, so for a time we found it necessary to "count the pennies." My pay came today, too, so we are rich compared with many around us who have been thrown out of employment by the fire.

H. and I went last week to look up friends who used to live in San Francisco. Of course there were no cars, and from the ferry building we had to walk. The bricks and debris had been cleaned away from the middle of Market and several other streets, so the walk was fairly good. We travelled mile after mile and on every side, as far as we could see, was nothing but ruins. In many places, especially in the business sections, portions of the walls remain standing, but in the residence district for blocks at a time, it is a mass of crumbled bricks and twisted iron. We saw many people trying to locate the spots where their homes had stood, but apparently unable to do so. Can you imagine a whole city in ruins? It gives one an awesome feeling to see it.

In the unburned district, which is but a small portion of the city, people are allowed to burn candles in their houses until 10 o'clock, but they are without electricity, gas, or water. Cook stoves are set up in the street in front of the houses, or else a sort of fireplace is made with bricks from the fallen chimneys. No fires are allowed in any building.

It was a strange sight to see ladies out in the street getting supper. They all seemed to be seeing the funny side of it. Almost from the first people have seemed to take it most cheerfully. Just at first we were simply dazed, and then inclined to be somewhat hysterical. As soon as that wore away everybody was ready to laugh at the funny things.

I never saw such an array of Easter bonnets! People dressed in a hurry and didn't stop to see if their shoes were mates, or if their jackets and skirts belonged together, but none of them forgot their Easter bonnets. And the canary birds and parrots! One woman and a small boy arrived in Oakland with thirteen Angora cats!

Oakland is a busy city now. Its poulation doubled in less than a week. About 70,000 people were sent away to various parts of the country, and they say at the Chamber of Commerce that we have 80,000 still with us.

The building in which I have my office, was such a wreck! At first the occupants thought it would be condemned, but the workmen have begun to patch it up. The two front corners of the building were torn off. We have our reception room in one of the front corners, and it was left quite out-of-doors. Much of the plaster throughout the whole building fell. It may be a year before they can get bricks or plaster for repairing it, so they are pitching with boards.

Fitz Moves Training Quarters.

Pugilist "Bob" Fitzsimmons has removed his training quarters from the New Plainfield theatre stage to Saengerbund Hall. The change was made necessary because of the theatrical season closing and the fact that the house will soon be placed in the hands of contractors. Saengerbund Hall is well adapted to "Bob's" needs and both he and his sparring partner, James Savage, are very much pleased with it.

BLOODHOUNDS TO HUNT THE MURDERER

NO CLUE POINTS TO SLAYER OF WHITEMANS, FATHER AND SON.

New Brunswick, May 9.—The Middlesex County authorities have sent for two bloodhounds to be used in an effort to run down the murderers of John Whiteman and his son, George, who were killed Monday night under conditions or horrible ferocity at the roadhouse they conducted near Browntown, two miles below Old Bridge.

Search of the woods by a posse and a thorough examination of the premises by the county detectives fail to reveal a single clew to the murderers. Even a theory as to the reason for the crime and the conditions under which it was committed is hard to form.

The younger man was shot five times, one bullet going through the heart, another through the throat, and three perforating the abdomen. Any one of the wounds would have caused death. The older man was literally sliced to death with a spade. He was probably stunned by a blow which split his head across the bridge of the nose. Another blow nearly chopped off his chin and lower jaw. His body was lying over that of his son.

Some of the farmers in the vicinity believe the crime was committed by a negro who had been sent to State Prison for stealing silverware from the Whitemans. He was released some time ago. There is nothing more substantial than guesswork to establish such a suspicion.

Several broken razors were found about the floor. Where these came from is a mystery. The Whitemans had a revolver in the barroom. This is missing. Whiteman's sister does not remember hearing any shots, although the house is only a hundred and fifty yards from the tavern.

WOMEN GIVE RUGS TO G. A. R. POST.

Presentation at Winfield Scott Post Headquarters Last Night.

The members of the Women's Relief Corps gave the members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., a surprise last night at a meeting of the veterans. After the Post meeting the women were admitted and Mrs. John Manley, president of the corps, on behalf of the organization, presented two handsome rugs to the Post. The gift was received by Commander Preston B. Goodfellow, who thanked the woman heartily for the useful articles.

The balance of the evening was then devoted to entertainment and sociability. There were piano solos by Miss Edgar, songs by Comrades Wagner and Townley and the brass band of which Louis Clauss is the leader, gave the veterans and their friends a serenade. A number of popular selections were rendered and enjoyed. This band has been engaged for Memorial Day. After the entertainment refreshments were served by the women.

During the meeting of the Post an invitation was received from Rev. E. E. Roberson, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, to attend divine service at his church the Sunday preceding Memorial Day, but inasmuch as a simliar invitation from Rev. A. C. McCrea, of the First M. E. church, was accepted a few weeks ago, Mr. Roberson's invitation was declined with thanks. The service will be held Sunday night, May 27, and the Post, Women's Relief Corps and Sons of Veterans are invited to attend.

Bereaved Lawyer In Retirement.

In accordance with the custom of his religion, Counsellor William Newcorn has suspended all business activity for the week on account of his mother's death. It is a rule of the Jewish faith for all immediate members of a family in which a death occurs to withdraw from all worldly associations for a period of seven days immediately following the bereavement. All of Counsellor Newcorn's cases set for trial during the week have been put off.

Clergyman Acts As Pilot.

A borough clergyman, who believes in extending the helping hand in more ways than one to wayward members of his flock, did patrol duty on Somerset street, late Saturday night, and escorted home three who had toyed with John Barleycorn during the evening. Two of them were in a noisy mood and narrowly escaped arrest before the pastor took them in tow and saw them safely to their doors. One of these went out again Sunday night and got a good-sized "load" in a cider joint. Friends who had heard how he fared the night before, telephoned the clergyman but the latter declined to act as escort again.

STATE COUNCIL, K. OF C., NOW IN CONVENTION.

Secretary Reports There Are Now Forty-two Councils in New Jersey.

Jersey City, May 9.—In the Columbian Club building, Jersey avenue and Bright street, this city, yesterday morning, the New Jersey State Council, Knights of Columbus, began its annual convention.

Prominent among the participants were State Deputy Thomas P. Fay, Long Branch; State Secretary Christopher A. Gough, Trenton; State Treasurer William M. Cahill, Jersey City; State Advocate Daniel A. Dugan, Orange; State Warden Thomas J. McLaughlin, Newark; State Chaplain Rev. Anthony Stein, Paterson.

In his report State Secretary Gough said that there were forty-two councils in the State, one of them being instituted during the past year. The total membership in the State December 31, 1905, was 6,191, consisting of 1,500 insurance and 4,591 associate members.

All the old officers were elected with the exception of State Deputy Fay. His place is likely to cause a lot of contention. The candidates for the vacancy were Charles J. Barrett, of South Orange, and John Hickey, of Bayonne.

At the opening of this morning Rev. Anthony Stein, of Paterson, the State chaplain, began the convention with a prayer. He was followed by State Deputy Fay. The latter spoke on the good work that has been done by the knights during the last year and the progress the organization is making. He said that there were 412 new members during the last twelve months, up to January 1.

LYNCH CRIES FOR INSULTER OF FLAG.

Man Who Draggled Old Glory Gets Good Beating and Six Months in Jail.

The sight of a man six feet tall walking yesterday down Newark avenue, Hoboken, kicking an American flag along ahead of him in the dirt, caused the blood of a number of citizens to reach the boiling point. It did not take long for a crowd to form about him and attack him.

One small young fellow leaped at him and attempted to rescue the flag from under the feet of the giant, who threw him off as though he were so much paper. Undaunted, the little fellow called on the crowd to assist him, and about fifty men swarmed about the big fellow and the "Grand Old Rag" was rescued.

Then all hands set upon the man and gave him a severe beating. Some one yelled "Lynch the traitor," and the cry was taken up and would no doubt have been carried out were it not for the prompt arrival of Sergeant Hayden, of the First Precinct.

He pushed his way through the crowd and, after considerable trouble, quieted it. He then seized the fellow and attempted to take him to the station, but he made such a desperate fight that Hayden had to use his club freely. By the time he reached the station-house the man presented a sorry appearance.

He was taken before Recorder Stanton and when asked his name he replied, "I am king of the bums" and said his home was "Nowhere." The Recorder then gave him a severe lecture on his treatment of the flag, but the prisoner interrupted him and remarker, "That is all it is good for."

"Well," indignantly said the Recorder, "if that is the way you feel about it I will sentence you to six months in the Snake Hill Penitentiary, where you will be put to work breaking stones, and perhaps by the time you again have your liberty you will have more respect for the Stars and Stripes."

Court attendants hustled the prisoner into the pen.

He was taken to St. Francis' Hospital.

CITIZENS' MEETING FIGHT.

Argument Over the Nomination of Officers Marks the Session.

Somerville, May 9.—At the annual citizens' meeting Saturday evening the report of Treasurer Charles Schwed showed a balance of $11,000. The appropriations voted for next year are slightly increased over last year. The appropriations are: Street lights, $4,000; police, $2,500; collecting garbage, $350; sewer, $1,000.

There was a lively fight over the nomination of a ticket to be voted for at the election to be held late this afternoon.

Commissioners A. W. Mack and Selak Schoonmaker refused to permit their names to stand for re-election. There was a ticket containing the names of all the old commissioners except these two and Charles Houston. The ticket was W. H. Cawley, George V. Vanderveer, Charles Schwed, Walter Durling, with Chas. Kenyon, John A. Maxwell and John Grinzleman. Another ticket left out all the old members and was headed by Vice Chancellor James J. Bergen, with M. H. Johnson, E. F. Brown, Charles C. Kenyon, John A. Maxwell, Joseph Barrass and Frederick A. Pope. Still another ticket was headed by Commissioner Charles A. Houston, and with him were John Gernert, Joshua Stryker, Frank Ross, John Hardsgrove, Charles C. Kenyon, Walter Durling.

There was a bitter fight between Houston and Cawley and both of these candidates were defeated. Four men on the ticket which contained none of the old members were successful. These were J. J. Bergen, M. H. Johnson, Charles C. Kenyon and John A. Maxwell. Three of the old commissioners were named with these, Vanderveer, Schwed and Durling.

THE SPENDERS

By HARRY LEON WILSON

Copyright, by Lothrop Publishing Company.

Under this more or less happy surface of diversion, however, was an experience decidedly less felicitous. He knew he should not, must not, hold Avice Milbrey in his mind; yet when he tried to put her out it hurt him.

At first he had plumed himself upon his lucky escape that night when he would have declared his love to her. To have married a girl who cared only for his money; that would have been dire enough. But to marry a girl like that! He had been lucky indeed!

Yet, as the weeks went by the shock of the scene wore off. The scene itself remained clear, with the grinning grotesquerie of the Jack-o'-lanterns lighting it and mocking his simplicity. But the first sharp physical hurt had healed. He was forced to admit that the girl still had power to trouble him. At times his strained nerves would relax to no other device than the picturing of her as his own. Exactly in the measure that he indulged this would his pride smart. With a budding gift for negation he could imagine her caring for nothing but his money; and there was that other picture, swift and awful, a pantomime in shadow, with the leering yellow faces above it.

In the far night, when he awoke to sudden and hungry aloneness, he would let his arms feel their hunger for her. The vision of her would be flowers and music and sunlight and time and all things perfect to mystify and delight, to satisfy and—greatest of all boons—to unsatisfy. The thought of her became a rest house for all weariness; a haven where he was free to choose his nook and lie down away from all that was not her, which was all that was not beautiful. He would go back to seek the lost sweetness of their first meeting; to mount the poor dead belief that she would care for him—that he could make her care for him—and endow the thing with artificial life, trying to capture the faint breath of it; but the memory was always fleeting, attenuated, like the spirit of the memory of a perfume that had been elusive at best. And always, to banish what joy even this poor device might bring, came the more vivid vision of the brutal, sordid facts. He forced himself to face them regularly as a penance and a corrective.

They came before him with especial clearness when he met her from time to time during the winter. He watched her in talk with others, noting the contradiction in her that she would at one moment appear knowing and masterful, with depths of reserve that the other people neither fathomed nor knew of; and at another moment frankly girlish, with an appealing feminine helplessness which is woman's greatest strength, coercing every strong masculine instinct.

When the reserve showed in her, he became afraid. What was she not capable of? In the other mood, frankly appealing, she drew him mightily, so that he abandoned himself for the moment, responding to her fresh exulting youth, longing to take her, to give her things, to make her laugh, to enfold and protect her, to tell her secrets, to feather her cheek with the softest kiss, to be the child-mate of her.

Toward him, directly, when they met she would sometimes be glacial and forbidding, sometimes uninterestedly frank, as if they were but the best of commonplace friends. Yet, sometimes she made him feel that she, too, threw herself heartily open to the thought of their loving, and cheated herself, as he did, with dreams of comradeship. She left him at these times with the feeling that they were deaf, dumb and blind to each other; that if some means of communication could be devised, something surer than the invisible play of secret longings, all might yet be well. They talked as the people about them talked, words that meant nothing to either, and if there were mute questionings, naked appeals, unuttered declarations, they were only such as language serves to divert attention from. Speech, doubtless, has its uses as well as its abuses. Politics, for example, would be less entertaining without it. But in matters of the heart, certain it is that there would be fewer misunderstandings if it were forbidden between the couple under the penalty of immediate separation. In this affair real meanings are rarely conveyed except by silences. Words are not more than tasteless drapery to obscure their lines. The silence of lovers is the plainest of all speech, warning, disconcerting indeed, by its very bluntness, any but the truly mated. An hour's silence with these two people by themselves might have worked wonders.

CHAPTER XIII.

THE DISTRESSING ADVENTURE OF MRS. BINES.

The fame of the Bines family for despising money was not fed wholly by Percival's unremitting activities. Miss Psyche Bines, during the winter, achieved wide and enviable renown as a player of bridge whist. Not for the excellence of her play; rather for the inveteracy and size of her losses and the unconcerned cheerfulness with which she defrayed them. She paid the considerable sums with an air of gratitude for having been permitted to lose them. Especially did she seem grateful for the zealous tutelage and chaperonage of Mrs. Dreimer.

"Everybody in New York plays bridge, my dear, and of course you must learn," that capable lady had said in the beginning.

"But I never was bright at cards," the girl confessed, "and I'm afraid I couldn't learn bridge well enough to interest you good players."

"Nonsense!" was Mrs. Dreimer's assurance. "Bridge is easy to learn and easy to play. I'll teach you, and I promise you the people you play with shall never complain."

Mrs. Dreimer, it soon appeared, knew what she was talking about.

Indeed, that well-informed woman was always likely to. Her husband was an intellectual delinquent whom she spoke of largely as being "in Wall street," and in that feat of jugglery known as "keeping up appearances" his wife had long been the more dexterous performer.

She was apt not only to know what she talked about, but she was a woman of resource, unafraid of action. She drilled Miss Bines in the rudiments of bridge. If the teacher became subsequently much the largest winner of the pupil's losings, it was, perhaps, not more than her fit recompense. For Miss Bines enjoyed not only the sport of the game, but her manner of playing it, combined with the social prestige of her amiable sponsor, procured her a circle of acquaintances that would otherwise have remained considerably narrower. An enthusiastic player of bridge, of passable exterior, mediocre skill, and unlimited resources, need never want in New York for very excellent society. Not only was the western girl received by Mrs. Dreimer's immediate circle, but more than one member of what the lady called "that snubby set" would now and then make a place for her at the card-table. A few of Mrs. Dreimer's intimates were so wanting in good taste as to intimate that she exploited Miss Bines even to the degree of an understanding expressed in bald percentage, with certain of those to whom she secured the girl's society at cards. Whether this ill-natured gossip was true or false, it is certain that the exigencies of life on next to nothing a year, with a husband who could boast of next to nothing but family, had developed an unerring business sense in Mrs. Dreimer; and certain it also is that this winter was one when the appearances with which she had to strive were unwontedly buoyant.

Miss Bines tirelessly memorized rules. She would disclose to her placid mother that the lead of a trump to the third hand's go-over of hearts is of doubtful expediency; or that one must "follow suit with the smallest, except when you have only two, neither of them better than the Jack. Then play the higher first, so that when the lower falls your partner may know you are out of the suit, and ruff it."

Mrs. Bines declared that it did seem to her very much like out-and-out gambling. But Percival, looking over the stubs of his sister's check-book, warmly protested her innocence of this charge.

"Heaven knows Sis has her shortcomings," he observed, patronizingly, in that young woman's presence, "but she's no gambler; don't say it, ma, I beg of you! She only knows five rules of the game, and I judge it's cost her about $3,000 each to learn those. And the only one she never forgets is: 'When in doubt, lead your highest check.' But don't ever accuse her of gambling. Poor girl, if she keeps on playing bridge she'll have writer's cramp; that's all I'm afraid of. I see there's a new rapid-fire check-book on the market, and an improved fountain pen that doesn't slobber. I'll have to get her one of each."

MRS. APPLEGATE WELL AGAIN!
"I have had a bruised leg and foot for several years, caused by the brass eyelets of my shoe, which became very sore and painful especially at night. It itched, burned and ached me till it nearly set me crazy. I used everything I found and was suggested to ease it and nothing gave me any relief till I found and applied Azienza Cream which I think is a wonderful remedy for all sores and inflammation of the skin. The hard knots on my legs were as painful as bee stings, with discolored and purple spots. A running sore on my instep size of a half-dollar; the top of my foot a seething sore clean around to my heel. The bone was sore for a whole year and very painful. I used five and one-half jars of Azienza Cream and healed the sore all up. The foot remained tender and I continued to use to strengthen and toughen the skin until now it is entirely well." NEW BOOK OF PRAYER.

Presbyterian Volume, Just Published, Will Be Largely Adopted in East.

New York, May 9.—The Book of Common Worship has just been published with the authority of the Presbyterian General Assembly. For three years a special committee on forms and services of the General Assembly, headed by the Rev. Dr. Henry Van Dyke, has ben working on this new prayer book. The approval of the General Assembly to the innovation was not secured without a struggle, as many Presbyterians objected to any "form" in the church.

It is expected by Presbyterian leaders that some churches will refrain from using the new book, but in the East, and in the large cities of the country generally, it is expected to be largely adopted. In many particulars the Book of Common Worship has points of similarity to the Episcopal Book of Common Prayer. The marriage ceremony in the new book omits the word "obey," to which so many have objected, and it also omits the reference to "worldly goods," with which the man and the woman in s omemarriage forms "endowed" each other.

AUTOMOBILE NOTES.

The Bible story about the man who went down to Jericho—not the Jericho on the Vanderbilt course—and who fell among thieves, who robbed him and left him half dead on the roadside, can be applied to possibly the majority of automobile drivers at this late day. The passing of the centuries does not seem to have had any softening effect on human nature, if the average automobilist is to be judged as a fair sample of human nature. The Bible story tells us that several people passed by on the other side and paid no attention to the robbed and wounded man, until a certain person came along from whom assistance was not expected, but he gave it. Automobilists do not expect assistance from the drivers of carriages, but it is a well known fact that they get it from that source a great deal oftener than from their own class of drivers.

In France, and, I believe, in other countries, the principal clubs have a clause in their club rules which states that if any members of the club should pass a fellow club member in distress without offering assistance, he should be expelled from the club. It is well that this is so, and every automobile club in the United States should see to it, if it is not there already, that a clause as above be inserted in their constitution and bylaws.

In talking the matter over recently with President Alfred Wilmarth, of the Long Island Automobile Club, Mr. Wilmarth, who had suffered, was very indignant over a case in which he figured a short time ago. Something had happened to his car on a Long Island road and he was in need of something to make a minor repair, but his wife, who was with him, counted eighty-one automobiles that passed on the other side without offering to stop and paid no attention to a request that they stop by Mr. Wilmarth. The eighty-second did stop. He was like the sole occupant of an old touring car and he had been celebrating somewhere around the road. Walking as straight as he could, this individual approached Mr. Wilmarth, who was congratulating himself that there was on unselfish driver on the road that day, but the next moment his faith was rudely shocked, when the unsteady individual asked, "Have you got a spark plug I could have; I am working on one cylinder?" Fixing him up with a spark plug and failing to get the tool he needed, Mr. Wilmarth had eventually to ask for a tow.

GOLF.

It is expected that the game of golf will be in full swing at the Park Golf Club on Saturday and that a number of contestants will visit the course.

Dudley H. Barrows is rapidly returning to his old-time form and it is believed that he will make a fine record on the links this year. His work last season was of a high order.

During the progress of the hospital carnival it is not likely that there will be a great deal doing on the local golf links as there are so many members who are interested in the success of the hospital affair.

In addition to the weekly play for the Golf Committee cup at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday there will be a team match with Columbia University. This will be the first match of the season and the Plainfield team is anxious to score a victory. There will be the usual social features at the clubhouse.

"Marty" O'Loughlin, the professional at the Plainfield Country Club, who made such a fine record last season, will follow the greens this season in the hope of securing additional honors. He has been playing considerable of late and finds that his stroke is almost as good as last year for this time of year and his eye is as keen as ever. His friends predict a brilliant year for this noted homebred golfer.

ANOTHER EFFORT TO SAVE MRS. VALENTINA'S LIFE.

Assemblyman Mabie Will Plead Before Pardon Board that the Woman Be Not Hanged.

Assemblyman Clarence Mabie, of Hackensack, N. J., has been retained by a number of prominent residents of Englewood, Miss Gazella, of Rutherford, and the Italian Vice Consul at Newark to appear before the Board of Pardons in an effort to secure a commutation of sentence for Anna Valentina, the Lodi murderess, who is under sentence to be hanged in the Hackensack jail May 25.

Several affidavits and petitions have been signed in the condemned woman's behalf and are in the hands of the Assemblyman. Mr. Mabie visited Governor Stokes at Trenton yesterday and the Executive promised to send him word when the Board of Pardons shall convene.

The Board of Freeholders signed Monday the petition asking that Mrs. Valentina's death sentence be commuted to life imprisonment.

Mrs. Morris Tremaine, of Buffalo, is visiting her mother, Mrs. James Middledith, at Truell Court for a few days.

SEASON TENNIS TOURNEY

Cup Offered For Best Individual Record at Plainfield Country Club.

DIVIDED IN CLASSES

Rules for the Play—Result of Initial Contest—The Handicaps.

In addition to the special events on the tennis courts of the Plainfield Country Club, there has been arranged a continuous tournament extending through the season. The players of the club arranged by the tennis committee, primarily, as nearly as practicable in the order of their playing ability, were originally rated in the following order:

1—H. J. Cochran, 2—Wylie Brown, 3—A. D. Beers, 4—H. Carter, 5—F. W. Goddard, 6—O. H. Fleming, 7—T. M. Day, 8—W. L. Glenney, 9—W. T. Glenney, 10—H. D. Bulkley, 11—Arthur Lovell, 12—Willard Wadsworth, 13—J. Whitney Baker, 14—W. L. Righter, 15—J. Hartley Mellick, 16—W. L. Lockwood, 17—W. S. Tyler, 18—J. F. Middledith, 19—J. A. Tompkins, 20—C. B. Tyler, 21—M. D. Rae, 22—G. H. Ryder, 23—George S. Ring, 24—Howard Huntington, 25—H. S. Brown, 26—G. F. Schoonmaker, 27—F. W. Wallace, 28—J. P. Stevens, 29—H. B. Lovell, 30—J. M. Shellabarger, 31—C. W. King, 32—F. W. Yates, 33—J. K. Shoemaker, 34—J. L. Fleming, 35—J. C. Martin and 36—T. M. Day, 3d.

The result of the initial play was as follows:

Goddard (5) beat O. H. Fleming (6), 6-3, 4-6, 6-2, no change; Baker (13) beat W. L. Glenney (8), 6-4, 6-3, and took his number; Arthur Lovell (11) beat W. L. Glenney (13), 2-6, 6-3, 6-4, no change; Carter (4) beat Goddard (5), 6-0, 6-0, no change.

According to the rules of the tournament the first six players will constitute class one, the second six will constitute class two, the third six class three and so on for as many classes as may be necessary. Each player may challenge any player rated above him, provided that the challenged player be within the same class or the next higher class. If the challenger wins two out of three sets, he takes the number of the defeated player, who drops back to the challenger's former number. If the challenger loses, both players retain their former numbers.

An unplaced player may challenge only members of the lowest class, unless by special permission from the tennis committee. Matches must be played off promptly. If the challenged player fails for more than two weeks to play, he loses his number to the challenger by default, unless the tennis committee, for good reason, otherwise orders. If defeated, the challenger may not challenge the same player again for one month thereafter. The members of class one will be regarded as the regular club team, and of class two, as the substitutes therefor, but the tennis committee, may in its discretion, make other selections for team matches. Male members of the club, of any class, are eligible. A cup will be awarded to the player, who, in the opinion of the tennis committee, has maintained during the season the best standing in this tournament.

W. R. CODINGTON RENAMED AS COUNTY ATTORNEY.

Union County Board of Freeholders Organize for the Year.

The Union County Board of Freeholders closed up its business for the year, yesterday, when reports were presented and other matters were attended to. It was reported that it cost about $593,000 to run the county last year and there is a balance of $52,000 in the treasury. The reports showed that the freeholders practiced economy and although conservative, gave due attention to all matters of importance.

This morning the new board met and re-organized by electing Major Benjamin A. King, director, E. M. Wood, county collector; William R. Codington, county attorney, and S. Rusling Ryno, clerk. After the organization was completed the board adjourned to the Burkley Hotel, where it was the guest of Mr. Ryno.

Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Morton, of East Seventh street, are entertaining relatives from Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

PLAYERS JOLLIED HIM

Suburbans Who Come Here Saturday Are a Strong Combination and Haven't Lost a Game This Season.

When the 1:20 express from New York was speeding across the Newark Bay bridge Saturday with the Plainfield team aboard, "Billy" Heffron, our curly haired left fielder, looked through the window panes with awe and admiration.

"What stream is that?" he asked Tommy Curley, of Montclair.

"That's the Mississippi River, you lobster. Didn't you ever study geography?" responded Mr. Curley.

"Yep, a little," declared Heffron, "but to tell you the truth I never knew that the Mississippi touched Elizabeth. Don't give me away this time, Tommy," pleaded Bill.

Mr. Heffron was a little mad Saturday, or crestfallen, you may call it what you will. It was all because a Jersey City tailor failed to have his skyscraper suit ready for the day. It was Billy's desire to come out of town rigged up in Berry Wall fashion but disappointment was in store for him.

The fact of Billy wearing wire suspenders doesn't discount the report that he is a Beau Brummell. Billy carries considerable jewelry on his person, according to Jack O'Neill, his outfit including three watches in his pockets, in addition to a Tiffany sunburst on his finger. With this protection there is no danger of his faithful trousers giving away.

Billy had heard something about a phenom named Phil. Smith Manager Daab had signed. "Who is this fellow Smith?" inquired Billy of Jack O'Neill. "Why he's a crack Indian pitcher nearly as good as Bender," replied Jack. Mr. Heffron gave a grunt at this piece of information and then put his arm around Jack's neck and whispered confidentially "These Indians may be good pitchers but I hate to see so many foreigners breaking in the game."

The conductor called out Plainfield a few seconds later.

Speaking of the Suburbans, of New York, who will be the attraction Saturday afternoon, every fan who wants to see a good ball game should not miss the opportunity of finding his way out to Crescent Oval to see this contest. With "Paddy" Cotter and Tommy Barry on the nine it will look something like a Westfield team. The team is known as the Emeralds on Sundays and has won a reputation by its fast playing during the past five seasons on the Catholic Protectory grounds in New York. In defeating the strong Dover team by the score of 2 to 0 two weeks ago the New Yorkers showed their mettle as ball players. They come to Plainfield with the best intentions to trim Sergeant Leonard's stalwarts. The Plainfield team will be able to exhibit just what it can do and what can be expected of it during the remainder of the season. Encourage the sport by being on hand.

Manager Daab is figuring on a double header with the All Nationals for Decoration Day. Manager McGrath is anxious to book two games here for that day and will bring a team which he says will take at least one if not both of the games. "Hank" Mathewson, brother of the famous "Christy" Mathewson, who went South with the New Yorks, is pitching for the All Nationals and will accompany the team to Plainfield. The All Nationals have been playing fast ball this season and put up two fast exhibitions here last summer, one of the games which they lost, being one of the prettiest of the season, a thirteen-inning contest, score 3 to 2.

Fan dope pills can be purchased in small or large quantities by applying to Mayor N. B. Smalley, vice president.

Willie "Bockhurst" Wiener, of Garwood, who won considerable notoriety last season by pitching a game against Westfield, and who signed in the South Atlantic League, is through with the South, and is said to be returning home by easy stages.

"Red" Waller will start pitching two games on Sunday, for which he will receive the princely income of $60 per day. In the morning he will perform in the opening game for the Palmers, of Elizabeth, and in the afternoon he will pitch for the Stars.

Subscribers to baseball stock who have not received their certificates are requested to call on Treasurer Charles W. Runyon on or before Saturday.

The Somerset A. A., of North Plainfield, has a stronger team than ever and any team wishing games should address H. Conover, 95 Jackson avenue, or G. McLaughlin, of Somerset street. The lineup is as follows: Mullin, 3b; Burns, 2b; Conover, ss; Gaddis, 1b-p; McLaughlin, 1b-p; Herman, c; Hanson, lf; Hann, cf; Squiers, rf.

AFTER "GRAFTERS' ROW"

Plainfield Baseball Association to Wage War on "Dead Heads."

MAYOR SMALLEY ACTS

Clever Schemes Worked to See the Games For Nothing—All Must Pay Hereafter.

All forms of graft at Crescent Oval were tabooed by the Plainfield Baseball Association at the meeting in the Hotel Iroquois, last night, and it was decided to make a few changes in the method of handling the crowd on Saturday. "Grafters' Row" as the lower end of the field is known, will be looked after and it is safe to say that the crowd will be materially diminished. The failure of the Police Board to furnish protection free to the association was reported, and it was the sense of the members that no request for policemen be made, but all policemen who desire to witness the games during the season will be expected to pay the same as anyone else.

Mayor N. B. Smalley, chairman of the grounds committee, will make arrangements for the rest of the season to have certain men assist in handling the crowds and seeing that no one gains admittance without paying except the representatives from the newspapers, the Mayor and Chief Kiely. It was reported that a few persons, known to the committee on grounds, worked clever schemes to get in the grounds on Saturday and they will be watched from now on. Inasmuch as the members of the association, who are assisting at the games, pay their admission it is considered only fair that everybody else should do the same.

Treasurer Charles W. Runyon presented a report on last Saturday's game, showing a gratifying profit. He also reported the sale of over $800 worth of bonds. Over $1,300 worth of bonds were subscribed for and it was urged that the subscripers pay up at the earliest possible date so that the accounts can be straightened out and adjusted.

The association expressed itself as being well pleased with the team gotten together by Manager Daab and it believes that a first-class article of ball will be played throughout the season. It is hoped that all the fans will be on hand Saturday when the Suburbans will meet the local aggregation, and thus help to make up for the disappointment at the opening game. It is estimated that if the All-Cubans had appeared here on Saturday there would have been at least 2,000 persons at the game, and word was received from Manager Daab, through Treasurer C. W. Runyon, that Messrs. Schlicter and Strong, who are booking the Cubans, have promised to repair the damage as far as possible.

Other minor details were discussed relative to Saturday's game and it was decided to complete all of the improvements at the oval before that time.

OPERA CLUB'S PLANS FOR NEXT SEASON.

Likely to Produce "Chimes of Normandy" and "Erminie."

The Plainfield Operatic Association, which has just closed its season with the production of the comic opera "Patience," is already making preliminary plans for next year. While the association did not make any money at the last performance, the members feel satisfied with the results and believe that with such an organization another year will be more successful. This year's work has given the members good training and made it possible to do better work under the direction of William Holmes, and with the assistance of Charles J. Fisk and City Judge Wm. N. Runyon.

It is now proposed to give up Gilbert & Sullivan's operas for the present and give some of the other operas. It has been suggested that "The Chimes of Normandy," or "Erminie," be given next season.

V. W. Nash, Jr., lawyer for George Cook, secured an order from Judge Vail in the county court Tuesday afternoon staying execution of a judgment for $50 secured by James Trimmer, in a contract case, pending an appeal. It was the very last act performed by the judge before he left the county court bench to assume the office of circuit court judge.

The case was tried before Justice Hand and a jury of twelve men. Trimmer sued for commission due one the sale of Cook's grocery store. He claimed that $100 was due him, and Cook contended that $25 was the right sum. The jury split the difference.

SUED OVER MONUMENT ON HUSBAND'S GRAVE

WIDOW REFUSED PAYMENT AFTER DIFFERENCE WITH FATHER-IN-LAW.

Mrs. J. E. Townsend, suing as the owner of the Townsend Granite Works, Richmond street, secured a verdict in full from Mrs. Ellen McCann in a contract suit for $150 heard before a twelve-man jury in Justice Hand's court yesterday afternoon. The suit was over a part payment on a monument over the grave of the defendant's husband in St. Mary's cemetery.

The case was sharply contested. It appears, from the evidence, that when Mrs. McCann's husband died last year, it was agreed between the widow and her father-in-law, William McCann, that a $300 monument be put up in the center of four plots, to be used jointly by the two families, McCann and the widow to pay half each. It was for her $150 of the monument's cost that Mrs. Townsend sued. The monument was erected two months ago.

Mrs. McCann acknowledged her part of the agreements, but contended that she entered into it on the express understanding with the father-in-law that he keep her childr free of charge and give her a home when she was not at work. This agreement, she claims, he broke, and thereby gave her an offset to the claim. It was her contention that the whole arrangement as to the payment was between her and her father-in-law and not with the Granite Works.

S. S. Swackhamer, Mrs. McCann's lawyer, raised the point of law that, by Townsend's own books, McCann and the widow were shown to be joint debtors for the stone and should be sued jointly for whatever was due, leaving the father-in-law to settle his claim by suit of his own.

The jury reached a verdict against Mrs. McCann after a short deliberation. Notice of appeal was filed at once, and Mr. Swackhamer announced this morning that the case would be carried up. "The verdict will be thrown out on the point we raised," he said.

William G. DeMeza conducted the case for the plaintiff.

SUBURB FOR REFORM.

South Plainfield Voters Will Organize a Good Government Club.

Political reform is becoming an issue in South Plainfield. A mass meeting will be held there next Tuesday night for the formation of a Citizens' Good Government Club. It is likely the organization will come out flat for the Colby movement.

The South Plainfield voters are sore over the smothering of the South Plainfield borough bill in the Legislature last winter. They charge the act to machine politics, and they are thirsting for the downfall and destruction of every bit of political machinery dominated by the existing powers in Middlesex county.

Hoodooed Pharmacy Staff.

Illness and accident have reduced the working force at Dudley Miller's pharmacy from four to one within three days. Mr. Miller himself has been confined to the house by illness for two weeks. Two days ago William Beach, the delivery boy, was severely injured in a collision between his bicycle and a pony on North avenue, and yesterday Louis Orliff, the senior clerk, took to his bed with acute rheumatism, throwing the management of the place on the lone shoulders of William Walsh, the junior clerk.

Heym-Nader Case Settled.

The contract case of Adam Heym against Frank Nader, growing out of a dispute over a commission claimed on a horse trade, was settled without trial in Justice Smalley's court yesterday. It was one of the last cases the justice can preside over. His term expired May 1, and he can now only try unfinished cases begun before the expiration of the term. V. W. Nash, Jr., apepared for the plaintiff, and F. J. Blatz for the defendant.

ACQUIT JEROLOMAN AND MILLIGAN TOO

PLAINFIELDERS GET OFF AFTER TRIAL IN SOMERSET COUNTY.

John Jeroloman, formerly a resident of this city, accused of a grave charge, whose trial was concluded in the Somerset County Court late yesterday afternoon, was acquitted, and the trial of his companion, Lewis Milligan, of this city, which was finished today noon, was also acquitted. In the case of Milligan Judge Schenck instructed the jury to acquit the prisoner, which it did without leaving the jury box.

The court assigned F. A. Pope and A. M. Beekman to defend Jeroloman and Milligan and they presented a strong defense.

The case of James McCloskey, of Rocky Hill, charged with running a gambling place, was called this afternoon. It is expected that the Flommerfelt murder case will be called on Monday.

PASSAIC COLBYITES FOR REYNOLDS FOR SHERIFF.

Correspondent Says It Is Heaviest Blow Dealt Machine.

Passaic, May 10.—In a letter to the Passaic Herald yesterday "Richelieu," its Paterson political correspondent, says that the Colbyites will nominate Fred Reynolds for sheriff.

"This," "Richelieu" continues, "will be the heaviest blow that has yet been landed on the machine. The Republican aspirants for sheriff—Rancier and Sturr—are not the strongest that could be named. Reynolds will appeal to a large majority of the disinterested voters. Even now his election is a foregone conclusion. Without the sheriff the machine would have a hard time paddling its canoe.

"The old adage, 'Elect your sheriff and the law won't harm you,' is not forgotten by the machine in Passaic county, nor by the people. It was because Sheriff Bergen was less a machine man than his opponent, John Wright, that he won last time.

"With Blauvelt for Congress, Marelli for Senator and Reynolds for Sheriff, and that is the state, supplemented with a strong Assembly ticket, there seems but little doubt of the Colby success."

GEORGE ALLEN JOINS TRI-STATE LEAGUE.

Popular Ball Player Signs to Catch for Washington Club.

George Allen, formerly catcher for the Scotch Plains and Somerville teams, has signed a contract to catch for the Washington, Pa., Tri-State League Club, will join the team within a few days. George is in excellent condition and should have no trouble making good at Washington. He landed the position through "Lou" Wiltse, who is one of the pitching staff of the York, Pa., team and "Lou" has much confidence in Allen's ability.

It was originally Allen's intention to catch for the West Ends, of Somerville, this season, but when he received the offer from Washington he thought so well of it that he decided to accept. Allen is considered one of the best backstops in this vicinity. He made a great reputation while catching for Scotch Plains, and his work behind the rubber for the Safe Works team is not forgotten. Last season he went to Somerville where he helped materially to win a majority of the games for the West Ends.

SOMERSET'S BOARD RE-ELECTS OFFICERS.

Contest Over Counselship But Frech Wins Again.

The meeting of the Somerset County Board of Chosen Freeholders in Somerville yesterday noon for the purpose of reorganization was a quiet affair. There was no fight for any of the plums, with the exception of counsel. For that John A. Frech was a candidate for re-election and he was opposed by former Prosecutor James L. Griggs. The vote, 6 to 5, resulted in the election of Mr. Frech.

The other officers elected were: Director, Henry W. Baird; county physician, William H. Long, Jr., county collector, E. B. Allen; county engineer, Joshua Doughty, Jr.; county supervisor of roads, Oliver H. Perry.

WARNING AGAINST TWO ALLEGED CROOKS

CONTRACT TELLS POLICE OF FAKE ELECTRICIANS ARE ROBBING HOUSES.

On information lodged at headquarters at noon today, the police issued a warning to householders against two men who have been going about the city in search of electrical jobs. It is said the men, passing as electricians, have secured work in several houses and stolen everything in the places handy enough to conceal about their persons.

Allen B. Laing, an electrical contractor, gave the information to the police. News of the alleged game came to him through queries from householders who had been given to understand, it is said, that the men were connected with his place. Mr. Laing says the men are not electricians. The police have only a vague description of the men, but householders can protect themselves by refusing to allow unknown men to work in their houses unless they bring credentials not open to doubt.

CHARLES L. SPIER WAS MAN WHO SUED HYDE.

Mysterious Death of Promoter Has Local Story In It.

Charles L. Spier, whose mysterious death at his home on Staten Island is attracting so much attention, was the one who brought suit against Charles L. Hyde, of this city, and who about a year ago instituted bankruptcy proceedings against Hyde. Mr. Hyde claimed at the time that the bankruptcy proceedings were instituted for the purpose of embarrassing him and compelling him, because of the consequent notoriety, to pay Spier money to which he was not rightfully entitled.

Hyde claimed that Spier's claim against him was without legal foundation and was supported by perjured testimony. Spier was at one time in the employ of Hyde and the latter always claimed that Spier had taken advantage of his position in Hyde's office to concoct a claim against him.

The court refused to adjudge Hyde bankrupt and dismissed Spier's suit.

QUIETLY WEDDED AT MONROE M. E. PARSONAGE.

Ceremony United Miss Bessie Titsworth, of Dunellen, and Archibald Laramour, of this City.

Miss Bessie Mae Titsworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. States Titsworth, of Dunellen, and Archibald Laramour, of West Fifth street, were quietly married at the parsonage of the Monrie Avenue church last night, Rev. E. E. Roberson officiating. The young people were attended by Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Gaskill, of West Front street. Miss Titsworth was attired in a green traveling gown.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Mr. and Mrs. Gaskill's home, where they will remain for a short time. Both young people are well known both in the city and Dunellen. The groom is employed in The New Jersey entral's shop at Elizabethport.

JOHNSON COMMITTED.

Negro Crook Held for the Grand Jury; Antecedents Unknown.

Lewis Johnson, the negro crook arrested yesterday morning while carrying off a big rug stolen from the Lincoln school, was committed to the county jail this morning by Justice Mosher, to await the action of the grand jury.

No information as to Johnson's antecedents has been secured by Chief Kiely yet, but the police departments all over this section have been queried regarding him and a lot of things may be learned in a day or two when answers begin to come. Johnson carries himself coolly, and in a way to strengthen the idea that he has had dealings with the law before.

C. S. Day Offers Reward.

Charles S. Day, of New Market, has offered a reward of $50 for information leading to the arrest of the man who stole his horse, buggy and harness early Monday morning. A reward of $25 is offered for the return of the horse and rig. The Piscataway Protective Association has started all its machinery after the thief.

Thrown From Saddle Horse.

A big gray saddle horse, with a well-built young man in approved riding dress astride it, stumbled and fell at Eighth street and Park avenue Tuesday afternoon, throwing its rider head over heels. The young man was pitched clean up on the lawn of Marion Ackerman's house. He was badly shaken up, and was taken away in a hack. His name could not be learned, but the direction he gave the hack driver was "Truell Court."

SMALLEY BUILDING SOLD

Woolston & Buckle Purchased It Through Charles H. Lyman.

PRICE ABOUT $35,000

Office Building Disposed of by Mayor N. B., David C. and A. I. Smalley—Erected Five Years Ago.

Through Charles H. Lyman, real estate broker, the Smalley building, in North avenue, opposite the railroad station, has been disposed of by Smalley brothers. Woolston & Buckle are the purchasers. The consideration is not stated, but it is supposed to be $35,000.

Although the deal has been closed, the deed will not be transferred for a week or so. This delay is occasioned by the customery searches of title and incumberances. Mayor Newton B. Smalley, A. I. Smalley and David C. Smalley owned the structure and the new owners are Mayor James F. Buckle and Lemuel W. Woolston.

The Smalley building was built about five years ago. It is constructed of press brick and is three stories in heighth. On the first floor are city offices, including the office of the city clerk, tax collector, city engineer and street commissioner. The Smalley brothers meat store is also on this floor. On the second floor are the mayor's office, the board of health offices and law and business offices. The third floor is taken up by the Common Council chamber and real estate offices.

CHURCH WOMEN'S SOCIETY HOLDS A PARLOR SALE.

Despite Weather Affair at Mrs. William C. Hubbard's Was a Success.

Under the auspices of the Women's Society for Christian Work of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, a parlor sale was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William C. Hubbard, of West Fifth street. Despite the stormy weather there was a good attendance and the receipts were gratifying to the workers. The rooms were decorated with apple blossoms and otherwise made attractive.

In the dining room Mrs. David E. Titsworth, Mrs. Frank J. Hubbard, Mrs. O. S. Rogers and Mrs. Marcus L. Clawson poured chocolate. They were assisted by a number of young women who served.

Mrs. A. C. Rogers, Mrs. William C. Hubbard and Mrs. W. L. Gamble presided at the fancy and useful table, and Mrs. F. H. Smith and Mrs. Charles H. Dunham were at the candy table. Nearly everything was disposed of at good prices and the proceeds will be put in the society's treasury for general purposes.

Made Trouble in a Restaurant.

George Miller, of Watchung avenue, refused to pay for a stew in a borough restaurant last night and kicked up such a muss that the proprietor called in a cop. He was given an immediate hearing and sentenced to ten days by Mayor Smalley. It was only a scare, however, and Miller was let go this morning with the understanding that the other nine would drop the first time he stepped over the traces.

of carriages, when you want to buy, is not as simple an affair as buying a paper of pins or a bag of salt. There is much about a carriage, buggy, runabout or other pleasure vehicle for style and pleasure, that must be considered. Don't buy a carriage you can't see or try. Catalogue carriages look nice on paper, but they don't wear well on the road. Our carriages come from the foremost makers, and have all the new desirable features. You will find quality and price right.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Over-Organization.

The Westfield Club seems about to follow the baseball association into innocuous desuetude, to use a famous phrase of a famous man. Truly in these days the way of organizations is hard. Those of business, social and religious character, seem all to be struggling to keep their hold. The business organizations are more likely to remain intact, for the reason that they exist for purposes of material gain only, and are not dependent on any sense of loyalty in their membership for their prosperity. If they make money they achieve their purpose and insure their existence. Of the half dozen reasons for the generally apathetic atitude toward organizations two may be sugested. One class of people are too busy making money, or trying to make it, to give attention to other interests. Another class of people have tired of the over-organization of everything in life and of the form of social and religious slavery which has thus become prevalent. If one is fond of beef-steak he is asked to join a beef-steak club. If he has any religious feelings he is supposel to defi and confie them within the limits of a particular sect and join that sect. Social conventions founded on the most ludicrous bases, if founded on anything, have become so arbitrary and numerous that a man's reputation as a gentleman is fixed by time-tables, clocks, pasteboard cards and the tailor. Individualism in action and belief has so long been kept down that a reaction is starting in, and one of its evidences is the drifting away from organizations. More might be said, but need not.—Westfield Standard.

The Colby Movement in Union.

The Colby movement in Union county will bear the most rigid analysis. Its strength is already phenomenal and its moral standing is of the best. Only a month ago the first step was taken toward the organization of a Colby contingent in that county. A few visits had previously been paid in Plainfield and the sentiment in favor of reform was found to exist, but not until April 7 was any meeting held at Elizabeth, the county seat. Senator Colby went there, dubious as to the number who would even grant him the courtesy of a hearing, and was surprised to find ten times as many waiting to greet him as had gathered at some of the first meetings in other counties.

On Saturday night last the second meeting was held, with av iew to perfecting an organization. It was not a meeting which the public had been invited, to attend, but a kind of conference, yet the attendance was considerably larger than at the first meeting and all present were aware of the nature of the meeting and were ready and eager to enter upon the work of perfecting an organization and beginning a campaign.

The common hue and cry against the Colby movement is that those interested in it are seeking office or are mugwumps, who have been disloyol to the Republican party for several years past. It is worth while to analyze the organization as perfected in Union, to show how far removed it is from any such charge. Judge Runyon, of Plainfield, the president, has just put away offers of two of the best offices in Union county, the one paying $5,000 a year and the other even more. He was offered the county judgeship or the office of surrogate at the hands of Governor Stokes, and denied them both.

The vice president, T. Debevoise, of Summit, is one of the best citizens of that place and is not an office-seeker. The secretary, William F. Groves, is a member of the Elizabeth Board of Education. The chairman of the executive committee is R. B. Cissel, who would undoubtedly have been Mayor of Elizabeth had he allowed the use of his name at the last election. For many years he has been a member of the Board of Education and has had all the offices he has ever craved for. His associate is Edward K. Tucker, already a member of the Assembly, and therefore not a seeker of office. On the advisory committee are William S. Bate, a New York business man, who has just served two terms as member of the City Council, and has declined a third; William H. Tyler, a most valuable member of the Plainfield City Council; L. V. F. Randolph, formerly Mayor of Plainfield and member of the Consolidated Exchange, New York; Jacob Wilcox, at present the Mayor of Summit, and James Alton, of New Providence.

These are one and all men of the highest character, standing and influence. They are not office-seekers, they are not mugwumps, they are Republicans to the backbone and they are in this movement to reform the party, not to disrupt or destroy it. They give to the Colby movement in Union county the stamp of character and the certificate of merit. They are not in politics for what they can get out of it, but are in it to establish principles and to restore to the people their rights as citizens and voters. When a public meeting is announced it will, it is safe to predict, be thronged. Plainfield would no doubt be carried today by a Colby reform ticket, and Union county is in a fair way to be shaken from county seat to circumference when next election day comes round.—Newark News.

Survival of the Fittest

This Great Law of Nature Applies to Other Things Than Animal and Vegetable Life.

Tried in the Balance and Not Found Wanting.

Some fifty years ago when Dr. Talbott, of Warren, Pa., wrote that prescription which has since become famous, the world over, for the rapid and certain cure of coughs, colds and every form of lung and throat disease, a score of other, apparently as meritorious remedies, were being used by physicians or being advertised to the public in glowing terms.

How many of them are in existence today? Almost None!

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION has stood the test of all these years and has gone on doing its work with the marvelous rapidity, certainty and permanency that made it so famous in the early days when it was almost unknown outside of the limits of the little country town where it originated and where its reputation and sale spread and grew solely on the personal recommendation of those whom it had cured.

Today it is known all over the civilized world and as shown by incontroveritable testimony as produced before the Superior Court of Cincinnati, O., has cured more cases of consumption than any ten other remedies. It is doing for the grandchildren what it did for the grandparents and what it will continue to do for many generations to come.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION contains on Morphine or injurious drug of any kind. It is for sale at all drug stores and costs 25c.

See what Judge Wilton Monroe Lindsey said under oath in court when The Piso Co. won their case against the firm who were trying to trade upon their reputation by employing a similar name.

This eminent jurist, who was then presiding judge of the 37th judicial district of Pennsylvania, stated that he enlisted in Co. F, of the 49th Pennsylvania volunteers. He there contracted a severe lung difficulty and general disability and was pronounced consumptive by the regular examining board of the United States army and discharged. He had then been from camp hospital to camp hospital and was so feeble that a friend had to come and take him home.

When partly recovered from the fatigue of the journey, he went to see Dr. Talbott, of Warren, Pa., he living in the same town. The doctor was even then celebrated for his great skill and success in treating lung troubles. He at once commenced taking the Piso remedy, worked a little on the farm, gaining all the time, so that in the Fall he was able to return to his studies. The dropsy of the legs, the night sweats, the pain in the lungs and the coughing having all disappeared.

From that day, some thirty-four years ago, to this the judge has not had a symptom of his old trouble and is strong, hale and hearty.

FAKE OCCULIST CAUGHT.

Sold Worthless Spectacles and an Eye Wash Made of Water.

Freehold, N. J., May 10.—Edward Hasse, wanted by the authorities of Massachusetts, was arrested at Fairhaven, Monmouth county, last night. Hasse escaped from an officer in Boston on Feb. 5 after duping many aged people in the vicinity of Boston by pretending to be an occulist. He is married and had lived at Fairhaven for three years.

His specialty was swindling women. He operated extensively in the towns and smaller cities of the State, and when arrested made his escape from an officer of the State police. His method of operation was to sell spectacles, and an eye wash, taking the patient's spectacles as part payment. The spectacles he sold were of plain glass and the eye wash a harmless concoction chiefly composed of water.

CRIPPLED PEDDLER KILLS.

Shoots His Landlord When Ordered to Quit His Room.

Paterson, N. J., May 10.—Because he was told to get another boarding house, Michael Forman, 64 years old, an itinerant shoestring vendor who has to hobble around on crutches, shot and instantly killed Virgil Monell, a boarding house keeper of 146 Oliver street last night.

Forman had just been told for the seventh or eighth time that he must find other quarters. He went to his room and soon returned with a revolver, with which he shot Monell three times through the heart. Forman then barricaded himself in his room. Policemen Perry and Gannon had to break down the door to get him.

The man attempted to shoot the officers as they entered, but failed.

SANITARIUM BOILERS PLACED.

Taken from Depot to Mt. Kipp Institution at Glen Gardner.

Glen Gardner, Ma 10.—After considerable delay and a great deal of trouble, the two huge steam boilers, which are to be used for heating the State Tuberculosis Sanitarium on Mt. Kipp, near this place, have been removed from the railroad station here to the site of the institution. The boilers weigh nine and a half tons each, and have been standing on the cars here for two weeks, the contractors having no wagons strong enough to carry them.

Theodore Smith, a farmer near Spruce Run, volunteered to do the job, and yesterday, with eight horses, pulled the boiler to the mountain top and today delivered the other on the sanitarium site.

Central's Temporary Quarters.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey will leave the temporary passenger station on the Erie Railroad's Twenty-third street property, in New York, occupied since the unfortunate fire of December 20, and until further notice will occupy temporary quarters at its own Twenty-third tsreet passenger station. While the new temporary waiting and baggage rooms, ticket offices, etc., will not be as complete or commodious as will be provided for the public's comfort in the new permanent station, they will be comfortable and permit the prompt handling of traffic on the Central's own property until such time as the permanet station is completed.

Twentieth Century Hobby.

The old nurse crooned a quaint, old-fashioned melody:

But the babe, with an impatient interjection, said:

WISE BENEVOLENCE.

Much sound advice was given by former President Cleveland in his address at the National Conference of Charities and Corrections in Philadelphia last night. Among the noteworthy features of his talk was a statement that "better assurance to those willing to give to charity, and consequently the interests of the cause, seem to be involved in the establishment somewhere, and under some responsible auspices, of an agency for the sifting and testing of enterprises claiming to be charitable —to the end that the benevolent may have reliable guidance in determining how and where they can wisely and usefully give."

PLAINFIELD'S CARNIVAL.

There is every reason to expect that the second annual carnival for the benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital will be the greatest event of its kind ever held in Union county. Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk has worked indefatigably as chairman of the executive committee and as a result the unusually large number of high class attractions for the twelve days' show will surely do a big business.

JUDGE VAIL'S APPOINTMENT.

The best thing about Judge Vail's elevation to the Circuit Court bench is the fact that he is eminently qualified for the higher berth. As county judge he discharged the duties of his office with pronounced dignity, unquestioned ability and wise judgment. Both lawyers and laymen agree that Governor Stokes' appointment is a good one.

NINETEENTH ANNIVERSARY.

The Daily Press is nineteen years old today. It is and always has been —and we hope always will be— Plainfield's leading newspaper because its aim is to faithfully present all the local news of the day and to enjoy the confidence of the people.

News dispatch says that it will take Ena and Alfonso eleven days to get tied together, but of course it is too early to figure how long it would take them to get separated.

If all reports of the continual accessions to the Colbyites are true, the Republican camp will soon become a very lonely place.

Chancellor Day, of Syracuse University, must be envious of the notoriety obtained by Chicago University.

Is Union county destined to be the Vesuvius of the Republican map of New Jersey?

TALK OF DISRUPTION OF M'KINLEY CLUB.

Resignations and Unexpected Success of Colby Movement Cause Members' Interest to Lag.

The disruption of the McKinley Club, the Elizabeth organization of the rank and file of the machine following, seems to be one of the possibilities of the near future. The resignation of some of the most active members of the club, with the unexpected success of the Colby movement, has cast a gloom over the remaining members and but little interest is manifested in its affairs.

Because of opinions expressed by Charles A. Trimble, the persident of the club, nobody will be surprised to hear of his withdrawal from allegiance to the machine and enrolment in the Colby organization, while every effort is being made to bring back those who have already strayed into the Colby camp.

Mrs. B. F. Langworthy and Harry Parsons, of Chicago, are spending the week with Mrs. Langworthy's parents, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Lewis, of West Seventh street.

MANY HURT IN EARLY MORNING CAR CRASH.

Open Switch Cause Accident in Which No One Was Seriously Injured.

Two trolley cars crashed together early yesterday morning at Clinton avenue and Thomas street, Newark, and several men were injured from the shock and the wrecking of the vestibules of the colliding vehicles.

An open switch at the intersection of the two streets was responsible for the accident.

In one of the cars were a number of members of the James T. Boyd Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., of Bloomfield, who were returning home from a fraternal visit to Elizabeth.

Among the men injured are John F. Spaulding and Joseph Barber, employes of the North Jersey Traction Company, and Frederick Gales, Edward P. Baxter, John Geoup, William Miller, Albert T. corby, Wallace McLane, Herbert Cook and C. M. Wood, members of the council.

All were able to resume their homeward journey.

PLEADS SELF-DEFENSE.

Police Do Not Believe Formann's Life Was in Danger.

Michael Formann, old and crippled, who shot and killed Tuesday night Virgil O. Monnell, in whose house, No. 145 Oliver street, Paterson, N. J., he lodged, alleges that he acted in self-defense and that Monnell tried to break into his room with the intention of assaulting him. The police say they have evidence that the old man's statement is not true.

Monnell went to Justice Cassidy Tuesday afternoon and asked for a warrant for Formann on a charge of assault and battery. He said that when he asked the cripple for the rent Formann slammed the door in his face, injuring him. There was no constable about, so the warrant was not served.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church will hold a social in the church this afternoon.

COAL $6 A TON IN NEWARK.

Summer Reduction of Twenty-five Cents on Domestic Sizes.

Newark families will have to pay only $6 a ton for coal this summer. This will apply to all sizes except No. 2 nut, which will remain at $4.25 per ton. The price of all other sizes has been $6.25. The reduction was decided upon at a meeting of the New Jersey Coal Dealers' Association yesterday. The reduction will go into effect today.

The new rate will give the dealers an average margin of 15 cents less per ton than heretofore, calculating on the present reduction of about 30 cents a ton on the wholesale rate and the certainty of slight wholesale advances later.

CONTRADICTS CORESPONDENT.

Mrs. Aldrich Denies Statements of Husband's Cousin.

Vice Chancellor Stevens head testimony in Newark yesterday in a suit for divorce brought by George S. Aldrich against Lillie Aldrich. The couple were married in Jersey City in 1896 and lived in New Haven, Conn., until 1903, when the young husband finished his studies in the law department of Yale University. The corespondent named in the papers is Leon Wilson, a cousin of the complainant. He was a witness for Aldrich. His statements were denied by Mrs. Aldrich, who testified that the charges against her were false.

By Tom Muir.

Treasurer Sam Cunningham, of the New Plainfield theatre, and Mrs. Cunningham, left yesterday for Philadelphia to remain until the playhouse reopens. The former will spend the next three months in the box office at the Athletics' baseball grounds.

The Gold Medal minstrel troupe, which showed in various suburban towns during the present spring, has closed its "season." To celebrate the event and incidentally get rid of some of the profits the members will have a chicken dinner at Maul's hotel in the Notch next Thursday night.

North, East, South, West—it makes no difference where one goes in a radius of fifteen miles about Plainfield, the eye is attracted by Muhlenberg hospital carnival posters. "Billed like a circus" is a much misused expression but it might be well applied to this case. Manager Counihan is in charge of the "publicity department" of Mr. Fisk's enterprise and if anyone along the railroad from Westfield to Somerville is unaware of the big event that opens here May 19 it is no fault of his.

Some of the demands made of the men in the theatre box offices should be sufficient cause for incarceration. The veteran deacon who wished to rent a pew for the opening performance of "The Christian" was not particularly original in his request, but a middle-aged woman who stepped merrily up to the New Plainfield window the night of the Harrigan performance and engaged Sam Cunningham in conversation had imagination.

"When does the next train leave, mister?" said she.

"Where do you wish to go, madam?" was the suave reply of the resourceful Sam.

"I want to go to Somerville," said she, "and I want two tickets, one whole fare and one half fare for Jamey."

Jamey, who had a lunch basket on one arm and the family umbrella under the other, was busy scanning the pictures about the lobby.

"I'm sorry, lady, but we're sold out of tickets to Somerville," said the box office man, "but if you will step out to Park avenue, turn up North and go as far as the end you will find our branch office—they call it the North Avenue station—and you can get your tickets there."

Sam was very politely thanked for his information and when last seen the inquirer and Jamey were heading for the New Plainfield's branch office.

LOCKJAW THREATENED.

Man Stepped on Rusty Nail Three Weeks Ago.

George W. Jacobus, a carpenter, residing near Verona Lake, Verona, N. J., is ill with what Dr. Henry B. Whitehorne, of that town, says is lockjaw. The man's jaws have not yet set, and efforts are being made to prevent them from doing so. A piece of orange wood has been inserted in the patient's mouth to keep his jaws from locking.

About three weeks ago Jacobus stepped on a nail; which penetrated his right foot. Home remedies were used to draw out the soreness. Last Saturday he was taken with severe pains in his back, which went to his neck and jaws. Since Sunday Jacobus has eaten nothing. He cannot even swallow liquids.

PAINTERS' STRIKE SETTLED.

Bosses and Journeymen Agree to Compromise.

By the employers and journeymen agreeing to a compromise, the strike of the Hudson county union painters was ended yesterday. An advance in wages to $3.50 a day was accepted by the journeymen. On September 1 the rate is to be $3.60 a day, the wages for which the painters struck. They have been getting $3.28 a day.

Work was immediately resumed. About 700 men had gone out.

—C. W. Higgins has moved from Sycamore street to Park avenue.

DESTROYED BY MOTH.

Yes, it is aggravating to find that your best suit, furs, blankets, etc., have been attacked by the busy little moth.

But how different when you use our "Cedar" and "Lavender Mothaline," then the moth will not touch your garments. These preparations are positive protection against moth and they do not have the disagreeable odor of napthaline.

BURLINGTON IN THE "NEW IDEA" ROLE

GENERAL E. BURD GRUBB TO LEAD THE COLBYITES.

Burlington, May 10.—Under what its leaders consider more than ordinarily favorable auspices, the Colby movement was launched in Burlington county Tuesday night. About fifty representative citizens of the county met at Edgewater Park in the home of General Edward Burd Grubb, Republican candidate for Governor against Leon Abbett in 1889 and former United States Minister to Spain, and took steps for organizing a branch of the movement.

Among those who participated in the proceedings were former Assemblyman George Wildes, Postmaster Nathan Hays, of Burlington, and former Mayor Charles Flanders, of Burlington. Word was received from former Assemblyman Charles Wright that he favored the movement and was unavoidably compelled to remain away from the meeting.

Senator Everett Colby, of Essex, and Corporation Counsel George L. Record and Comptroller Thomas McEwan, of Jersey City, addressed the assemblage.

The meeting was called to order by Dr. Ellsworth Adams, of Beverley, and General Grubb was chosen chairman. The general explained that the meeting was to inaugurate in Burlington county the movement for better government which was making such headway in other parts of the State. Those present who wanted a new, a better government in New Jersey were not bolters, he declared, nor rebels against the Republican party. They were, however, all loyal Republicans who desired to bring about that better government they sought through the Republican party.

SERVED TIME IN JAIL AND PAID $1,000 FINE.

Cortland B. Gardner Released from Fort Dodd Yesterday.

Cortland B. Gardner, of Elizabeth, indicted in 1904 for keeping a disorderly house in West Grand street in that city, better known as the United States Hotel, completed a three months' term in the county jail yesterday and after paying a $1,000 fine was given his liberty.

Soon after Gardner was indicted he was tried, found guilty and sentenced to two years in State prison. Through his counsel, John F. Brown, Esq., he appealed and was released on bail. He was at liberty for several months when he withdrew his appeal and appeared before Judge Vail. He was then sentenced to three months in the county jail and to pay a fine of $1,000.

Gardner appealed from this sentence and was again released on bail. He then moved to Newark. A little later h ewas induced to make a visit in Elizabeth and while at the county seat he was arrested and locked up in the county jail where he served three months. The time expired yesterday.

SIXTEEN PLACES TO FILL, 103 ARE APPLICANTS.

Men Who Want to Be Jersey City Policemen to Have Physical Examination.

There are sixteen vacancies for patrolmen in the Jersey City Police Department, and 130 applications have been filed with the Civil Service Board. No date has been fixed for the examination of applicants.

The Civil Service Commissioners insist it is up to the Police Commissioners to have the would-be policemen subjected to a physical examination before they are put through the civil service examination.

At a conference at Police Headquarters last night between the Civil Service Commissioners, the Police Commissioners and the Police Surgeon, Dr. Nevin, the doctor said it was not part of his duty to examine the applicants, and he thought if he did he should get compensation. He finally consented to make the examinations without waiving any of his rights, and it is believed a way will be found to pay him.

The 130 applicants will be looked over by Dr. Nevin tonight.

BLAZE IN MID AIR DELAYS TELEGRAMS.

New York and the South Are Disconnected by Fire in Cable Box at Jersey City.

Crossed wires in a cable box at the top of a fifty foot pole caused a remarkable fire late yesterday afternoon at the northwest corner of Montgomery and Washington streets, Jersey City. Four engines responded to the alarm, an dfully a thousand persons witnessed the midair blaze.

A stream from one of the engines quickly extinguished the fire in the cable box, which contained 250 wires. The covering of the cables had caught fire and all the wires were put out of commission, interrupting for five hours the transmission of telegrams between Manhattan, Philadelphia, Washington and other Southern cities.

Plainfield Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet Monday night and initiate several candidates.

WHY HE COULDN'T SIT DOWN

Physical Impossibility with His Nether Limbs Clothed as They Were.

"I beg your pardon, but I'm in trouble," said a man who was well dressed and plainly excited to Sergt. Temperly at No. 3 police station, Armourdale, relates the Kansas City Journal. "Can you help me out?"

"I'll do my best," answered the obliging sergeant. "Sit down and tell me about it."

"No, I simply can't sit down," said the man, nervously.

"Must be serious to affect you like that," said the sergeant. "What is it?"

"You see, it is this way," said the man. "I came in on an early train from the west; and as I got up late when the train was but a few minutes from the Union depot, I dressed in all haste. I had some business to attend to in Armourdale right away, and I paid my street car fare from some change I had in my overcoat pocket. But when I was standing at the corner of Fifth and Kansas a moment ago, for the first time I unbutoned my overcoat and looked inside, and found—"

"That you had been robbed while on the train?" broke in the sergeant, interestedly.

"No," said the man, "I found that I had put my trousers on backward, and I can't sit down. What I want is a private place to change 'em."

He got it.

SWEDISH SPIES IN NORWAY

Sent for the Purpose of Reporting on Work in Military Quarters.

A spy, who is reported by the authorities to be a Swede, had been detected in Fredrikshald, where he was particularly interested in Fredriksten and Hjelmkollen. At the latter place he was seeen by a guard, who recognized him as a man who had been hanging around the fortifications at Kongsvinger last winter. When he was discovered he made his way to Swedish territory. The guard was instructed to keep watch of the man. Late at night he appeared again in Norwegian territory and was met by the guard. When they separated the guard took the footpath to Hjelmkollen and was not surprised to meet the spy again. The latter than disappeared.

The Swedes allege that Norway is preparing to erect a number of fortifications along Glommen, outside of the neutral zone established by the Karlstad treaty, and to replace the fortified points which were dismantled in accordance with the treaty. The Swedes declared that these plans show a distrust of Sweden and are uncalled for when no preparations of a similar nature are being made on the Swedish side of the border.

WOULDN'T ROB THE BISHOP.

Pacific Coast Bandit Returned Valuables Taken from the Cleric.

"Not a great while ago there was as bold a bandit as ever bade men stand and deliver operating between Fairbanks and the mines tributary to that town," B. B. McGinn of Alaska, according to the Washington Post.

"This modern Dick Turpin, one Hendrickson by name, kept up his robberies for months and made many a good haul. He was a courteous brigand and not altogether mercenary.

"On one occasion Bishop Rowe of Alaska was confronted by Hendrickson and relieved of all his valuable. As the good man was about to depart the robber, noticing his garb, asked him if he were not a minister of the Gospel. 'Yes,' said the victim, 'I am Bishop Rowe.' 'Well, then,' replied Hendrickson, 'I can't think of despoiling you. I used to be a member of your church, and however bad I may be, I can't rob you.' With that he returned to the bishop all his property.

"A little while later Hendrickson was captured by the United States authorities, and is now in jail at Fairbanks."

Alarm Clock for Drinkers.

A pretty little device of the wicked which is attracting a good deal of attention in restaurants, cabarets, posadas, cafes and hospices these days is called the "jag indicator." It was invented for the benefit of good fellows who do not know when they have had enough to drink. It is a green frog, with pink specks upon its body, and is about three-quarters of an inch long. The customer receives one from the barman, which he is asked to put in his pocket and to place upon the bar before each subsequent drink. After a drink Mr. Crapaud is returned to the pocket. As soon as the customer sees upon the bar more than one frog, or thinks he sees the frog move, he is expected—nay, required—to quit drinking for the day.—N. Y. Press.

The Bodleian Library.

The Bodleian library, which was established in 1445, takes its name from Sir Thomas Bodley, who reestablished the library in 1597-1602, and presented it to the University of Oxford. It contains more than 500,000 printed volumes, 30,000 volumes of manuscripts, a great many first editions and early printings, and collections of coins and pictures.

"Blind Tiger" in a Church.

The Methodist pastor in the "dry" town of Waverly, Tenn., assisted the police to locate a "blind tiger" and was surprised to find that the illegal gin mill was in the church basement and conducted by two of the apparently most devout members of his congregation, a doctor and a justice of the peace.

S. OF V. IN SESSION.

New Jersey Division's Annual Meeting on at Trenton.

With many delegates in attendance the New Jersey division, Sons of Veterans, U. S. A., opened its twenty-fourth annual session in the rooms of Garfield camp, No. 4, at the Ribsam building, Trenton, last evening. The early evening was spent in receiving the credentials of the delegates.

The reports of the officers were received. These show that the organization had a membership in the State of 1,076, an increase of 53 members over last year. Twenty-three camps are in existence throughout the State. During the year one new camp was instituted with 25 members. This is known as the Joseph R. Ridgway camp of Beverly.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning May 13.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Christ's Life V. Lessons from His miracles of healing.—Matt. ix, 27, 34; xxv, 30-41.

In the three years of His public ministry our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ spent most of His time "in teaching, preaching and healing." His miracles were performed primarily to convince the world of His divinity. They were God's stamp of approval upon Him. In his sermon on the day of Pentecost Peter declared that God approved of Christ "by miracles, signs and wonders." But the miracles had secondary purposes. They were performed in every case except one—the cursing of the barren fruit tree for the benefit of suffering mankind. They were usually miracles of healing. "Jesus went about all the cities and villages teaching in their synagogues and preaching the gospel of the kingdom and healing every sickness and every disease among the people." But in addition to this the miracles of Christ had a didactic character. They taught lessons. They were in a sense parables in action. He spoke many parables to the people, and in His miracles He worked many parables before them. The former were word pictures of the kingdom and the latter were object lessons of the kingdom, and sometimes the teachings of the miracles are more vivid than those of the parables, and we may well, therefore, study Christ's miracles from the standpoint of the lessons they teach.

1. The miracles of Christ teach us a lesson on Christ's divinity. In some quarters today the doctrine of Christ's deity is seriously questioned and even boldly denied, but Christ claimed to be God, and by the exercise of powers that belong to God He substantiated that claim. To give up the deity of Christ is to give up belief in His miracles; to give up belief in His miracles is to give up the gospels that record them, and to give up the gospels is practically to give up the Bible, to give up God and to be "without hope in the world." These great truths are all bound together. They are links in the same chain. Break one link and the chain is broken, and this is true regardless of the link that is broken. Our faith must embrace all or it dwindles into nothing; hence the need of holding fast the doctrine of miracles as an attestation to the fact that Christ while human was also more than human, that He was God.

2. The miracles of Christ teach us a lesson on Christ's attitude toward humanity. He did not come to earth to behold the miseries and afflictions of men and to hold Himself aloof from them, but to sympathize with suffering humanity and to bring divine relief to their sufferings. In every miracle that He performed we see a manifestation of His sympathy, His love and His compassion for a lost and sinful race and His desire to share their sorrows and to lift men above them. Moreover, His miracles were symbolical of His attitude toward man's spiritual condition. The healing of the blind was typical of His willingness to heal the spiritually blind; when He made the lame to walk He demonstrated His desire and ability to make those to "walk in the spirit" who had been crippled by walking in sin, and in raising the dead He showed that He could and was willing to raise those who were "dead in trespasses and in sins." His attitude is the same toward us today. He loves us and sympathizes with us in our physical sufferings and is able and willing to give us "rest for our souls."

3. The miracles of Christ teach us what we as His disciples are to be. While we cannot miraculously cure the sick or feed the hungry, we can feed the hungry, give drink to the thirsty, show hospitality to the stranger and visit the sick, the unfortunate and imprisoned, and if we will do so in His name He Himself will accept it as done unto Him and will accordingly reward us.

On a Finnish Lamp Post.

Finnish Christian Endeavorers, of course, have been vitally interested in the recent stirring political events in that country. "As soon as the strike began," says a letter, "every public house, hotel and restaurant closed and remained closed until the czar's message came. Otherwise blood would have been spilt. The only news we received was from St. Petersburg, the official message, which the national guard posted up on the lamp posts. As soon as they had gone, up came a squad of Christian Endeavorers and posted up a text underneath to encourage the people to be patient and peaceful."

Magnetic.

It ought to be the aim of all true Endeavorers to "lift" those whom they touch day by day, but this can only be done as there is power flowing into us from God Himself. Unless we are in close touch with the Master and have His grace and divine influence flowing in us and through us we shall not succeed in raising either our church, our societies or our companions.—Rev. F. J. Horsefield, D. D.

The Brotherhood of Man.

And we'll praise our age of iron, and we'll sing our song of steam,
And we'll belt the tides and lightnings,
but the purport of our plan—
The deep eternal meaning of the dream within our dream—
Is the empire universal of the brotherhood of man.

—From a Quarter Century Endeavor Poem by Sam Walter Foss.

GOT HIS HAIR BACK.

Was Perfectly Bald When He Started to Use Newbro's Herpicide.

Frederick Manuell, Maryland block, Butte, Montana, bought a bottle of Newbro's Herpicide, April 5, '99, and began to use it for entire baldness. The hair follicles in his scalp were not dead and in 20 days he had hair all over his head. On July 2 he writes, "and today my hair is as thick and luxuriant as any one could wish." Newbro's Herpicide works on an old principle and with a new discovery—destroy the cause and you remove the effect. Herpicide destroys the germ that causes dandruff, falling hair, and finally baldness, so that with the cause gone the effect cannot remain. Stops falling hair at once and a new growth starts. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

May 13: "Investing Our Lives" (League Anniversary)—Matt. xiii, 44-46; Luke v, 11; xiv, 28-33; John xii, 25; I Cor. ix, 19-23; Acts xx, 11-24; II Tim. iv, 6-8.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

The story of the organization of the Epworth League at Cleveland, O., on May 15, 1889, has been often told. As each anniversary separates us by another twelvemonth from that historic event it is well to recall briefly the circumstances of that occasion and keep freshly in mind the lessons then impressed on the young life of the church.

Perhaps many of our younger people have never heard how the league came into being, and others have half forgotten, if they ever knew.

In 1889 there were five general societies of young people in the Methodist Episcopal church which had come into existence at different times and for various purposes. Some were wholly for the deepening of the religious life, some were for literary culture more particularly, and still others placed emphasis on social and benevolent features. It was felt by many that one organization, which should embrace all the various local societies of Methodism, would be of great benefit. With this end in view representatives from all the five large societies met in Cleveland in May, 1889, to see if it was possible to agree upon some form of union. Debate was fraternal, but earnest, and at times exciting. All felt there must be mutual concessions, but after all had been done it seemed as if no basis could be found on which all could unite. But after what appeared to be the last possible consultation earnest prayer and the spirit of Christly reasonableness found a way, and the general plan of the league was drafted and adopted and the young people of Methodism began their organization, which has since spread to all parts of the world.

The progress has been steady and healthy. The Epworth Herald is the organ of the society. It is published in Chicago. It quickly came to the front among the young people's papers of the world, securing the largest circulation of any such publication. An extensive literature has been created. The influence on the life of the church as a whole has been helpful and profound. The young people have been developed in practical works of benevolence, in spiritual life, social and literary pursuits and awakened to a deep and intelligent interest in the world-wide extension of the kingdom of God.

Our young folks have literally invested their lives in this work for Jesus Christ. Their talents, time, means and influence have all been given unstintedly to the Master's service.

It would be a pleasing task to name over the members of that Cleveland meeting and trace their subsequent course find that of the others associated in after years with them. "Some have fallen asleep," but many still remain. Some occupy places of highest honor, while others are still faithful pastors, which is, after all, perhaps the highest post of honor on earth. Some are prominent educators and one has gone from the editor's chair to the episcopal bench.

So on this anniversary we gain inspiration from those who have made investment of their lives for the work of Christ and exhort all connected with us to invest all they have in the same service.

A Light Keeper.

Taken by itself, your life is certainly a very insignificant affair; but placed as you happen to be placed, in the kind of a universe which God has happened to make, your life becomes of infinite importance, for God has chosen to work out his designs, not in spite of you, but through you, and where you fail He halts. Almighty God needs you. You are not your own, either to be insignificant or great, but you are in the service of that which is greater than yourself, and that service touches your life with its own greatness. It is as though you were a lighthouse keeper set to do your duty on your bare rock. Can any life be more unpraised or insignificant? Why sit through the weary nights to keep your flame alive? Why not sleep on, all unobserved, and let your little light go out? Because it is not your light—that is the point. You are not its owner; you are its keeper. That is your name. You are a light keeper. You are set there with this as your trust. The great design of the power you serve takes you thus out of your insignificance.—Francis G. Peabody in Christian Work and Evangelist.

Every Plea Fruitful.

No prayer is lost. Every sincere approach to God is fruitful of good. In that sense every prayer is "answered." All who yield themselves to God so completely as to desire what He wills are getting precisely that as fast as time passes and as fully as they obey His laws and His leading.—Marshall P. Talling.

Along the Way.

There are so many helpful things to do
Along life's way
(Helps to the helper, if we but knew,)
From day to day.
So many troubled hearts to soothe,
So many pathways rough to smooth,
So many comforting words to say
To hearts that falter along the way.

Here is a lamp of hope gone out
Along the way.
Some one stumbled and fell, no doubt,
But, brother, stay!
Out of thy store of oil refill,
Kindle the courage that smolders still;
Think what Jesus would do today
For one who has fallen beside the way.

How many lifted hands still plead
Along life's way!
The old, sad story of human need
Reads on for aye.
But let us follow the Saviour's plan—
Love unstinted to every man!
Content if at most the world should say,
"He helped his brother along the way."
—James Buckham in Christian Endeavor World.

THE SPENDERS

By HARRY LEON WILSON

Copyright, by Lothrop Publishing Company.

Yet Psyche Bines' experience, like her brother's, was not without a proper leaven of sentiment. There was Fred Milbrey, handsome, clever, amusing, knowing everyone, and giving her a pleasant sense of intimacy with all that was worth while in New York. Him she felt very friendly to.

Then there was Mauburn, presently to be Lord Casselthorpe, with his lazy, high-pitched drawl; good-natured, frank, carrying an atmosphere of high-class British worldliness, and delicately awakening within her while she was with him a sense of her own latent superiority to the institutions of her native land. She liked Mauburn, too.

BARON RONAULT DE PALLIAC.

More impressive than either of these, however, was the Baron Ronault de Palliac. Tall, swarthy, saturnine, a polished man of all the world, of manners finished, elaborate and ceremonious, she found herself feeling foreign and distinguished in his presence, quite as if she were the heroine of a romantic novel, and might at any instant be called upon to assist in royalist intrigues. The baron, to her intuition, nursed secret sorrows. For these she secretly worshiped him. It is true that when he dined with her and her mother, which he was frequently gracious enough to do, he ate with a heartiness that belied this secret sorrow she had imagined. But he was fascinating at all times, with a grace at table not less finished than that with which he bowed at their meetings and partings. It was not unpleasant to think of basking daily in the shine of that grand manner, even if she did feel friendlier with Milbrey, and more at ease with Mauburn.

If the truth must be told, Miss Bines was less impressionable than either of the three would have wished. Her heart seemed not easy to reach; her impulses were not inflammable. Young Milbrey early confided to his family a suspicion that she was singularly hard-headed, and the definite information that she had "a hob-nailed western way" of treating her admirers.

Mauburn, too, was shrewd enough to see that, while she frankly liked him, he was for some reason less a favorite than Baron de Palliac.

"It'll be no easy matter marrying that girl," he told Mrs. Drelmer. "She's really a dear, and awfully good fun, but she's not a bit silly, and I dare say she'll marry some chap because she likes him, and not because he's anybody, you know."

"Make her like you," insisted his adviser.

"On my word, I wish she did. And I'm not so sure, you know, she doesn't fancy that Frenchman, or even young Milbrey."

"I'll keep you before her," promised Mrs. Drelmer, "and I wish you'd not think you can't win her. 'Tisn't like you."

Miss Bines accordingly heard that it was such a pity young Milbrey drank so, because his only salvation lay in making a rich marriage, and a young man, nowadays, had to keep fairly sober to accomplish that. Really, Mrs. Drelmer felt sorry for the poor weak fellow. "Good-hearted chap, but he has no character, my dear, so I'm afraid there's no hope for him. He has the soul of a merchant tailor, actually, but not the tailor's manhood. Otherwise he'd be above marrying some unsuspecting girl for her money and breaking her heart after marriage. Now, Mauburn is a type so different; honest, unaffected, healthy—really he's a man for any girl to be proud of, even if he were not heir to a title—one of the best in all England, and an ornament of the most exclusively correct set; of a line, my dear, that is truly great—not like that shoddy French nobility, discredited in France, that sends so many of its comic-opera barons here looking for large dowries to pay their gambling debts and put furniture in their rattle-trap old chateaux, and keep them in absinthe and their other peculiar diversions. And Mauburn, you lucky minx, simply adores you—he's quite mad about you, really!"

In spite of Mrs. Drelmer's two-edged sword, Miss Bines continued rather more favorable to the line of De Palliac. The baron was so splendid, so gloomy, so deferential. He had the art of laying at her feet, as a rug, the whole glorious history of France. And he appeared so well in the victoria when they drove in the park.

It is true that the heart of Miss Bines was as yet quite untouched; and it was not more than a cool, dim, esthetic light in which she surveyed the three suitors impartially, to behold the impressive figure of the baron towering above the others. Had the baron proposed for her hand, it is not impossible that, facing the question directly, she would have parried or evaded.

For certain events befell unpropitiously at a time when the baron was most certain of his conquest; at the very time, indeed, when he had determined to open his suit definitely by extending a proposal to the young lady through the orthodox medium of her nearest male relative.

"I admit," wrote the baron to his expectant father, "that it is what one calls 'very chances' in the English, but one must venture in this country, and your son is not without much hope. And if not, there is still Mlle. Higbee."

The baron shuddered as he wrote it. He preferred not to recognize even the existence of this alternative, for the reason that the father of Mlle. Higbee distressed him by an incompleteness of suavity.

"He conducts himself like a pork," the baron would declare to himself, by way of perfecting his English.

MRS. APPLEGATE WELL AGAIN!

"I have had a bruised leg and foot for several years, caused by the brass eyelets of my shoe, which became very sore and painful especially at night. It itched, burned and ached me till it nearly set me crazy. I used everything I found and was suggested to ease it and nothing gave me any relief till I found and applied Azienza Cream which I think is a wonderful remedy for all sores and inflammation of the skin. The hard knots on my legs were as painful as bee stings, with discolored and purples spots. A running sore on my instep size of a half-dollar; the top of my foot a seething sore clean around to my heel. The bone was sore for a whole year and very painful. I used five and one-half jars of Azienza Cream and healed the sore all up. The foot remained tender and I continued to use to strengthen and toughen the skin until now it is entirely well." (Signed) Mrs. Hannah Applegate, Evergreen Ave., Avon, N. J., Sept. 3rd, 1905. 50 cents. Ask the druggist or by mail. Azienza Specialties Co., Jersey City, N. J.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

PARASOLS TO MATCH ALL THE GOWNS.

Dressy women who find it necessary to have a parasol for every gown will find a choice variety to select from in the local shops. One lovely design is in white linen, embroidered in white marguerites, with stems and foliage in shades of pale green.

Another exquisite design is in fine whites ilk mull with ab order of coarse silk net which has a running design in narrow valenciennes lace. Above the border medallions of the lace are set in the mull, which is scalloped around with small frills of the lace edging to match the design in the border. The handle is the head of a bird with pink head feathers and small yellow glass eyes.

In nearly all cases the parasol of 1906 will match the gown, but in spite of this distate of fashion parasols in red, apple green, or Du Barry rose will be worn with all white or black gowns, giving the touch of color which is charming.

A beautiful model shown is of three wide stripes of pompadour ribbon flowered in small pink buds and green leaves, with alternate stripes of black and white striped ribbon used between. The top of the parasol and the out strip are of the pompadour ribbon; the plain natural wood handle is tied with a bow of the ribbon.

Taffeta parasols in blue and white and brown and white check silk with a wide border of plain colored silk wil be worn with the taffeta tailored suits so popular for summer wear.

Large quantities of lace of every description will be used as a trimming on all the summer materials from mull to satin. Cluny lace is seen on everything, and the same may be said of Irish lace, bith in the baby variety and the heavy crocheted designs. Boleros of lace, or lace combined with Anglaise embroidery on sheer mull, will be used extensively with muslin or linen frocks.

DIAMOND DUST

The few chronic knockers who jumped over their traces last Saturday have completely recovered. Manager Schaefer, of the Suburbans, has sent out a strong batting order for Saturday. From the players on the team, it will be seen that Plainfield will have to put up the fastest article to win. The personnel of the nine is as follows: Eagan, lf; Sattlee, ss; Barry, 3b; McDonald, cf; Reuton, 1b; Winder or Cotter, c; Ovels, rf; Wehrim, 2b; Durand, p.

If the wind blows right, Jimmy "Kid" Brogan, our little second bag jewel, will be with Plainfield again. "Jimmy" tired of the Jersey City climate and mosquitoes. He couldn't see much fun in warming a bench day after day, so he went back to the town of old New York and has asked "Billy" Murray for his release. If the Jersey City manager offers no objections he will probably be seen in the game Saturday. The "Kid" said yesterday he would rather play in Plainfield and Hoboken than anywhere else outside the big league.

Nobody will blame the "Kid" for not wanting to be a bench warmer even if there is a salary attached to the job. The "Kid" wants to be in action all the time—the "lazy bug" is an absent quantity with him.

Although Mallen will be out with the team Saturday for the purpose of getting some practice, Manager Daab will try an outfielder he tried hard to get before the season opened. He is Mr. Reardon, of Brooklyn. He is a likely looking chap and led the hitters in the Inter-Borough League last season.

"Dave" Driscoll starts in to play first base for Nyack Saturday.

Jimmy Beisel will put 'em over the pan for Matawan again this season.

There was a large earthquake in the independent baseball regions of the metropolis yesterday. It was caused by Nat Strong in gobbling up the entire Ridegwood team, including the star battery, Linderman and Farmer. Strong acted for William A. Brady, who is the backer of the new Coney Island A. C. As a result of the wholesale raid, Manager Hussey, of the Ridgewoods, has been scouring the woods looking for players to complete his new team. The Coney Island team will play its first game Sunday with the Brightons.

Badgeley, who formerly pitched for the Plainfield team, but now on the twirling staff at Trinity College, was in his old-time form yesterday, when for ten innings he did not allow the Massachusetts State College team a single hit. The score of the game was a tie, 1 to 1, and had to be called on account of darkness.

CLOSED PORTALS.

The first degree was exemplified at the meeting of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, Tuesday night. Seven candidates went through.

Crescent Company, U. R., K. of P., will hold a regular assembly tonight. Several matters of importance will be discussed, among them plans for participating in the Memorial Day parade.

The committee of fifty appointed by Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, to arrange for the work of the lodge at the carnival the two nights assigned to the organization, held a meeting at the hall Tuesday night. General plans for the nights, which are May 22 and 30, were discussed. Andrew Kenney is chairman of the committee.

New Brunswick's Novel.

The New Brunswick Home News apologizes to its readers for having printed a news item concerning Judge Runyon, of Plainfield, as that paper says it has now learned that he "was never invited to give his distinguished services to the State in any capacity." All of which goes to show how gladly some papers print pleasing fiction for the edification of the bosses.—Newark Evening News.

Henry Clay Randolph, of Washington avenue, who has been ill with a complication of troubles, suffered a turn for the worse last night.

CANON AMENDMENTS FAIL

Diocesan Convention Against Changes in Voting at Parish Meeting.

STANDING COMMITTEE

Episcopalians' Annual Session Concluded at Atlantic City—Next Convention at Trenton.

Atlantic City, May 10.—The effort by one of the members of the Diocese of New Jersey to set the rector of the church up as the moral censor of his congregation and another move to permit women of the church to take part in the voting of the various parish meetings died quick deaths in the convention at St. James' church yesterday.

The first was thoroughly discussed, and finally voted down. It was in the shape of a revision of the third article of the second canon, and made it mandatory that a man should attend church for at least six months prior to the parish meeting, be in good standing financially and be of good moral character before he should be allowed to vote in the meeting.

The question of women being allowed to vote was defeated by only a small majority.

One of the most important acts of the convention was the selection of the standing committee, or advisory committee, to the Bishop, which was elected yesterday afternoon by balloting nearly half the day. It resulted in the choice of the following rectors and laymen: The Rev. Dr. A. B. Baker, theRev. James F. Olmsted, the Rev. C. M. Perkins, the Rev. Elliot White, D. G. Baird, Francis Collingwood, Charles Townsend and J. Bingham Woodward.

These officials and committeemen were also elected: Treasurer, Charles Ewan Merritt; trustee of the Aged and Infirm Clergy Fund, William Doller; trustee of Widows and Orphans of Clergy Fund, William Doller; trustee of Missionary Fund, J. B. Dumont; trustee of Church Property, J. B. Dumont; Committee on Episcopal Residence, J. B. Woodward, J. H. Breure and H. M. Stack; registrar, the Rev. M. B. Nash.

The next convention will be held in Trenton.

POSITION OF MONUMENT.

Association Received the Opinions of Experts.

The ommittee on Design of the Soldiers and Sailors' Monument Association, Elizabeth, has decided on the alignment of the base of the monument to be erected in the triangular plot bounded by North Broad street, Westminster avenue and Prince street, in that city, and now the work of preparing the foundation will be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible.

The excavation was made on lines paralleling on two sides Westminster avenue and Prince street. Several of the committee afterward discovered that if the foundation were laid on those lines the figure of the soldier on the top of the monument would be facing too far to the east and recommended that the plans be changed so that the line of vision from the face of the monument would be straight down Broad street.

This snag the committee struck headon, and the discussion has waxed warm at times during the meetings held to settle the matter, meanwhile work on laying the foundation has been held up. At a meeting held yesterday afternoon on the site of the monument it was decided to swing the lines of the fountain around until an imaginary line drawn from the centre of the face of the monument would pass slightly to the east of the point of the triangle and strike the arc light at the intersection of Westfield avenue.

This decision will throw the base of the monument out of line with all sides of the triangle, but it will, it is believed, give a better effect as to the figure of the soldier at the top of the shaft will be facing directly south on a line with the centre of Broad street.

Te decision of the design committee was based on opinions received from experts.

Burned by Flying Spark.

Horace J. Martin was painfully burned in the left eye yesterday, while at work in his blacksmith shop on Somerset street. A flying spark struck the eyeball and left it in a badly swollen state. It was much better today but he is still unable to use the sight.

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. will meet Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

NEXT WORLD'S FAIR.

NEW ZEALAND WILL HAVE INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION.

Arrangements Under Way for Opening in November—Will Continue Until April of Next Year.

The next great world's fair is to be given by the colony of New Zealand, in the South Pacific islands of that name, the romantic home of the ancient Maoris, which numbers among its attractions for the tourist many relics of that ancient people, with their descendants still living according to their old-time customs. The wonderful scenery of the picturesque island, with its bursting geysers, its forests and mountains filled with game for the sportsman, add an attraction to the site of the fair which will tempt many a visitor from far-off lands to make the trip to New Zealand during the progress of the exposition.

The fair is to be held in Hagley park, Christchurch, Canterbury, beginning in November next and continuing to some date in April, 1907. This is the summer season in New Zealand, the time of year when her natural attractions are at their best. All nations of the world have been invited to exhibit at the fair. The object of the exhibition is educational, the colonists desiring to show to the world the resources and possibilities of the colony as one of the world's food-producing factors; to demonstrate its vast mineral resources and to draw attention to picturesque and unrivaled scenery, its thermal wonders and the exceptional opportunities offered to sportsmen. A further object is to bring to the notice of the more industrial nations of the world the great field offered by New Zealand as an outlet for enterprise and for the use and consumption of all manner of up-to-date appliances and manufactures.

The imports of New Zealand in 1905, at least three-fourths of which are manufactured goods, amounted in value to $[illegible]. Of course, Great Britain, the home country, furnished the great bulk of this trade. The commonwealth of Australasia was next in the list and following her came the United States, which furnished goods to the value of $8,000,000. When it is considered that this great expenditure for foreign supplies is made for the use of a colony with a population of but 850,000 persons it can be readily seen what a rare opportunity is offered for exploiting New Zealand with up-to-date manufactures. Exporters of every land on the face of the globe will be deeply interested in investigating the trade possibilities of the country and it is confidently anticipated that the fair will be a success financially as well as in bringing to the attention of the world the advantages possessed by the island as a trade center for the industrial world.

Special arrangements are being made with the steamship companies trading to New Zealand under which exhibitors will obtain special rates of freight on exhibits. The exhibition buildings will be constituted a bonded warehouse, and while all goods sold will be charged the regular rate of duty, those to be returned to other lands will be reshipped free of duty. The ordinary charge for space will be from two shillings (50 cents) a square foot, the minimum charge being $5.25, 25 per cent. payable on application, 25 per cent. on allotment and the balance one month before the opening of the fair.

PLANTS MADE BY SPIRALS.

Original Nebula Supposed to Have Been Formed by Influence of the Sun.

How were the planets made? Prof. R. G. Moulton, of the University of Chicago, has another alternative to La Place's theory of the formation of the planetary systems. It is that the planets and their satellites have been formed around primitive nuclei of considerable dimensions existing in spiral nebulae probably similar to those which Prof. Keeler showed to be many times more numerous than all the nebulae of all other types. The growth of each nucleus was caused by the gradual accretion of smaller masses, and the method of this growth which is suggested accounts for all the different types of bodies now found in the solar system, and for their present motions and velocities on dynamical principles. The original spiral nebula is supposed to have been formed by the near approach of another star to the body which is now our sun. This exterior attraction set up tides in the solar matter, and, being continued, actually caused immense masses to be ejected and drawn out in the spiral form. On this assumption the spiral would emerge from the central nucleus in two directions, on opposite sides, and this is the form generally shown in photographs of such nebulae.

ATWATER SUCCEEDS VAIL

Elizabeth Lawyer Gets County Judgeship on Senator's Recommendation.

ANNOUNCEMENT TODAY

Governor to Issue Official Notification at Once—C. Addison Swift to Be District Judge.

Edward S. Atwater, of Elizabeth, succeeds Circuit Court Judge Vail as judge of Union county, that being the announcement from Trenton today. The only formidable candidate the successful man was Winfield S. Angleman, of this city, but the Elizabethan clinched the position when Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, of this city, recommended his appointment this morning. Governor Stokes says he will make the official announcement today.

The Union County Bar Association, of which Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, of this city, is president, had called a meeting at the county court house for tomorrow morning. The object was to endorse the Elizabeth lawyer. It is supposed that the only thing to come before the association, should the Governor make the official announcement as reported, will be to endorse the State Chief Executive's action.

Edward Sanford Atwater is the son of a minister, the Rev. Lyman Atwater, for thirty years a professor of Princeton College. He was born in Cleanfield, Conn., in 1843. Judge Atwater was graduated from Princeton and studied law with John F. Hageman, of the college town. Subsequently he matriculated at Columbia University law school. After being graduated in 1866 he was admitted to the bar and started practice in Elizabeth, where he has since resided.

Judge Atwater has filled many offices in his home town. He was at one time a member of the Board of Education and later a member of the Elizabeth Council, at one period being president of that body. He has also filled the position of superintendent of schools and of city attorney. In 1896 he was appointed district court judge. That office like all the others he has held he has filled with much satisfaction.

The appointment will take effect immediately. No successor to Judge Atwater is likely to be named today. City Attorney C. Addison Swift, of Elizabeth, is the man slated for the place.

Ready to Widen Park Avenue.

Street Commissioner Andrew J. Gavett is ready to commence the work of widening Park avenue, from Second street to the railroad, and as soon as the contractors on The Plainfield Trust Company building remove the obstacles from in front of the structure operations will begin. The city has settled with the interested property-owners, obtaining their receipts in payment for money for damages and the improvement will probably be started within a month's time. Influence is being brought to bear on the street committee to have a permanent pavement laid on that part of Park avenue to be widened and it is likely that some action will be taken before long. At present the city is undecided whether to use vetrified brick or the creosoted wooden block pavement. President O. T. Waring, of The Plainfield Trust Company, favors the wooden blocks.

Landmark Will Be Destroyed.

Clifton & Campbell are the only remaining tenants in the old structure on Park avenue, opposite North avenue, and they will remove soon. Then the work of demolishing the building will be started. This property was purchased by John G. MacLaughlin and it is his intention to remove the old building thereon as soon as possible. As yet plans are not completed for a new structure, but it is practically a certainty that the property will be improved in the near future.

Another Adjournment.

Tax Collector John W. Murray, Jr., announces that the adjourned sale of property for the payment of delinquent taxes will be held at his office on North avenue, Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. As a majority of the delinquent taxpayers have settled, but few properties remain to be sold.

ROLLAND M. SMYTH SUES NEW PROVIDENCE

SEEKS TO RECOVER FROM TOWNSHIP ON OLD RAILROAD BONDS.

Papers have been filed by Rolland M. Smyth, of New York, through his counsel, Isaac P. Runyon, Esq., of this city, in a suit against New Providence Township to recover between $15,000 and $16,000, being one-quarter of the issue of railroad bonds floated by the township a number of years ago. The remaining portion of the bonds were sold by other parties. There were eleven bonds aggregating about $11,500, the total together with interest amounting to about $69,000.

The action against the township is not a new one, the matter having been in the courts for sometime. The case will probably be reached by either the September or October term of the Supreme Court. New Providence Township is contesting the suit bitterly for upon its result will determine other suits.

CAPT. MARTIN'S MEN WERE ON PARADE

CO. K ATTENDED MONUMENT UNVEILING AT PHILLIPBURG YESTERDAY.

The members of Co. K, under the command of Captain W. B. Martin, joined with other military and civic organizations yesterday in the exercises in connection with the unveiling of the Philipsburg monument to the soldiers and sailors who died in the Civil War. Preceding the unveiling ceremonies there was a parade of fully 3,000 men lead by companies of the Second Regiment, Companies A, B, C, D. E. F, G. H and K, under command of Col. D. F. Collins.

Gov. E. C. Stokes was the central figure in the parade and at the unveiling of the monument. All business in Philipsburg was suspended, as well as in Easton, and citizens gave up the day to reverence of the dead. It was a day of memories to many and the veteran grew young again as he listened to the speeches and heard the music of the drum and fife.

The monument was unveiled by Colonel E. B. Galligan, an aged veteran of Tolme Post, of Philipsburg, and Colonel John Schoonover, of Trenton, accepted it for the city. The speech of the day was made by Governor Stokes, who was introduced by Dr. Griffith, of Philipsburg. Other speakers were Dr. George B. Wright, State commissioner of charities and corrections, and Colonel E. C. Stahl.

The monument which was dedicated May 10, stands at the apex of the town lot, at the Lovell school building. It is made of "Barre granite" from the quarries of Vermont. It was designed with a triangular base to suit the location. The total height is about forty-eight feet and was erected at a cost of $5,500.

NEW HEAD OF ASSESSORS

H. C. Runyon Succeeds C. C. Pollard as Chairman of County Board.

OFFICERS ARE NAMED

Plainfield's Valuations May Exceed $15,000,000,—Local Board Starts Work May 21.

H. C. Runyon was elected chairman of the Union County Board of Assessors at Elizabeth, yesterday, to succeed Caleb C. Pollard, who was recently appointed a member of the Union County Board of Taxation. J. J. Farrelly, of Elizabeth, was chosen clerk, and H. G. Young, of Fanwood, was appointed a member to fill the vacancy caused by the death of William R. Stanbery.

Mr. Runyon is well qualified for the position of chairman of the board, of which he has been a member since 1898, when the Plainfield Board of Assessors was appointed. His work of assessmenti n the Fourth ward of Plainfield has been satisfactory in every respect.

It is expected that Plainfield's real and personal valuations this year will exceed $15,000,000, as there has been a steady increase throughout the past twelve months. The local board of assessors will start its work on Monday, May 21, and on Tuesday, August 14, it is expected to be ready to make its report to the county board of assessors.

Thirty-four of the forty-three assessors in the county attended yesterday's meeting which was held for organization purposes. Assessors H. C. Runyon, J. A. Hubbard and H. C. VanEmburgh, from this city, were present.

LOCAL MAN SPARS THREE ROUNDS WITH "FITZ."

Patrolman "Jack" Payne Held His Own in Match With the ex-Champion.

At his training quarters in Saengerbund Hall, yesterday afternoon, "Lanky Bob" Fitzsimmons had a new sparing partner for three fast rounds. The man who had the temerity to stand before the ex-champion of the world and run the risk of getting knocked through the side wall was Patrolman "Jack" Payne, of the local police force. But Jack has a little science of his own and the wise-ones who stood about in readiness to call the ambulance had the surprise of their lives.

"Fitz" remained on the defensive, of course, and advised the popular blue-coat to hit as often and as hard as he pleased. He didn't have to repeat directions. Jack was there with the goods and he landed a half dozen or more good thumping blows on the Cornishman's anatomy that made him sit up and take notice. "Fitz" landed one back now and then but Payne has a 210 pound physique and he stood them like a vet of the prize ring.

At the conclusion of the "go" Fitzsimmons warmly complimented Jack on the way he handled himself and declared that with proper practice he would make a formidable opponent for many of the championship aspirants. "Fitz's" trainer, James Savage, also spoke well of the manner in which he handled himself.

Payne is considered the best athlete in the city police department and evil-doers have had a wholesome respect for him ever since he was appointed to the force. He is a regular attendant at the patrolmen's gymnasium class and the "course of sprouts" that frequently makes his brother officers work like truck horses is by-play for him. He will meet "Fitz" several times again before the latter fights Noah Brusso at Philadelphia.

HORSE THIEF A BURGLAR

Varied Tale of Crookedness by Youth Who Stole Day's Rig.

LIGHT IN MANY JOBS

Thomas Riordan, Seventeen-year-old New Market Boy, Protege of "Bill" Smith, Tells of Busy Burglarious Trio.

Following several unsuccessful attempts to sell the rig, Thomas Riordan, seventeen years old, a New Market youth, was captured in Morris Plains Wednesday afternoon with the horse and buggy stolen on Monday from Charles S. Day, of New Market, in his possession. The New Market authorities say they have his confession to the theft, and a confession of complicity in a series of burglaries in New Market and a robbery in this city.

According to the statement said to have been secured from Riordan, the theft of the horse and buggy was simply one of a long series of jobs in the neighborhood of New Market by himself and two companions. The boy says a professional cracksman, known only as "Lanky" to him, is the leader of the trio. The other member, he says, is a young man known as John Coleman. The police here say the particular friend of Riordan's known to them is a youth named McAll, who has been working in Caldwell. Riordan's story of two accomplices is received with several grains of salt, but it is being investigated. The statement is not accepted at face value, because the youth has a reputation for ready and fluent romancing.

Riordan first came to the notice of the police here when he left John Wirth's bakery, where he had been employed a short time, without notice on the same day that $300 was missed from the safe He disappeared from the city that day, and the police marked him down as the thief. They traced him then, Chief Kiely said this morning, to Caldwell, where he got McAll to join him in a trip to Haverstraw. In a statement made to Justice Von Minden, of New Market, yesterday, Riordan said "Lanky" and Coleman led in that job and gave him only $15 for his trouble. Chief Kiely said this morning that he knows Riordan alone committed the theft, and consorted with nobody until he picked up McAll at Caldwell.

According to the confession cited by Justice Von Minden, Riordan and his companions have been three of the most industrious crooks in the State during the past eight months. He says they committed practically all the burglaries that occurred in New Market in that time. They were the ones who broke into the Lehigh Valley station and the house of Abram G. Nelson, one of the Fair heirs. Mr. Nelson saved his life that night by remaining in his room, according to Riordan's statement. "Lanky," whom he describes as a typical cracksman of the quick-shoot sort, heard a noise in Mr. Nelson's room, he says, and threw his gun on the doorway as he backed downstairs. He would have shot Nelson had he appeared, Riordan says.

Riordan described the theft of the horse and buggy as the fruit of a carefully arranged plot. "Lanky" wanted to set fire to the barn, he says, to cover up the theft, but he told the other two that the fire might attract the Plainfield department and draw out a crowd along their way of escape, so that plan was abandoned.

The three of them rode in the buggy to Morris Plains, where they separated. "Lanky" went to Morristown, Pa., and Coleman to Sweetland, Pa. Riordan was to have sold the rig and joined the other two in Morristown to share up the proceeds. Riordan had no luck at all in his efforts to get rid of the rig. His youth made prospective buyers suspicious, and his carefully concocted stories fell flat. Finally, on Wednesday morning, one of the postal cards bearing Mr. Day's offer of $75 reward for the capture of the thief and return of the rig, reached the postoffice to complete his undoing.

The postmaster, D. M. Merchant, read the description of the rig on the card, and that afternoon, when Riordan drove to the postoffice, he spotted him at once. Merchant called a young man to his side to secure assistance in nabbing Riordan, and the latter grew suspicious of his actions. He lashed the horse with the end of the reins and started off at full speed. Merchant raised an alarm and a half a dozen wagons and bicycles streamed in pursuit of the fleeing youth. He snatched a whip from a carriage standing at the side of the roadway and lashed the horse to a speed that held him in front of his pursuers until Dover was reached. There, Aleck M. Webb and Eugene O'Neil, of Morris Plains, caught

VALUE PROPERTY AT PAR

County Board of Assessors Give Notice That the Law Will Be Obeyed.

CITE HILLIERY ACT

Tax Rate to Be Gradually Decreased Until 1907 When It Will Drop to $2 Per $100—Various Rates Now.

Hereafter the personal and real property of Union county will be assessed at full value. This was decided at a meeting of the County Board of Assessors held at Elizabeth, yesterday, when a resolution was adopted to that effect. The assessment at full value will be made in accordance with the provisions of the new law. It was the general opinion that it would give better results and be more satisfactory than under the old system, when assessments were made between 35 and 75 per cent. of the full value.

In the case of Plainfield the new law provides that the tax rate for the year cannot be higher than it was last year, $2.48, and the chances are that it will be less than that when the returns are all made. While the Hillery tax act does not go into effect until January 1, 1907, there is a provision that in all places where the rate exceeds $2.00 per $100 valuation there shall be a decrease of five cents a year until a rate of $2.00 shall be reached and that the county rate shall not exceed fifty cents. This does not apply to the State tax, State school tax or in reference to judgments against municipalities.

In the discussion relative to assessing at full value it was pointed out that taxpayers who have been paying on a basis of 65 or 75 per cent. are paying more of their burden of the taxes than they should, while in some localities 25 and 35 per cent. of the full value is assessed. For this reason it was believed that the new law will cause less dissatisfaction.

The State Board of Equalization, which met at Elizabeth in February and conferred with the assessors from various parts of the county, is pretty well acquainted with the method employed heretofore by assessors and if they fail to tax full value as they agreed to yesterday by voting unanimously for the resolution offered, it will be known by the State board.

ENDEAVOR CONGRESS NOMINATES OFFICERS.

Election At Mass Meeting on Thursday Night, May 31.

The Plainfield Christian Endeavor Congress held its last meeting for the fiscal year in the small hall of the Y. M. C. A. building, last night, when officers were nominated and routine business was transacted. The reports for the past year indicated gratifying results and a notable increase in interest and attendance. The prospects for the coming year are very bright.

Rowland Rice, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the following list of officers for election:

President, Fred C. Lounsbury; vice president, Miss Galloway; secretary, Miss Mildred Green; treasurer, Clarence B. LaRue; chairman prayer meeting committee, U. B. Crane; chairman missionary committee, H. W. Van Arsdale; chairman lookout committee, Miss Vida Whitney; chairman music committee, Horace J. Martin; chairman press committee, George L. Bentley.

These officers will be presented for election at a mass meeting to be held on Thursday night, May 31, at a place to be decided upon later. That will be the final meeting of the union until next September. At that time the congress will meet and arrange for the fall and winter schedule.

Sudden Death of a Child.

Leo Johannes Wilhelm Dauerschner, the three-year-old son of Rev. and Mrs. J. Dauerschner, of Grove street, died suddenly yesterday morning from some form of cerebral trouble. The child was being held in the father's arms, having complained of being ill, and passed away within a short time. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from St. Peter's church in Grove street, and Rev. Mr. Hinkeldey, of Rahway, will have charge. The interment will be in the Methodist cemetery in Plainfield avenue.

Preparing For Sewer Work.

Foster Callahan and Eugene Chamberlain, who received the contract for the sewer extension work here, are preparing to start the work on May 28. According to the terms of the contract the work must be completed within four months. It is proposed to commence the work at East Sixth street.

WILL MAYOR BE THE CITY LANDLORD?

MUNICIPAL OFFICES LOCATED IN BUILDING WHICH WOOLSTON & BUCKLE BUY.

Provided Woolston & Buckle take title to the Smalley building in the firm name, as reported, the question arises what will the city do? Mayor Buckle is a member of the firm which has bought the property on North avenue from Smalley brothers. The city offices, including those of the city clerk, street commissioner, city engineer, assessors' board and tax collector as well as the Councilmanic chambers, mayor's office and board of health rooms are located in the building.

Lawyers say that no city official can be interested in any business transaction with the municipality. In the present instance, Mayor Buckle would be in the position of landlord. The title does not pass until June 1, but already the politicians are cogitating over the situation that will be presented.

PLAN FINE TROTTING FOR LOCAL TRACK

MATINEE EVENT BEING ARRANGED FOR FOURTH OF JULY.

Preparations are gradually being made for the matinee races to be held at the Gentlemen's Driving Park on the afternoon of July 4. This will be one of the meets included in the racing circuit which comprises Trenton, Bordentown, Freehold, New Brunswick, Flemington, Hightstown and this city. The association has a membership of over 800.

Meets will be held weekly, beginning Memorial Day at New Brunswick and Freehold. Hightstown will have the next meet on Saturday, June 9, and Bordentown will have a meet on Saturday, June 6; Trenton, Saturday, June 23; Flemington on Saturday, June 30; Plainfield on Wednesday, July 4, and New Brunswick on Wednesday, July 11.

Mayor N. B. Smalley, A. C. Blair and J. Wesley Johnson are perfecting the details for the Plainfield meet. Handsome prizes will be offered in the various classes and it is proposed to have some of the best horses in the State on the local track.

Y. M. C. A. BOYS WILL HAVE THEIR OWN CAMP.

To Spend Two Weeks On Connecticut Island, Beginning July 19.

The boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. will conduct a camp independently of the State camp this year, in conjunction with the Meriden, Conn., association, at Tuxis Island, Conn. The camp will be maintained from July 19 to August 2.

Tuxis Island is in Long Island Sound, ninety-eight miles from New York. It is two acres in extent, and a great site for a camp. Kenneth Robbie, boys' secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will have full charge of the encampment. He has conducted boys' camps for eight years, and knows how to be mayor, marshal and pastor of that sort of a community. He will be assisted by a corps of adult leaders.

A number of side trips during the stay on Tuxis Island and on the way home have been arranged. A special pilgrimage will be made to Yale University.

Entries on the camp roster are being made now. The party will be limited, and applications will receive their O. K.'s in the order in which they are filed. None of the campers will be allowed to bring firearms with him, and he must take a Bible along.

Visitors from here will be entertained Thursday, July 26. Parents and friends of the campers will receive a cordial welcome that day.

Helping Colored People.

With the idea of aiding the missionary cause among the colored people of the South, a sociable was held at the residence of Mrs. E. P. Stevens in Grandview avenue, last night, in which an original play was given written by Miss Stella Kline and rendered by the young people of the society to the delight of a large number of people who had assembled there to listen and partake of the refreshments afterwards served.

Entertained Friends at Euchre.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Owens, of Richmond street, gave a euchre party to forty friends at their home last night. Ten tables were used in the play and the prizes were awarded as follows: The Misses Mae Connolly and Anna Ryan, John Kyle and J. J. Callahan. Later in the evening refreshments were served and vocal selections were given by Miss Kathryn Roche and Mr. Greer.

PLANS FOR THE PARADE

City and Borough Police and Fire Department Men to Be in Line.

CAPT. MARTIN MARSHAL

Merchants Invited to Make a Showing—Co. K to Participate and Probably Jr. O. U. A. M.

Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk and Co. K's popular captain, Dr. William B. Martin, are making elaborate preparations for the parade which will inaugurate the second annual carnival for the benefit of Muhlenberg hospital. Captain Martin, himself, will act as grand marshal and he issues a general call for volunteers to act as aides. A general invitation is also extended all the local merchants to have decorated wagons in the parade. There will be no charge whatever and the store keepers are urged to take advantage of the affair to advertise their wares.

Company K will head the line. Every fireman and every policeman in the Plainfield and North Plainfield departments will participate and it is understood that some of the fire apparatus will be seen on that occasion. Invitations have been sent to the four councils of the Jr. O. U. A. M., Benevolent, Franklin, Somerset and Plainfield, to participate as an united body. It is hoped to have at least 200 or 300 members of the order.

The local councils, Jr. O. U. A. M., are taking a lively interest in the carnival. Saturday afternoon and evening, May 26, has been set apart as "Junior Day" and the members of the four councils will be in charge at that time. These committees have been appointed by three of the councils to make arrangements for the event and they will soon hold a joint meeting to discuss plans: Franklin Council—Frank Platts, Thomas E. Currin, Jr.; Benevolent Council—Arthur G. Adams and Harry C. Runyon; Somerset Council—Harry Bird and L. E. R. Dunham.

Plainfield's automobilists have also received a general invitation to take part in the parade. F. L. C. Martin says that at least 100 autoists are expected to accept the invitation. Judges will award prizes for the best decorated vehicles.

"I am much pleased over the way responses are coming in to our general invitation to take part in the parade," said former Mayor Fisk, chairman of the carnival committee, this morning. "We want to have a parade that will be a credit to the city and personally I think that it will be. Captain Martin has generously consented to act as grand marshal and now I am waiting for some men to volunteer to act as his aides. This will be a good opportunity for our merchants to advertise their goods without any expense. The more the merrier. Mayors Buckle and Smalley have taken hold of the idea and they are rendering valuable services."

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN PASTOR'S RECEPTION.

The Rev. Charles E. Herring Greeted By His Congregation.

Under the auspices of the Pastor's Aid Society, composed of the women of the church, Rev. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, held one of the regular receptions in the chapel, last night. The affair was largely attended. Mrs. David Young, president of the society, assisted by several other members, formed the reception committee, extending to all a hearty welcome.

During the evening there were violin solos by Martin A. Korff, violin duetts by Mr. Korff and Rev. C. E. Herring, piano selections by Miss Helen George and Miss Iglehart. Miss VanFleet was the accompanist.

The chapel was decorated with dog wood, lilacs, carnations and other flowers of the season. Miss Dietrich and Mrs. William Shotwell poured coffee and the waitresses were Miss Coburn, Miss De Forest, Mrs. George Ballantyne, Miss Hammond, Miss Ella Lounsbury, Miss Bull, Miss Bertha Hill, Miss Farland, Miss Bond and Mrs. Hyatt. Mrs. John S. Johnston had charge of the waitresses. Mrs. S. VanFleet was in charge of the kitchen and her assistants were Miss Bird, Miss Abbott, Miss Burroughs and Mrs. William Iglehart.

TO TRY TO BUILD UP THE WESTFIELD CLUB.

Decrease in Membership Makes It Necessary to Revive Interest In Organization.

Westfield, May 11.—Owing to the rumors that the Westfield Club was in danger of being disbanded, there was a large attendance at the annual meeting of the club Tuesday night. The president of the club, Mayor Randolph Perkins, presided, and Walter Toucey acted as secretary in the absence of the secretary, H. R. Foster. The report of the finance committee showed the resources of the club to be $1,120.73, consisting of funds in the bank and dues owing from members in good standing. The liabilities were shown to be $385.59, and of this sum $300 is for rent for one quarter. The report of the membership committee showed 109 members on the roll in good standing. This is a decrease in membership of about sixty during the past two years. In the past year the membership has not materially decreased, though about twenty members now in good standing have signified their intention to resign.

While the condition of the club at present is not serious, the decrease in membership makes it necessary to take some action, as the present list is not large enough to carry on the club on yearly dues of $20. After a free discussion it was resolved to adjourn the annual election for one month and in the mean time the president is to appoint a committee of five, which is to investigate the cause of the decreasing membership, and to formulate plans for a renewal of interest, to be presented at the adjourned meeting.

GIRL MAY NOT LIVE FROM RUFFIAN'S ATTACK.

Hoboken Young Woman Likely to Die as Result of Four Men's Treatment.

Hoboken, May 11.—As a result of being attacked and assaulted by four young men, near Guttenberg, last night, Miss Minnie Wilford, eighteen years old, of 408 Thirteenth street, this city, is in the North Hudson Hospital in a critical condition. But slight hopes are entertained for her recovery.

When attacked Miss Wilford was on her way home from a music hall to catch a trolley car for her home, in this city. The assault was perpetrated on the outskirts of Union Hill, near the county line. This section is infested with a number of notorious roadhouses and music halls. The girl was attacked in a lonely spot, and in her endeavors to get away, her clothes were almost torn from her body.

In an effort to stop her screams the thugs punched their victim in the face and head. Her cries finally attracted the attention of two policemen, who ran to her rescue. They drew their revolvers and fired, but three of the ruffians made their escape.

A man who says he is William Zeilmann, of 48 Fifth street, Guttenberg, held up his hands and surrendered. He was lodged in the New Durham jail, where he is held to await the result of the girl's injuries.

CHATHAM'S AUTO BUMP TO BE MADE LOWER.

Authorities Think the Speed Destroyer Might Work Damage.

Chatham, May 11.—The automobile bump placed in the centre of this town to prevent automobile speeding will be lowered. This decision has been reached, after several tests made by local authorities with both motor cars and horse-drawn vehicles. It was found that even at the slowest rate that the elevated crosswalk was passed over, a sharp jolt resulted that might easily work damage. The town officials stated that they did not wish to be unjust in the matter, and would, therefore, lower the walk to a level that would not result in discomfort for lawful drivers of vehicles, but still would prove a menace to those exceeding the speed limit.

The cross-walk was built higher than the originally chosen elevation of five inches, in the belief that it would settle somewhat after the first rain. This was not the case, and the walk will be lowered about two inches. Four inches is expected to be its eventual height. It will not be sheer, as was erroneously announced, but will be approached on both sides by an embankment.

Somerville Town Commissioners.

Somerville, May 11.—The election for commissioners for the town of Somerville Monday afternoon resulted as follows: Charles C. Kenyon, John A. Maxwell, Walter Durling, Charles Schwed, Marshall H. Johnson, George V. Vanderveer, Edward F. Brown. All are new members except Durling, Schwed and Vanderveer. The new board will probably organize this week.

—John Lyness, of West Second street, has taken a position as assistant clerk at the Plainfield Country Club.

—Mrs. Andrew Vanderbeek has taken possession of her flat in the new Woodhull & Martin building on East Front street.

—Mrs. George Morton, of Westfield, has been visiting relatives in town for a few days.

of carriages, when you want to buy, is not as simple an affair as buying a paper of pins or a bag of salt. There is much about a carriage, buggy, runabout or other pleasure vehicle for style and pleasure, that must be considered. Don't buy a carriage you can't see or try. Catalogue carriages look nice on paper, but they don't wear well on the road. Our carriages come from the foremost makers, and have all the new desirable features. You will find quality and price right.
Come try one on the road and buy it with a guarantee.

CLAIMANTS OF ESTATE OF JERSEYMAN AGREE.

Summit Heirs of Thomas F. Lane to Get One-third and His Daughter Two-thirds.

Washington, May 11.—After a long dispute the claimants of the estate of the late Thomas F. Lane, son-in-law of Senator Blackburn, of Kentucky, have reached an agreement. Mr. Lane died here in 1900. He had given to his wife a sealed envelope, which she refused to open on the ground that he had forbidden her to do so.

On the theory that no will existed Mrs. Lane was appointed administratrix of the estate, but before she could collect the assets she died, leaving a daughter, Theresa, now ten years old.

Two brothers of Mr. Lane who lived in Summit, N. J., insisted on the opening of the sealed envelope. It contained an assignment and a will distributing Mr. Lane's estate among his widow, mother, sister and brothers, no mention being made of the child.

In the settlement reached the daughter is to get two-thirds of the estate, which now exceeds $30,000, and one-third is to go to the four Summit heirs.

Summit, May 11.—Alfred J. Lane, brother of the late Thomas F. Lane, yesterday verified the foregoing story. He explained that certain provisions of the agreement will really divide the estate in the proportion of 60 per cent. to the daughter and 40 per cent. to the Summit heirs. The court will name a Washington trust company to administer the estate. The case has been in controversy for six years.

TIGERS' NEW LEADERS.

Cranmer, 1907, assistant manager during the past year, was elected manager of the second football team for the coming season.

Walter Biddle McIlvain, 1907, of East Downingtown, Pa., has been elected captain of next year's gun team. McIlvain was a member of the 1905 intercollegiate championship gun team and has done good work this year. He will be one of the team to represent Princeton in the annual intercollegiate shoot next Saturday at New Haven.

The Princeton freshmen baseball team was defeated at Pottstown Wednesday by Hill School, 6 to 3.

Word was sent to Mr. Day at once, and in the evening he came to Morris Plains accompanied by Justice Von Minden. Riordan made no objection to going to Dunellen in custody. He was locked up there at 1 o'clock yesterday morning. Early yesterday forenoon Justice VonMinden secured his statement, and communicated with the county authorities. Detective Oliver, of the prosecutor's staff, took charge of the prisoner. Arrangements were made at once to go after the supposed accomplices, and early this morning Oliver took Riordan with him to Pennsylvania to run "Lanky" and Coleman down.

Riordan is well known in New Market. He was practically brought up by "Mayor Bill" Smith, who took him under his charge and raised him when he, Smith, was still a humble baker and not a Fair heir. It was Smith's location at Caldwell that brought the boy to that place after the robbery of Wirth's safe. Riordan left Smith's care about three years ago, to shift for himself.

Two of the men who figured in Riordan's detection and capture have received their share of the $75 reward. Webb and O'Neill have divided the $25 offered for the return of the rig. Merchant will get the $50 for "information leading to the arrest and conviction."

Alleged Girl Counterfeiter Free.

Trenton, May 11.—Josie Manfra, of Paterson, nineteen years old, was acquitted yesterday afternoon in the United States District Court of the charge of passing a counterfet $5 bill. The evidence was to the effect that the girl offered the bill in payment for a necktie. The daughter of the proprietor waited on the girl, and, believing the money was counterfeit, notified her father, who called the police. TAFT ASKS PRESENCE OF NEW JERSEY TROOPS.

Request That Whole State National Guard Attend Unveiling May Be Complied With.

Governor Stokes yesterday received an invitation from Secretary of War Eaft to send two brigades of troops to Washington, D. C., on October 16 to participate in the unveiling of the great McClellan Memorial monument.

In his letter the secretary says that New Jersey should have the honor of having this large number of troops in line in the parade because of the fact that General McClellan was a native of this State, was distinguished in the War of the Rebellion and was governor of New Jersey from 1878 to 1881.

Governor Stokes has not yet answered the letter and it cannot be told now what course he will pursue in the matter. That New Jersey troops will be present at the great event is certain. To send two brigades means that the whole New Jersey National Guard will be in attendance, together with Major General P. Farmer Wanser.

To send the division of troops means that New Jersey would be unguarded with troops should emergency arise for their use.

Governor Stokes appreciates the honor of having New Jersey invited so handsomely to participate in the McClellan memorial unveiling. He is also sensible of having troops in the State ready for use should occasion warrant.

Political Hot Air.

The latest report, which was sprung today, was that Congressman Charles Newell Fowler might join forces with the Colby people and come out as a candidate for United States Senator. Several prominent Union county people were her' today, and whe n asked about the rumor those who were not hidebound friends of the Keans (John and Hamilton), at once said that if the Congressmen would make such a combination nothing could stop a victory in Union and Morris counties. While they doubted whether Mr. Fowler would enter the Senatorial contest, they were positive that an alliance between Fowler and Colby would be strong and would add adherents to the reform party in all of the northern counties.—New York Tribune.

Ladies' Auxiliary Meets.

The heads of committees of the Women's Auxiliary hospital carnival corps, met at the Casino this morning and discussed plans for the organization's part in the affair. A large number of the members afterward went to the carnival grounds and inspected the general building which is being erected for the auxiliary and they expressed themselves as being well pleased with it.

COULDN'T COAX CLEVELAND.

Under No Circumstances Would He Accept Presidential Nomination.

Philadelphia, May 11.—Grover Cleveland yesterday reiterated his declaration that he never would be a Presidential candidate again.

Following his address Wednesday evening before the National Conference of Charities and Correction, Mr. Cleveland spent his night at the home of the Rev. Dr. Charles Wood, 1,701 Le Lancey street, whose guest he is in this city.

"Could anything induce you to change your mind," Mr. Cleveland was asked, "concerning a Presidential nomination?"

"Positively nothing," exclaimed the former President. "Nothing under any circumstances."

BRYAN ON THE PRESIDENCY.

Would Not Accept Nomination Unless Circumstances Demanded.

St. Louis, May 11.—From Cairo, Egypt, William Jennings Bryan has written a letter to Col. M. C. Wetmore, of St. Louis, which contains a reference to his attitude toward the Presidency. Mr. Bryan says in part:

"Cairo, Egypt, April 16, 1906.

"My Dear Col. Wetmore:

"I am satisfied that the things I have been fighting for are growing, but who will be most available in 1908 is a question that cannot be answered now. I shall not do anything to secure another nomination, and do not want it unless circumstances seem to demand it—time alone can determine that."

Rutgers Prize Speaking Winners.

New Brunswick, May 11.—In the Bushing prize contest for exempore speaking at Rutgers College, the winners were Louis Bevier, 3d, of this city, and Maurice Kain, of Philadelphia. The prizes were $30 and $20, in books. Harry Noble, of Catskill, N. Y., was third. Mrs. Ann Van Nest Bushing, of New York, gave the college $1,000, the income to be used for the purchase of books to be awarded in an extempore speaking contest.

Sentenced to Be Hanged.

Samuel Menich, who was found guilty Wednesday, at Morristown, of murdering Mrs. Hattie Hart Decker at her home in Montvill, was sentenced yesterday to be hanged next June 15 in the Morris county jail. The prisoner took his sentence coolly and made no statement. It is said no effort has been made so far to appeal the case, but it is expected that Menich's friends will take some action in a few days to prolong the man's life.

Arrest in Whiteman Case.

New Brunswick, May 11.—John Hornyak, an Hungarian, was captured in the woods near Browntown yesterday by ex-Freeholder Asbury Fountain. His face was covered with blood and badly cut. He was arrested on suspicion of having had something to do with the murder of the Whitemans, father and son, at Rooster Inn, on Monday night.

S. P. C. A. Case.

Mr. Brennan, who lives on the old Dolbier place, on Terrill road, will be arraigned before Justice Hand and a jury tomorrow morning to answer to a charge of cruelty to animals. He is charged with hitting a horse that strayed into his garden with a hammer.

DANGEROUS SHOW ANIMALS

Most Fickle and Dangerous Among Them Is the Intelligent Elephant.

The terrible attack upon a woman recently made by a lion in a London music hall recalls the fact that a still more dangerous show animal is the elephant. A bull elephant is one of the most fickle creatures known. He is good-natured and submissive one moment, and the next his keeper is simply a mass of pulp!

"An elephant," said an expert keeper, "is twice as dangerous as a lion, a tiger or a bear. Those animals have to be watched very carefully when one is with them in the cages, but the tension of watching lasts only a few minutes at a time. An elephant, on the other hand, is allowed more freedom, and as one cannot be on the alert all day long, he gets his chance when he wants it. He often fiercely resents even a mild joke.

"We elephant keepers grow fantastic after a few years of the work. We expect to be seized and trampled to death some day, but live in hopes that it may not be soon. The great danger is when an elephant is just turning into a rogue. All elephants turn rogues sooner or later, and they never recover. The female elephants turn rogues earlier, and are more violent than the males, and the females are more dangerous in ordinary times, too.

"A good elephant trained can command a big salary. I know one who has been receiving $125 a week for 11 years. Mere keepers, however, are poorly paid."

DIDN'T FIGHT WITH THEM.

Yanks Didn't Use Popguns, So the Johnnies Didn't Whip Them.

Representative W. Bourke Cockran was delivering an impassioned speech against the policy of increasing the navy, relates Success Magazine, when he declared with vigorous gesture that the people of Greater New York have no fear of being destroyed by a foreign foe. "The American spirit and courage in New York is so great, Mr. Speaker, that our people would repel a foreign foe with the cobblestones from the streets before they would surrender," finished Mr. Cockran.

Jorn Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, who was sitting near, remarked to those around him:

"That reminds me of an old blowhard we had down our way. When war was declared he told his neighbors at the corner store that we could whip the Yankees with popguns. When the war was over, that same old fellow, who did so much bragging, was trying to explain the terrible result. Some one spoke up and remarked: 'I thought you said before the war that we could whip the Yankees with popguns.'

"'I know I did,' replied the old fellow, with ready wit, 'but the Yanks didn't fight us with popguns.'"

IS A CANADIAN PARADISE.

Beauties of "The Lake of Deep Waters" with Its Myriad Islands.

Temagami is shaped like an octopus, with long stretched-out arms, and its shores are indented with deep circling bays, island strewn and culminating in sharp points and curves that add to the beauty of this magical scene. "The lake of deep waters" is the meaning of the Indian word, and they lie deep and cool in their bed of granite; in stillness a perfect mirror, in storm darkly menacing, with foam-edged waves showing fang-like teeth, writes Kate Westlake Yeigh, in Four-Track News.

Being 100 square miles in area, Temagami forms one of Canada's great natural reservoirs. Mighty rivers from the height of land to the north flow into it, and it in turn feeds the streams that flow southward, carrying their life-giving waters through the forests to the peopled lands below. There are 1,400 islands in the lake, and the government has included the whole area in a magnificent forest reserve of a million and a half acres.

Old-Fashioned Morals Needed.

A number of people are proposing Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton university, for the Democratic nomination for president of the United States in 1908. Dr. Wilson has already written his platform. It consists of one sentence, and yet covers nearly the whole field. It was contained in a recent address delivered by the Princeton president. It proposes as a solution for our economic problems the application "of old-fashioned morals to new-fashioned business." That's the whole thing in a nutshell.—Wall Street Journal.

Sailors Becoming Too Delicate.

The rising generation looks with horror upon the "roughing it" process at sea, which, a quarter of a century ago, was regarded by most boys as an absolute attraction. The twentieth century boy must have his comforts. What will the skipper of 12 or 15 years hence be like? We have a vision of a neurotic, delicate, gruel and muffler individual, who will be able to navigate his ship well enough in fair weather, but who, in times of stress, will require the assistance of a trained nurse.—Syren and Shipping.

Pre-Natal Influence.

"I wonder why those children have such awfully long faces?" said the visitor at the school.

"They were all born in flats," explained the teacher, "and knew they weren't wanted."—Detroit Free Press.

IN THE METROPOLIS

THE METHODISTS HAVE NOT ABANDONED THE BOWERY.

LINGUISTS NEEDED THERE.

The Zulu at Columbia University—A Wonderful Young Man—The Immigrant of To-Day and Yesterday.

NEW YORK.—The Methodist church in New York has entered upon an interesting enterprise. It has invaded the Bowery. Not for the first time, of course. The denomination had in Forsythe and Willets streets fine old churches which were thriving institutions all through the tough days of the Bowery, when that was the most "fightingest" quarter of the city. Then the Bowery was native American with the Irish next in numbers. Of late the Jews have ruled there, the Bowery is a trade street and fighting is no longer fashionable. The two churches languished and were sold and torn down to make room for synagogues. Beneath the Willets street church they found human bones buried three deep. These were victims of the cholera epidemic of 1832, when every road leading out of the city was crowded with ox carts bearing people away, and there were not strong people enough left in town to care for the sick and bury the dead in the usual order.

But Methodists are not the give-up kind. They did not propose to abandon the Bowery. They have accordingly bought the Germania Assembly rooms—the name suggests memories of the middle period of the Bowery, when for a few years the Germans owned the street—paying $265,000 for the land, and they are to put $300,000 more into building and equipment to do missionary, club and settlement work such as Dr. Rainsford is doing in St. George's church. Being the Bowery, the work will be many-tongued. There will be a Hungarian pastor; the Hungarian quarter is just to the north. There will be an Italian one; the Italian quarter is just to the west. There will be one speaking Yiddish and one speaking Russian; the Jewish quarter is all about and particularly to the east, the Russian quarter a few blocks northeast. There is already a Chinese mission which will be incorporated; the Chinese quarter is southwest.

The Heart of the City.

IN TIME the Methodists may employ preachers speaking intimately 20 languages. Those named come first. Croatian, Bulgarian, Greek, Armenian—there are three varieties of these alone—and Syrian are a few of the tongues necessary to one who would evangelize the Bowery.

The cry used to be in that quarter that the Catholic churches were driving out the Protestant ones. That is no longer the case. The old Catholic cathedral in Mott street is stranded near the heathen Chinee, and in Mulberry bend itself a picturesque little chapel, one of the quaintest in the city, though conducted by Italian priests, is being crowded out by Chinese. This little church was the center of the pistol battles that raged between rival tongues before the Chinese imperial commissioner and Judge Foster drew up a treaty of peace between the factions. Just across the street are two joss houses—Buddhist temples, strange in lacquer and gold, hidden away in tall tenement houses.

The fighting quarter of the town, and of course it was the mixture of succeeding races that made the Bowery so pugnacious, has gone far uptown. In such blocks as "Hell's Kitchen," three miles above city hall a fight is still a daily occurrence. And the ugliest of all race feuds are those upon the edge of the new colored settlements. Not Thompson street, famed as the seat of the "Pokah club," but an occasional "black and tan" block sandwiched away among other tenements, where respectable colored people are forced to pay exorbitant rentals and herd with the meanest of their kind because in other quarters there is "no room." Race feuds as fierce as that in Springfield, O., are among the ever present posibilities of New York. Southern men in New York predict them.

A Prince of Africa.

POSITIVELY race instinct is curious. There is the case of Pka Isake Seme. Mr. Seme is black enough. But he is a Zulu. Now why should that make a difference? Because his people were conquered, but never enslaved? Because he is a courtesy prince of the blood royal of a warlike race? There is the fact. Not only that he has won Columbia's coveted George William Curtis oratory medal, which is remarkable enough for a boy who could speak no English eight years ago, but that he was elected a member of the best debating club in Columbia university. He popular in sports and is treated by all the other boys precisely as one of themselves. They do not even overdo it, which happens to negro students sometimes among the white students in Harvard.

A wonderful young man, in truth. He studied English in Zululand, not enough to talk well. Now his native town has trolley cars and electric lights. His father, though an important chief, had, of course, in these days of English rule, a small income, but he sent Seme to Columbia to learn the ways of a republic. The plan was that he should go thence to Oxford to study English law. But both father and mother are now dead. Mr. Seme has had to earn money. He has cooked on a yacht. He will be an automobile chauffeur this summer. He delivers lectures, does any honest work. He is in part assisted by a Zulu in Indiana who helps along for patriotism. Another Zulu has studied white man's medicine by means of similar privations and sacrifices. Others are studying tailoring and like useful arts, to be of value to their people when they return. They all return.

Zulu and English Law.

THE Zulus had law courts of their own, and these still do rude justice as courts of original jurisdiction. But when cases are appealed to the higher English tribunal the natives get mixed in their legal principles. Both systems do justice, but it is a different justice. The young man will make it his work to harmonize the systems. So the Zulu graduate of an American medical college is trying to save what is good in the old fetich system of medicine—and there is much good in it, as Miss Kingsley insisted, and other black belt explorers—and combine it with the white man's medicine.

No student in the 5,000 at Columbia knows in early years his life-work as he has pursued it with a more unfaltering resolution than the Zulu. That does not make the difference I spoke of. Other colored men have done wonders in scholarship, which Mr. Seme has not. The point is that his white associates have with respect to him no race instinct of repugnance. They eat with him and live their daily lives with him without a thought of shrinking. So they would with a dark, thin-lipped Moor. So they would, and so New York women do, with quite dark Hindoos. The race feeling is not color, or not wholly that. What is it? Is it the lingering taint of slavery? If so, it is rather hard luck. I have never heard that any slave coast negro held out eager hands for his chains. Not his the fault, is it?

A Million Immigrants.

THE immigrant record will be beaten this year. The record is more than a million. It was set last year. The number will rise to a million and a quarter in 1906. Over 11,000 came in one day to Ellis island, though they could not all be handled in a day. A problem? I do not think so. You would not think so if you could spend a day at the island and see the sturdy yeomen, the gingery Magyar Haiduks, the swarthy Italians, who come hither in floods. Especially if you could sit for days in the courts of special inquiry, where doubtful cases are detained, where mothers and children meet after years apart, and where scenes are daily enacted that call for tears of joy and sympathy.

Here is a case. Marcellina Justiniano, of the Abruzzi, is detained. She is an Italian woman of 45, but with her early whitened hair she looks nearer 60. She has the fine features of the statue of a Roman matron. But she may become a public charge. After a day's delay at government cost she is called before the august court. The government employes, men of experience, Grand Army veterans mostly, who sit as judges question her. Meanwhile a messenger has slipped out quietly and returns by a side door, ushering in a good-looking young Italian, dressed in American fashion, obviously prosperous. He walks straight to the bar without seeing the old woman. But the joy that transforms her mobile features into a smile struggling through tears is not lost on the judges. They know what it means. Young Justiniano says yes, he sent for his mother, he paid for her ticket, he can provide for her. How much does he earn? Fo' dol's a day. Has he a bank book? He shows one. The questioning is ended. He turns in his confusion, sees his mother for the first time. Together they go away, hand in hand. You ought to see that; and a hundred scenes like it every day!

Immigrants swamping us? They are not so numerous in proportion to our number now as they were 52 years ago; not nearly. They ought to be able to read and write? Of course they ought! But more of them can than 50 years ago. Two-thirds of all the white people who immigrated to America in 1492 up to 1830 could do neither. And I very much suspect that some of our distant relatives may have been among the unlettered majority.

THE MAN VOLIVA

PERSONALITY AND HISTORY OF LEADER OF ZION'S REVOLT.

Is a Hoosier, and Has Been a Preacher and Religious Worker Since He Was Sixteen Years Old.

Chicago.—The imagination which originates is always succeeded by the matter of fact management, if ruin is to be averted. The ousting of John Alexander Dowie and the inauguration of Wilbur Glenn Voliva in Zion City is an exemplification of the rule.

The two men contrast absolutely—physically, temperamentally, mentally. The exuberant Dowie, massive in frame, redundant in speech, magnetic and dominant in personality, enveloped and swept away by the power of his own visions, recognized in his moments of wisdom and judgment, in his secret communings in his closet, that in the young disciple Voliva existed the sanity, the sense, the prudence, the righteous and sure faculty which would most avail Zion when the influence of its founder was withdrawn.

Spare, pale, ascetic, cool, intelligent, unaffected by dreams, resolute to accomplish the task immediately under his eye, Voliva is no conqueror to found communities, to convert the world, to gain riches in Mexico, and spiritual dominion in the islands of the sea. He could never invent the pageantry, the Hebraic ceremony, the oriental splendor. But he can and he will put the business of Zion upon a substantial footing. He can organize, he can eliminate waste, he can practice economy. In a word, he can transform a struggling, half bankrupt community into a thriving, prosperous, well to do American municipality.

Voliva is 36 years old. His hair is black. His eyes are deep set, shrewd, dark and piercing. His shallow cheek is the aesthetic's; his thin, close-set lips are the disciplinarian's, not only of others, but of his own spirit. He eats but two meals a day, frequently only one; sometimes not at all. He clothes himself in white tie, frock coat, low cut waistcoat. He never smiles, not because he is oppressed by his own dignity, but because he sees no occasion for mirth. He does not attempt to impress his visitor.

Voliva is an American, a Hoosier, who is so entirely an American that he is ignorant of what is his racial stock. He has been heard to say that he fancies his peculiar name may be French, but he doesn't know.

The family life of Voliva has been filled with romance. He received his education in Newton, Ind., where he was born, in 1870. When only 16 years old, he preached every Sunday in a church at Linden, Ind., while he was a student at Miron college.

While at college he met Miss Mollie Steele, daughter of a physician of Palestine, Ind., who also was a student there. In 1891, after his graduation, he married Miss Steele. He and his wife moved to Irvington, Ind., where they both entered Butler college to continue their studies. While there a child was born to them. Four years later they went to Hiram college, Ohio, to continue their studies. While they were there the child died.

In 1900, Dr. Voliva became associated with Dowie's church. In February of that year, Ruth, the child shown in the picture, was born. A few months later he went to Cincinnati, where he remained six months, and in October, 1901, he went to Australia, after being ordained as an overseer. Dr. Voliva returned from Australia to take charge of affairs at Zion City a few weeks ago.

Largest Life Policy.

The most heavily insured man in the world is probably Mr. L. Rodman Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, who carries $2,000,000 in the Mutual, in addition to insurance in other companies. Mr. Wanamaker first took out his insurance in the Mutual, amounting to $200,000, at the age of 34. At 36 he increased it by two additional policies of $100,000 and $500,000. Five years later, at 41, he took two additional policies, one at $1,000,000 and the other of $200,000. This makes his total insurance in the company $2,000,000, on which he pays a yearly premium of $63,226.—World's Work.

Same Old Story.

Mrs. Smith—Oh, dear, I'm completely worn out! I was up more than half the night with a toothache.

Mrs. Jones—That's too bad. Did you go to the dentist this morning?

"Oh, my, no! It was my husband's tooth that ached."—Chicago Daily News.

She Knew Her Business.

He had been sweet on her for some time, and one evening he dropped in on his way home from the office.

"I hope you will excuse me for calling in my business suit," he said, but—"

"Oh, that's all right," interrupted the fair maid, "that is, if you mean business."

And the next day a downtown jeweler separated him from a month's salary in exchange for the ring.—Chicago Daily News.

Good Morning, Judge.

'Who's dat old guy?"

"Dat's me old friend, Judge Whelan."

"Yer old friend! I s'pose you an' him's visitin' acqaintances, eh?"

"No, merely speaking acquaintances. I know him well enough ter say 'Good mornin' to him every few weeks."—Cleveland Leader.

LOVE'S INTUITION.

"But how can you tell he loves you if he's never said so?

—"I can tell by the way he looks at me when I'm not looking at him."

Opportunity.

In search of her he traveled far
And stopped to look
In many a nook,
And suffered many a jolt and jar,
And when his best years had been spent,
And when his weary back was bent,
He sadly strayed.
Back home once more
To find deep pathways she had made
Up to his door.
—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Gossip.

"But, really," said Miss Goodley, serenely, "you shouldn't say these things about Miss Gailey. It's enough to think they're so, but as to saying them—"

"Oh!" replied Miss Gaussip, "I don't really think they're so; I only say they are."—Philadelphia Press.

Up Against It.

"That imitation of our goods," said the senior partner, "has become more popular than our genuine article."

"That's so," replied the junior partner. "There's nothing left for us to do but to advertise ours as 'just as good as the imitation.'" — Philadelphia Press.

Not Quite Sure About It.

Mrs. Highmus (making a call)—I should think you would find a "social secretary" a convenience.

Mrs. Gaswell—Ye-es, but where would we find room for it? Our apartments are as full of furniture already as they can stick.—Chicago Tribune.

A Well Intended Remark.

"That tenor gets two thousand dollars for every performance," said the musician. "He is indeed a great singer."

"He's better than that," answered Mr. Cumrox. "He's a good business man."—Washington Star.

With a Sigh.

"Your husband has a great many friends," said the visitor.

"Yes," answered young Mrs. Torkin, with a sigh, "Charley has a great many friends; but they are the kind who give tips on the races."—Washington Star.

They Ought.

"What do you think of a man who is continually running people down behind their backs?"

"I think he ought to be arrested; these automobiles will soon think they own the earth."—Houston Post.

Very Dear.

Young Mother (displaying the baby)—Isn't she a dear little thing, Mr. Podsnap?

Podsnap (father of a large family)—Yes, they're very expensive; I've got six of 'em.—Tit Bits.

Thought So.

Caller—Do you believe a child inherits the mental qualities of his parents?

Mr. Moddest—Well, my little boy makes some very brilliant remarks sometimes.—Tit Bits.

Croesus Nowhere.

"They say Billyuns is as rich as Croesus."

"Oh, he has Croesus skinned easily. Why his wife has strawberries for dessert every night."—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Confession.

Harappe—I always do my hardest work before breakfast.

Braxwell—What's that?

Harappe—Getting up.—Royal Magazine.

Silence, Please.

First Old Sport—Lord bless me! You don't say you're moving again?

Second Ditto—No, old chap, we don't say so; but, as a matter of fact, we are.

MARKET FOR BURROS

WHERE THE ANIMALS ARE ON SALE IN SANTA FE.

Diminutive Burden Bearers Are Very Useful, But They Are Not at All High-Priced.

You can buy a burro for $1.25 in this city. All you have to do is to go down to Burro alley anywhere from ten in the morning till late in the afternoon and strike a bargain with the first wood carrier you meet. Only make sure, advises a Santa Fe (N. M.) exchange, that your eye teeth are secure when the bargaining is over, for these burro punchers of the southwest are the canniest traders.

Burro alley is burro headquarters in Santa Fe. This is a narrow, crooked alley, lined with adobe houses. In the rear of a curio store, at the end of the alley, is a corral where the Joses and Pablos and Garcias leave their burros after their loads of wood are sold, and here may be studied burro character in all its phases.

Nearly every burro in the corral will wear one of the tiny pack saddles which can be so deftly loaded with stove wood by the Mexicans who keep Santa Fe supplied with fuel. The wood is cut in lengths of about two or three feet and is piled in great mounds on the pack saddles. It is marvelous the skill with which the Mexicans can load their tiny burros with these great loads of wood. They are deftly fastened with a few twists of a rope and they will not slip to one side, nor is it possible for the burros to shake them off.

Many of these hewers of wood, whose Mecca is Burro alley, walk 40 miles in a day in order to make a sale that cannot approximate more than $1.50. If a Mexican wood hauler is prosperous he will have, say, three burros. He will cut a supply of wood far off in the mountains, perhaps 20 miles from Santa Fe. Midnight will find his burros loaded, with their packs of wood piled high above their backs. Snapping his quirt and calling out expletives in Spanish that never fail to stir the feet of the laggards the burro puncher starts on his long walk to dispose of his wares. Early morning will find him in Santa Fe, for the burros are fast walkers when there is a Mexican behind them.

Once in Santa Fe the burro driver walks along the streets until he is hailed by some householder who has just run out of wood. There is a minute's haggling and an inspection of the pitch-filled pinon wood on the backs of the burros. Then the ropes are jerked, the loads of wood fall to the earth, and Pablo or Jose pockets his money and starts back toward Burro alley. Here the burros are put in the corral and the driver sallies forth. Early in the afternoon the burros are driven out of the corral and the homeward march is begun. The driver does not reach home until late. His earnings are small, but he is content. He turns his burros out to "rustle" for themselves—for nobody ever thinks of feeding a burro—and in a few hours he is ready to start again on the long walk to Santa Fe.

One can seek, and seek vainly, a sour-visaged burro among the thousands of animals that are driven to Santa Fe. The burro may be ready to drop under the cruel weight of his load, but he looks content. Perchance his master lingers awhile at the Plaza, in which case the burro is apt to sink to the ground, load and all, and float forth peacefully into slumber. When he is commanded to get up you wonder how he is going to do it, under that great load; but somehow or other the slender legs get a leverage and the burro struggles to his feet and walks off at his master's bidding.

Trick of Vinyardists.

Vine growers in France market fresh outdoor grapes all winter by a new and curious method. Bunches of grapes when ripe are cut so that a piece of the vine five or six inches long remains attached. A large number of white-necked bottles filled with water are placed in horizontal rows in racks in a cellar, and the stem of the grapes is placed in the mouth of the bottle, while the grapes hang outside. The grapes do not touch the water, but are supplied with water through the stem. The low uniform temperature of the cellar is favorable to the preservation of the fruit and water is supplied daily to the bottles to make up for the evaporation.—Country Life in America.

Wonderful Thing.

Mr. Brown had just had a telephone connection between his office and house, and was very much pleased with it.

"I tell you, Smith," he was saying, "this telephone business is a wonderful thing. I want you to dine with me this evening, and I will notify Mrs. Brown to expect you."

Brown (speaking through the telephone)—My friend Smith will dine with us this evening.

"Now listen and hear how plain her reply comes back."

Mrs. Brown's reply came back with startling distinctness:

"Ask your friend Smith if he thinks we keep a hotel."—N. Y. World.

SCHOOL MA'AMS THERE

Four of 'em Hie Themselves to the Crescent Oval.

DISCUSS THE PLAYERS

Welcome "Jimmy" Brogan—Some Note on the National Game As Seen Here.

And it came to pass that two pair of our pretty school ma'ams were stricken with baseball hysteria and said unto themselves "Let us follow the multitude to the field of battle on Crescent Oval, and watch the mighty men of brawn and muscle of the sunny south combat with the mighty tribe of Daab."

Yea! Yea! Yea! the quartette declared in unison.

The party toddled off to the trolley terminus with the graceful swing of a tender branch on the top of a shapely maple tree in a mid-summer cyclone.

Womanlike, of course they carried along four leather money boxes. The car came and four obliging "gents" transformed their beaming countenances into faces of a sour grape hue. Then there was the argument over who was going to pay the fare and after a four minute discussion the bonneted instructor on the extreme left next to the rail clutched a quarter and pushed it into the conductor's hand. In the flurry of excitement following the discussion over the charitable act, the nickel change dropped to the floor and rolled off the bumping car into the street.

And then there was a wail of despondency. "There goes the price of six bars of tutti frutti," said an interested baseball buggist who couldn't help hearing and seeing everything.

The grounds were finally reached and straightway pass the gates they passed and went into the grandstand. N. B. The accommodating lady who paid the fares did not "put up" for the admissions.

These four pretty creatures cornered seats in the grandstand at a 25 degree angle over the press box.

And the chatter and clatter that floated through the cracks of the roof of the war correspondent's structure was enough to freeze up Niagara Falls.

It even got John Cose's "agate," a man who is used to hearing two or three babies talk at once. "By the old Sam Hill," said John, "this beats all meetings of an Annandale Ladies' Aid Society."

"Willie" Deegan was a dimpling of a pitcher," they said. "Doesn't 'Mike' Leonard look solemn?" "It's a shame to call an umpire like Mr. Merrity a lobster." "Isn't Mister Mallen quiet?" "Won't Wally 'Piano Legs' Cosgrave be missed?" "They say Jimmy Bertwhistle can swat some." "Why don't they have ten strikes out instead of three?" "Phil Smith is so cute, he'll play in the big league some day." "They never knock the ball over the fence on these grounds, do they?" ! ! ! ..... ? ? ? and a thousand hundred other things that made Official Scorer Dobbins put base hits into the error column.

But alas: "There is an ending to all things, that are moral according to the 'Scripters,'" said the old darky minister at the camp meeting.

Judge Runyon, who wasn't aware of the conversation that was making the brains of the baseball critics wiggle, was standing in front of the rail of the side stand, when he sighed for a cigar.

He whistled in the direction of the Timbo peanut and cigar cafe. Anxious to do business, Professor Timbo arrived near the scene with an empty soda water tray. He looked and looked but couldn't discern where the whistle came from.

With a look of despair on his countenance he exuded one yelp.

"Who wants to see the handsome waiter?"

His warning reached the ears of the four school ma'ams and the dream of seeing a handsome man stopped forever on that afternoon all conversation on baseball topics.

"Live is but an empty dream," said a poet one day. True. Today we eat shad and tomorrow we chew baseball arguments and shout lobster.

"Doc" Anderson says in the Elizabeth Times that the fans of that city can get a line on the strength of the Stars and Plainfield teams by the result of the game on May 20 between the Stars and New York Americans.

Manager Daab has the line and noose right here in Plainfield, and is waiting for Burke and his crowd to come along.

Burke says he wants to wait until the league season closes so he can bolster up with league stars and then he will be ready to settle the matter of the county championship.

We would inform Mr. Burke that Plainfield is not anxious to win the Connecticut State League championship or Eastern League championship, but is intent on holding on to the Union county championship.

So Burke if you want to play bring on your real team and don't beat around the bush.

Welcome to "Jimmy" Brogan. Your return will be hailed with tumultuous joy among the fans.

Mr. Reardon, the new outfielder, claims he has the goods. All that is necessary is for him to deliver them and he will hear of it.

Sons of swat, hit the ball tomorrow.

Manager Edwin J. Olsen, of the Raritan Baseball Club, of Perth Amboy, desires to arrange games with Plainfield teams averaging 20 years. His address is No. 229 Madison avenue, Perth Amboy.

'Plains vs. Riversides.

The Scotch Plains ball team will play the Riversides, champions of Rahway, at Scotch Plains, tomorrow afternoon. This will be the lineup of the 'Plains team: Johnston, p; Allen, c; George Frentz, 3b; Joeulbert, ss; Squire Reick, ss; Henry Albert, 1b; Harry Flannery, lf; George Vanderbilt, cf; Mooney and Charles Eller, rf.

No Junior League.

No junior baseball league will be organized this year. The league was successful enough for the three seasons it was conducted, but for some reason none of the club managers pushed reorganization strongly enough to bring it about.

BOROUGH LADS DEFEATED

Nevertheless They Give City High School Team a Good Scare.

THE SCORE WAS 7 TO 4

Peacock and S. Freeman, Opposing Pitchers, In Rare Form—Chill Weather Affects Playing.

In the first game of the annual series for the city scholastic baseball championship yesterday afternoon, the North Plainfield High School nine gave the city team the biggest scare in recent years, although the lads from the borough were finally defeated by a score of 7 to 4. The day was extremely cold and to this may be ascribed the cause of loose fielding and errors on the part of both teams in the early innings of the game, which was played on Crescent Oval before a goodly gathering of representatives of the contesting schools.

Jack Peacock occupied the slab for the boroughites and for five innings he was a puzzle to the local team, holding them to two singles, and preventing any scoring during that period. Meanwhile, the North Plainfield team managed to get a couple of scratch hits and this coupled with errors by the city team, gave the lead at the end of the fifth to North Plainfield High School by a score of 2 to 0.

This standing of affairs was not of long duration for in the sixth the Plainfield High School team bunched hits and with a couple of bad throws by the boys from the borough gathered in three runs. North Plainfield High School also scored twice, holding the lead by a score of 4 to 3.

In the eighth the Plainfield High School lads clinched the game. Douglass and Brakeley went out on infield grounders, Harding hit safely and on a wild pitch scored the tying run. Van Arsdale fumbled Davis' grounder and threw wild to first, Davis taking third; Dunning missed Mehaffey's hit, Davis scoring with the winning run; Loizeaux hit safely, Mehaffey going to third, and he and Loizeaux scored on S. Freeman's safe hit. H. Freeman ended North Palinfield High School's agony by flying out to Peacock.

North Plainfield made a desperate effort to win in the ninth but were unsuccessful. McClintock and A. Van Arsdale were on base in that inning, but with two out, Webster, next up, fanned, leaving the score: P. H. S., 7; N. P. H. S., 4.

S. Freeman pitched an excellent game for P. H. S., striking out 15 men and allowing only three safe hits. He also aided materially with his hit that drove in two runs. Davis, Mehaffey and Loizeaux also did well for P. H. S. Webster, Kenney and M. Van Arsdale did creditable work for the team from the borough.

Team Match Play.

The attraction at the Plainfield Country Club tomorrow, in addition to the weekly competition for the Golf Committee cup, will be a team match with Columbia University. There will also be tennis play on the club courts. It is expected that there will be regular play at the Park Golf Club tomorrow in accordance with the season's schedule.

Tennis Court Not Ready.

The weather has interfered so much with the work on the grounds that it is probable play on the Y. M. C. A. tennis court will have to be put off tomorrow. Plans are still going on, however, for a lively tournament, to be started the latter part of the month.

FOUND $900 IN IRON POT.

Wrecker's Good Luck Upsets New York State Farmers for Miles Around.

Buffalo, May 11.—In an ancient foundation casement beneath the old Richardson homestead in the village of Holland an iron pot containing about $900 in gold and silver coins and bearing the mintage stamp of more than a century ago was discovered by William T. Miller Tuesday. Miller was engaged in tearing down the old house.

The discovery of the money caused intense excitement among the farmers for miles around, and many hastened to the spot with pickaxes and shovels and commenced digging, in hopes of finding more treasure.

It is believed that the coins were placed in the casement by Philo Richardson, who died more than fifty years ago. He was reputed to be one of the wealthy men of the place at that time. When he died all were surprised to find that he had but a small balance in the bank.

SUMMIT TO BAR MOSQUITOES.

Regular Crusade to Be Waged Against the Pest.

Summit, May 11.—At the regular meeting of the Health Board last night plans were discussed for adding to the effectiveness of the crusade against mosquitoes quoted some weeks ago. The board employs a man to visit every pond and swampy spot in the city and treat them with oil. For this he is allowed $25 per month, but last night it was decided to increase this to $63 per month in the rainy seasons, in order to receive thorough treatment in every place.

The board also decided to make an inspection of all sections not now connected with the sewer system, and where houses are found that can be connected to compel them to do so, thus permanently abolishing all cesspools and vaults. Permission was granted to Dr. Reinle to arrange for slaughtering cows at his sanitarium, subject to the regulations and supervision of the board.

DYING LIFE SAVER HOME.

Man for Whose Trip Times Readers Contributed Reaches His Family.

Patchogue, L. I., May 10.—Through the contributions of money by New York Times readers and his former colleagues in the service, Frank Raynor, the dying life saver, has been enabled to reach his home here, where among his family and friends he may pass his last days.

About a year ago Raynor contracted consumption from exposure in saving a shipwrecked crew. His small savings were soon exhausted, and, yearning for his friends and home, he appealed to the Government in whose service he had sacrificed his health for aid. His request was refused.

The present case of destitution has revived interest in the bill to pension those members of the life-saving stations who have become incapacitated in the service, and a strong effort is being made to obtain its passage.

WILL VISIT ORPHANS.

Jr. O. U. A. M. Officers to Tour the State.

Seabright, May 11.—William H. Miers, of Trenton, State council secretary of the Jr. O. U. A. M., of New Jersey, has made public a tour which the board of officers of the State council will take in an automobile, beginning next Monday. The order has fifty-six orphans located in various parts of the State. These are supported by a fund raised from the membership.

The State board will visit every orphan in the State from Cape May to Sussex before completing their tour. They will make a report of their inspection later. The State council pays a weekly allowance to see that the orphans are housed and cared for in homes, instead of supporting them in an orphan's home.

BIDS FOR CAPITOL WING.

Trenton Firms Compete for Work on State Building.

Trenton, May 11.—Bids were opened yesterday for the new wing to be added to the State Capitol. William Johnson, of this city, was the lowest bidder, at $89,900. Other bidders were: Lewis Lawton & Son, $92,250; Charles W. Kafer, $96,994; James W. Lanning, $103,000.

Only Trenton contractors competed for the work. The Legislature appropriated $100,000 for the new wing, which amount is also expected to cover the furnishing and equipment of the different offices. The contract was not awarded yesterday.

Forgot to Turn Off the Gas.

Hoboken, May 11—Esther Schoenwaller, a Danish young woman of Bloomfield, who entered the employ of Mrs. Jennie Schimer, of this city, as domestic two weeks ago, was found in bed early Wednesday morning overcome with gas. She was discovered by Mrs. Schimer, who smelled gas in her room. Dr. Peterson was summoned, and the young woman was taken to St. Mary's Hospital in a serious condition, but it is thought that she will recover. Before retiring Tuesday night Miss Schoenwaller removed the gas stove from the range and removed the tube, forgetting to turn off the gas. She slept in a room adjoining the kitchen. The fumes of the escaping gas filled the house, entering the upper room occupied by Mrs. Schimer.

IT IS FOR LADIES, TOO.

They Can Stop Their Hair Falling Out With Herpicide.

Ladies who have thin hair and whose hair is falling out, can prevent the hair falling out, and thicken the growth, with Newbro's "Herpicide." Besides, Herpicide is one of the most agreeable hair dressings there is. Herpicide kills the dandruff germ that eats the hair off at the root. After the germ is destroyed, the root will shoot up, and the hair grow long as ever. Even a sample will convince any lady that Newbro's Herpicide is an indispensable toilet requisite. It contains no oil or grease, it will not stain or dye. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

Charles Klein's play, "The Lion and the Mouse," which is now in its seventh month at the Lyceum theatre, New York, will have its first presentation in London at the Duke of York's theatre on May 21 under the direction of Charles Frohman and Henry B. Harris with a company that includes Edmund Breese, Margaret Illington, Richard Bennett, Marguerite St. John, Frank Burbeck, Harry Harwood, Elaine Foster, Louise Sydmeth and Walter Allen.

Henry B. Harris has received from Ben Stern, manager of his Western "The Lion and the Mouse" company, the first account of the organization's escape from San Francisco on the morning of the earthquake.

The performance of "The Lion and the Mouse" at the Lyceum theatre realized for the California sufferers $2,002.50. Messrs. Daniel Frohman and Henry B. Harris donated the receipts, the members of the company and the attaches of the house their salaries and Charles Klein, the author of the play, his royalty. In addition Henry B. Harris arranged for a benefit to be given by the Western "The Lion and the Mouse" company now appearing at Los Angeles.

Following F. F. Proctor's usual policy, a powerful modern melodrama will be produced by his all-star players at the Fifth Avenue theatre, the week of May 7. He has selected Henry Arthur Jones' great play, "The Silver King," which will be presented in the usual scenic splendor. All the popular members of the splendid company will be in the cast, and several of the favorites will return. A. H. Van Buren will have an important part, and Wallace Erskine will play the title role. Walter Greene and Robert Cummings will also be in prominent parts, while Isabelle Evesson, Louise Randolph Mathilde Deshen and Miss Phillips will be seen to good advantage. Matinees will be given daily as usual.

Lyric: 42d street West of Broadway. Telephone, 1646 Bryant. Evenings at 8:15. Regular matinees Saturdays. Arnold Daly in "Arms and the Man" and "How He Lied to Her Husband," both comedies by Bernard Shaw.

Casino: Broadway and 39th street. Telephone, 1646 Bryant. Evenings at 8:15. Thursday and Saturday matinees. "The Social Whirl," a musical comedy by Charles F. Doty, Joseph Herbert, and Gustav Kerker. Cast includes Adele Ritchie, Joseph Coyne, Ross and Fenton, Maude Raymond, Frederic Bond, Ada Lewis and 100 others.

Princess: Broadway and 29th street. Telephone, 2848 Madison. Evenings at 8:15. Best seats $1.00 at Tuesday and Thursday matinees. Regular matinees Saturdays. Henry Woodruff in "Brown of Harvard," a college comedy by Rida Johnson Young.

Majestic: Broadway and Grand Circle. Telephone, 3500 Columbus. Evenings at 7:15. Best seats $1.00 at all performances. Matinees Wednesdays and Saturdays. De Wolf Hopper, with Marguerite Clark, in "Happyland," a comic opera by Frederic Ranken and Reginald De Koven.

The Hippodrome.

"The show that makes every other show look like a side show" is the trenchant criticism of the New York World in speaking of "A Society Circus" at the New York Hippodrome, the costliest and most magnificent production ever yielded by any stage either in modern or ancient theatricals. This sentiment is voiced by every spectator who has visited the nations' playhouse. Including as it does the best of all that is entertaining, the programme arranged by Thompson & Dundy is impossible of duplication. It affords three hours and a quarter of drama, opera and circus. The last mentioned portion of the bill presents the world's champion artists seen for the first time in America on the Hippodrome stage. They are the highest salaried specialists before the public today, and their feats excite the wonderment of all. The gorgeous ballet, the "Song of the Flowers," and the beautiful aquatic tableau. The Court of the Golden Fountains, and the herd of plunging horses remain intact. Matinees are given daily.

Measures Against San Jose Scale.

Chatham, May 11.—Active measures against the San Jose scale have been taken by many property owners of this section of the State since the recent agitation was started, and more than 500 trees have been chemically treated to forestall the ravages of the pest. Albion S. Page was the pioneer in the movement, practically every tree on the old Page estate at Stanley subject to attack of the scale having been treated. The matter was brought before the borough of Chatham recently, and it is probable that something will be done to preserve the many shade trees here.

Edward Tomlinson Recovering.

Edward M. Tomlinson, who was operated upon for appendicitis at the hospital on Monday, is recovering his strength rapidly. The operation was successful in every way. The case had an unusual feature in the fact that one of the two physicians who performed the operation was a brother of the patient, Dr. R. D. Tomlinson. The other physician was Dr. Carman.

THE SPENDERS

By HARRY LEON WILSON

Copyright, by Lothrop Publishing Company.

The secret cause of his subsequent determination not to propose for the hand of Miss Bines lay in the hopelessly middle-class leanings of the lady who might have incurred the supreme honor of becoming his mother-in-law. Had Mrs. Bines been above talking to low people, a catastrophe might have been averted. But Mrs. Bines was not above it. She was quite unable to repress a vulgar interest in the menials that served her.

She knew the butler's life history two days after she had ceased to be afraid of him. She knew the distressing family affairs of the maids; how many were the ignoble progeny of the elevator man, and what his plebeian wife did for their croup; how much rent the hall-boy's low-born father paid for his mean two-story dwelling in Jersey City; and how many hours a day or night the debased scrub-women devoted to their unrefining toil.

Brazenly, too, she held converse with Philippe, the active and voluble Alsatian who served her when she chose to dine in the public restaurant instead of at her own private table. Philippe acquainted her with the joys and griefs of his difficult profession. There were 14,000 waiters in New York, if, by waiters, you meant anyone. Of course there were not so many like Philippe, men of the world who had served their time as assistants and their three years as sub-waiters; men who spoke English, French and German, who knew something of cooking, how to dress a salad, and how to carve. Only such, it appeared, could be members of the exclusive Geneva club that procured a place for you when you were idle, and paid you eight dollars a week when you were sick.

Having the qualifications, one could earn $2) a month in salary, and three or four times as much in gratuities. Philippe's income was never less than $120 a month; for was he not one who had come from Europe as a master, after two seasons at Paris, where a man acquires his polish—his perfection of manner, his finish, his grace? Philippe could never enough prize that post-graduate course at the Maison d'Or, where he had personally known—madame might not believe it—the incomparable Casmir, a chef who served two generations of epicures, princes, kings, statesmen, traveling Americans—all the truly great.

With his own lips Casmir had told him, Philippe, of the occasion when Dumas, pere, had invited him to dinner that they might discuss the esoterics of salad dressing and sauces; also of the time when Marquis de St. Georges embraced Casmir for inventing the precious soup that afterwards became famous as Postage Germine. And now the skilled and puissant Casmir had retired. It was a calamity. The Maison d'Or—Paris—would no longer be what they had been.

For that matter, since one must live, Philippe preferred it to be in America, for in no other country could an adept acquire so much money. And Philippe knew the whole dining world. With Celine and the baby, Paul, Philippe dwelt in an apartment that would really amaze madame by its appointments of luxury, in East Thirty-eighth street, and only the four flights to climb. And Paul was three, the largest for his age, quite the largest, that either Philippe or Celine had ever beheld. Even the brother of Celine and his wife, who had a restaurant of their own—serving the table d'hote at two and one-half francs the plate, with wine—even these swore they had never seen an infant so big, for his years, as Paul.

And so Mrs. Bines grew actually to feel an interest in the creature and his wretched affairs, and even fell into the deplorable habit of saying: "I must come to see you and your wife and Paul some pleasant day, Philippe," and Philippe, being a man of the world, thought none the less of her for believing that she did not mean it.

Yet it befell on an afternoon that Mrs. Bines found herself in a populous side-street, driving home from a visit to the rheumatic scrub-woman who had now to be supported by the papers her miserable offspring sold. Mrs. Bines had never seen so many children as flooded this street. She wondered if an orphan asylum were in the neighborhood. And though the day was pleasantly warm, she decided that there were about her at least a thousand cases of incipient pneumonia, for not one child in five had on a hat. They raged and dashed and rippled from curb to curb so that they might have made her think of a swift mountain torrent at the bottom of a gloomy canyon, but that the worthy woman was too literal-minded for such fancies. She only warned the man to drive slowly.

And then by a street sign she saw that she was near the home of Philippe. It was three o'clock, and he would be resting from his work. The man found the number. The waves parted and piled themselves on either side in hushed wonder as she entered the hallway and searched for the name on the little cards under the bells. She had never known the surname, and on two of the cards "Ph." appeared. She rang one of the bells, the door mysteriously opened with a repeated double click, and she began the toilsome climb. The waves of children fell together behind her in turbulent play again.

At the top she breathed a moment and then knocked at a door before her. A voice within called:

"Entrez!" and Mrs. Bines opened the door.

It was the tiny kitchen of Philippe. Philippe, himself, in shirt-sleeves, sat in a chair tilted back close to the gas range, the Courier des Etats Unis in his hands and Paul on his lap. Celine ironed the bosom of a gentleman's white shirt on an ironing board supported by the backs of two chairs.

Hemmed in the corner by this board and by the gas range, seated at a table covered by the oilcloth that simulates the marble of Italy's most famous quarry, sat, undoubtedly, Baron Ronault de Pailiac. A steaming plate of spaghetti a la Italien was before him, to his left a large bowl of salad, to his right a bottle of red wine.

MRS. APPLEGATE WELL AGAIN!
"I have had a bruised leg and foot for several years, caused by the brass eyelets of my shoe, which became very sore and painful especially at night. It itched, burned and ached me till it nearly set me crazy. I used everything I found and was suggested to ease it and nothing gave me any relief till I found and applied Azienza Cream which I think is a wonderful remedy for all sores and inflammation of the skin. The hard knots on my legs were as painful as bee stings, with discolored and purple spots. A running sore on my instep size of a half-dollar; the top of my foot a seething sore clean around to my heel. The bone was sore for a whole year and very painful. I used five and one-half jars of Azienza Cream and healed the sore all up. The foot remained tender and I continued to use to strengthen and toughen the skin until now it is entirely well." A Hint to Perkins.

Another matter of interest in Union County politics is reported from Westfield, where it is said that Assemblyman Perkins, who is also Mayor of the town, will not be a candidate for renomination as chief executive of the municipality, because he prefers to remain an Assemblyman and he feels that it would be folly for him to run for two offices on the same ticket. Some friend of Mr. Perkins should whisper in his ear that if he has a cinch on the Mayorality he had better take it, as the old saying that a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush will hold good during the approaching campaign in Union county and some other parts of New Jersey.—Newark News.

Anent the Denial.

That denial by Governor Stokes that he had offered a job to Judge William N. Runyon, of Plainfield, has now been explained. It has developed that the tempting bait set before the judge by the chairman of the Union County Republican Committee was not considered a legal tender by the Governor.—Newark News.

BOROUGH SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLANT AT $130,000

Engineer's Report Favorably Received By North Plainfield Councilmen.

COMMITTEE TO ACT

Special Meeting of Borough Fathers on May 25 to Consider Committee's Resolution.

According to a supplementary report submitted by Engineer George H. Pierson at last night's adjourned meeting of the Borough Council, it will cost $130,000 to build an independent sewer system for North Plainfield, but $17,000 less than the outlay for the city system. The figures were prepared because of the fact that the terms suggested by the Plainfield committee for connecting with its plant, are not satisfactory, and the independent proposal beds seem the least expensive plan. The engineer has been constantly going over the ground and when the City Council sent its reply to Mayor Smalley's letter in regard to uniting, he prepared the following statement:

To the Honorable Mayor and Common Council, North Plainfield, N. J.

Gentlemen:

It is regrettable that the communication from your borough to the city of Plainfield, asking for terms for the privilege of pumping the North Plainfield sewage into the Plainfield beds, was not answered in a more specific manner.

Until the receipt of this communication, I have been strongly under the impression that such terms would be offered as would show the proposed pumping plant to be the cheapest and probably the most desirable for your purposes. From figures of public record, the following statement is compiled which seems to go far toward showing that borough ownership and operation of purification work, will affect a considerable saving in yearly operations (as compared with the pumping plan) and add a substantial amount to the borough valuations.

Estimated cost of Plainfield purification plant and a certain portion of the 24 inch outfall sewer leading thereto:

Cost of real estate	$ 22,000
Excavation, embankment, etc., preparing beds	10,000
First series septic tanks and beds	40,000
Second series septic tanks and beds	52,000
24 inch outfall sewer	23,000
Total	$147,000
Interest on outlay	8,820
Salary account and yearly maintenance	2,600
Total	$ 11,420

Estimated amount of sewage matter treated in Plainfield beds, 900,000 gallons daily.

Estimated amount of sewage matter which would be pumped by North Plainfield into Plainfield beds, 300,000 gallons daily.

In accordance with the terms of proportions suggested in communication, one-fourth of interest charged and operating expenses will be annually $2,855 to which should be added the annual cost of pumping 300,000 gallons of sewage matter, say $1,500, making the total annual cost $4,355.

Should this amount be capitalized and added to the estimated cost of pumping system and sewers, you would be paying the interest on $200,000 for the pumping privilege.

According to the data submitted tonight upon the revised plant, which provides for sewers in all streets where water pipes are laid, and outfall sewer leading to purification beds, fifteen and eighteen inches in diameter, the necessary real estate, rights of way, etc., the total cost will be $130,000, showing that the borough will save the interest on, say $50,000, by building and operating a purification plant. This plant can be built where no objection will be raised as to location, where the necessary filtering material for the beds will not have to be purchased, where an asset in real estate will be added to your valuation and where sufficient area exists to provide for all future requirements for your borough and your neighbors.

A change has been made in the location of the outfall sewer, resulting from recent surveys and suggestions made by your honorable mayor, which have eliminated the vexed questions of cost of right of way, and how to evade a large outlay necessitated by deep cutings.

The plan as now presented is free from an engineering difficulties, the

TRUCK HORSE KILLED IN POTTER PLANT YARDS

STRUCK BY SMALL FLAT CAR PROPELLED BY APPRENTICE BOYS.

John Harding, George Gulick and Duncan Patterson, apprentice boys at the Potter Press works, caused the death of a truck horse in an odd manner at the shop yard, yesterday noon.

The three had finished dinner and were having a little fun by running a small flat car, used for carrying heavy castings around the grounds, up and down its track. While they were hid from sight by a corner of the main factory, George Huff, of Dunellen, drove into the yard for some materials and thinking the car would not bei n use at the noon hour, started to cross the rails. Just at that moment the heavy vehicle bearing the boys swung into view and struck the horse, knocking it down and breaking one of its legs. A veterinary was called but after a glance at the animal he ordered it shot.

The horse was worth about $150 and as soon as the accident was reported at the shop office, Huff was given a check in payment for the damage.

CO. BAR ASSOCIATION ENDORSES APPOINTEES

LAWYERS COMMEND GOVERNOR FOR NAMING ATWATER AND SWIFT.

Union County's Bar Association this morning endorsed the Governor's action in elevating Judge Benjamin Vail to the Circuit Court; Judge Edward S. Atwater to the county judgeship, and Lawyer C. Addison Swift to the District Court.

Corporation Counsel Crag A. Marsh, of this city, was in the chair as president. Resolutions were passed approving of Stokes' nominations and these will be forwarded to Trenton.

The appointments of Judge Atwater and Judge Swift were announced yesterday afternoon. They will assume their new duties at once.

In the Borough Court.

A neighborhood quarrel on upper Harrison avenue resulted in Mrs. George Newton, Herman Parsch and James Reagan appearing before Mayor Smalley in the borough court last night. Mrs. Newton charged Parsch with disorderly conduct, Parsch entered complaint against Mrs. Newton for allowing dogs to trespass on his property and Reagan preferred complaint against Mrs. Newton for sicking the same dogs on his cows. All hands got a good talking to and some wholesome advice as to how to leave each other alone after which sentence was suspended.

AGAINST CONSOLIDATION

Borough Council's Committee Declares It Impracticable Without Annexation.

SUBMIT RESOLUTION

Board of Trade's Proposition Adversely Acted Upon By North Plainfield Council—No Action by Plainfield Yet.

"Consolidation without annexation is impracticable" is the opinion of the North Plainfield council committee appointed by Mayor Smalley to consider the request from the Board of Trade to appoint a permanent committee to discuss the subject with a similar committee from the City Council. The members had thought over the proposition in the past week and their conclusion was contained in the following report presented at last night's adjourned session:

"In the opinion of the committee, consolidation of the two municipalities without annexation of the territory is impracticable and we therefore think that an appointment of a committee and subsequent conference, therefore, as suggested by the communication, is at this time unnecessary."

The remaining members of the council seemed to think that the report covered the ground properly for there was practically no comment when it was read. Mr. Van Arsdale made a motion that it be laid on the table but it was not seconded. Mayor Smalley called for a vote on its acceptance and it went through.

When the same request was made of the City Council by the Board of Trade, the matter was left to the Public Affairs committee and nothing has been heard from it since.

OSHKOSH SIMPLY GREAT

Club's Comic Show One of the Best Amateur Productions Ever Given Here.

BARRELS OF FUN

Lyrics and Libretto by Joseph Shellabarger; Orchestration by W. E. McClymont—Many Performers Score.

Bigger and better than last year, the Oshkosh show pleased a full house at its opening performance at the Casino last night. Judge Runyon, Ray McGee, Clifford McGee, James Dodd, E. E. Runyon, George Schoomaker and the other familiar Oshkoshites, pick of Plainfield's amateur fun-making and vocal talent, won new laurels for chaplets already large enough to overweight less broad and expansive brows.

The show was the most sustained and connected of the three Oshkosh presentations. There was a shadow of a plot solid enough to be discerned without a microscope. It was replete with lively humor, taking verses, good dances and features. It was verly largely, almost wholly, a Shellebarger composition. Joseph M. Shellebarger, who has always been a large factor in Oshkosh affairs, was so large a one in the preparation of this year's show as to overshadow the rest of the townsmen. He wrote all but one of the lyrics and every line of the libretto. The music for the most part, was a skilful selection of new airs. William E. MacClymont is responsible for the orchestration. Mr. Shellebarger, waving the ornate baton presented to him by the admiring Oshkoshites, conducted the singing and directed the dancing.

The show was well staged. New and handsome scenes were used, with some taking effects in lighting. There was an unusually rich variety of costumes; no less than 150 figured in the different scenes.

The incidents of the show revolve about a trip of three of the Oshkosh councilmen to New York, on a search for culture and the latest wrinkles in government with which to raise the tone of Oshkosh. The opening scene is laid in the Oshkosh council room. The women of the Oshkosh Culture Club have made up a fund for the culture-gathering trip, and Councilmen William N. Runyon, Clifford McGee and Elmer E. Runyon have been chosen to go agathering. The rest of the council, W. L. Rightter, Owen Fleming, Willard Wadsworth, Arthur Masters, James Dodd, Ray McGee and George F. Schoonmaker, join them in a tuneful song about it. The women file in to hand over the coin and some good advice, and to sing their little song. Harry Butler, soloist, and L. A. Williams, J. Whitney Baker, Arthur Peck, George Dupee, Roy Cox and Edward Peck, make up as angular and unlovely females very unsuccessfully. The scene closes with a duet between Judge Runyon and Mr. Butler, supported by the chorus.

Scene two shifts the action to Broadway. Fred Goddard, Lawrence Tweedy, William Tyler, Morris Dumont, Carroll Runyon and Charles Barlow, six very athletic and trim cabbies, carol the opening. The Oshkosh trio amble to their clurches and promptly lose their grips. Harold Scott, rigged as a "Seeing New York" man, floats in about this time and takes away the rest of their valuables. Then he shunts them on a whirl about the city.

The usual comic opera round, with a new touch here and there, follows. They see Central Park, where Edward Daniels, John Valiant, Tracy Howard, Howard Craig, Arthur Wills, William Glenney, Lester Slocum and William Douglass sing a monkey song. They are steered through the museum of art, where five of the statutes, Henry McGee, Cecil Lyon, G. S. Ring, Charles Dupee and H. B. Lovell, do a graceful dance and some clever posing.

In a Childs restaurant the head waitress, who is James Dodd when in ordinary attire, sings a solo and executes a number of lively steps, supported by Fred Goddard, Edward Peck, Roy Cox, J. Whitney Baker, L. A. Williams and H. E. Butler. Back in Central Park, Ray McGee sings a solo, supported by the whole chorus.

Act two opens in a Bowery lodging house, where a lot of funny business is played up. The Oshkosh trio and their guide sing a Rube song that has a few local hits on the commuter and the Carnival in it. Once more in a sylvan park glade, Willard Wadsworth sings "Moon, Dear," with clever lighting features, supported by Charles Barlow, Arthur Peck, Cecil Lyon, Arthur Masters, J. Whitney Baker, L. A. Williams, Roy Cox, H. E. Butler, Edward Peck and H. L. McGee. In the same glade, moonless and still, George F. Schoonmaker, Ray McGee and James Dodd sing a cracksman's song in praise of jail. Last night they threw in some very taking business before the

P. S. C. AGREES TO REDUCE ITS RATES FOR BOTH GAS AND ELECTRIC LIGHT

Plainfield Protective Association Wins After Friendly Conference With President Mc Carter.

CONSUMERS TO PROFIT

Electricity to Be 12 Cents After May 1 and by 1910 to Be 10 cents; Gas to Be $1.15 Jan. 1 and $1.00 by 1909.

Victory in the crusade for lower rates from the Public Service Corporation for gas and electric light service was announced by the Plainfield Protective Association today. Substantial reductions have been granted, with expressions of good will that promise a lovely and peaceful intercourse between the P. S. C. and the consumer in the future.

The following letter from President Thomas N. McCarter, of the P. S. C., to R. Henry Depew, president of the P. P. A., which was made public this morning, apprised the leader of the consumers of the corporation's surrender and the benefits that went with it. In the letter Mr. McCarter makes the gas reduction provisional on the completion of the new pipe line,, but after it was despatched he waived the provision and agreed to make the first reduction date definitely from January 1, 1907.

The letter is as follows:

"Newark, N. J., May 8, 1906.

"Dear. Mr. Depew:

"Our Committee met this afternoon and thoroughly went over the Plainfield situation. It is a pleasure for me to say to you that they have approved of my recommendation with regard to the electric rates in Plainfield, namely, that as of May 1 the base rate for electricity in Plainfield shall be made 12 cents with the understanding that on the first day of January, 1908, it shall be reduced to 11 cents, and on the first of January, 1910, to the ultimate rate of 10 cents.

"With regard to the request of your Committee for reduction in the price of gas because of the pipe line from Camden, while we have not been able to fully meet your wishes, we are willing to make a substantial concession over the reductions already announced. I am authorized to say that beginning January 1 next —or as soon thereafter as the pipe line is in operation—we will make the price of gas in Plainfield $1.15 net, for two years, and that on January 1, 1909, we will reduce the price to $1.00 net.

"This is all done upon the assurance of friendly co-operation so freely offered last night, and I hope it will be the beginning of an era of good-feeling between ourselves, your association, and the citizens of Plainfield generally.

"Yours very truly,
(Signed) "Thos. N. McCarter,
"President."

The meeting of the committee to which Mr. McCarter refers was held the afternoon following the conference between the executive committee of the Protective Association and President McCarter and other P. S. C. officials at the Casino. The meeting was secret, but the P. P. A. officers said, after it was over, that there was every reason to look for an adjustment of all the differences between the consumers and the corporation.

The results have been achieved in quick time. The P. P. A. is only about three months old, and not more than three public meetings have been held. Its strength has been out of all proportion to its age. President Depew found the consumers ready and anxious for organization and battle, especially the heaviest users of light among householders. Men like C. J. Fisk, L. V. F. Randolph, Councilman W. S. Tyler and Former Councilman J. M. Whiton rallied to the standard at the first call, and the P. S. C. found itself faced by a strong and determined battle line from the start. Steps were taken to employ experts on gas and electric light service, and plans for a war, if it became necessary, were made.

Not long after the association assumed permanent form, the P. S. C. expressed a willingness to meet its representatives in friendly conference to seek a basis of adjustment for all the difficulties. The offer was met in a friendly spirit, and the conference at the Casino resulted. The P. S. C. men were affable and

COLLEGE SCHOLARSHIP FOR P. H. S. GRADUATES

FREE TUITION IN NEW YORK UNIVERSITY OFFERED.

According to the precedent of a number of years, Chancellor Henry M. McCracken, of New York University, has sent to the principal of the Plainfield High School two prize scholarships, one good for four years' tuition in the New York University College of Arts and Pure Sciences, the other good for the freshman year's tuition in the New York University School of Applied Science. These scholarships are worth respectively $400 and $125. The condition of award requires that the students who receive them must rank in the first third of the graduating class.

Rutgers College has recently sent out circulars descriptive of scholarships open to students who enter Rutgers in the classical and in the scientific courses. These scholarships are worth $120 a year. The appointees to these scholarships are determined by a competitive examination to be held at the Court House in Elizabeth on the 2nd day of June.

HAND CAMP, S. OF A. MAY BE RE-ORGANIZED

CALL TO BE ISSUED WITHIN A FEW DAYS TO TAKE ACTION.

Although to all intent and purposes John Hand Camp, No. 28, Sons of Veterans, had been dead for two or three years, there is a possibility that the organization will purchase some elixir of life and get together again in the near future. Several of the members met a few days ago and in talking over the old days expressed the hope that a re-organization be effected. Within a short time a call will be issued for a meeting and it is hoped that a sufficient number will respond to revive the camp.

A peculiar feature about the erstwhile organization is that it is only the lack of interest that has caused it to cease to exist. The camp has a substantial bank account and is well able to meet its expenses and pay its way. It has been nearly three years since the camp held a meeting and while it is supposed not to be in existence the charter has never been recalled by the State department of the organization because of the failure to pay its per capita tax.

Former members of the organization have repeatedly received letters from department officers urging that the camp be re-organized, but nothing has been done. There is plenty of material here for one of the strongest camps in the State and if conducted along right lines would be a successful one. There will be a conference in a few days and then a date will be set for a meeting to which all of the old members will be invited. It will then be decided what action to take, whether to re-organize the camp or disband it entirely and wind up all the business affairs.

Plainfield Council Entertain.

The regular meeting of Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, was enlivened on Thursday night by Will Lyle with songs, stories and banjo solos, and by Brother F. C. Grice, of Fraternity Council, Brooklyn, with songs, recitations and impersonations, Mr. Grice being assisted by Andrew G. Carpenter at the piano.

Adjourned Meeting May 21.

There will be an adjourned meeting of the Common Council on Monday night, May 21, when Chairman Leslie M. Daniel, of the finance committee, will introduce several matters for action. Owing to the great amount of business at the regular meeting a week ago, Mr. Daniel decided to ask for an adjourned session.

New Vaults Have Arrived.

The vaults for The Plainfield Trust Company building have arrived and are being put in the new building on Park avenue by William Hand & Sons. The interior of the building is now being completed rapidly and the company has hopes of getting possession by July.

Hearing at Night.

In the voluntary retirement from the Union County Board of Elections of John W. Murray, Jr., of Plainfield, there will be the loss of one who gave valuable service to the public in the work which the board has to perform. Mr. Murray had served since the county boards were established, and he was faithful and competent to the highest degree. The Republican County Committee has selected Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., also of Plainfield, as his successor. He is a well-known member of the Union county bar, and has the qualifications to make a worthy successor of Mr. Murray, who is among the heartiest of his indorsers for the position. The County Board of Elections has important duties to perform, requiring men especially fitted for the work, and the nomination of Mr. Hetfield is looked upon a wisely made.—Elizabeth Journal.

FRANK J. BOCK, 800 BROAD STREET, NEWARK, N. J.

The biggest new idea in the National for May is embodied in Charles Ferguson's suggestion that the nation shall charter university-cities and allot them liberal shares of the arid lands now being made fertile by irrigation. With far-seeing swift sanity and glowing eloquence, Mr. Ferguson pleads for a chance here to show the world how to build at once scientific cities and useful universities. This article deserves and will doubtless receive close study.

Certainly the publishers are sparing neither effort nor money in placing before American boys the brightest, best, and most inspiring kind of literature. The May American Boy is simply filled with what boys want. Mr. Stratemeyer's new serial, "In Defense of His Flag," a splendid story of two boys fighting on opposite sides in the Civil War, begins in this number. Then there are three more chapters of Mr. Hawkes' fine animal story, "Shaggycoat;" the concluding chapters of "The Adventures of Joe and Dan;" "Four Boys in Camp," by J. L. Harbour; "Risen from the Dead," a story of the sea; "Daniel Boone," a fine story of that sturdy pioneer and Indian fighter; "The Bearding of the Lion," describing the great sea fight between Paul Jones on the Bon Homme Richard and the English war vessel, Serapis; "Why the Storks Build Their Nests on the Housetops," a humorous story in dialect; "The Bad Boy of the Sixth Grade," a school story, and the conclusion of "A French Frog and an American Eagle."

Perhaps the most important feature in the May Appleton's is a timely and authoritative article by Dr. Henry C. Rowland entitled "The Truth About Panama." Other special features are "The Morocco Conference," by Ion Perdicaris; "The Failure of the American Indian," by Francis E. Leupp, Commissioner of Indian Affairs; and a paper on "Modern Quarantine," by Dr. Alvah H. Doty, health office of the port of New York. "The Ironic Monte Carlo" is the title of on article by Ward Muir; and there is another installment of Rex E. Beach's "The Looting of Alaska." Frank S. Martin describes "The New Inland Sea in California," and Charles M. Harvey "The Industrial Transition of the United States." The fiction includes five short stories by such writers as Will Payne, James Branch Cabell, Arthur E. McFarlane, etc., and a serial, "In Cure of Her Soul," by F. J. Stimson. Nearly all the articles and stories are illustrated—most of the latter by prominent artists.

The fitting and furnishing of the room at the top of the house, which so often goes to waste as a mere attic or storeroom, is the subject of a delightful and well-illustrated article in the May number of Interior Decoration. This number also contains a most interesting article on the Schwab Palace on Riverside Drive. "The Treatment of Doors and Windows," "The Decoration of Chinese Interiors," "A Cure for the Curling Rug," "Interesting Old Wallpapers," "Some Famous Beds" and "The Care of Plants for the House," are some of the other well-written and beautifully-illustrated articles in this issue. The number costs ten cents and may be had from all newsdealers. It is published at 19 Union Square, New York city.

TO AILING WOMEN.

A Little Sound Advice Will Help Many a Sufferer in Plainfield.

No woman can be healthy and well if the kidneys are sick. Poisons that pass off in the urine when the kidneys are well are retained in the body when the kidneys are sick. Kidneys and bladder get inflamed and swollen, crowding the delicate female organs nearby and sometimes displacing them. This is the true cause of many bearing-down pains, lameness, backache, sideache, etc. Uric poisoning also causes headaches, dizzy spells, languor, nervousness and rheumatic pain.

When suffering so, try Doan's Kidney Pills, the remedy that cures sick kidneys. You will get better as the kidneys get better, and health will return when the kidneys are well. Let a Plainfield woman tell your about Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. M. Newman, of 536 West Third street, Plainfield, N. BOROUGH SEWAGE PLANT

low cost follows the light cuttings on the outfall sewer, and the elimination of the cost of filtering materials for the beds.

The study of specific grades on streets is not yet complete, and it is thought better not to commit these to the profiles until the levels have been checked.

The detailed plans for the purification plant cannot well be submitted until the location is defined.

It is not for me to recommend or argue for or against any plan which you may deem wise to adopt, but it is for me to feel considerable gratification at having worked out a practical plan, which if completed, will undoubtedly prove in a short time to be less burdensome than now appears, and one where the element of uncertainty, from year to year, is removed.

Yours very truly,
George H. Pierson.

When the report had been read, different parts were discussed at length by the members, the general opinion prevailing that the independent idea is the only one to follow out. Mayor Smalley freely expressed himself in this respect that it would be possible for North Plainfield to install a sewer system and beds, "far enough away from the people's residences" to avoid complaints and conduct it so successfully that other municipalities would want to use them.

The report was formally accepted and Messrs. Van Arsdale, Smith and McGee were appointed a committee to consider it in detail and offer a resolution either one way or the other at a special meeting of the council May 25.

AGREES TO REDUCE RATES

conciliatory and in the absence of anything like "corporation haughtiness," the P. P. A. committeemen readily met the Public Service representatives in a spirit that was entirely free from carping criticism, and as strongly marked by fairness and courtesy. An understanding was reached that seemed to promise the establishment of friendly relations between the corporation and the consumer, promise that the concessions granted will undoubtedly do much to realize.

In closing the circular letter by which he announces the reductions to the members of the association, Mr. Depew says in comment in the settlement:

"We trust that this arrangement will be satisfactory to you, and we feel that the friendly relations which have been established with the Public Service Corporation will result in mutual co-operation which will be of great benefit to yourselves and the people of Plainfield in general.

"We expect to have further conferences with the Public Service Corporation in regard to general and special conditions, and we will advise you of the result."

Mr. Rogers is now in possession of his factory in the East End of the city.

Broadway drop as an encore. The trio was the best thing of the evening.

In Huber's Museum, Mr. Scott sang of the high-salaried unfortunates, and the freaks went through their aces. The freaks: Owen Fleming, Arthur Peck, Charles Dupee, George Dupee, Charles Barlow, Fred Goddard and Lawrence Tweedy.

Broadway again. Enter the many-sided Dodd, Schoonmaker, Runyon and Ray McGee, as tough youths, carolling a medley, not so tough. They made a hit last night, and will do it again.

The show ends with a scene in Chinatown, the prettiest and most effective of them all. H. E. Butler leads a chorus of Celestials. His support includes Morris Dumont, Carroll Runyon, William Tyler, H. L. McGee, Fred Goddard and W. L. Righter. The usual medley of choruses winds up the show.

The singing was all good, the stage business scarcely an evidence of amateurishness about it, and there were no waits. There will be a matinee this afternoon, and the final performance will be given tonight. Advance sales of seats indicate full houses.

In addition to Mr. Shellebarger and Mr. MacClymont, the following have the business cares of the production on their minds:

George F. Schoonmaker, assistant leader; George S. King, treasurer and business manager; H. B. Lovell, secretary; W. N. Runyon, in charge of stage business; Owen Fleming, in charge of properties; Elmer Runyon and Morris Dumont, in charge of dressing room.

The ushers are O. G. Waring, T. R. Van Boscerck, L. G. Timpson and Howard Huntington. Morris Timpson, Kenneth Phillips and Kenneth Runyon are program boys. Maze Edwards, manager of the Casino, is in charge of the door, and Charles Steiner is in the box office.

NURSES GRADUATE NEXT THURSDAY NIGHT.

Annual Exercises of Muhlenberg's Training School Arranged.

Three women will be graduated from the Muhlenberg Hospital Training School at the exercises to be held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church on Thursday night, May 17. They are Miss L. A. Pallatschek, of New York; Miss Ethel M. Robins and Miss Kate Van D. Stryker, of Princeton Junction.

There will be the usual exercises in charge of William R. Cock, president of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital and the presentation of diplomas and graduating pins, to be followed with a reception to the graduates in the Sunday-school room. The public is invited to the graduation.

Brennan Acquitted.

Thomas Brennan, accused of hitting a horse with a hammer, was acquitted by a jury in Justice Hand's court this morning. The case was prosecuted by the S. P. C. A., on complaint of Mrs. Hoffman-Parker, owner of the horse. Col. Edwards, vice president of the society, conducted the prosecution, opposing Lawyer Clarence L. Murphy. Mrs. Hoffman-Parker alleged that the defendant, in driving her horse from his clover patch, beat the animal on the head with a hammer. The evidence did not support the charge.

Kieb—Van Buren Nuptials.

The marriage of Miss Ruby Gilbert Kieb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest C. Kieb, of Fanwood, and Laurens Hardy Van Buren, son of Mrs. Julia M. Vicars Stevenson, rector of the church, will perform the ceremony. An informal reception to the bridal party will follow at the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Launa M. Johnson.

of which 60 per cent. and cup to the winner, and 40 per cent. to the second horse. Weight, 160 lbs. Winner of the Middlesex Cup on May 30 to carry 10 lbs. extra. About three miles, over a fair hunting country.

Sixth race. Oak Tree Cup—Steeplechase for bona fide hunters. By subscription of $10, half forfeit; of which 60 per cent. and cup to the winner, and 40 per cent. to the second horse. Weight, 185 lbs.; half-breds allowed 12 lbs. The winner of the Hillside Cup on May 30 to carry 10 lbs. extra. About three miles, over a fair hunting country.

The Watchung Hunt Club has selected an unusually strong committee of stewards for the two days' meet. They are H. Temple Gwathmey, H. L. Herbert and Julian M. Gerard, of New York; Charles Pfizer, of Gladstone, and P. F. Collier, of Meadowbrook.

It has been arranged this year to have the steeplechases directly in front of the grandstand, where patrons can easily watch the jumps through the in-and-out pen and over the water. The course, a sporty one, will lead from inside of the track, up over the hills near the Steele residence, where there are a number of fences. Another feature will be that the races will be two and three miles, showing the true worth of a horse. Ben. LaVere's best band has been engaged for both days, assuring fine music.

WATCHER ALLEGED WORKMEN.

In So Doing Borough Servant Probably Prevented a Robbery.

Another borough resident has reported the visit of two alleged electrical workers at his home, in all probability intending to rob the place. They drove up to the door in a wagon and ringing the front door bell, told the servant who answered that they were after some tools they had left in the attic. She became suspicious of their actions, not remembering that anyone had been at work, and followed one soon after he went upstairs.

The fellow opened several doors on the second floor and then apologized, saying that he had made a mistake, and that the tools must be in some other room. Without going to the attic he observed that he must have been given the wrong address and then went downstairs and away.

This is the method that was employed in several recent instances where residences were robbed and the police warn all householders to admit no strangers, or if they do keep them in sight at all times.

Trace of Riordan's Pals.

Confirmation of Tommy Riordan's story of two accomplices in the horsestealing at New Market was obtained by Detective Oliver, of New Brunswick, in Pennsylvania yesterday. In Norristown and Sweetland, where Riordan said "Landy" and "Jonh Coleman" were waiting for him to join them with the proceeds of the robbery, Oliver discovered that men answering the description given by Riordan had been hanging about town. The men themselves could not be located.

Neighbors Quarrel.

Mrs. Maria Harding and Mrs. James Reagan, who live in the same house, 119 West Front street, aired a quarrel in the city court this morning, to the edification of the gallery and the disgust of Judge Runyon. Mrs. Reagan charged a variety of things against the defendant, from throwing pepper on the stove to sicking a dog on her. When the tale was told, Judge Runyon wearily dismissed the case. S. S. Swackhamer appeared for Mrs. Harding and J. P. Owens represented the plaintiff.

Funeral of Charles McCrea.

The funeral of A. Charles McCrea, the young son of Dr. and Mrs. A. C. McCrea, was held at the parents' home on Central avenue, yesterday afternoon. Rev. Dr. C. W. Parsons read the Twenty-third Psalm, the boy's favorite, Dr. Snodgrass, of Perth Amboy, offered prayer, and remarks were made by Dr. G. H. Whitney. The body was taken to Carlisle, Pa., for interment.

GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

John Philip Sousa's new military comic opera, "The Free Lance," has proved the notable success predicted for it before its New York premiere at the New Amsterdam theatre last week. It is the only genuine comic opera production presented in New York in many years. Its book, by Harry B. Smith, tells an interesting humorous story, and its lyrics, set to Sousa's beautiful airs and spirited marches, are undoubtedly the brightest verses this librettist has written in a long time. And Klaw & Erlanger have given the piece a magnificent mounting and fine cast, so that, in every feature, "The Free Lance" is proving wonderfully attractive to those who delight in refined fun, catchy music and brilliant ensembles. It fulfills every anticipation, which is in itself high praise.

Joseph Cawthorn has made a genuine hit in the role of "Siegmund Lump." In the opposite part, that of Griselda, the goose girl, Jeannette Lowrie has sprung into marked prominence as a comedian. Nella Bergen, as the prima donna, has several numbers which have been enthusiastically encored at every performance, notably "The Carrier Pigeon" song in the second act. The new march, "On to Victory," thrills every audience to cheers.

Sam Bernard and "The Rollicking Girl," Hattie Williams, are repeating their Herald Square theatre success at the New York, where the big musical show, unchanged in cast or stage equipment, is being presented at prices ranging from 25 cents to $1.00 for the best seats. Capacity audiences are the rule at every performance. Seats may be secured by mail or telegraph.

Florence Roberts, the emotianal actress from California, who made her New York debut in "The Strength of the Weak" at the Liberty theatre last Tuesday night, scored a metropolitan success which should place her among the leading feminine stars of the country. In "The Strength of the Weak," the new play by Alice M. Smith and Charlotte Thompson, sahe has many admirable opportunities to display ability as an emotional actress of exceptional merit. Miss Roberts will continue indefinitely at the Liberty theatre in "The Strength of the Weak," although a special matinee of D'Annunzio's "Giaconda" is announced for presentation during the coming two weeks. In connection with Miss Roberts' production of "Giaconda," it should be stated that she is the only actress who has ever played the D'Annunzio tragedy in English. Duse is the only other atcress who has ever played it in this country.

Verdict of $11,000 Against Roads.

Trenton, May 12.—The jury which hear dtestimony in the $25,000 damage suit of John K. I. Cody and his wife against the Pennsylvania and New Jersey Traction Company for injuries sustained by Mrs. Cody in a collision on the company's Princeton line brought in a verdict yesterday afternoon for $11,000—$10,000 to Mrs. Cody and $1,000 to the husband for the expenses and the loss which he says he has sustained by reason of the injuries to his wife.

Warena, Tex., Perhaps.

"Sis, what did Gen. Sherman say war was?"

"It isn't very nice, Willie, but he said it was hell."

"Would it be all right to call Helena, Ark., Warena, then?"—Denver Post.

To the Trustees of St. Stephen's Church, Park Ave. Baptist Church:

Gentlemen:

It's sound sense that we tell you. It will cost less dollars to paint your church with L. & M. Paint, because more painting is done with one gallon of L. & M. than with two gallons of other paints, and the L. & M. Zinc hardens the L. & M. White Lead and makes the L. & M. Paint wear like iron.

Any church will be given a liberal quantity free whenever they paint.

Four gallons L. & M. mixed with three gallons Linseed Oil will paint a moderate sized house.

Actual cost L. & M. about $1.20 per gallon.

J. E. Webb, Painter, Hickory, N. C., writes, "Houses painted with L. & M. fifteen years ago have not needed painting since."

SCIENCE PREVENTS BALDNESS.

The Fatal Germ and Its Remedy Now Facts of Science.

It is the rarest thing in the world for a man to be necessarily bald. No man whose hair is not dead at the roots, need be bald if he will use Newbro's Herpicide, the new scalp antiseptic. Herpicide destroys the germ that cuts the hair off at the root; and cleans the scalp of dandruff and leaves it in a perfectly healthy condition. Mr. Mannett, in the Maryland Block, Butte, Mont., was entirely bald. In less than a month Herpicide had removed the enemies of hair growth, and nature did its work by covering his head with thick hair an inch long, and in six weeks he had a normal suit of hair. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

THE SPENDERS

By HARRY LEON WILSON

Copyright, by Lothrop Publishing Company.

For a space of three seconds the entire party behaved as if it were being photographed under time-exposure. Philippe and the baby stared, motionless. Celine stared, resting no slight weight on the hot flat-iron. Baron Ronault de Palliac stared, his fork poised in mid-air and festooned with gay little streamers of spaghetti.

Then came smoke, the smell of scorching linen, and a cry of horror from Celine.

"Ah, la seule chemise blanche de Monsieur le Baron!"

The spell was broken. Philippe was on his feet, bowing effusively.

"Ah! it is Madame Bines. Je suis tres honore—I am very honored to welcome you, madame. It is madame, ma femme, Celine—and—Monsieur le Baron de Palliac—"

Philippe had turned with evident distress toward the latter. But Philippe was only a waiter, and had not behind him the centuries of schooling that enable a gentleman to remain a gentleman under adverse conditions.

Baron Ronault de Palliac arose with unruffled aplomb and favored the caller with his stateliest bow. He was at the moment a graceful and silencing rebuke to those who aver that manner and attire be interdependent. The baron's manner was less as to decorative qualities. One fitted to savor its exquisite finish would scarce have noted that above his waist the noble gentleman was clad in a single woolen undergarment of revolutionary red.

Or, if such a one had observed this trifling circumstance, he would, assuredly, have treated it as of no value to the moment; something to note, perhaps, and then gracefully to forget.

The baron's own behavior would have served as a model. One swift glance had shown him there was no way of instant retreat. That being impossible, none other was graceful; hence none other was to be considered. He permitted himself not even a glance at the shirt upon whose fair, defenseless bosom the iron of the overcome Celine had burned its cruel brown imprimature. Mrs. Bines had greeted him as he would have wished, unconscious, apparently, that there could be cause for embarrassment.

"Ah! madame," he said, handsomely, "you see me, I unfast with the fork. You see me here, I have envy of the simple life. I am content of to do it—comme ca—as that see you," waving in the direction of his unfinished repast. "All that magnificence of your grand hotel, there is not the why of it, the most big of the world, and suchly stupefying, with its 'infernal rackit' as you say. And of more—what droll of idea, enough curious, by example! to dwell with the good Philippe and his femme amiable. Their hotel is of the most littles, but I rest here very volunteerly since longtime. Is it that one can to comprehend liking the vast hotel American?"

"Monsieur le Baron lodges with us; we have so much of the chambers," ventured Celine.

"Monsieur le Baron wishes to retire to his apartment," said Philippe, raising the ironing-board. "Will madame be so good as to enter our petit salon at the front, n'est-ce-pas?"

The baron stepped forth from his corner and bowed himself graciously out.

"Madame, my compliments—and to the adorable Mlle. Bines! Au revoir, madame—to the soontime—avant peu—before little!"

On the farther side of his closed door Baron Ronault de Palliac swore—once. But the oath was one of the most awful that a Frenchman may utter in his native tongue: "Sacred Name of a Name!"

"But the baron wasn't done eating," protested Mrs. Bines.

"Ah, yes, madame!" replied Philippe. "Monsieur le Baron has consumed enough for now. Paul, mon enfant, ne touche pas la robe de madame! He is large, is he not, madame, as I have told you? A monster, yes?"

Mrs. Bines, stooping, took the limp and wide-eyed Paul in her arms. Whereupon he began to talk so fast to her in French that she set him quickly down again, with the slightly helpless air of one who had picked up an innocent-looking clock only to have the clanging alarm go suddenly off.

"Madame will honor our little salon," urged Philippe, opening the door and bowing low.

"Quel dommage!" sighed Celine, moving after them; "la seuel chemise blanche de Monsieur le Baron. Eh bien! il faut lui en acheter une autre!"

At dinner that evening Mrs. Bines related her adventure, to the unfeigned delight of her graceless son, and to the somewhat troubled amazement of her daughter.

"And, do you know," she ventured, "maybe he isn't a regular baron, after all!"

"Oh, I guess he's a regular one all right," said Percival; "only perhaps he hasn't worked at it much lately."

"But his sitting there eating in that—that shirt—" said his sister.

"My dear young woman, even the nobility are prey to climatic rigors; they are obliged, like the wretched low-born such as ourselves, to wear—pardon me—undergarments. Again, I understand from Mrs. Cadwallader here that the article in question was satisfactory and fit—red, I believe you say, Mrs. Terwilliger?"

"Awful red!" replied his mother—"and they call their parlor a saloon."

"And of necessity, even the noble have their moments of deshabille."

"They needn't eat their lunch that way," declared his sister.

"Is deshabille French for underclothes?" asked Mrs. Bines, struck by the word.

"Partly," answered her son.

"And the way that child of Philippe's jabbered French! It's wonderful how they can learn so young."

"They begin early, you know," Percival explained. "And as to our friend the baron, I'm ready to make book that sis doesn't see him again, except at a distance."

Some time afterward he computed the round sum he might have won if any such bets had been made; for his sister's list of suitors, to adopt his own lucent phrase, was thereafter "shy a baron."

CHAPTER XIV.

THE SUMMER CAMPAIGN IS PLANNED.

Winter waned and spring charmed the land into blossom. The city-pent, as we have intimated, must take this season largely on faith. If one can find a patch of ground naked of stone or asphalt one may feel the heart of the earth beat. But even now the shop windows are more inspiring. At least they copy the outer show. Tender-hued shirt-waists first push up their sprouts of arms through the winter furs and woolens, quite as the first violets out in the woodland thrust themselves up through the brown carpet of leaves. Then every window becomes a summery glade of lawn, tulle and chiffon, more lavish of tints, shades and combinations, indeed, than ever nature dared to be.

Outside, where the unspoiled earth begins, the blossoms are clouding the trees with a mist of pink and white, and the city dweller knows it from the bloom and foliage of these same windows.

Then it is that the spring "get away" urge is felt by each prisoner, by those able to obey it, and by those, alike, who must wear it down in the groomed and sophisticated wildness of the city parks.

On a morning late in May Mrs. Bines and her daughter were at breakfast.

"Isn't Percival coming?" asked his mother. "Everything will be cold."

"Can't say," Psyche answered. "I don't even know if he came in last night. But don't worry about cold things. You can't get them too cold for Perce at breakfast, nowadays. He takes a lot of ice water and a little something out of the decanter, and maybe some black coffee."

"Yes, and I'm sure it's bad for him. He doesn't look a bit healthy and hasn't since he quit eating breakfast. He used to be such a hearty eater at breakfast, steaks and bacon and chops and eggs and waffles. It was a sight to see him eat; and since he's quit taking anything but that cold stuff he's lost his color and his eyes don't look right. I know what he's got hold of—it's that 'no-breakfast' fad. I heard about it from Mrs. Baldridge when we came here last fall. I never did believe in it, either."

The object of her solicitude entered in dressing gown and slippers.

"I'm just telling Psyche that this no-breakfast fad is hurting your health, my son. Now do come and eat like you used to. You began to look bad as soon as you left off your breakfast. It's a silly fad, that's what it is. You can't tell me!"

The young man stared at his mother until he had mastered her meaning. Then he put both hands to his head and turned to the sideboard as if to conceal his emotion.

"That's it," he said, as he busied himself with a tall glass and the cracked ice. "It's that 'no-breakfast' fad. I didn't think you knew about it. The fact is," he continued, pouring out a measure of brandy, and directing the butler to open a bottle of soda, "we all eat too much. After a night of sound sleep we awaken refreshed and buoyant, all our forces replenished; thirsty, of course, but not hungry"—he sat down to the table and placed both hands again to his head—"and we have no need of food. Yet such is the force of custom that we deaden ourselves for the day by tanking up on coarse, loathsome stuff like bacon. Ugh! anyone would think, the way you two eat so early in the day, that you were a couple of cave-dwellers—the kind that always loaded up when they had a chance, because it might be a week before they got another."

He drained his glass and brightened visibly.

"Now, why not be reasonable?" he continued, pleadingly. "You know there is plenty of food. I have observed it being brought into town in huge wagon loads in the early morning on many occasions. Why do you want to eat it all at one sitting? No one's going to starve you. Why stupefy yourselves when, by a little nervy self-denial, you can remain as fresh and bright and clear headed as I am at this moment? Why doesn't a fire make its own escape, Mrs. Carstep-Jamwuddle?"

Piso At The Bar.

A Notable Victory in Court. Overwhelming Evidence as to Its Having Cured Consumption and Its Being the Most Marvelous Cough Remedy Known.

In these days of bombastic claims, fraudulent assertions and poisonous patent medicines it is a positive relief to find one that in its 50 years' of successes is able to produce hundreds of cured and grateful men and women ready to go on the stand and swear, under oath, that they have been cured by this remedy. And not from one town, one state or even one section, but from all parts of the U. S.

This suit was brought by the real PISO company of Warren, Pa., against a company calling itself the Pizo company, the latter seeking to profit by the 50 years' success and reputation of the real PISO company. After hearing the evidence the Court granted a permanent injunction and thus the Piso company triumphed in right and law just as it has been triumphing against disease for nearly half a century.

Amongst the many who gave voluntary evidence was:—

Bessie K. Black, of 119 Pierce street, Council Bluffs, Iowa, who stated that in September, 1891, she had a severe attack of pneumonia followed by abscesses on the lungs. These abscesses, which were undoubtedly cavities in the lungs, broke repeatedly and she coughed up a mass of putrid matter. Dr. ———, under whose care she was for nearly six months, did not seem able to check the disease. He telegraphed her father that she was in a deplorable condition and could not live a week and to come and get her.

She was taking beef, wine and iron, cod liver oil, etc. Dr. George, of College Springs, Iowa, where her father had taken her, changed the treatment, but without effect. On the contrary, she had several severe hemorrhages and the abscesses continued to break.

At this time she commenced the use of Piso and began steadily to improve; the cough grew less and easier, only one abscess formed, her appetite returned, she gained in flesh and strength, was able for the first time in months to leave her room and from that time on she steadily improved and got perfectly well of her trouble.

This is the kind of evidence that was given in mass by all sorts of people and is what is happening every day and has been happening for 50 years.

Your druggist keeps Piso's Cure and the cost is but 25c. a bottle. If you have a cough or cold, sore throat or hoarseness of any kind that nothing else will cure, try Piso's.

Send for "How Consumptives Ought to Live" today. Free. It will interest and instruct you. The Piso Co., 198 Piso building, Warren, Pa.

MRS. APPLEGATE WELL AGAIN!

"I have had a bruised leg and foot for several years, caused by the brass eyelets of my shoe, which became very sore and painful especially at night. It itched, burned and ached me till it nearly set me crazy. I used everything I found and was suggested to ease it and nothing gave me any relief till I found and applied Axienza Cream which I think is a wonderful remedy for all sores and inflammation of the skin. The hard knots on my legs were as painful as bee stings, with discolored and purple spots. A running sore on my instep size of a half-dollar; the top of my foot a seething sore clean around to my heel. The bone was sore for a whole year and very painful. I used five and one-half jars of Axienza Cream and healed the sore all up. The foot remained tender and I continued to use to strengthen and toughen the skin until now it is entirely well." "A sooty old flat got insolent quite
And made the clothes as black as night
The wife was quick to make a change
And now heats irons on her gas range."

DAINTY GARMENTS

To keep the dainty, washable garments looking fresh, good ironing is essential. Clothes well washed but poorly ironed are ready for the tub before they are worn.

Ironing is a tedious process when working in a hot kitchen. A gas range makes ironing easy for it heats the irons, not the house. Get a gas range to-day and spend the summer in comfort. Prices $9.50 to $15.00. $2.00 down $2.00 a month. Connections free.

FOZZY'S BASEBALL CHAT

Ten-year-old Johnny Jones at the supper table after reading the baseball extra.

"Say, mamma, they must have educated mosquitoes down Jersey City."

"What makes you think that Johnny?" asks the fond and attentive mamma.

"Why they play ball down there. They must be regular trained animals like the circus has."

"Nonsense Johnnie, mosquitoes can't play ball."

"Yes they do," answered back Johnnie. "I believe it because I read it in the paper. It said that the Skeeters put up a rattling good game and beat Montreal."

This was inspired by a hair-raising narrative by J. Percival Hall, of North avenue, last night. Of course it isn't real because it was a dream that "Jack" went through two weeks ago without pulling in his sails.

It was like this. Jack was travelling in a far off country and at twilight lay down under a tree to sleep. When the night-mare bird began to warble Jack says he remembered being accosted by a giant who measured about seven feet high, from the sole of his foot to the crown of his noddle box.

"Well-my friend," said he to Jack, "are you an admirer of the national game?"

"I should say I am," responded John Percival, "I would rather watch a good ball game than eat. Do they have ball games down here in this country?"

"Yea my young man, we have the greatest team in the world down here. We have a pitcher named Cy Stinger and Bill Biter is the catcher and Amos Bloodsucker plays the first bag. A great combination that can't be beaten. They always run away with the goods."

"That must surely be a peacherino of a team. Who are they and from whence do they come?" inquired Jack.

"Why they are the Alcazar Trained Mosquito Extravaganza ball players. If you have read up baseball any in your life you must have certainly heard of them."

"Not on my old Boynton Beach tintype," ejaculated Jack, who was getting suspicious. "I don't believe in any such yarn, that might go a few miles up Tewkesbury way, but not down here you can bet your jeans."

"My friend I take you to be a doubting Thomas. Look over yonder, over the placid waters of yon sylvan lake, here they come, Stinger, Biter and Bloodsucker, the rest of 'em will soon be along," assured the giant.

"I looked and thought I saw real mosquitoes about ten feet high carrying palm tree bats," said Jack. "I thought I heard Stinger say to Biter 'soak that fellow' looking at me, and then I woke up and discovered that I was still in the land of the Daabites.

That was a stunner of a dream, but it isn't half as bad as the one Willie Bockhurst Wiener, of the sauerkraut and cheese sandwich burg, Garwood, had last winter. Wiener, every fan will remember, was the fellow who went in the box for Plainfield against Westfield on one sultry afternoon last summer at Recreation Park.

Willie "Bockhurst" witnessed one of the world's championship games between New York and Philadelphia last summer. He came back home and dreamed he was fast enough to sail around with a big league team.

He hired himself out to an unsuspecting South Atlantic League manager. He arrived home last week with no explanations other than the walking south of Wilmington, Delaware, was pretty tough.

Never mind this setback Willie. Remember that Dickie Mansfield walked the ties before he was a star. It's all in the business.

Captain Tommy Barry will do his level best to bust the Plainfield "rep" this afternoon. Tommy has an idea that his band of Suburbans is the only real combination of ball tossers on the earth.

He should have some knowledge on the subject after the argument this afternoon.

Manager Murray has offered to farm out Handford to Manager Daab. Murray is pleased with the showing of the former Trenton Y. M. C. A. star but at the present time he has no room to use him.

Billy Keeler played ball in Elizabeth twenty years ago, according to the statistics of the sporting scribe of the Elizabeth Times. It must have been on a kid's team for Willie is only thirty-four.

Manager Dick Smith, of the Roeblings, which was formerly the Trenton Y. M. C. A. aggregation, wants to arrange a State championship series with Manager Daab. Smith wants to play here on the morning of July 4 and the afternoon game to be played at Trenton. Manager Daab has not yet given the matter definite thought and will probably bring the matter before the association.

Reardon will make his debut in the outfield this afternoon. He looks comely and may have the goods.

Willie Deegan had plans out two weeks ago to entertain the members of the team tonight at his Scotch Plains hostelry.

These baseball dreams are something horrible, worse than pipe dreams.

BISHOP OF INDIA COMING

Dr. Oldham a Noted Missionary to Speak in First M. E. Church Tomorrow.

HIS LIFE'S WORK

Something About the Man Who Is Missionary Bishop in South America—His Visit to America.

In celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Methodist missions in India, Bishop W. F. Oldham, of India, will speak at the First M. E. church tomorrow morning. Bishop Oldham has supervision of the South India and Malaysia Conferences and the Philippine Islands mission conferences, the three principal cities being Madras, Singapore and Manila respectively. His work in South India includes the principal Mohammedan region of India. Singapore, his Episcopal residence is at the South East corner of Asia, and is called the crossroads of the nations. Nearly forty languages are spoken by the pupils of Methodist schools in Singapore. Malaysia mission includes Methodist mission work in the great islands of Borneo, Sumatra and Java. Bishop Oldham has supervision of the rapidly growing work among the Filipinos, from among whom more than four thousand members have been enlisted within the last year.

Bishop William Fitzjames Oldham was born in the family of an English military officer in Bangalore, India, and is forty-nine years of age. As a young man he was a teacher and then a surveyor in the service of the Governor of India. He was converted in the revivals conducted by William Taylor from 1872 to 1875. Under the influence of Dr. James M. Thoburn he decided to become a missionary, and came to the United States in 1879 to complete his education. Having completed his course at Allegheny College, he entered Boston University for his theological training.

In 1883 Dr. Oldham was admitted on trial in Michigan Conference, transferred to India, and in November, 1884, Bishop Hurst, then presiding over South India Conference, appointed him as first missionary of the Malaysia Mission at Singapore, Straits Settlements. Here he labored as pastor of the English Church, as superintendent of the mission, and from February, 1887, as presiding elder of Burma District, until 1889, when poor health compelled his return to the United States. He was a charter member of Bengal Conference at its organization in January, 1888.

After his return to America Dr. Oldham became pastor in Albion, Mich., and later of Butler street church, Pittsburg, Pa. From 1895 to 1898 he was professor of Modern Missions in Ohio Wesleyan University, and at the same time pastor of St. Paul's church, Delaware, Ohio. In 1899 and 1900 he was pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Columbus, Ohio, when he was elected assistant secretary of the Missionary Society, which office he has filled during the past four years, making his headquarters in Chicago. A great feature of his work has been the promotion of the "Station Plan." His election as missionary Bishop for Southern Asia will now take him back to the land of his birth.

FATHER KELLY TO CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

FORMER PLAINFIELDER WILL HAVE BEEN PRIEST 25 YEARS ON JUNE 7.

On June 7 next the Rev. Charles J. Kelly, D. D., rector of Our Lady of Grace church, Hoboken, and a former Plainfield boy, will have completed his twenty-fifth year in the priesthood, the popular and energetic clergyman having been ordained at Seton Hall, where he studied for his calling, on June 7, 1881.

Father Kelly was educated in the schools in this city and he is remembered by a large number of local people who were his classmates. He is a nephew of Mrs. Mary Horan, of West Seventh street, and frequently comes to Plainfield to assist in services at St. Mary's church.

Although the ministerial paths of Father Kelly during the past quarter of a century have been strewn with roses of success, and his efforts to uplift mankind and minister unto the wants of the sick and poor has stamped him one of the foremost citizens of the State. He stated yesterday that he had no intention of celebrating the event in any public manner.

Immediately after his ordination at Seton Hall, Father Kelly was appointed assistant at St. Aloysius church, Newark, where he remained four years. In 1884 he was transferred to Jersey City as an assistant at St. Mary's church. There he made a brilliant record, it being through his instrumentality that the handsome clubhouse of the Catholic Club on Jersey avenue, was erected. He remained there for ten years, or until 1894, when he was appointed to the Church of Our Lady of Grace in Hoboken, to succeed the late Father Corrigan.

During his twelve years' pastorate in Hoboken numerous improvements have been made to the church property and the work of the parish increased to a much broader scope.

Father Kelly is always a busy man, his time being fully occupied in administering to the wants and needs of his congregation, which numbers close to 7,500 communicants, it being one of the largest parishes in the State.

Despite the fact that a greater part of his time is absorbed in duties connected with the parish, he is ever on the alert regarding public and municipal matters and has always shown a willingness to co-operate with all citizens and the masses in efforts to accomplish any public good. To Father Kelly belongs the praise and thanks of all respectable citizens for his denunciation of vice and immorality in Hoboken, which resulted in the police wiping out a number of disorderly resorts in the city. He was also in the thickest of the fight against the brewery and saloon interests when the agitation was being waged for the passage of the Bishops' bill before the Legislature.

A brilliant orator, broad-minded and liberal in his views, Father Kelly is held in high esteem and admiration by all who know him and many of his friends in this city entertain the hope that he will some day be elevated to the Bishopric.

Serving Papers On Town Clerk.

Accompanied by Counsellor I. P. Runyon, United States Marshal James H. Stewart, of Newark, went to New Providence this afternoon to serve papers on Town Clerk Robert G. Rogers, in the suit of Rolland M. Smyth, of New York, to recover $15,000 on old railroad bonds floated by the township. Marshal Stewart is a former Plainfielder, and before leaving Plainfield with Mr. Runyon on his way into the country he greeted an old acquaintance or two here.

L. H. VAN BUREN MARRIED

THRONG AT WEDDING

Ceremony in Grace Church—Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson Officiates—The Bridal Party.

Before a large and fashionable throng of society people, Miss Ruby Gilbert Kieb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Christopher Kieb, of Fanwood, and Laurens Hardy VanBuren, son of Mrs. Julia M. VanBuren, of Central avenue, were married at Grace church Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock, by Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of the church.

The bride was attended by Miss Nanon West, of Fanwood, as maid-of-honor; Miss Mary Wadsworth and Miss Margaret Leal, of Plainfield, as bridesmaids, and the Misses Marie Boles, cousin of the bride, and Edith Loomis, of Fanwood.

The best man was Elston M. French and the ushers, Edward M. VanBuren, brother of the groom; Ray Lefferts and James Helfenstein, cousins of the groom, and Douglas Cook, of New York; Marshall White, of Washington, who is the fiance of the maid-of-honor, and Norman Kieb, of Fanwood, brother of the bride.

The bride was gowned in a lace robe, trimmed with old lace, worn by the great-grandmother of the groom. She carried white sweet peas and orchids. The maid-of-honor and bridesmaids wore gowns of white Brussels net, trimmed with Valenciennes lace. They each carried muffs of smilax. The flower girls wore white organdie dresses and carried hats filled with spirea.

William E. MacClymont presided at the organ and rendered a programme of classical selections prior to the ceremony. As the bridal party entered the church the wedding march from Lohengrin was rendered. The ushers led the way, followed by the flower girls, bridesmaids, maid-of-honor and the bride, escorted by her father, who gave her away in marriage. The groom and his best man entered from the side of the church and met the party at the chancel. Following the ceremony the bride and groom led the way out of the church while the Mendelssohn wedding march was played.

The church was lavishly decorated about the chancel with palms, ferns, roses and potted plants, they being banked on either side of the aisle leading to the altar.

After the wedding a small reception was held at the home of the bride's parents just for the bridal party, and later Mr. and Mrs. VanBuren departed on a journey. Upon their return they will reside in Plainfield for the summer and in the fall will live in New York. Both the bride and groom are well known here in society circles. They are members of the Plainfield Country Club and have frequently taken active parts in social functions there and elsewhere. Mrs. VanBuren was handsomely remembered with gifts of great value and use.

Over 1,000 invitations were issued to the ceremony, guests being present from New York, Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Boston and many other distant points, as well as Plainfield.

OSHKOSH SHOW ENDS.

Big House Enjoyed the Closing Performance Saturday Night.

Another full house greeted the Oshkosh troupe at their closing performance Saturday night. In the afternoon, a good sized audience, in which women and children figured largely, attended the matinee.

There was no change in the programme. The tuneful numbers were received with as much favor as on the opening night.

Several bouquets were passed across the footlights Saturday night. H. E. Butler and Jimmy Dodd got nice posies, and Mrs. Harry B. Lovell, who was on the Oshkosh school board last year, sent big bunches of forget-me nots to her ex-fellow members, Judge Runyon and Elmer E. Runyon.

Davis, of Lakewood, N. J. The wedding will be a quiet one and will take place on Thursday, June 14, at the home of the bride's parents.

Week-end House Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Mac Clymont, of Woodbine avenue, entertained over Sunday Miss Schafer, of Trenton; Miss Vail, of Philadelphia; the Miss Cleover, of New York; Le Roy Moon, of Buffalo, and Frederick Clay Atwater, Jr., of Newark.

SAD HOME-COMING FOR GABRIEL PAOLI

MOTHER DIED AS HIS FOUR YEARS NAVAL SERVICE WAS OVER.

Within a few hours after her eldest son secured his honorable discharge from the U. S. navy and hurried home to receive a joyous welcome, Mrs. Lorenzo Paoli, of North avenue, died at her home Saturday evening. She had been ill since Monday with pneumonia and when it was seen that her condition was serious, telegrams were sent to the Brooklyn navy yard requesting that "her boy," Gabriel, whose four years' enlistment as a fireman on the Oregon were almost over, be allowed to come to her. The messages failed to reach him and he knew nothing of her condition until Saturday morning when his time was up and he started for Plainfield.

Mrs. Paoli had asked for him repeatedly and shortly before he arrived she sank into unconsciousness. Efforts to arouse her were futile and she passed away without knowing he had returned. The young man was almost heart-broken as he had decided to quit the navy because of the mother's objections and her wish that he might always be near her.

Mrs. Paoli had been a resident of Plainfield for a great many years and was especially well known in the vicinity of North avenue, where her husband's fruit store is located. She leaves seven children, of whom Gabriel and a married daughter, Mrs. DiLenardo, of Liberty street, are the oldest.

The funeral will be held from St. Mary's church tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock and interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

MR. AND MRS. PAFF, SR. 48 YEARS MARRIED

FORTY FRIENDS GIVE THEM A SURPRISE IN CELEBRATION.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Paff, Sr., who are numbered among Scotch Plains' oldest and best known residents, were tendered a "wedding reception" by forty friends, Saturday afternoon, in honor of the forty-eighth anniversary of their marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Paff had planned to celebrate the event by entertaining a few relatives at a supper but the latter opposed this for the purpose of arranging their own affair as a surprise. "Bride and groom" had not the slightest intimation of their coming but the gathering was none the less enjoyed. The afternoon was passed in reminiscent conversation and in the evening a supper was served. Friends were present from Scotch Plains, Plainfield, Somerville, Newark and Cranford.

Mr. and Mrs. Paff were married on May 12, 1858, at Hempstead, L. I., by Rev. Lorenzo D. Rushmore, pastor of the First Methodist church, the bride being the daughter of the late Robert Radford, of Plainfield. There were four of the original wedding guests at Saturday's affair, among them Mrs. Paff's mother, Mrs. Radford, of this city, who in spite of her eighty-five years is still active. Mr. and Mrs. Paff removed from Hempstead to Plainfield and later took up their residence at the Plains for the former to conduct the old Scotch Plains Inn. He gave up the hotel business ten years ago to entner the real estate field and is the pioneer in this line at the village. He still coaducts an office and attends to all the details.

Mr. and Mrs. Paff have one son, Thomas M. Faff, Jr., who lives at Scotch Plains, and a daughter, Mrs. Charles Grant, of this city.

Prevented a Serious Blaze.

Quite a scare was caused at the home of Robert Clark, Jr., of Jackson avenue, yesterday morning, by a fire in the kitchen. The domestic left a pan of grease on the range and during her absence in the dining room the grease ignited and blazed up, the flames spreading to a wooden mantle over the range. Fortunately Mr. Clark was at home and kept a cool head which, together with a pail of water judiciously applied, soon quenched what might have been a serious fire.

Dr. Carroll in India Jubilee.

Dr. H. K. Carroll, of Westervelt avenue, secretary of the general missionary board of the Methodist Episcopal church, took part in the India jubilee services held yesterday afternoon in Carnegie Hall, New York, to commemorate the fiftieth anniversary of the sending of missionaries to India.

John Walaleia arrested for vagrancy by Patrolman Stillwell Saturday night, was arraigned before Runyon this morning. Sentence was suspended.

BISHOP'S WORK IN INDIA

Dr. Oldham Describes Christianity's Progress in a British Possession.

RAISING A BIG FUND

Prelate Tells of Drawbacks in the Mission Field at First Methodist Episcopal Church Service.

In celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Methodist missions in India, Bishop William Fitzjames Oldham, who has been identified with the missions in India for many years, spoke in the First M. E. church yesterday morning to a large congregation. The event was generally observed in all Methodist churches throughout the country, yesterday, the desire being to raise a fund of $200,000 for the foreign work. The native Christians of India have agreed to raise $50,000 for the work if the Americans will raise $200,000. The sacrifice to do this can be realized when it is known that the natives of India receive eight cents a day for their labor.

Bishop Oldam talked chiefly of the civil and religious conditions in India and how Christianity raises the condition of the natives. Unconverted people receive 6½ cents a day, while the Christians get eight cents a day. The speaker said that caste is a great hinderance to the progress of Christianity in that country, for the high caste people realize that means a loss of their position. Mission work among the high caste is therefore very slow. But among the lower caste there is a great desire to learn about Christ. The natiyes are already appreciating the fact that the Christian women among the lower caste are far more intelligent than those of the higaer caste and this is having a good effect on the unconverted. Bishop Oldham likened the religious affairs of India to a pyramid, the high caste unconverted people being at the top, while the native Christians form the base. Without the substantial base the top would surely fall.

Bishop Oldham related a pathetic incident showing what the Hindu religion is. A poor Hindu woman lost a child by death and she grieved greatly over her loss. According to the custom she burned the dead body. A few days later a small dog came to her home and looked kindly at her. She immediately thought and believed that the canine was her dead child returned to life in the form of an animal.

The bishop spoke encouraging words about the mission work in India and urged with all the energy possible that the Methodist people of this country stand shoulder and shoulder in support of it until Christianity shall have reached every nook and corner of that country.

Bishop Oldham was entertained at dinner yesterday by James R. Joy and he left immediately afterwards for New York, where he was one of the principal speakers at a big jubilee meeting at 3 o'clock. Last night he addressed a similar meeting at Montclair.

Vail on New Bench.

Judge Benjamin Vail took his seat in the Circuit Court at Elizabeth this morning. The occasion was made noteworthy by the presence of a large bunch of American Beauty roses, the gift of the Union County Bar Association to Judge Vail. Congratulatory remarks were extended to Judge Vail, after which the court calendar was taken up. Judge E. S. Atwater, who was elevated to the position vacated by Judge Vail, presided in the District Court today, owing to the fact that he has not yet been sworn into office.

Little Thieves Arrested.

David Friedman, white, and George Blaney, colored, both nine years old, were arrested Saturday for stealing wire. They are confirmed little thieves, according to the police, and an effort is being made to have them put away. Both have been arrested before. The case was put off by Justice Mosher until Saturday morning, when Capt. Irwin, of the probation officer's staff, will bei n the city to hold the Children's court.

PLAINFIELD TO HAVE A DISTRICT COURT WITH WILLIAM NEWCORN AS THE JUDGE

DEATH COMES SUDDENLY TO MISS CLARA WEBER

SEEMINGLY IN PERFECT HEALTH IS STRICKEN WITH HEART FAILURE.

In the possession of what seemed perfect health, Miss Clara Weber, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Weber, of East Third street, was stricken with heart failure at an early hour yesterday morning and passed away within a few minutes. She had been in her father's market all Saturday evening in an exceptional happy mood and retired soon after midnight. At 1 o'clock she awoke her sister, Mrs. Lena Boe, telling her that she suffered great pain about the heart and asking that a physician be called. Dr. Pittis was hastily summoned but the girl breathed her last as he entered the room.

Miss Weber was twenty-three years old and has acquaintances were numbered by the hundreds in every part of the city. She had the happiest of dispositions and her presence at a social affair was always hailed with delight because of her readiness to entertain and her ability as an elocutionist. She was prominent in the gatherings and also took an active interest in the work at Faith chapel of which she was a member. The news of her death came as a distinct shock to relatives and friends and to many it seemed impossible, sickness having been foreign to her all her life. In respect to her memory the flag at Saengerbund Hall has been placed at half-mast and will be kept there for the same period as is held for the death of a member, a very unusual tribute.

The funeral will be held from the parents' home and will be strictly private.

Martin Wyckoff and I. R. Hatcher.

Juryman Childs is the retsaurant man and former State senator.

Prosecutor Reger opened the case for the prosecution.

Little Girls' Successful Sale.

The Seven C Club, composed of little girls residing on upper Watchung avenue and vicinity, conducted a very successful sale on the porch at Mrs. D. F. Ginna's home Saturday afternoon. They sold fancy articles, candy, ice cream and other things and netted $63 profit. The money will be divided between the New York Tribune's Fresh Air fund and the King's Daughters' baby camp. The members of the club who participated were Catherine Browne, Catherine Drayton, Catherine Yates, Catherine Ginna, Dorothy Parvin, Elizabeth Browne and Eleanore Iredell.

A Surprise Party.

About forty students from the Drake Business College gave Miss Mary Moser, a teacher in that institution, a surprise party on Saturday evening at her home on Central avenue. Besides the students there were a number of friends from New York and Jersey City. The evening was very pleasantly spent in games and music. After partaking of refreshments, the happy party with many congratulations departed to their homes.

Landlord Lost Suit.

Chis Becker lost his landlord and tenant suit against Samuel Levine, in Justice osher's court this morning. The tenant paid the rent for May in court, and the justice was compelled, under the law, to throw out Becker's claim for advance rent. Becker looked very weary when the court took its costs out of the May rent.

Gives Team a Dinner.

"Willie" Deegan, the popular baseball pitcher, entertained Manager Daab and the members of the Plainfield team at dinner at his hotel in Scotch Plains Saturday night.

Parade Will Start at 2 O'clock.

It has been arranged to start the carnival parade on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock instead of 3 o'clock as previously announced.

Attorney General Mc Carter to File Opinion on Law Which Makes Tribunal Mandatory.

LAWYERS FAVOR IT

Newcorn's Name to Be Presented by Ackerman—Fisk and Smith Favor Him for the Position.

Plainfield will have a district court immediately after Attorney General Robert H. McCarter files an opinion on the law with Governor Stokes. Former Assemblyman William Newcorn will be appointed to the berth. The salary is $1,200.

William Newcorn.

A representative of The Daily Press learned of the intended move this afternoon and it can be said on the best sort of authority that there will be no delay in making the appointment provided the law is found to be mandatory. Mr. Newcorn will get the endorsement of the city executive committee, of which former Mayor C. J. Fisk is chairman. He will also be supported by County Chairman Frank H. Smith.

Senator E. R. Ackerman will present the name of Mr. Newcorn to the Governor and it is not at all probable that there will be any opposition. No quarters have yet been selected for the court. It is thought, however, that either the Councilmanic chamber or the police court will be used temporarily. Who will be appointed clerk is undecided.

The act of the Legislature in question sets forth that all cities of over 17,000 population shall have a district court. If the Attorney General holds that the word "shall" makes the statute mandatory advantage of the law will be taken immediately.

Some months ago, The Daily Press published the views of lawyers on the necessity for such a tribunial. Almost without exception the barristers favored the scheme as advocated and their opinions as set forth at that time will be used to bring about the change.

The jurisdiction of the district judge is almost similar to that of a justice of the peace. The main advantage lies in the fact that a district court judge must be trained in the law.

Pape Had Five Chickens.

Patrolman McGinly saw William Pape, a German laborer, living at 208 Spooner avenue, carrying five chickens over his shoulder on Randolph road early yesterday morning. Pape has a bad reputation, and the officer placed him under arrest to give the authorities a chance to discover had he got the fowls. It was said this morning at headquarters that Pape acknowledged stealing the chickens. His case was put over by Justice Mosher until tomorrow morning.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

Louis Cerfici, a New Market Italian, has been committed to jail for debt on complaint of Casino Barone, who sued him for $15, the value of some ducks he claims Cerfici got away with. Cerfici refused to settle and was jailed by Justice Von Minden until he pays the amount due, $22.29, for the bill and costs. Some time ago Cerfici got into another dispute of this sort and dug up $100 he had in two boxes in his yard and paid the officer the amount due.

Steps to improve the Methodist parsonage have been taken. From plans prepared by Architect William Clum it appears that the work can be done with the money now in sight. Members of the church have volunteered to work on the house without charging and with their assistance the improvements can be made without incurring debt. A committee headed by the pastor is arranging for the work.

Plans for the entertainment of the delegates to the annual convention of the East New Jersey Baptist Association which will be held in New Market June 5, were discussed and partially outlined by the women of the Baptist church at a meeting Saturday afternoon.

There was an informal supper at the Lake House Saturday night. Turtle stew was the piece de resistance, and the goodly number of guests enjoyed the affair much. The turtle was a twenty-two pounder caught at "Bridge 28."

The claim growing out of the abandonment of the old plans for the $20,000 school has been settled with the architect by the township board building committee for $250.

John Smith, former assistant sec- the foreman at New Market for the Lehigh Valley Railroad, has moved to Bound Brook. He is working now for the P. and R. road.

George Apgar started to work in the Central Railroad's New York office today. Dr. Brakeley has not had time to secure a successor to him at the drug store.

Charles S. Day and George Day have qualified as executors of the estate of their mother, the late Mrs. Stanley Day.

Two hundred feet of new hose has been ordered for the fire department. The addition will make the total 900 feet.

The Epworth League will hold its monthly sociable Thursday night. The affair will take place at the parsonage.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Terry have been spending a week in Baltimore, Washington and Philadelphia.

George Coriell, Jr., has entered the employ of the Lehigh Valley Railroad in New York.

The property on Front street owned by the Adams estate has been sold to John Hunt.

The work of cleaning and scraping the streets will be completed this week.

F. H. Gise has bought Philip Harmon's property on Front street.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Loose playing at a critical stage of the game made the local ball team lose the game Saturday against the Riversides, of Rahway, by the score of 4 to 2. The game was as pretty a contest as one would deside to witness, barring one inning of stage fright. The visitors played fast baseball and are one of the strongest amateur teams in the county, but when the home team has played a few more games and learn to work together as a team better they will be able to turn the tables on Rahway when they meet again.

Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Westcott and daughter, Miss Mary, of the borough, have returned from a week's stay with relatives at Bridgeton.

Mrs. George W. Marsh and daughter, Miss Hazel, of Plainfield, spent Sunday with Mrs. John R. Marsh, of Front street.

A number from here attended the ball game yesterday at Berkeley Heights between the Berkeleys and Summit.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew G. Carpenter, of Plainfield, spent Sunday with William C. Stanbery, of Mountain avenue.

The members of the Epworth League held their weekly meeting last night in the class rooms of the church.

The weekly meeting of the B. Y. P. U. was held last night in the church parlors.

Mr and Mrs. William Deegan entertained friends from New Market over Sunday.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

A meeting of the officers and teahers of the Baptist Sunday-school was held yesterday to consider the plans of Children's Day, which comes in June each year.

The annual letter from the Baptist church to the East New Jersey Baptist Association was read and adopted at the close of the church service yesterday morning.

Those preparing for the entertainment to be given in Washington Hall soon will meet for practice tonight.

Miss Hazel Myers, of Elizabeth, spent yesterday with her aunt, Mrs. William Faulks.

Jefferson Jones, of New Brunswick, visited his father, J. H. Jones, Saturday.

Mrs. H. Worthington Paige, of New York, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. D. J. Yerkes, of West Seventh street, has returned to New York.

POLITICAL COMMENT.

The Democracy, East or West, has no harmony to spare. Although just now appearing a bit nervous and rattled, the Republicans are ready recoverers and may be in fine form again before November. No inharmonious party can hope to defeat them. The Hearst ticket in New York and now this Taggart racket in Indiana are not promising for Democratic success. Rival candidates and rival committees representing bitterness of factionalism play smash with majorities.—Washington Star.

Congressman Champ Clark should bear in mind that the Republican leaders might also do something worth while in the way of vituperative literature if they had the leisure of the out-of-power party.—Detroit Journal.

That was a very pretty boom inaugurated at Pitsburg for Knox for President. Mr. Knox isa very eminent lawyer and a nice gentleman but not particularly a person to enthuse over. A score of West Virginians could be readily suggested who are his superiors in brains and learning. And there is no intention to criticise Mr. Knox in making such an assertion.—Wheeling News.

Cleaner Billboards.

The Associated Billposters and Distributors of the United States and Canada, at their recent meeting in Detroit, Mich., passed a resolution which will probably bar from all the boards of the members of that society all the lurid theatrical paper of the melodrama. The following expressed the sense of the convention:

Wheeras, It is th sense of the Associated Billposters and Distributors of the United States and Canada, by its board of directors in convention assembled at Detroit, March 7, 1906, that there should be a decided reform in all objectionable theatrical paper for billboard use in the advertising of plays, with their titles and scenes, such as:

"Dealers in White Women."
"Why Women Sin."
"Queen of the Highbinders."
"Why Girls Leave Home."
"Queen of the White Slaves."
"Dangers of a Working Girl."
"Fast Life in New York."

Therefore, Be it resolved, that the Associated Billposters and Distributors of the United States and Canada condemn the use of all sensational, vicious and suggestive pictures and titles for such productions, and hereby instruct all members, under penalty, to refuse to post after the expiration of this season's contracts, August 1, 1906, such paper, titles and pictures as may be deemed objectionable.

The billboard men do not pose as supersensitive moralists. They are acting from purely business reasons. They find that many advertisers are deterred from using their medium by reason of the class of advertisements that to a large degree monopolize their space. They have no desire to censor the theatre, but they intend that the billboards shall be free from objectionable matter.

They are not confining their reformation to the teatrical business, but are discouraging the whiskey and beer signs, which a few years ago so largely predominated. A few years ago the latter were practically all the commercial business the billposters had. Now they constitute a small and annually smaller part of his work.

The billposter believes in his medium, and is desirous of making it as pleasing to the average eye as he can.—Trenton True American.

The Life Line.

Lives of Great Men.

AGAINST BOSSISM AND MACHINE DOMINATION

SOUTH PLAINFIELD VOTERS TO REGISTER PROTEST AT MASS MEETING.

The revolt against bossism and machine domination which has spread over Union county, is now extending beyond its borders, South Plainfield being the latest municipality to join the new idea movement. The voters there almost to a man are aroused over the alleged perfidy of the Middlesex county bosses in having their borough bill deposited on "the back stairs" at the State House.

The indignation occasioned by the action of the Assemblymen from that county in allowing the much mooted bill to die a natural death in committee by the adjournment of the Legislature has led the voters to decide on a protective organization. Already a call has been issued for a mass meeting. It will be held in Washington Hall tomorrow night and the promoters say that ringing speeches will be made against "taxation without representation," and "boss domination."
